Public sentiment in Oregon, Washington and Idaho is overwhelmingly against the proposed plan of leasing public lands. The farming element in Montana is also against the plan. The more the features of the proposed law are examined the more objectionable they become. So far as the states of the Pacific Northwest are concerned it will be much better to allow the pasture to be destroyed in large stretches of the public range than to inaugurate a system of leasing which would inevitably retard most seriously the settlement of the country by home-builders. The work of establishing homes is going on in every part of Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Under a natural course of development such as is now going on it is found that there is no county so barren that it will not support hundreds of families if permitted to utilize fully such water as may be available for irrigation. These actual settlers are the ones who should have the use of the range and in the course of time some practical method will be worked out by which they can buy or lease the lands which are unfit for any use except as a range for stock. In all three of the states there is a great deal of land which at present has no value except for range purposes which will ultimately be better useed.—Oregon Agriculturist.

The Neighborly Cinch Club

AN HOUR before the first members of the Neighborly Cinch club could reasonably be expected to arrive Mrs. Major was in a tremor of excitement every time she heard footfalls on the pavement in front of the house. It was the first time the Majors were to entertain the cinch club and the hostess was as nervous as a hostess can be expected to be on such an occasion. What added to her case of "nerves" was the calm and unruffled spirit in which her lord and master watched the proceedings and from time to time offered a sarcastic suggestion. He smoked his cigar and lounged in the cozy corner as unmoved as though the reception of ten or a dozen critical people for an evening was an event of no moment, while Mrs. Major knew to a certainty that everything in the house from the carpet to the spoons would be weighed, measured and found wanting by the sharp-eyes of the women members of the club.

"I should think," she said to her husband, "you would take it on yourself to do a little something toward helping me." At that moment she was industriously picking up each of the parlor chairs, moving it about two inches and setting it down again. She imagined she was doing wonders in the way of interior decoration and arrangement by these marvelous changes in the make-up of the parlor.

"What do you want me to do?" asked her husband lazily. "You seem to be shifting things around pretty well. Do you want to turn the carpet?"

Mrs. Major paused in the center of the room and surveyed everything with a sweeping glance. It looked all right. Nobody had stolen the piano or removed the wall-paper since she looked at it last.

"Oh, I suppose you would be satisfied to have all those people come in here even if the house looked like a fright," she said at length. "It's just like a man."

After awhile the bell jingled and the girl hurried to the door. Mrs. Major had started to answer the ring herself, but remembered in time that it would be beastly bad form and therefore seated herself on the extreme edge of a chair just inside the parlor door.

"There's some peoples vants to see you," said the girl in her innocent, foreign way.

"Show them right in," said Mrs. Major, glaring unspeakable things at Martha. She had trained the girl for half an hour that day on the proper way to receive guests, and at the critical moment Martha had weakened and failed her.

The cinch club came in, bustling and chattering. Mrs. Major found it incumbent upon her as hostess to kiss each of the women, while her husband shook hands heartily with the men, and said we had been having some weather. There was a shedding of wraps and shuffling off of rubbers until the hall tree looked like a second-hand store, and at length the whole club was seated in the parlor and dining-room, into which latter apartment the overflow was conducted by Mr. Major and there entertained while his wife sympathized with Mrs. Bryson, who had facial neuralgia, and Mrs. Emerson, whose nose would get red in frosty weather. A sudden pause in the conversation of the ladies occurred, and the voice of Mr. Hermann was heard in the dining-room:

"That's an awful bluff Choynski is throwing out about having a broken rib," he said. "I think Walcott just slammed the life out of him, and he's a dub to holler now."

Mrs. Major elevated her eyebrows slightly, and suggested that perhaps it was time to begin playing. The club was paired off so everybody was the partner of somebody else's wife, and Mr. Hermann, the irreverent young bachelor, drew Mrs. Major as his partner, while her husband sat opposite Miss Underwood, the wide-eyed, wondering young thing who was taking her first steps into a deliciously wicked world, and seemed to enjoy the progress she had made. Three decks of cards were produced, and two small tables pressed into service in addition to the dining-table, and the Neighborly Cinch club was in full action. Mrs. Major's attention to her hand was somewhat distracted in the early stages of the first game by Mrs. Bryson's apparent interest in the texture of the tablecloth. Indeed, so much was her attention diverted from the fine points of the game that she played her five of clubs on the ace laid down by Mr. Major, one of her opponents.

"If you've got too many of those pedros you might keep one or two until I play an ace or a king," suggested her partner, Mr. Hermann.

Mrs. Major flushed and said:

"Oh, did I do that? How stupid of me."

"I see what you're doing," went on her partner; "you're in a conspiracy with your husband, and you want to keep him from being beaten. That's a nice way to treat your partner."

Mr. Major laughed, and his partner threw him the other pedro, whereat Mrs. Major looked at Miss Underwood with poorly-concealed ill favor. She began to suspect that the nods and smiles exchanged between her husband and Miss Underwood had more in them than appeared on the surface. Suddenly a little shriek from another table claimed the attention of all the players.

"Why, Tom Emerson, whatever did you do that for?" cried that gentleman's wife. "You'll have all the hearts in the deck if you're not careful."

"What of it?" asked her husband, bluntly.

"Why, isn't this hearts we are playing?" she inquired, naively.

"No, this is baccarat," explained her husband. "You keep all your court cards and play them on the black."

Mr. Hermann and Mrs. Major had meanwhile succeeded in making four points and care fled from that lady's brow, for she was determined to beat her husband and the hateful Miss Underwood.

The game had gone on merrily for almost an hour, and the joy of Mrs. Major was great, for she and her partner had won four games out of five and Miss Underwood was correspondingly depressed. Suddenly the door leading to the culinary department opened, and Martha stood in the opening conveying to Mrs. Major by winks and nods and other signal service best known to mistresses and maids that her presence was desired in the kitchen.

Mrs. Major excused herself and hurried out, followed by the knowing glances of Mrs. Emerson and Mrs. Bryson. They had "entertained" in the past, and knew how it was.

"What's the matter?" demanded Mrs. Major, breathlessly, when she and Martha were alone.

"Vell, I can't help it, Mrs. Maycher," began Martha, "but the ice cream, she is melted."

Mrs. Major gasped.

"Where was it?" she demanded.

"I put it over here and it is all melted," explained Martha, pointing to a warm spot near the steam coil.

"Well, never mind it," said Mrs. Major, "when we're ready I'll call you and you can just serve the other things." She started to return to the parlor when she was hailed again by her faithful servitor.

"Mrs. Maycher," said Martha.

"Well, what is it now?" said Mrs. Major, with 'new fears griping her heart.

"Well, I can't help it; but there's no coffee," said Martha.

Mrs. Major sat down, weak and nerveless. After all her thought this was the one vulnerable point. She had forgotten to examine the stock of coffee, and, of course, Martha forgot it. She forgot everything.

While a thousand thoughts were whirling through the head of the bewildered hostess, she heard the voice of Miss Underwood calling sweetly—too sweetly, Mrs. Major thought—Oh, Mrs. Major, we are waiting for you."

"In a minute," said Mrs. Major, and, turning desperately to Martha, she ordered her to run upstairs by the back way and borrow some coffee from Mrs. Burton, and to do it quick, if she wanted to live long in the land. Then, adjusting her sweet, company smile, again she strolled back to the parlor and resumed the game..

In due time the lunch was served and Mrs. Major, with a shrinking heart, watched Mrs. Emerson take her first sip of coffee, for Mrs. Major had no idea of the brand favored by the Burton family. Mrs. Emerson raised her eyebrows the tiniest bit and sipped no more, and all the joy fled from Mrs. Major's life at that moment. The other neighborly cinch players waded into the chicken salad and things and cleared off the table without comment. But Mrs. Major knew what they were thinking. She could tell by the white of Miss Underwood's eye that the salad was too salty, and there was an indefinable curl to Mrs. Bryson's lip, which spoke volumes concerning the chinaware. Mrs. Ainsley's overwhelming flattery for the luncheon told its own story to Mrs. Major, and it was with much difficulty she was able to finish her second cup of coffee.

Mr. Major, of course, saw none of this. He dived into the salad and wafers and things with avidity and carried on a brisk conversation with Mr. Hermann on the chances of Oscar Gardner when he gets into the ring with Terry McGovern. When the last morsel of wafer had disappeared Mr. Major produced cigars for the men and was happy and contented when the smoke began to wreathe above their heads. Mrs. Major kept up a fierce conversation with the ladies in the parlor and her husband never noted how remarkably sweet she was to Miss Underwood or he might have suspected something. Before long Mrs. Bryson looked hard at her husband, who was telling Mrs. Emerson a funny story, and said they really must go. That started the exodus, and in a few minutes the hall tree was stripped of its burden, and all the rubbers were stamped on once more, and a dozen good-bys were said. Mrs. Major had to kiss all the women again and her husband shook hands with each of the men and told him to take care of himself, and when the door closed upon the last of them he turned with a gratified smile to his wife.

"Well, that was all right," he said. "I haven't had such a pleasant evening in a long time. Didn't you?"—Chicago Chronicle.

Important Questions.

Do you realize the meaning of the rapid growth of cities, and the dangers that are growing around them?

Have you served the monopoly problem?

Do you know how fast the movement for public ownership of public utilities, as water, gas and electric works, street railways, etc., is growing in this day, and do you understand the reasons for the movement?

Do you know what cities and towns in the United States now own and operate their own electric light plants, gas plants, water works, etc., and how much they save thereby?

Do you know to what extent cities and towns are under bondage to state legislatures? Do you know to what extent the people in cities and towns are under bondage to city councils?

Do you know the results of the use of the initiative and referendum in the United States and in Switzerland?

Do you understand those methods and the reasons of the growing demand for the extention of their use?

Do you know the best remedies for corruption in the elections? Do you know Englands experience in this respect?

Do you understand proportional representation?

Do you know what is being done with the automatic ballot in some of our cities?

Do you want the text of the most progressive laws in the various states concerning local government, home-charters for cities, direct legislation amendments, public ownership laws, etc., also idea forms of such laws?

Would you like 600 pages of facts and arguments on some of the leading questions of the day, thoroughly indexed so that you can turn at once to any point you wish—over capitalization of street railways in New York, Broadway franchise steal, Bay State gas frauds, standard oil atrocities, cost of electric light before and after public ownership, Harvard hill gass case, sixteen reasons for the economy of public ownership, savings of Federal Government by putting in its own telephones, profits of street railways, gas companies, etc., etc.?

Do you want a rich mine of facts and arguments relating to monopoly, public ownership of public utilities, direct legislation, and other vital questions of our time?

Do you want these facts so arranged classified and analytically indexed, that you can get up a brilliant speech or effective newspaper article in half an houron any phase of the chief municipal questions of the age?

All these questions are answered and the entire subject of local self government is treated as never before, in "The City for the People," prepared by a well known authority on the principal subjects of the book. Price only 50c. (should be double this amount). Bound in cloth, $1. Address "Equity Series," 1520 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Is man or woman to blame for the unhappiness of marriage?" shrieks an excited exchange in our ears. Neither, dear brother; it is just human nature. Let us have peace.

The chances are that in the near future Uncle Sam will pass in and out of the "open door" in China more frequently and with greater commercial profit than any other person.

Greece has decided to tax bachelors and make unmarried men ineligible for office. But suppose the bachelor tries to get married and the lady asks to be excused? Who should be taxed in that case?

The people across the Atlantic are beginning to appreciate the value of American corn. A Philadelphia dispatch says that 120,000 bushels of seed corn have just been shipped to Egypt. The seed is to be used in the rich soil along the Nile.

George W. Bean, Sr., and his four sons, of Somerville, Mass., were all made master masons on the same evening in Putnam lodge. So far as is known a similar event has never occurred in the history of the masonic fraternity. The five men have been given the nickname of "the pot of Beans."

The destruction by the recent forest fires in Washington can best be appreciated by reading a brief statement in one of the papers of that state. It says that the lumber destroyed by the fires would keep all of the sawmills in the United States busy for two years preparing it for the market.

A veteran in Rumford Falls, Me., still has some of the hardtack composing the last rations dealt out to him when he was a "boy in blue" fighting for the union, 35 years ago. He says that it is in a good state of preservation, and that if his teeth were in better condition he would like to make a meal of it some day, just to recall old times.

It is suggested that there is much danger to be apprehended in the granting of any further honors to Gen. Lord Roberts. Even as it is he has the longest list of titles of any man in Great Britain, his full official designation being Baron Roberts of Kandahar and Waterford, P. C., K. P., G. C. B., G. C. S. I., G. C. I. E., V. C., D. C. L., LL. D.

In 1840 Harriett Martineau investigated the employment of women in the United States and wrote a report showing that seven professions were open to them—teaching, needlework, keeping boarders, working in the factories, typesetting, bookkeeping and household work. Now it would be hard to find seven professions the new woman has not invaded. Times have indeed changed.

A war between Russia and Japan, which seems to be approaching, would present some interesting aspects. Numerically and in military resources Russia greatly outclasses Japan, but the latter has a splendid navy, while that of Russia is weak in some essential features. On the ocean, therefore, Japan might have decidedly the advantage, and might even prevent Russia from transporting or landing troops.

The other day the King's Daughters of Wheeling, W. Va., held what they called an "old rubber day," when the citizens contributed old and wornout rubber shoes and boots, bicycle tires, rubber bands, bulbs, hose, balls, and everything else that was rubber, and a ton or more of old rubber was collected. This was sold to a junk man and the King's Daughters added quite a neat sum to their day nursery treasury without anyone feeling the contribution.

After all, it takes a woman to show us how to do things. She knows. No one ever hears of her forming an organization of "woman" employes. Not any. Her latest organization is the "Lady Bookkeepers' union." Now let us have the "Amalgamated Association of Gentleman Clerks," the "Brotherhood of Locomotive Firegentlemen" and other similar organizations, just to show that the various trades, business and professional gentlemen are not behind the times.

The statement made a few months ago that the prosperous day of the American novelist had come at last is more true at the present time than it was then. In about 18 months the total sales of four popular novels, all by American authors and upon American subjects, have probably exceeded the million mark, and the end is not yet. It is also interesting to note that in the same period the four most popular novels by English or foreign writers have probably not attained a total sale of more than 50,000 copies. Times have again changed.

That the dog has been gradually forging into good society is well known, but it has been reserved for New York fashionable women to take out articles of incorporation for the Ladies' Kennel association. The charter specifies a number of highly praiseworthy objects, including the encouragement of humane treatment on the part of owners. The owning, breeding and exhibiting of dogs by women is also one of the specified objects and another is "to bring dog owners of the better class into closer union." There are evidently halcyon times ahead for the dog.

Jerome K. Jerome writes from Spain that the Spaniard will try to persuade you that the bull ring is an institution got up chiefly for the benefit of the bull. He contrasts its glorious and exciting death in the ring with the cold-blooded brutality of the shambles. The argument is often made that foxes enjoy being hunted and that fishes are also delighted with the angler's sport. Until these parties really come forward and make affidavit to the facts one may be pardoned for a doubt. Possibly the sufferings of the live cat are mitigated as she meditates on vivisection.

BRITISH REVERSES.

Boers Capture Five Companies of Troops Near Redderburg—De Wet Inflicts Heavy Loss.

London, April 7.—The following is the text of Lord Roberts' dispatch to the war office announcing the capture of five companies of his troops:

"Bloemfontein, Thursday, April 5.—Another unfortunate occurrence has occurred resulting, I fear, in the capture of a party of infantry, consisting of three companies of the Royal Irish fusiliers and two companies of the Ninth regiment of mounted infantry, near Reddersburg, a little eastward of Bethany railway station, within a few miles of this place. They were surrounded by a stronger force of the enemy with four or five guns.

"The detachment held out from noon, April 3, until April 4, nine a. m., and then, apparently, surrendered, for it is reported that the firing ceased at that time. Immediately after I heard the news, during the afternoon of April 3, I ordered Gatacre to proceed from Springfontein, his present headquarters, to Reddersburg, with all possible speed, and I dispatched the Cameron highlanders hence to Bethany. He arrived at Reddersburg at 10:30 yesterday morning without opposition, but could get no news of the missing detachment.

"There can be no doubt the whole party has been made prisoners."

The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts dated Bloemfontein, Thursday, April 5:

"Methuen telegraphs from Boshof (in the Orange Free State, a little northeast of Kimberley) as follows:

" 'Surrounded Gen. Villebois Mareuil and a body of Boers to-day. None escaped. Villebois and seven Boers killed, eight wounded. Fifty prisoners. Our losses were:

" 'KILLED—Capts. Boyle and Williams, both of the yeomanry, and two men of the yeomanry.

" 'WOUNDED—About seven men.

" 'The attack lasted four hours. The corps behaved very well. Our force was composed of yeomanry, the Kimberley mounted corps and the Fourth battery of artillery.' "

Bethany, Orange Free State, Thursday, April 5.—The five companies of British infantry which were surprised by the Reddersburg commando while marching across the country via De Wet's dorp made a plucky stand, but, as the Boers had three field guns and the British none, the latter were compelled to surrender. Gen. Gatacre arrived too late. Reddersburg was already reoccupied by the Boers, and the enemy are now threatening the lines to the south.

Mafeking was still besieged on April 1. The garrison was suffering severely from lack of bread, and a mixture of oats, bran and mealies was doing duty for that article, which is described as "coarse in substance, of the color of gingerbread and of the consistency of Norwegian pine."

Pretoria, Friday, April 6, via Lourenzo Marques.—It is reported that Gen. De Wet attacked and defeated a large force of British cavalry at De Wet's dorp, southeast of Bloemfontein, capturing 450 prisoners and a large quantity of ammunition and camp stores and inflicting heavy loss. The federal loss was two killed and four wounded. All is quiet with the other commandos.

London, April 10.—Britons are now beginning, though reluctantly, to realize that Lord Roberts is in for a winter campaign, lasting several months. This is the end, in a few words, of the high hopes based upon Lord Roberts' brilliant dash to Kimberley and Bloemfontein.

Preparations are being made to hold Bloemfontein against surprises. Lord Kitchener has been given an important duty, being responsible for the protection of the railway, while Lord Roberts is waiting for remounts and winter clothing for the troops, whose thin cotton khaki uniforms and boots are worn out.

London, April 10.—The Times publishes the following from Wepener, dated Sunday, April 8: The Wepener garrison is practically isolated. However, the lines are enormously strong and the force is fully provisioned.

Desultory firing between outposts continues. A commando estimated at 2,000, with four guns, went into laager last night five miles from here, in the direction of De Wet's dorp.

London, April 10.—The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Times, telegraphing Sunday, says: Two captured Boers agree that only 50 men remained unwounded out of the whole British column captured at Reddersburg. Gen. Gatacre and his staff were fired on from enclosures while they temporarily occupied Reddersburg. Considerable movements of troops have occurred here with the object of preventing a surprise.

IOWA LAWMAKERS.

They Complete the Work of the Session and Reach a Final Adjournment.

Des Moines, Ia., April 7.—The legislature adjourned sine die at seven o'clock Friday night. On the last day the stipulated premium insurance bill, and a concurrent resolution providing for the appointment of five delegates to the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo were passed. One of the most important acts of this legislature was the passage of a drastic law regulating building and loan associations. It limits interest to eight per cent., expenses to a low figure, abolishes fines and penalties and repeals the law legalizing usurious interest. Associations are required to pay withdrawing members at least as much as they have paid in.

Denial by Mrs. Dewey.

New York, April 9.—A special to the Herald from Washington says: With the consent of the admiral, Mrs. Dewey made this formal statement Saturday: "A correspondent said I am responsible for my husband becoming a presidential candidate. So far from this being the case, I attempted to persuade him from this course, realizing the grave anxieties and responsibilities surrounding a candidate."

Big Order for Stamps.

Washington, April 6.—An order was issued Thursday by the post office department for the largest single shipment of ordinary postage stamps ever made in the history of the office. The shipment will take place next Friday, when 53,304,200 stamps, of the value of $965,267, will be sent to 1,306 post offices throughout the country.

Victim of Brutes.

Eaton, O., April 9.—Thursday night two men broke into the grocery of Stephen Swehart, at Scuffletown. Swehart is an old man and lived alone. The robbers roasted the old man's feet and otherwise tortured him until he divulged the hiding place of his money. After robbing him they escaped.

MANY SKIRMISHES.

American Troops and Filipino Insurgents Engage in a Number of Encounters.

Manila, Sunday, April 9.—Reports of encounters between the American troops and the insurgents continue to arrive from many points. On Friday Capt. Sturgis, while reconnoitering, struck an insurgent outpost on the Nevaliches road, five miles distant from Manila, killing two and capturing ten. All were in full uniform. Unfortunately Capt. Sturgis' force was not large enough to pursue the main body. A detachment of the Forty-second infantry, while scouting in Laguna province, was pursued by the insurgents and obliged to take refuge in a church at Paeto, where the Americans repelled the rebels until reenforcements arrived. Lieut. Gordon, with a company of the Sixteenth infantry, while scouting near Aparri, Cagayan province, engaged 250 insurgents. Lieut. Gordon was wounded. A sergeant and a corporal of company I, Eighteenth infantry, were killed in a severe fight in Capiz province, island of Panay. The insurgents made a night attack upon Calbayon, island of Samar. They killed the sentry, swarmed into the town, and searched the house of Maj. Gilmore, of the Forty-third infantry, who was absent. They killed his cook. Ultimately the Americans drove them out of the town, killing four and capturing 12.

Washington, April 10.—The following report of recent developments in the Philippines was received at the war department Monday from Gen. Otis:

"Manila, April 9. — Gen. Bates just returned from south after placing Fortieth infantry at Surigao, Cagayan, Iliganea, Isamis, Dapitan, northern Mindanao, and attending to special matters intrusted to him, department Mindanao and Jolo, attended by two naval vessels and two gunboats. Troops occupied points without resistance. Two hundred and forty-one rifles, 97 pieces artillery surrendered. Eleven places in Mindanao and three in Jolo archipelago now occupied by troops without the firing of a shot. Affairs in that section quiet and satisfactory.

OTIS RELIEVED.

Term of Service as Military Governor of Philippines Ended—MacArthur to Succeed Him.

Washington, April 9.—Gen. Elwell S. Otis has been formally relieved of command of the troops in the Philippines and Gen. MacArthur will succeed him in the direction of affairs in the new possessions. From the text of the correspondence made public by the war department all idea of Gen. Otis returning to Manila is abandoned and Gen. MacArthur is to be the military governor. It has been known for some time that Gen. Otis was to leave the Philippines. It has been the impression that he was to be granted a leave of absence as soon as he could put affairs in such shape as to be able to leave them until about October, when he might return.

The correspondence between Gen. Otis and the war department, however, leaves it to be inferred that Gen. Otis does not desire to go back to Manila, but has no request to make regarding his future sphere of duty.

MARSH FOUND GUILTY.

The Jury Returns a Verdict Against the Michigan Ex-Official—Sentence Not Passed.

Lansing, Mich., April 6.—Arthur F. Marsh, of Allegan, late inspector general of the Michigan National guard, and until recently chairman of the republican state central committee, was convicted Thursday of having feloniously conspired with certain of his official associates to defraud the state. The statutory penalty is 14 years' imprisonment or less. Marsh was indicted by the county grand jury on the showing made implicating him in the sensational deal wherein state military clothing and equipment inventories at some $65,000 was alleged to have been sold for $10,500, shipped to Chicago, thence without breaking bulk to a military supply concern in Kalamazoo, and then repurchased by the state military board for about $40,000.

Olga Nethersole Acquitted.

New York, April 6.—Miss Olga Nethersole and Hamilton Revelle, actors; Marcus R. Mayer, manager of Miss Nethersole, and Theodore Moss, manager of Wallack's theater, on Thursday were found not guilty of maintaining a public nuisance in presenting the drama "Sapho." The charge to the jury by Judge Fursman, of the criminal branch of the supreme court, was highly favorable to the accused, and the jury were out only 12 minutes.

People's Party of Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., April 6.—Chairman Charles E. Palmer and Secretary Joseph A. Hopp, of the people's party state central committee, have issued a call for the state convention of the people's party, to be held at Representative hall, Springfield, Tuesday, April 24, for the purpose of nominating candidates for various state offices, and to select members of the state and national committee and delegates to the national convention.

Burned to Death.

Owattonna, Minn., April 10.—The wife of Rev. R. L. Ludlam was burned to death about two and a half miles north of here Monday morning. Her husband was at work on his farm, at some distance from the house, when he saw his wife running toward him, her clothing in flames. She fell unconscious, and died, despite all efforts to revive her.

THE TEXAS FLOODS.

Heavy Rains Cause Many Deaths and Much Damage to Property—Austin Dam Swept Away.

Austin, Tex., April 9.—The great Austin dam gave way at noon Saturday before the floods of the Colorado river, spreading disaster in the lowlands of the city and points below here on the river. Forty or more persons are known to have perished, while a score or more are unaccounted for. The dam and power house just below, both of which were wrecked, were constructed seven years ago at a cost of $1,400,000. Great damage has been done to crops and property throughout the flooded section, which extends practically from Waco to San Antonio.

The heavy rains of the last few days had caused a violent rise of the river, the flood bringing with it a vast quantity of wreckage. This mass bore too heavily on the dam, breaking it, and letting loose a reservoir of water 30 miles long, half a mile wide and 60 feet deep. Eight workmen in the light and power plant, just below the dam, were the first to be drowned.

Reports from the neighboring country are to the effect that everything is under water. In Williamson county, north of here, railroad bridges and trackage have been laid waste and all trains have stopped running. Hundreds of head of cattle have been drowned and miles of fencing torn down and washed away. In Bastrop county and in the southern portion of this county similar conditions prevail, everything being under water, and much loss of property is reported. The country tributary to the Colorado river all the way down its course is being inundated, and, while it is believed the worst is over, the loss as estimated will exceed $3,000,000, counting Austin as the largest loser.

Waco, Tex., April 9.—Reports of loss of life and damage caused by floods due to the incessant rains during the last three days continue to come from all directions, and indications point to a repetition of the disasters of last year. Both telegraphic and telephone service all over the state is prostrated, and details from the flooded districts are meager. All streams, notably the Brazos and Colorado rivers, are overflowing the lowlands and rising rapidly. Cotton and corn crops in some sections are submerged and will have to be replanted. Railway traffic is practicaly suspended on all railroads running into this city, owing to washouts along the lines.

Houston, Tex., April 9.—As a rule the Texas rivers are now falling and there is not much danger of a general flood. The crops have been damaged over a wide area, but there is still time for farmers to replant if they can get the seed. Corn has been planted over once and will have to be planted the third time. The farmers as a rule have not planted much cotton, because the heavy rains have kept them out of the fields. The railroads have lost many small bridges, and it will be a week before traffic resumes its normal condition.

Dallas, Tex., April 10.—Reports received at Dallas Monday from the southern and southwestern Texas flood sections show conclusively that more than 50 lives have been lost, including those at Austin. The names of at least one-half of the victims are not obtainable because of the isolation of the localities from railroad and wire lines.

DECISION AGAINST TAYLOR.

Kentucky Court of Appeals Says Action of Legislature in Seating Beckham Was Final.

Frankfort, Ky., April 7.—The court of appeals Friday handed down a decision in the governorship case in favor of the democrats. The opinion is by six of the judges, four democrats and two republicans.

The opinion holds that the action of the legislature in seating Gov. Beckham was final, and that the courts have no power to review it; that Gov. Taylor exceeded his authority in adjourning the legislature to London, and that the journals of the two houses of the legislature, being regular, cannot be impeached.

The republicans will now try to get a hearing before the United States supreme court. Thirty days must elapse before the mandate of the court of appeals, in accordance with Friday's decision, is issued. Meanwhile no radical change in the relative positions of the two state governments is expected.

Frankfort, Ky., April 9.—Chief Justice Hazelrigg, of the court of appeals, Saturday afternoon granted a writ of error from the decision of the court of appeals to the supreme court of the United States in the contest over the offices of governor and lieutenant governor.

WILL BE OPEN SUNDAYS.

American Exhibits at Paris Exposition Must Be Displayed on That Day.

Paris, April 10.—The French authorities have decided that all exhibits at the exposition are to be open to the public on Sundays, and the United States exhibits are, naturally, within this regulation. These exhibits are under cover in buildings erected by the French government, over which the United States authorities have no control, therefore they must abide by the rules established. The United States pavilion is not within this category, and the question of its being opened or closed on Sunday the French officials have left entirely to Commissioner Peck's desire.

Instructed for Bryan.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 6.—The 64 delegates from Pennsylvania to the national democratic convention in Kansas City were instructed by Thursday's state convention to support William J. Bryan for president. They are bound by the unit rule, and cannot change to any other presidential aspirant unless it is so decided by a majority of the delegation.

Yellow Fever Epidemic.

Washington, April 10.—The marine hospital service has received information that the yellow fever is epidemic in San Salvador. The surgeons of the service stationed at the fruit ports have been notified and will keep the officials here advised of any developments in the situation.

As Fate Would Have It.

Many years ago an Arkansas youth, on leaving the home of his sweetheart late at night, received a severe kick as he stepped out of the door. His beloved had not responded definitely to his proposal of marriage, but had assured him that she would soon let him know what she could do for him. He, unfortunately for two tender hearts, took the kick for an answer and departed for a far and wild country. Here he brooded over his wound and his broken heart until his beard grew down to his knees and his nose became Roman. As fate would have it, as fate always has it, he turned up late one sad, sad evening when the straw-neck hens were quarreling on the roost and the brindle cow was lowing mournfully for her hungry offspring. A young man some six feet tall met the lonely visitor. It was one of seven sons, born, from time to time, unto his old love. Explanations followed. It was not the girl who kicked him 30 years before. Oh no! It was her angry father. He went out to the horse lot, cut off his beard with the sheep-shears and kicked himself down the hill.—Galveston News.

has such a record for absolutely curing female ills and kidney troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Medicines that are advertised to cure everything cannot be specifics for anything.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will not cure every kind of illness that may afflict men, women and children, but proof is monumental that it will and does cure all the ills peculiar to women.

This is a fact indisputable and can be verified by more than a million women.

If you are sick don't experiment, take the medicine that has the record of the largest number of cures.

UP TO THE HILT

IS THE DAGGER OF INHARMONY IN THE G. O. P. CORPOROSITY.

Big Demand For Tariff Powders and "Plain Duty" Pills—The C. K. Davis Anti-McKinley Move a Cloud Bigger Than a Man's Hand—Non-Ripple Making Capacity of the Dewey Announcement—The Democratic Position Stated by Chairmen O'Brien and Rosing—Other National Political Points — State and Twin City Points—Judge Willis' Honorable Course in the Saintly City Muddle. The Week's Roundup.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, April 9, 1900.

The week has seen consummation, so far as the senate could do, and lacking only the assured concurrence of the house, of the iniquity of laying a tax on poor Puerto Rico—that mere fly speck on the map of the country, but which promises to be, in the full application of the principle involved, a veritable nation of power for arousing the American conscience to the dangers which beset the country. But there has been such a protest from within the party being used to consummate the iniquity of taxation without representation, as promises a widespread revolt in its ranks. The knife of inharmony is in clear up to the hilt. The best promise of effective revolt, is in the boom for C. K. Davis as anti-McKinley candidate, and which movement it should surprise no one to see in progress in the open in the near future, as it is being now carefully nursed in secret. And the play will deepen, as the conventions come on for nomination of congressmen, here the free trader, and there the 85 per cent liberty man. Then will follow the state convention to set its sea-dog candidate on a platform which will suit both sentiments, and which will have for its particular work the endorsement of Senator Nelson with his uncompromising free trade attitude. Altogether it is a situation calling for tariff powders and "plain duty" pills in vast quantities.

And, speaking of the sea-dog candidate, what an opportunity there is going to be for Commodore Van Sant of the Winona flotilla to show his statesmanship and his ability as acrobat. Besides covering the inconsistencies above mentioned, all of which the astute commodore will undoubtedly be able to explain, we shall see him calling for the support of the veterans who fought for freedom for black men, while Van's party stands for the war against the men who are brown. Van will explain how he once stood for the Declaration of Independence, but now stands with his party for taxation without representation; that he stands for the Constitution and for the flag wherever it waves, but does not stand for rights for those who have been brought in under the protection of the Constitution and the flag. The commodore will undoubtedly do this, at least to his own satisfaction, but there are those who think he will find troubles worse than river snags or the festive steamboat mosquito.

The Dewey presidential "boom" fell upon Minnesota with not so much as a ripple on the political waters. It was almost impossible to find people taking the announcement seriously. Pressed home to some of our leaders, by requests for their views by the Eastern papers, the general sentiment of all was expressed by the following telegrams sent respectively by National Committeeman O'Brien and State Chairman Rosing:

"The Minnesota Democracy is united on William J. Bryan. The party is bound to him by all the ties of confidence, respect and loyalty. Democracy demands as a candidate for the presidency one who stands for a definite national policy.

"THOS. D. O'BRIEN,
"Member National Committee of Minnesota."

"Minnesota Democrats desire to win the coming campaign upon Democratic principles. The candidate must represent Americanism in its broadest sense, the Americanism of Washington, Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln, and opposition to the Imperial, Military and Trust protecting policy of McKinley and Hanna. W. J. Bryan represents these views and Democrats trust him. The political views of Admiral Dewey are unknown in this state. L. A. ROSING,
"Chairman Democratic State Committee."

The above sentiments were also unquestionably those of the other allies, Lincoln Republicans and Populists.

The persistency with which the "temperancers" are after Brother McKinley, leads to the suspicion that they have better proofs that the president is a real "tippler" than is generally supposed. On this point we may give some testimony that, if we dare give names, would be absolutely convincing. Recently a national politician was in St. Paul who is in intimate relations with a Western United States senator whose wife, a rabid temperance woman, is a member of McKinley's church, and who has been not a little distressed at the reports of the president's drink habit. On a recent occasion this senator and wife dined at the White House, and the lady determined to see for herself whether or not the president drank wine, or, as he had informed church officials and friends, simply went through the motions. So when wine was reached she watched narrowly, and this is what she told the senator when they reached their carriage returning: "That hypocrite. Why he not only went through the motions with his glass, but drained each and every one to the very bottom."

Apropos a friend tells very touchingly of how one of the Minneapolis clergy of McKinley's denomination, satisfied himself on the subject. The minister was a recent chaplain of the Minnesota legislature. He told his friend how he had agonized over the reports which had come to be believed by so many of his church people, that the president tippled. He said that he had personally asked a church friend of prominence to go direct to Mr. McKinley with the charge. He did so, said the Minnesota preacher, and the president with tears in his eyes, thanked him for his kindness. In public life, said the president, we cannot make denials of charges like this. Then the president threw his arm about the neck of the visitor and with his voice full of emotion, the tears increasing in size as they coursed down the Napoleonic visage, assured his friend that he had on the certain occasion referred to, only drank Appolinaris water! "And so," said the devout and unsophisticated Minnesotan, "I thank God for this convincing proof of the integrity of our president." And, as a minister once wrote into a report of his sermon—"here he wept a little."

"How do you find trade this spring?" we asked of one of the best known of the Twin City traveling men—one of the monuments still standing to show what traveling men were before the trusts fell upon them. "Rotten, rotten," was the reply. And the salesman, whose line is hardware and building materials, went on to explain that dealers are now overstocked with the "boom" purchases of last year, and the continued high trust prices have checked all kinds of building.

On the same point Old Pease, in the oft-misguided Anoka Union, tells the actual truth as to Twin City conditions in the following:

"Things ain't just right yet in Minnesota, and I don't know but what it will apply to the nation. Every blamed thing that enters into the construction of a building has gone skyward in price, and yet you can buy store buildings and houses in St. Paul, in Minneapolis, Anoka, Mankato, Winona and many other towns for less than the raw material is worth. In a St. Paul daily recently I saw residences offered in good localities for several hundred dollars less than they could be built for today, and the lot was thrown in the bargain. There's something wrong when such a state of affairs exist, and I'd just like to know what's the matter? That's not prosperity by a long shot."

The annual statistics of the state's various charities show rather small increases in such charges. Of insane the increase is 147, the present total being 3,542. Total of all the institutions, insane, soldiers' home, deaf, blind, feeble minded, state public school, training, reformatory and state prison, 6,158; increase, 221. Soldiers' home has decreased 8, and the public school decreased 29. The reformatory has increased 48, while the prison has increased but 2.

And speaking of state dopartments, the dairy and food keeps up its record, with fines collected for March amounting to $888.

The Democratic state central committee has been called by Chairman Rosing to meet on April 18 at St. Paul, 2 p. m., for the purpose of calling the state convention to select delegates to the coming national convention. The meeting takes place at the Merchants hotel headquarters. Eighteen delegates and the same number of alternates are to be selected.

Speaking of which call, it is surprising how little mention there has been of candidates for delegates, going to show how much less men are thinking of themselves and personal ambitions, than of principles, issues, and the most effective line of action to secure their success.

The unfortunate situation in St. Paul, with two factional candidates for mayor, has been reduced to one of great hope, by the patriotic and self-sacrificing withdrawal of one of the candidates, Hon. J. W. Willis. The judge's noble action well illustrates the sentiment of consecration and the determination to let nothing stand in the way of party success, which so largely prevails in the reform ranks. Judge Willis' act should be commended all over the state.

The great Democratic victory scored in Milwaukee is a pointer for that which the united Democracy will score in St. Paul soon, and Minneapolis a little later. Watch the prediction.

Fighting Jack Mullen's fight for scaling fees, ended just as he promised it would. Closing that long case the state has received in cash the full amount claimed against the boom companies, for which the state reimbursed Captain Mullen for his fees, so that the state is repaid every dollar, some $15,000.

Since his return from Texas, our great national leader, Mr. Bryan, has been on an extended tour of the Pacific slope, including Washington, Oregon and interior portions of California, returning via Southern Kansas. Since his great campaign of 1896 it is said that Mr. Bryan has traveled over 100,000 miles. He has addressed more people by far than any other man in the world. And as to popularity and enthusiastic reception he excels all others, even Grant, in his time of greatest hold on the country.

Primitive Emotion.

Marie Rose, aged eight years, was telling Elsie, aged seven, about the making of the world. "And Adam was the first being created," she announced, solemnly. "So it was awfully lonely for him, and one day, when he was asleep, the Lord took a rib out of his side and made a woman out of it—so Adam would have a friend to play with him."

"And wasn't Adam s'prised?" asked Elsie.

"Surprised? Why he was just tickled to death!" said Marie Rose, ecstatically.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Burned to Death.

Edward Little, a coachman employed by Richard Evans, Jr., of Minneapolis, met with a horrible death about 1 o'clock in the morning. He was asleep in his room on the second floor of the barn when fire broke out, and before he could escape he was burned to a crisp. His body was taken in charge by the coroner.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Shortly after 1 o'clock Mrs. Evans was startled by the glare of a blaze. She aroused the household and a fire alarm was sent in. Little's body was found lying at the head of the stairs. After an examination of the barn, the firemen decided that the unfortunate man had undoubtedly been aroused from sleep by the fire and had made an effort to escape by way of the stairs. He was overcome by the smoke and heat, however, and succumbed.

A Game Preserve.

Minnesota is to have a game preserve covering 150 square miles. All the arrangements have been made for the privilege of the land, and the shipping of the game from the southern part of the country. C. E. Dickey, of Minneapolis, is behind the project. He has made arrangements with parties in Wichita, Kas., to ship him quail, prairie chickens, grouse and partridges, to the amount of 50 dozen each, every year for the next 10 years.

The preserve comprises the towns of Windsor, Folsom and Arthur in Travers county, and the towns of Browns Valley and Prior in Big Stone county. This takes in most of the land at the junction of Travers and Big Stone lakes, forming a large point.

A Big Haul.

The biggest haul ever made by the state against railroad tie-cutting trespassers has just been made in Cook county. R. F. McClellan and S. F. Fullerton, of the state auditor's department, have just returned from that section, and it is learned they have seized in the neighborhood of 40,000 cedar ties, which were cut on school lands. The 40,000 ties are worth nearly $13,000 delivered at the lake shore, and all of them are near the shore. The state demands from trespassers a sum equal to double or treble the amount of timber in its original form on land.

Coal Discovery.

There is a coal discovery excitement at Torah, twenty miles west of St. Cloud on the Willmar branch of the Great Northern. The fact has found its way into the Stearns county courthouse, in the shape of mining leases for tracts of land aggregating 820 acres in the townships of Munson and Farming. The lessors are business men of Torah to the number of six and the grantors are seven owners of farms. The leases cover a period of forty years and give the owners of the lands 2 per cent of all soft coal and 4 per cent of all hard coal taken from the lands.

Escape a Terrible Death.

While County Commissioner Herek and County Surveyor Barns were returning to Winona from an examination of the Fifield dyke, in a top buggy drawn by two horses, while crossing the Milwaukee track at the Fifield crossing, the down passenger train was almost on them before they saw it. Just one glance they gave and the engine dashed by, carrying away the rims of both hind wheels, and letting them down on the ground gently. No other damage was done, except that both gentlemen were badly scared. It was almost a miraculous escape.

A Long Lost Letter.

The record was broken in the St. Paul postoffice when a letter that had been sent nearly twenty-five years ago was delivered by the department to the person it was intended to reach in the first place. The letter was addressed to A. P. Hendrickson, state university, Minneapolis, Minn., and was mailed at Mousemount, Minn., June 4, 1876. It was delivered to the university all right, but by a mistake it was mislaid. The other day it was found still unopened, and turned over to the postal authorities at Minneapolis and was forwarded to St. Paul.

News in Brief.

A $1,000 gold brick from the Oliver mine was received, at Duluth, the product since the previous clean-up.

Congress passed a bill to authorize the construction of a dam across the Mississippi river, between Coon Rapids and the northern limits of the city of Minneapolis.

The Eastern Railway of Minnesota paid its gross earnings tax, amounting to $61,500.61. The state university turned in $15,275.88 miscellaneous receipts for the month, and the state grain inspection department made returns to the state treasurer for fees amounting to $12,500.

The city flour mill, at Mankato, was burned early yesterday morning, with a loss of $5,000, insurance $2,000. The mill property was recently purchased by A. L. Williams, of Minneapolis, and had a capacity of 200 barrels per day. The mill was built in 1862.

Judge Lochren has appointed Wm. Burns as referee in bankruptcy at Winona.

The Gillette-Herzog Company, of Minneapolis, will undertake the rebuilding of the Kansas City auditorium which was burned.

Insurance Commissioner O'Shaughnessy, after going over his books, finds that there is about $800,000,000 fire and life insurance in effect in Minnesota. The premiums paid aggregate close to $10,000,000, divided as follows: Life insurance, $4,700,000; fire insurance, $4,800,000; casualty, $500,000.

Henry Markford, a farmer living near Ronneby, was found dead in a pond this afternoon with a deep cut on his forehead. It is believed to be a case of suicide.

The police of St. Paul and Winona have orders to arrest all boys under the age of 18 years found smoking on the streets.

The farmers' creamery, at Fosston, will not do business this year. The plant was shut down last July, the farmers believing there was no profit in it. At a meeting of the directors it was decided not to operate it, and the plant is now for sale.

DIARY OF A CONGRESSMAN.

It Did Not Take Long to Change His Opinion of Politics as a Profession.

As a private citizen—Politics is rot ten to the core, and the wrongs of the oppressed cry aloud to Heaven. But there is no hope.

As a possible candidate—Politics is rotten to the core, but if a few men of incorruptible integrity were to be elected to office the wrongs of the oppressed might be righted.

As a nominee—Politics is rotten to the core, and even the man who has the wrongs of the oppressed always at heart and upon his tongue must pay for his election.

As a congressman-elect—At last politics is less rotten by one honest man, who will wage unceasing war to right the wrongs of the oppressed. But what a crimp the boys did throw into my bank roll!

First week in congress—The rottenness of politics is appalling. Mentioned the wrongs of the oppressed in one of the cloakrooms of the house to-day and noticed a smile on the faces of all the old members.

Second week—I see a chance to right the wrongs of the oppressed. The notorious Universal Control company, the new syndicate of all the trusts, has a bill up, and what a warm wallop I am writing against it!

Third week—Great Scott! what it does cost to live in Washington! Rent alone $1,700. I see the early finish of my $5,000 per. An emissary of the Universal Control company hinted an infamous proposition to me to-day.

Fourth week—Politics is rotten, but interesting. Wonder where all these fellows get their money? Went last night to a swell stag dinner given by the Universal Control man. Some regular tobasco-sauce vaudeville turns between the courses. Hope my constituents won't get on.

Fifth week—Senator —— has been to see me about his bill. A man really ought to look at both sides of a question and stay by his party if possible.

Sixth week—Ye gods! it does cost to live in Washington! I seem to be about the only lobster in my set. I don't hear any of the others worrying about money. They're all going to boost that bill, by the way. Politics is—

Seventh week—I'm afraid the wrongs of the oppressed are largely imaginary. Say, what Washington life does to $5,000 a year is a sin and a shame! That Universal Control man seems to be a very nice sort of a fellow.

Eighth week—No man can live on his congressional salary. Wish my constituents wouldn't be so impatient. It takes time to right the wrongs of the oppressed. Am almost convinced the Universal Control company would prove their real benefactors in the end.

Ninth week—Whatever I am I am not cheap. Shall battle against the infamous Universal Control company to the bitter end. The wrongs of the oppressed must be righted.

Tenth week—Voted for the Universal Control bill, after all. Think it will be for the real good of the downtrodden. Set up a stable and wired my wife to come on and open her social campaign. Guess I will manage to meet the expense. Did not deliver my ringing speech against the bill, but have had it printed in the Congressional Record and sent a marked copy to the Back Home Banner. Universal Control company composed of very nice gentlemen.

Near the term's end—Politics is all right after you once learn the rules of the game. Washington is the only place of residence and living is comparatively cheap, too, considering. By the way, I must begin to get together some more of that old salve about the wrongs of the oppressed I want to come back.—Puck.

Likely to Get Even.

Old Friend—What became of that beautiful full-length portrait of yourself and your first husband?

Mrs. Twotimes—It is hidden away in the garret. My second husband has never seen it yet. I'm keeping it for a surprise.

"A surprise?"

"Yes. If he ever again gives me a shilling bottle of perfumery for a birthday gift, I'll give him that painting for his next birthday present."—Stray Stories.

The World's Languages.

German authority estimates that almost a third of humanity speak the Chinese language, and that the Hindu language is spoken by more than 100,000,000, the Russian by 89,000,000, while the German is spoken by 57,000,000 tongues and the Spanish by 48,000,000.—Detroit Free Press.

England's Armored Trains.

The magnificent armored trains used by England in her war with the Boers will transport her troops, protect bridges and telegraphic communications in about the same way that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters drives dyspepsia from the human stomach and then mounts guard that it does not return. Getting At the Facts.

Wife (after the honeymoon)—Why did you deceive me about your income?

Husband—I didn't, my dear.

"Yes, you did. You told me you were getting $50 a week when you asked me to marry you."

"You evidently misunderstood me. I said my position was worth $50—and so it is—but for some reason best known to the boss he gives me only ten dollars." — Chicago Evening News.

Not Intimate Enough.

Miss Maison—Excuse my ignorance, but ought I to call you Mr. Bones or Dr. Bones?

HE LIKES WESTERN CANADA.

Duhamel, Jan 24, 1900.

Dear Sir and Friend:

We had a lucky trip, made good connections and got to Wetaskiwin Monday afternoon, stayed there all night, bought a pony and saddle for the boy and hired a three-seated rig for the balance of us and got home to dinner next day; caught the boys cleaning up and getting ready to come after us. Wednesday the snow was all gone and we had bare ground and bright sunshine for a month, and it has been pleasant weather ever since. The ground is frozen about two feet and about six inches of snow—just enough for sleighing. We had one cold spell in December. The thermometer went down to 32 below zero; but we did not suffer with the cold at all. We have worked every day all winter, are all well and feeling well. Have built a log house 18x18, two log stables 16x18, and are now busy on a well. We have ten cows, three other cattle and six head of horses. The boys send their best respects to Mr. Huchison, and say they will talk to him enough to pay for not writing when he gets up here. Will write you again next Spring and tell you all about the Winter. We all unite in sending you and family our best wishes and respects and hope this will find you all well.

Yours very respectfully,
(Signed) THOMAS TATE,
Duhamel, Alberta, Canada.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases of of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

ALABASTINE

LABASTINE is the original and only durable wall coating, entirely different from all kalsomines. Ready for use in white or fourteen beautiful tints by adding cold water.

ADIES naturally prefer ALABASTINE for walls and ceilings, because it is pure, clean, durable. Put up in dry powdered form, in five-pound packages, with full directions.

LL kalsomines are cheap, temporary preparations made from whiting, chalks, clays, etc., and stuck on walls with decaying animal glue. ALABASTINE is not a kalsomine.

EWARE of the dealer who says he can sell you the "same thing" as ALABASTINE or "something just as good." He is either not posted or is trying to deceive you.

ND IN OFFERING something he has bought cheap and tries to sell on ALABASTINE'S demands, he may not realize the damage you will suffer by a kalsomine on your walls.

ENSIBLE dealers will not buy a lawsuit. Dealers risk one by selling and consumers by using infringement. Alabastine Co. own right to make wall coating to mix with cold water.

HE INTERIOR WALLS of every church and school should be coated only with pure, durable ALABASTINE. It safeguards health. Hundreds of tons used yearly for this work.

N BUYING ALABASTINE, customers should avoid getting cheap kalsomines under different names. Insist on having our goods in packages and properly labeled.

UISANCE of wall paper is obviated by ALABASTINE. It can be used on plastered walls, wood ceilings, brick or canvas. A child can brush it on. It does not rub or scale off.

STABLISHED in favor. Shun all imitations. Ask paint dealer or druggist for tint card. Write us for interesting booklet, free. ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich.

O, How Happy I am to BE FREE from NEURALGIA

Is what Mrs. Archie Young of 1817 Oaks Ave., West Superior, Wis., writes us on Jan. 25th, 1900. "I am so thankful to be able to say that your SWANSON'S '5 DROPS' is the best medicine I have ever used in my life. I sent for some last November and commenced using it right away and it helped me from the first dose. Oh, I cannot explain to you how I was suffering from neuralgia! It seemed that death was near at hand. I thought no one could be worse. I was so very weak that I hardly expected to live to see my husband come back from his daily labor. But now I am free from pain, my cheeks are red, and I sleep well the whole night through. Many of my friends are so surprised to see me looking so well that they will send for some of your '5 DROPS.'"

BILE IN THE BLOOD

No matter how pleasant your surroundings, health, good health, is the foundation for enjoyment. Bowel trouble causes more aches and pains than all other diseases together, and when you get a good dose of bilious bile coursing through the blood life's a hell on earth. Millions of people are doctoring for chronic ailments that started with bad bowels, and they will never get better till the bowels are right. You know how it is—you neglect—get irregular—first suffer with a slight headache—bad taste in the mouth mornings, and general "all gone" feeling during the day—keep on going from bad to worse untill the suffering becomes awful, life loses its charms, and there is many a one that has been driven to suicidal relief. Educate your bowels with CASCARETS. Don't neglect the slightest irregularity. See that you have one natural, easy movement each day. CASCARETS tone the bowels—make them strong—and after you have used them once you will wonder why it is that you have ever been without them. You will find all your other disorders commence to get better at once, and soon you will be well by taking—

BUFFALO GAZETTE

DELANO, FRIDAY, April 13, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Read the war news on the inside of this paper.

—Today is Good Friday. Sunday will be Easter.

—A. E. Johnson has just received a carload of flour from Cokato.

—F. H. Lindsley is building an addition to his second street tenement house.

—Read the new add of the Popular North Palace Store. It is a good place to trade.

—Fred Knoll and Walter Mara were locked in the elevator office accidentally Monday morning.

—The Delano Steam Laundry, south of track on River St., runs Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursay and Fri. 11tf.

—O. Dahlgren is moving his recent purchase, the old Jack Johns house up near the sidewalk on S. Third Street.

—A. F. Johnson has bargained for a half interest in the new Papinsville mill and intends locating there soon.

—Mrs. Reichel has had her Bridge Street house nicely painted, adding much to the appearance of that part of the village.

—Mrs. Sims, of Howard Lake, has opened a restaurant in Mrs. Mulford's building, corner of R. R. Avenue and Second street.

—The Delano Mill project seems to have collapsed. There is a good opportunity for some one with the money to put up a 100 barrel mill.

—Wood is in great demand and since farmers are busy seeding it is next to impossible to get enough to keep people in town comfortable, and cook their's victuals.

—J. M. Gott has reshingled his residence. Ed Ziebarth is rearranging and fixing up his new home. The M. E. Manse is being painted North Third is springing out well.

—John Teichnor has bought of O'Leary's, their old residence on South Third Street. His father and himself are to occupy it as soon as the present occupants, Orrisons, move out.

—Fred E. Belden, of Dayton, Iowa, formerly of Montrose, has moved his family into the Miss White house, corner Third and Bridge Streets. Mr. B. has charge of the uptown lumber yard.

—Johnson's restaurant now does business where Len Diedrich formerly sold intoxicating liquors. Len has moved his saloon into the adjoining room. It is currently reported that as soon as his license expires he will retire from the business and from the village, occupying his newly purchased farm near Eph Jacob's home.

—Mrs. John Leudasher, Sr. left Monday for Germany to make her future home. She will, doubtless learn, very soon, that Germany of to day is different from the Germany of half a century ago, and that the friends of her early life have long since passed away, or like herself become old. After an absence of so many years it must not be expected that one will find what they left. We would not be surprised to see Mrs. L. back to Delano before next New Years.

—Genuine traveling men are gentlemen; most of them. But there are exceptions to all rules. And one who peddles pictures bordering on the obscene; or who places them in the way of school children, who may through the neglect of parents congregate about the depot at train time, and where they ought not to be, deserves to be put behind bars where he cant do such things. When he is known to his fellow traveling men he will wish he hadn't; and will do so no more. Such men disgrace any profession, calling, or trade, and are for beneath the dignity of a man.

—J. C. McDonold is turning out some curiosities from his shop. He has just finished a nice writing desk for Herbert Carleton. The lumber is cedar, from Peru. It is a nice piece of furniture. He is making a combination bureau and center table, from the lumber sawed from the Old Pine Tree, that was for so many years a land mark on the Rockford and Delano road, and which was blown down a few years ago. This is for Charls M. Conzet, who is a lover of curioes avd a preserver of historical objects generally, especially of pioneer days of the Crow River valley settlement by white people.

—A sad story is told of the fisherman's luck of a trio of our wothy citizens on one of their piscatorial excursions a few days since. One of them was so green as to tip the boat over, precipitating all three into about fifteen feet of Lake Rebecca ice water. Two, so the story goes, swam to shore, while the feedman, either through a lock of knowledge of swimming, or from his propensity to feed, seemed inclined to go to the bottom, to furnish food for fishes, until a spear handle was extended within his grasp when he was safely landed. It is a trifle early in the season to go in bathing in this northern latitude. And diving for pickerel don't pay, so the trio came home to dry up, and go another day. For further information on the mishap call on Joe Nietzel, Jr. Joe though young is an old fisherman, and knows how to tell a fish story.

—Presding Elder Fielder, of Minneapolis district, is to visit our village Saturday and talk to the children at the M. E. Church, at 2 p. m. On Sunday he is to preach, at 10:30 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. Everybody invited.

Among our Exchanges.

Norwood Times: The next president will be McKinley if not Bryan.

The County Line: Is our plain duty to Porto Rico to be collected at the custom houses?

Saint Cloud Times: Admiral Dewey says that he has been studying the situation and has concluced that after all, the office of President is not a very difficult one to fill. This is really the unkindest cut of all at McKinley.

Midway News: The ways and means committee of the house, with its precipitation on the Porto Rican tariff bill, seems to have made the worst mistake in the history of the Republican party since the salry grab act.

LeSuer Sentinel: The claim of that the sugar and tobacco rings want free trade with Puerto Rico, is too thin to wash. The men who voted for the tariff taxing of that island are never known to oppose what the trusts want.

Atkin Republican: Admiral Dewey has been induced to become a candidate for the presidency. This will be a disappointment to his admirers all over the country. At Manila he added luster to his name and glory to the nation, but even this will not give him the presidency. He is bound to be disappointed.

St Peter Free Press: Congressman McCleary, Morris, Eddy and Tawney say that the people do not understand the Porto Rico tariff bill and should acquiesce in the superior wisdom of their representatives at Washington; Senator Davis in his speech against the measure last Wednesday said that "supporters of the bill cannot lay the flattering unction to their souls that the editors of the great newspapers do not understand it quite as well as we do. The people understand it too, and understand it well." And further, "What I say, I say with the unalterable conviction that I am right—right politically and right economically. In my judgment the only course for us is to abandon this pernicious mockery of a tariff between Porto Rico and the United States and return to the pathway of plain duty." The people are in hearty accord with this sentiment and will give it support whenever opportunity offers.

MAPLE PLAIN.

I am no walking Encyclopedia; nor a despencer of the law, but it seems to me that the Gobel law is just as fair for one party as another; there could not be any discriminating.

The final clause of the Gobel law is as follows:

Because of the frauds that are now perpetrated in elections in this commonwealth there is an emergency that this act take immediate effect upon its approval by the Governor on its passage.

The bill passed the Senate and the House on March 11th, 1898, over the vets of Governor Bradley.

There was a provision in the old law that immediately upon the closing of the polls the ballots shall be counted and immediately upon the conclusion of the counting, the ballots shall be destroyed and then the voter is prohibited from testifying in any proceeding civil or criminal how he voted.

It is stated that in the election of 1896 in Louisville, Ky., there were over 40 precincts that had not one election officer for Bryan, and it is claimed this statement has never been questioned. And a majority of 13,000 was turned out in Jefferson Co., Ky., (Louisville being the capitol), for William McKinley.

Now it seems to me if the Ky. Gobel law is a Statute law of Ky., it should be recognized until it is repealed. But we understand it is not so recognized by the present administration.

In 1899, according to the election returns: William S. Taylor, republican, had 193,714 votes and William Gobel had 191,331, giving Taylor a majority of 2,389, in Jefferson county, Ky., Louisville being its county seat. Taylor had 18,445 votes and Goebel had 15,123 votes, Taylor's majority being 3,322. And in Louisville is where the democrats claim the fraudulent count was made. And whether there has been actual fraud committed not, is for the officers of Ky. to determine.

Ky. has 13 electoral votes, and it seems in the election of 1896, 12 were for McKinley and one for Bryan.

In 1876 there was a dispute as to the election returns from four different states: Oregon, Florida, South Carlina and Louisana. An Electorial Commission was created by Congress January 29, 1877, to pass upon the conflicting returns, and a commission of 7 to 8 was created, seven democrats and eight republicans, and on March 2, 1877 the commission adjourned sine die; having declared all four states for Hayes yet two or three of these states had elected democratic governors.

We have been a republic for 124 years and our people have been a favored people in many ways. But it seems for the last 30 years our politics, the love of office, and the greed of Mammon has overcome the better judgment of the people, and the politicians are making this country a mere dumping ground for boodlers. It is too much of self and party and too little for God and the country's interest at heart.

Party interest first, and the nation's intrest a second consideration is the cry among the people.

Abraham Lincoln once said: "No country could long endure half slave and half free" neither can a nation long endure half aristrocrat and the other half poor as Lazarath. And our millionairs accumulating every day almost. One class of people is being impoverished to enrich another class. For a man to think his party or his church has all the good is selfish and bigoted.

Let evers man think of his country's interest first and his party as an after consideration.

Our roads are drying up, the weather is fine, and farmers are busy seeding and should we have fine weather throughout the week farmers will finish their seeding.

Most of those who have been on the sick list are improving. FARMER.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6, 1900.

No reduction of war taxes at this session of Congress. That is Mr McKinley's latest edict, issued in the face of Secretary Gage's statement that the war taxes are piling up a Treasury surplus which may become dangerous by causing a financial stringency. There are three reasons for this edict, neither creditable to the republican administration. The first is, that Mr. McKinley wishes Congress to hurry adjournment, in order that Republican Senators and Representatives may go home and try to explain the blunders of his administration, to save him from the defeat he fears; the second is, that Boss Hanna may have an opportunity to dicker with the big interests affected by the war taxes for campaign contributions, and the third is, that a heavy surplus may be accumulated in the Treasury to meet the extravagant appropriations which are contemplated at the next session of Congress, after the Presidential election. This may be satisfactory to the republican bosses, but how about the people who are paying in the neighborhood of $1 per capita in war taxes which are not necessary to run the government as it should be run?

The republicans were startled and not at all pleased by the announcement of Admiral Dewey that he is a candidate for President, and if not nominated by one of the existing parties is willing to run as an independent candidate. They know that if he runs as an independent candidate he will draw his strenth largely from Mr. McKinley and they also know that Mr. McKinley has no surplus strength to lose. Col. Bryan, having alleady been practically chosen as the democratic candidate, the democrats in Congress regard Dewey's announcement very complacently and rather hope that he will run as an independent, although they would be afraid of him if he got the republican nomination.

It seems almost impossible for the Quay case to get before the Senate for even a few minutes without stirring up bad blood in some of the republican Senators. The republicans who oppose the seating of Quay are plainly taking advantage of every opportunity that promises to render the slightest aid towards preventing a vote being taken at the present session, having made sure that he would be seated if the vote was taken. Senator Chandler, who is a Quay man, accused Senator Lodge, who is not, with having discourteously refused to answer a question, and Senator Wolcott, another Quay man, went astep farther by saying that Mr. Lodge had gone out of his way to "state that which is unqualifiedly false." Later Wolcott apologized. All this and more, because Mr. Lodge sought to use the Philippine bill under his construction of a previous unanimous agreement of the Senate to push aside the Quay case. Democratic Senators have shown a disposition to allow the republicans to fight it out among themselves.

In a speech against the Porto Rico tariff bill Representative Lane, of Iowa, a republican, sounded a warning to his party men he said: "This is a question of sentiment and the people are aroused. It appeals to their judgment, their sense of justice and right, and I now warn you that whenever the standard of justice and right of any political party materially differs from the standard of the people on any great question the people rise up in their might and that party goes down in defeat."

There is more behind the resignation of the office of Assistant Secretary of the Interior by Hon. Webster Davis than his statement that he did so in order to tell the people of this country by voice and pen the truth about the crushing of two republics in South Africa by Great Britain, with the moral if not the actual support of the McKinley administration, It is well known in Washington that Mr Davis has officially stood in the way of several big schemes, connected with public lands and the pension system, and that there has been almost constant friction between him and Secretary Hitchcock on account of them. Members of the administration know that Mr. Davis has in his possession several chunks of political dynamite That is why his resignation was considered at a cabinet meeting. His championship of the Boers is disagreeable to the administration, but fear that he may do worse prevents any attempt to interfere with him.

Senator Culbertson, of Texas, made a hit with his maiden speech in the Senate, which was against the Porto Rico bill and in favor of the democraic contention that the Costitutionn follows the flag. The prediction is heard on all sides that Mr. Culbertson will become one of the democratic leaders of the Senate.

Six republican Senators had the courage of their convictions and voted against the Porto Rican bill, which passed the Senate by a majority of 9 If the same percentage of the republican membership of the House would vote their convictions the bill would be defeated, but present indications point to the swallowing of their convictions by a sufficient number of republicans to put the unjust measure through.

T. J. CATLIN,
Publisher and Proprietor

Entered as Second-Class Mail Matter at the Post Office in Delano, Minn

JUDGE THOMAS CANTY returned Wednesday from the Philippines. He says it would take fifteen years and lots of men to conquor those islands.

A CABLEGRAM from Manila, April, 16, says: "General Young reports that 300 insurgent riflemen and bolomen attacked the American garrison at Batoc, province of North Iloocos, yesterday, but were repulsed, losing a hundred and six men. The Americans had no casualties."

Also that a squadron of the Third cavalry recently "surrounded a village and surprised 200 insurgents, living in barracks, apparently a recruiting center for the province. The enemy lost fifty three men killed. Our troops also captured forty four men and burned the village. One American was wounded."

This reads about as one sided as any Indian, or other barbarian warfare we ever heard of. The idea of an enemy making an attack and having over a third of their force killed, and not hitting a single one of their opponents is rather strange. And then for a squadron of cavalry to ride into town and killl over one fourth of the inhabitants and burn the town with only one of their number wounded is strange, if the other fellows were even armed to say nothing of being engaged in war. If that is all the resistance the Filipinos are making to American soldiers burning their homes and occupying their country why longer continue such cruelty to them.

And if the reports are true that Col. Funston caught two Filipinos and hung them without trial, isn't it just too wicked a was to appeal to the sympathies of the poor inhabitants of that unfortunate country that has for so long fought for liberty from Spain, only to fall into, for them, worse hands. And can any true American read such reports without a tingle of shame mantling his cheeks?

Again every few days we read long casualty lists, United States soldiers dead from disease, drowning; or by the enemy's bullets; another of, gone insane. Why destroy our young men to exterminate a race of people thousands of miles from our shores? Is there any justice or right to our boys in asking them to give up their lives in such ways? and for such a cause?

When people in their homes are attacked, and shot, and their towns burned, is it any wonder they are all enemies to such proceedings?

Doesn't Admiral Dewey know as much about that country as any one and hasn't he expressed an opinion that the war there is unnecessary? Didn't the returned volunteers announce to the world their belief that the cause was unworthy and the sacrifice to great by coming home, as soon as possible for them to do so, though offered hundreds of dollars to remain even six months? Isin't it about time to begin to teach the natives another kind of Christianity if it is necessary to have anything to do with them?

WE are told that millions of people in India are starving to death. India is one of Great Britains dependencies, and has been under English control for years. Wouldn't it look better if England would send her soldiers with food to India to feed the famishing than to devastate the Transvaal and render its inhabitants nable to make a living? And are the United States going to make a similar state of affairs in Porto Rico, the Philippines and other countries that some politicans are grabbing after? Had we not better stop aping after English polecies when they are like they are now carrying out and against which our forefathers once so vigorously protested and fought?

WE are not alone in advocating the nomination of Bryan and Towne, for the Presidency and Vice Presidency. Several papers have spoken favorably of our ticket. The Democratic Press Bulletin, of St. Paul, this week has a good cut of "Hon. Chas. A. Towne, Minnesota's Dearly Beloved Son who may be the next Vice President." One prominent Democrat remarked to us that he favored the ticket, and wouldn't be very particular which was placed first." We would, just at this time. Bryan and Towne are known United States over as the leaders and in the order mentioned, and it would be poor policy to reverse them on the ticket. Both are young, and if as Bryan and Towne they continue as they have for the past few years, Mr. Towne's turn to be first, can come soon enough But at present Bryan and Towne, two good men, should be the ticket.

THE Republican party in Minnesota, at present is not quite so harmonious as it has been in years past. The state organization don't have the power it once had. A spirit of independence manifests itself among those who have long voted for the party of Abraham Lincolns. They have learned that Mark Hannaism isn't Abe Lincolnism nor James G. Blaineism; not by a long ways. The time was when a nomination on the Republican State ticket in Minnesota was almost equivalent to an election. Once, and for a long time, it seemed that about all that was necessary to carry the State for the Republican party was to put up a ticket with a Swede, and a German for good fat offices and it made little difference what the rest of the ticket was, it would be elected. People have learned the tricks. They have become aware of the fact, since a change was finally made, that the state gets along as well with an anti-republican governor as it did with a republican governor. They have found out that all that was told them would happen if John Lind was elected, did not come to pass. They have, after nearly two years of his administration, learned that his refusing to be led by the Hanna gang hasn't made any less a man of him, nor has it spoiled him for a Governor. While his administration may not have suited everybody in every way, as a whole there has been little complaint, as compared with the predictions before the election there would be, if he was elected.

For Party Before Principles.

"Wm. Windom of Duluth is mentioned as a candidate for congress in this district, and will come before the convention, we understand, with a respectable backing. J. Adam Bede has also his war paint on, and between the two are likely to make it interesting for the present incumbent who also exbects a renomination. We trust, however that harmony will prevail in the convention, whoever is nominated, as the district is a close one and the nominee will need every vote he can get."—Sherburne County Times.

The Times must consider things desperate when it is willing to vote and work with the party to elect Congress, to make laws for the United States and its colonies, a good old fashoned Windom republican, a gold bug democrat, or a protective tariff between us and our dependencies republican. One who will go to Congress a republican and come home a republican" would probably suit him best.

Democratic Convention.

The Democratic State Central Committee met Thursday, at the Merchant's Hotel, St. Paul, and set the date for holding the State Convention to select delegates to attend the National Convention, Wednesday, June 20, at the Exposition building, Minneapolis. Delegates to be appointed at one for every 150 votes and major fraction cast for Bryan in 1896, and three at large from each county. The County Conventions are to be held Thursday, June 14. Let all good voters in favor of reform remember and be present at the first primary held and enjoy their only chance to have a voice in the shaping of the ticket and platform.

Our Navy.

"The two monitors, Monterey and Monadnock, are to be put out of commission at Manila because their officers and crews are needed to man other vessels. What's the use of keeping right on building new warships if we are not going to enlarge the navy so as to be able to man the ships we have already got?"—Minneapolis Tribune.

And yet the Kearsarge, has just been completed and is pronounced safer than any other fighting vessel afloat. And the Pennsylvania is to be built and is to be be better than the Kearsarge. One of the principle arguments used in favor of building so many boats is that American laborers will recieve the pay for working on them and the material from which they are made. It is proposed to raise a naval force sufficient to man them all, and that will give young men employment. Then of course when we have so fine a navy, so well manned, it will be easy to get up a war of aggression most anywhere and anytime and make "prosperity."

Morris Supporters.

The Republican papers of the Sixth district are well nigh a unit in favoring the re-nomination of Congressman Morris. -Buffalo Standard.

Imperialism is Contraction.

Imperialism might expand the nation's territory, but it would contract the nation's purpose. It is not a step forward toward the narrow views of kings and emperors. —W. J. Bryan. —Press Bulletin.

Be on the Watch.

Don't permit any half hearted Chicago platform Democrat to sneak into the National Convention of the party the year. Remember he will meet the tempter there and may fall into his snares. Send only tried and true men to conventions, if you would preserve your liberties.

George Washington.

"I have always given it as my decided opinon that no nation has a right to interfere in the internal concerns of another; that every one has a right to form and adopt whatever government they like best to live under themselves."

"Separated as we are by a world of water from other nations, we shall if we are wise surely avoid being drawn into the labyrinth of their politics and involved in their destructive wars"

"America may think herself happy in having the Atlantic for a barrier."—Press Bulletin.

Good Patriotic Doctrine.

Ex-Governor Bushnell thinks he is safe in saying that the great majority of Ohio Republicans consider Porto Rico a part of the United States and entitled to treatment as such Governor Tanner of Illinois has decided views about it: "Porto Rico is either a part of the United States or else is a foreign country. If a part of the territory of the United States we have no more right to levy a discriminating tax upon its citizens than we have to levy a tax upon the citizens of Florida, Arizona or Alaska. If it is not a part of the United States the president or congress should withdraw our army from its territory."—Duluth Herald.

Le Sueur Sentinel: General Funston of Kansas has been taking things into his own hands and has recently hung a couple of Philippines without trial of any kind. It seems as though this is the man that was accused of killing a Philippino after he surrendered last summer, Funston is no doubt a brave man, but he is also a man unfit to have authority. Common humanity and the laws of nations demand that human life should not be taken without due process of law. There is a sort of idea among some of our officers in Luzon, that they are outside the pale and that their actions cannot be questioned. The sense of the American people revolt at such wanton disregard or right and decency. Even the General in command in the Philippines has no right to execute any one unless his action be approved by the President. Whence comes the authority of this previous little brigadier?

ADVERTISE.

LIBERTY---OR WHAT

THE day was drawing to its close. Already the sun had begun to tint the western sky with a soft crimson glow. The windows in the weather-beaten barracks caught and held the rosy light as though loath to let the brightness go, and even the little thatched cottage under the hill was bathed in the glory.

Within the little cottage under the hill preparations for the evening meal were being made. Back and forth across the room a tall, straight figure moved, full of that supple grace of the southern woman, says the Chicago Herald.

"Zoritsa, have you heard what decision has been made?"

"No, mother," answered the girl. "Capt. Newcombe told me to-day that they were all on the tiptoe of expectation, but determined to fight it out and win, no matter what happens."

"The captain is very gallant. If all the men were as brave as he there would be no doubt about an American victory."

"I am afraid your criticism is unjust, mother. You are letting ten come under the ban of your displeasure because you chance to know the merits of one. Capt. Newcombe thinks all his men brave."

"Well, we need not complain of Lieut. Hope's courage, for he certainly displayed perseverance, at least, before he won you, after many rebuffs."

"Oh, yes, Lieut. Hope is exceedingly brave, if you call persistence in a love

"DID YOU THEN LOVE HIM SO MUCH?"

affair bravery. I wonder if in war a besieged army is ever worried into being captured. Really, I feel like a prisoner of war since—"

"Hush, Zoritsa," came softly from the corner. "You are hasty. It is no less than treachery to—"

"Treachery!" interrupted the girl, impetuously. "I think your definition and mine differ; but forgive me, dear," suddenly softening and laying her flushed cheek against her mother's soft hair. "I am tired to-night. And—mother—do not ask me why—I have craved my liberty as no one ever did before—and to-night I'm free, mother—free! Do you understand what that means to me, dear? I have broken my engagement with Lieut. Hope."

"It may be at the risk of your happiness, dear."

"I have gladly taken that risk, and rejoice in my liberty. Ah! mother, liberty! I wonder not that men's lives are lost for liberty!"

The Widow Juaniquez and her daughter were in the little cottage making bandages and otherwise busying themselves with work for the army.

"It is strange, mother, that Capt. Newcombe did not come in as usual this evening."

"Yes; he said yesterday he would come up as soon as his duties were performed. I do not understand his absence."

Zoritsa glanced quickly at the still girlish figure bending over her work. Was that a flush softly creeping over the fair, youthful face? She caught her breath. Did her mother care? She had not thought of that—but then—why not? Was not the "senorita" the belle of the village? And yet the thought had never come to her that it was still possible for a man like the captain to win her mother's love. Why, even the idea was absurd. Did she really care for Capt. Newcombe? Surely his interest, at least was no more than friendship. When he hears that she is not bound to Lieut. Hope will he not show her it is she whom he loves?

Great excitement seemed to prevail in the village next morning. At every other door groups of people were standing, the men angrily gesticulating, the women crying. In front of the cottage were two or three villagers talking to "Irish," as he was familiarly known in camp.

"Yis," he was saying, "thim sphalpeens up there," jerking his thumb toward the barracks, "were too busy enjoyin' av thimsilves to be bothered wid the thrubles av a handful av poor divils. But ye'll niver be afther catching Capt. Newcombe a-nappin', and ez soon ez he heard the fuss offered himself and his men to go and help thim."

"Yis, we wint, but how many hev come back agin? The dirty sphalpeens made a ragged edge of our company—the finest ye'll see anywheres—and the captain himself has been killed entoirly. Ah! 'twas a sorry day that brought Paddy Malone to this God-forsaken counthry!"

The two women within, so dear to each other, and yet each seeming to stand in the other's happiness, strained their ears to listen. Almost unconscious of the other's presence, they both ran out at the man's words and stood there with drawn faces, deathlike in their awful pallor, while he repeated the news that made desolate many a happy fireside and veiled with tears the light in loving eyes.

The widow's lithe form swayed and trembled, and she would have fallen had not Zoritsa suddenly seemed to realize that her mother was there. With a quick catching of the breath and a dry, choking sob in her throat, she reached out her arm and caught her.

Each read with anguish the truth in the other's eyes, and in each heart was a momentary struggle for the victory. The painful quietness of despair seemed to envelop the young girl, and, with eyes heavy with unshed tears, she half-blindly led her mother into the house.

This, then, was why Zoritsa had claimed her freedom. Oh, why had she not told Zoritsa before that the captain had already confessed his love for her? And it was only last night they were to have told her of their happiness. To-day he is dead—dead! Unable to control herself, she broke into passionate weeping.

"Dearest," the girl said, drawing the golden head to her breast, "did you, then, love him so much?"

"Love him? Better than life!"

"There may be—there must be some dreadful mistake." She did not know her mother had seen the love light in her eyes and had rightly interpreted it. Though there was not a quiver of an eyelid, her heart was breaking. Already her light had gone out. Her world was a world of darkness.

Night came on. One by one the stars appeared. A solemn hush lay over all. Even the camp seemed deserted, and naught save the occasional screech of a whip-poor-will broke the dread silence.

Yearning for the sympathetic stillness of the night and the companionship of the broad, calm sky, dotted with its myriads of stars, Zoritsa drew her shawl about her, and with a heavy heart went out into the darkness.

What was that? Sounds of rejoicing? How they grated upon her now! But what were they saying? Hush!

"Captain — alive — prisoner — escaped—"

Could it be true? Her heart gave a great leap. Yes! there was a loud "Hurrah!" It was true! He was not killed after all, then, and perhaps not even wounded! Ah—but she was not to think of herself. Yet why should she give up the hope hidden in her heart so long and make the little mother unhappy? With a moan more heartrending than sobs she threw herself upon the ground.

"God! God! Thou who didst teach us to love! Why, oh, why didst thou give me this chalice, only to withdraw it as I stooped to drink?"

In an agony of soul she wrestled with her own desires—her own love—and it seemed to her very life—and conquered.

Quiet, resigned and calm, she found her way home, softly unlatched the door, and went in.

The bright moonlight streamed in a silver bar through the long, low window, and there in its brightness, with upraised face, almost transfigured with happiness, was the "senorita" clasped in the captain's arms.

Without having been seen, and stifling a sigh, the noble girl turned away.

"And this is liberty? Aye, liberty to follow Thee, O Christ, to be bound to Thee with the chains of Thy love—liberty to serve Thee in serving others—to spend and be spent in Thy service." * * *

On the field, in the hospitals and in the filthy prisons her presence seems to radiate a peace that the world cannot give. In her face can be traced the story of a battle fought and a victory won in the almost forgotten past, but her quiet services tell of the outpouring of a heart of love to the sufferers of the present.

Taking Down Her Pride.

Maud—This is my engagement ring. Isn't it lovely?

Edith—Perfectly adorable! How generous Fred was to give you such a valuable one! And to think that people say that your father paid for it!—Stray Stories.

Long Prairie Leader: The Little Falls Transcript (Rep) says "Senators Davis and Nelson voted against most of their party associates on the Porto Rico bill." Perhaps they did vote "against" their party associates in congress, but members of all parties in Minnesota will honor them for voting the sentiments of 99 out of every 100 of their constituents, and they will not have to come home or write home and explain why they voted as they did. Only those who stood by President McKinley and his administartion are "explaining." Page Morris is one of these.

AWFUL IMPERTINENCE.

Asks the President to Tell Where He Stands on a Public Question.

New York Journal.

The people want to know where you stand, Mr. President, and they have a right to know it from your lips.

A little over three months ago you said in your message to congress that it was your plain duty to give free trade to Puerto Rico. You have never said in public anything to the contrary. So far as the records go you believe in that plain duty as much as ever.

But there are all sorts of rumors of a change in your attitude. There are tales of back stairs conferences, and of pressure brought to bear upon senators and representatives who stand by your message to abandon their position in order to "keep in line with the president."

Let us know where you stand today. While these secret intrigues are going on the people of Puerto Rico are starving. If you are in favor of letting them starve you ought to say so openly make your reason public

Your friend, Mr. Kohlsaat of the Chicago Times Herald, who helped Mr. Hanna to pay your dept and put you in the presidency, says editorlally:

"It is more than difficult to comprehend the failure of the Republican leaders to apprehend the indignation of their constituents upon this subject. It is so general that there is practically no room for the pale anger, of the people to spread. It already occupies the thoughts of 30 per cent of the voters who have given it any consideration. Republicans especially are at a loss to understand the darkness that enshrouds the minds of their. They are loath to credit the stories that 'Invisible Corruption' and 'Heartless Self-Interest' are camped upon the steps of the capitol and blind the majorities in the senate and house to the party disaster that awaits the denial of American free trade to an American possession."

If you have changed your mind on this subject, Mr. President, the matter is important enough to call for a special message to congress explaining the grounds of your conversion. Dare you send in such a message?—Globe.

Possibly the controversy as to whether or not alcohol is food might profitably be dismissed with the general advice, "Don't eat it."

Railway officials estimate that 500,000 emigrants will come to the United States from Europe this year, and that most of them will settle in the great west and northwest.

The will of the late Dan Rice, famous throughout the country as a circus clown, has been made public, and among other provisions there is one leaving $1,000 per year to his daughter. His estate includes 10,000 acres of coal land in Tennessee, and this he leaves to his daughter, to his relatives and to his friends.

The National Legislative league has been formed in New York city, with Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake as president, and a full corps of officers composed of prominent women in various states. The object of this league is to obtain for women equality of legal, civil and industrial rights through action by the national congress and the state legislatures.

A report from the sailing fleet in the Arctic is to the effect that the catch of seal this year has been 296,000, an increase of 50,000 over last year. The valuable animals are becoming scarce and in the long run the greedy hunters will have to pay for their merciless slaughter. The seal is traveling the same way the buffalo did.

London papers tell of the completion of the underground telegraph system between London and Birmingham, a distance of 115 miles. The wires are laid in underground conduits at the uniform depth of two and a half feet, the conduits and wires being insulated with a certain kind of paper. The conduits place the wires out of the reach of storms and the hands of vandals.

Good for Hetty Green! The richest woman in the country denies the rumor that her daughter is to marry a foreign duke, and says she would prefer for a son-in-law a good, smart American newspaper man. There's patriotism and common sense for you. Here's a chance for an enterprising chap looking for a desirable mother-in-law, to make the biggest "scoop" on record.

Several cases have come to light during the last few weeks of Americans who have bitten at the old Spanish swindle of a distant relative and a fortune to be gained on advancing a few hundred dollars. All of which indicates not only that a new fool is born every minute or two, but that the crafty Spaniard is industriously getting even, in a financial way, for Manila and San Juan.

Archibald Forbes, who died in London recently, was the most prominent war correspondent in history. He died at the age of 62, of paralysis. In the '70s, when Lord Chelmsford's army won its great victory over the Zulus, Forbes rode 120 miles across a trackless and wild country to a telegraph office in order to send in the first news, and covered the distance in 14 hours. That was the beginning of his fame.

The Hundred Year club of New York claims to have found the secret of prolonging human life. Theodore Sutro, the president of the club, says the matter has passed from the theoretical to the practical stage. It depends, he says, on what you eat and think. Well, it is generally agreed that as long as a man keeps on eating and thinking he will not die. Remember this simple rule. It may save your life.

Prof. Eliot, of Harvard university, has not only offered to receive 1,000 Cuban teachers into the Harvard summer school free of cost, but will open his private residence to as many teachers as it will accommodate, and members of the faculty will follow his example. This is patriotism of a practical sort. Most people content themselves with a sentimental approval of the effort to regenerate Cuba, or manifest patriotism wearing the flag, but to cooperate with the government in this work by personal labor and sacrifice is a very different matter.

A porch-climber of unusual daring robbed a North side residence in Chicago, risked capture and the penitentiary, and carried off $40,000 worth of jewelry. A Chicago lawyer, meanwhile, without exposing himself to the slightest danger, gathered in a fee of $500,000, and does not have to hide his booty from the rude policemen. The obvious moral, of course, points out the superiority of legal study to the practice of climbing porches, and conclusively demonstrates that a Chicago lawyer is worth just 25 times as much as even a successful burglar.

The purchase of American securities by English investors would naturally bring about a gold movement toward this country, for these stocks have to be paid for. But as it happens the people of England, as well as of all the other European countries, are counting upon a good many American dollars coming into their pockets this year. Because of the Paris exposition American travel abroad will be large, and the money spent by tourists will probably more than make up for the money that should be sent across the Atlantic in payment of stocks.

Grand Inauguration Ceremonies Are Held at Paris—Still in an Unfinished Condition.

Paris, April 16. — The Paris exposition was opened at noon Saturday. The most favorable weather conditions prevailed and innumerable bright colored domes and minarets glistened in the sunshine. Paris was early astir with people wending their way towards the Elysee and in the direction of the exposition, in the hope of witnessing the presidential procession at some part of its journey.

All the public buildings and numberless private houses were decorated with trophies of flags, chiefly the tri-color. The neighborhood of the exposition was especially gay with bunting, while most of the pavilions themselves were surmounted with floating banners.

The unfinished condition of the exposition on inauguration day is regrettable and perhaps misleading. It must be borne in mind that this is only a passing phase and on its completion within three weeks or a month from now the exposition will undisputably be the most attractive and magnificent yet seen.

President Loubet left the Elysee in an open four-horse landau, escorted by a detachment of cuirassiers. The presidential procession was composed of five landaus, headed by the famous outrider Montjarret. By the side of President Loubet sat M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the prime minister, and their progress through the Champs Elysees and across the Invalides bridge to the Avenue La Motte Picquet was hailed with continuous cheering from the great crowds which were massed along the route. On alighting from the carriage the president was immediately surrounded by the ministers. M. Millerand, the minister of commerce, stood at the entrance to receive him, around M. Millerand being grouped Commissioner General Picard and other high exposition officials. President Loubet shook hands with M. Millerand and then turning to Picard said he would be happy to sign his declaration of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor.

President Loubet then saluted the foreign commissioners and entered the hall, where a throng of more than 4,000 persons formed a sea of human faces.

President Loubet, as he stood in the presidential tribune, surrounded by the members of the cabinet and his household, opened the exposition with the words:

"I declare the exposition of 1900 open."

Thus was the Paris exposition, designed to celebrate the world's entry into the new century, inaugurated, and shouts of "Vive Loubet," and "Vive la republique" rose from his 4,000 hearers and silk hats were waved in the air. The crowds outside the hall took up the cheering and the exposition was open.

Contrary to expectation, the premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, made no address at the opening of the exposition, MM. Millerand and Loubet being the only speakers.

Paris, April 17.—The first of the series of official fetes to be given in connection with the exposition took place Monday night at the Elysee palace. President Loubet entertained 260 guests at dinner, the largest number ever seated at an Elysee banquet. Among those present were the diplomatic corps and the commissioners general of the various nations represented at the exposition. The decorations were very elaborate. Following the banquet a reception was held, to which 6,000 invitations were issued.

Mills Shut Down.

New York, April 17.—John W. Gates, of the American Steel & Wire company, was seen in reference to a dispatch from the west which stated that a number of the constituent concerns in the main company had suspended operations. He confirmed the statement and said that 12 of the mills in the constituent companies have been shut down. They are located at Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Joliet, Ill., Waukegan, Ill., DeKalb, Ill., Newcastle, Ind., and Anderson, Ind. Mr. Gates said the cause of the closing down of the mills was overproduction.

Will Be Open to Settlers.

Washington, April 13.—The president has signed a proclamation opening to settlement the northern half of the Colville Indian reservation in Washington. The proclamation will go into effect October 10 next. The land opened to settlement is all that part of the reservation which has not been allotted to the Indians and comprises about 1,500,000 acres. It will be disposed of under the homestead laws at a dollar and a half per acre. The right to mine in the reservation was granted several years ago, and it is now opened up for agricultural purposes.

Bad Negro Killed.

Hopkinsville, Ky., April 17.—Morgan Boone (colored) swaggered through an excursion train at Slaughtersville cursing and brandishing a pistol. He broke a white man's skull with a coupling-pin. Several white men followed him into the colored coach, where a dozen shots were exchanged. Boone was killed and his body thrown from the train. Passengers, including many women, were panic-stricken.

Killed by Exploding Gas Main.

Logansport, Ind., April 16.—Too much pressure and a piece of defective gas pipe in the mains of the Chicago Pipe Line company at a point four miles southeast of here was the cause of a terrific explosion Sunday in which Michael Ellison, Jr., was instantly killed and five other men received injuries from which it is doubtful if some recover.

A Fatal Storm.

Wichita, Kan., April 16.—A storm approaching a tornado in proportion is reported from near Winfield, between here and Newton, and in the vicinity west of Clearwater. Two deaths are reported, and four people are said to have been injured by overturned houses. Wires are down and names and particulars are unobtainable.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

Big Rapids, Mich., April 14.—The boiler in John E. Riter's sawmill at the hamlet of Sylvester exploded, killing David Zimmerman, aged 70, and James Moffitt, aged 25. Oscar Zimmerman, a spectator, was severely injured and is reported dying. The mill was completely demolished. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

BOERS RETREATING.

Are Said to Be Fleeing in All Directions—Cronje Arrives at St. Helena.

London, April 17.—Lord Roberts has spread his net far and wide to catch the adventurous commandos that have been making mischief in the southeastern part of the Free State. The net has not yet been drawn in, but at the headquarters of Lord Roberts the impression exists that the power of the Boers is decreasing. A Daily News correspondent has them fleeing to the southeast; a Standard correspondent reports them fleeing northward; a Daily Telegraph correspondent says that some are going north and others south, while a Morning Post representative says it is not known what the Boers are doing.

St. Helena, April 16.—Gen. Cronje, his wife and three of his staff of the former Boer commando, who with other Boer prisoners arrived here on the Niobe and Wilkes April 10, were landed Saturday, accompanied by Col. Reefe. They were met by the governor and commander in chief of St. Helena, his excellency Robert Sterndale, and Mrs. Sterndale, at the castle, where the party remained for an hour, afterwards proceeding to the Kent building. Gen. Cronje looks well and appears cheerful.

Aliwal North, April 16.—It is officially reported that the British losses at Wepener in four days' fighting were 18 men killed and 132 wounded.

London, April 16.—Winston Churchill telegraphs to the Morning Post from Bloemfontein, under Saturday's date, reiterating his opinion that the war is bound to prove an extremely expensive business. He says:

"Two hundred and fifty thousand men will be needed before the end is attained. The question of remounts will continue one of vital importance. Great numbers are now arriving, but owing to the fact that they have to be put to work before time is given them to recover from the effects of the voyage, their condition is low and the death rate among them high. Thousands, therefore, will be wanted in addition to those now here or on the way, and great resting depots must be formed, together with an ample staff to nurse and exercise them. If that is done, then, about four or five months hence, you will be able to give your cavalry a new lease of life and strength."

INSURGENTS ACTIVE.

Manila, April 16.—The insurgents, supposedly Mascado's command, are again active about the Marivales mountains, across the bay from Manila. A force estimated at 300 attacked Balanga, where three companies of the Thirty-second infantry are stationed, on Monday night, but were easily repulsed. Friday they attacked Capt. Goldman, with 30 men of the Thirty-second regiment, near Orion, killing two Americans. Goldman then retired.

Manila, April 17.—Capt. Dodd, with a squadron of the Third cavalry, recently surrounded a village in Benguet province and surprised 200 insurgents, living in barracks, apparently a recruiting center for the province. The enemy lost 53 men killed. Our troops also captured 44 men and burned the village. One American was wounded.

Manila, April 17.—Gen. Young reports that 300 insurgent riflemen and bolomen attacked the American garrison at Batoc, province of North Ilocos, Monday, but were repulsed, losing 106 men. The Americans had no casualties.

FOUND GUILTY.

Miller, the Get-Rich-Quick Banker, of Franklin Syndicate Fame, Is Convicted.

New York, April 17.—William F. Miller, of Franklin syndicate fame, was found guilty by a jury in the county court of Brooklyn of grand larceny in the first degree for taking from Mrs. Kathern Moeser $1,000, which she invested in his 520 per cent. scheme "to get rich quick." The prisoner was remanded for sentence a week from next Friday. His counsel stated that the case would be appealed. For a moment or two after the jury had rendered its verdict Miller appeared to be dazed. He recovered himself, however, and entered into a spirited conversation with his counsel. The jury was discharged and Miller was taken to the Raymond street jail. A motion was made to consider each claim separately. As there are 17,000 of them, it was denied.

Declare a Boycott.

Atlanta, Ga., April 16.—The Order of Railroad Telegraphers Saturday night declared a boycott on the Southern railway, and hope to make it effective through the ticket and freight agents of the United States and the Federation of Labor. Telegrams were sent by President Powell to the 20,000 ticket and freight agents in the United States asking them to route passengers and freight via other lines than the Southern pending the present trouble.

Novel Ceremony.

Vienna, April 13.—Emperor Francis Joseph on Thursday performed the annual holy Thursday foot-washing ceremonial in the presence of the courtiers and the diplomatic corps. After washing the feet of 12 aged men in commemoration of Christ's washing of the feet of His disciples his majesty served them a three-course dinner and sent them away, each with a bag of silver pieces. The imperial archdukes assisted in the ceremony.

Is Constitutional.

Columbus, O., April 17. — The supreme court has declared the anti-lynching law constitutional. The law provides that the heirs of any person who is lynched may collect $5,000 from the commissioners of the county in which the affair occurs. The decision was rendered in the cases of Click Mitchell, hanged by a mob at Urbana, and J. W. Caldwell, who was shot and beaten by strikers at Cleveland.

Pleads Guilty.

Boston, April 16.—Charles H. Cole, former president of the Globe national bank, under indictment for embezzlement and misapplication of the funds of the bank, pleaded guilty Saturday in the United States district court. Sentence will be pronounced later. On motion of District Attorney Boyd D. Jones, Cole's bail was increased from $50,000 to $75,000.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. THE CALL FOR TOWNE

INCREASING INDICATIONS THAT MINNESOTA'S WELL-LOVED SON

Is Wanted For the Presidential Ticket With Bryan—Mr. Towne's Personal Attitude—Other Notes of the National Campaign — The Lincoln Republican Movement Shortly to Be Inaugurated. State and National Resume of the Week.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, April 16, 1900.

The event of the week, connecting national and state politics, has been developments touching the candidacy of Hon. Charles A. Towne for the vice-presidency. The matter has been quite fully gone into in another branch of the reform press work, wherein has been given as fully as space would permit current comment on the matter, and Mr. Towne's own very clearly expressed as well as patriotic and noble sentiments. In a short time the county conventions of all the allies will begin, from which there will be reflected, doubtless, a very clear idea of what is the home view of what should be done. Certain it is that no beloved son of any state has a deeper hold on the love and confidence of his people than has Towne on Minnesota, and that just as deep and abiding is that sentiment of devotion to duty and to our cause, that will sacrifice anything and all for that cause.

In connection with the Towne candidacy there has been no small attempt by the goppite press to make it appear that there is a change of position on the money question. The contrary is the fact, as shown by Mr. Towne. The money question is simply intensified. From discussing the simple free coinage question, we have the whole question, of which free and equal coinage was four years ago but a feature. Now is presented the whole question of the surrender of the money issuing prerogative to the banks, the whole control of the circulating medium to the few, the burdens of the special privileges conferred, placed on the many.

The coming week will probably be promulgated the programme for organization of the Lincoln Republican party, as has been briefly mentioned in these letters. In advance, suffice it to say first, that the plan originates in Minnesota, and next is approved in all sections of the country; that it will embrace not only silver Republicans, but all those who, regretting the turning of latter day Republicanism into Hannaism, will be glad of the opportunity to rally under the name so long revered, that of Lincoln. The final consummation will of course be at Kansas City a feature of next Fourth of July celebration. Meanwhile all Republicans desirous of participating in such a movement will please send names and addresses to this bureau.

Another of the brave, honest Lincoln Republicans to repudiate Hanna McKinleyism is Colonel George C. Ripley of Minneapolis, whose recent public address to that end was published by the St. Paul Globe in full, and which forcible and patriotic speech is worthy of the widest circulation. Colonel Ripley is of Revolutionary stock and is among those who earned this right to political independence by honorable service to his country in the Civil war.

Ominous indeed are the signs of disruption in the G. O. P. ranks. Many life long Republicans are daily declaring their purpose to vote for Hannaism no longer. Indeed there are more signs of dissolution of that party than were to be seen among the Whigs at the same distance before their final taking off.

Speaking of the same thing the other day, President David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford university, whose avowal for Bryan, whom he opposed in 1896, he has recently reaffirmed, said that Theodore Roosevelt confessed as much, and that the imperialist policy was what was ruining the party, as exemplified in Porto Rico tariff. Roosevelt expressed his anxiety thus: "Jordan, I wish to God we were out of the Philippines and had them off our hands."

And, speaking of the alleged determination of Hanna that Roosevelt shall consent to stand for vice president, President Jordan states that Roosevelt recently said to him of McKinley: "McKinley has about as much backbone about him as a toy chocolate man that you see on the confectioner's stands." Teddy will no doubt be very willing to run for vice president along with such a backbone.

With real estate still dead, building dull, jobbers' trade quiet, products lower, come reduced exports, or foreign trade, to go along with the gold standard. During March, as compared with March a year ago, exports of breadstuffs have decreased $3,000,000, cattle and hogs decreased $500,000, provisions decreased $1,000,000, cotton decreased $22,000,000 and mineral oils decreased $1,000,000. In the nine months last passed breadstuffs have decreased $29,700,000, and cattle and hogs $8,200,000. What labor and capital have jointly lost in strikes should be added to the score.

The Minnesota reform forces heard with regret the announcement that Judge Caldwell would not stand for the vice presidency. Judge Caldwell's determination was in Senator Jones' hands for some weeks. It is safe to say that no other man than Judge Caldwell is now so generally urged as our glorious Towne. Still Minnesota with all her love and devotion to this her great son, will remain disposed to leave the final determination to the assembled wisdom of the national conventions.

Labor has practically won all demands made in the Twin Cities, and all rejoice at union successes. It is clearer and clearer that labor will have little or nothing except what it obtains for itself, and how else to get it except by organization? It is not the builders and masters that labor has to fortify itself against, but the spirit that is abroad, which has grown immensely during the past dose of Hanna-McKinleyism, that labor has no more rights that should be respected than any other of the down-trodden classes and peoples. The same spirit which would crush liberty in the Philippines and in South Africa, would drive unionism from the earth. It has had open exemplification in Idaho. There under bayonet rule as vicious as that which ever awed the South, miners were required to renounce under oath membership in any union, and secure a permit to be employed. Men were sent to the bull pen for the mere crime of being union miners. More than this, General Merriam made to President McKinley the following recommendation: "I would suggest that a law be enacted by congress making such unions or kindred societies a crime; surely history furnishes an argument sufficiently in favor of such a course."

Twin City labor unions will shortly be supplied with all the terrible facts of the Idaho horrors and outrages as brought out in the congressional investigation, and therefore official. One of the facts shown is that the wicked proclamation of the governor was in fact the product of President McKinley—that the governor instead of issuing the proclamation, as he had testified, sent it in blank to the president, who changed it and sent it back, and it was thus issued as the president had censored it. Another is that of the petitions sent to Washington, praying for troops to be left at Wardner, purporting to be signed by some 8,000 names, were in fact bogus, and not more than one-third of the signatures were genuine, but were put on the petitions by the wholesale signing by others. Won't labor reckon with McKinley when the proper time comes?

All the machinery of the administration has been at command to smirch labor unions, in the Idaho investigation and in other labor troubles. They have been denounced as trusts, but has any one seen a hand lifted against the real trusts?

And this pro-English administration went to the subterfuge of having Hay's son cable that there are no proofs on file at Pretoria that Macrum's mail was censored. The world has the proofs in the fac-similes of opened letters. Poor Hay. It has given the whole administration the heaves.

Condemnation for Clark, but not a word against Quay. Such is goppite righteousness.

The wail goes out that the state Republican committee is badly in need of funds. What's the matter with Hanna?

Young America to the fore! Fifty messenger boys won a strike in an hour in St. Paul, and one of their representatives is on the briny bearing resolutions of sympathy from Philadelphia, New York and Brooklyn kids to Paul Kruger.

As fast as those who were so prejudiced against Mr. Bryan in 1896 come to know the man, and learn his real character, they are as pleased with him as they were formerly prejudiced. A specimen of this is Secretary Erving Winslow of the Boston anti-imperialists, who opposed Mr. Bryan before, and who now has the following to say of him: "I want to say that I consider Mr. Bryan one of the cleanest, sincerest, most alert and single-hearted public men that we have today."

There is every indication of a cleaning out of the St. Paul Republican administration. The fire is specially concentratrated on comptroller, whose mismanagement of the city's finances is monumental.

The Porto Rican iniquity is consummated and only one so-called Democrat voted for it. Vale, poor Sibley. There's not a man of your former admirers in the Northwest, to do you honor. Vale, to the valley of Oblivion.

Congressman Fletcher voted for the infamous rule by which it was possible to pass the Porto Rican bill, though voting against the bill. Everybody knows that Fletcher's party would have had his vote for the bill, if it had been needed.

"Pray God," said W. J. Bryan to 15,000 hearers at Los Angeles, "that England may not win over the Boer republics," and the throng cheered its mighty amen. It is the prayer of the American people, except its trust-cursed, pro-British administration.

Apropos, there is expectation that ex-Secretary Davis of the interior, who had the manhood to resign that he might speak for the Boer republics, will shortly speak in the Twin Cities. He will be accorded a magnificent welcome.

The frightened goppite papers have now got the figures of the enormous campaign fund of the reform forces up to five or more figures. Did you see anything of my ghost?

The state press contains many complimentary references to Judge Willis' patriotic action in withdrawing from the St. Paul municipal race, as he did in the interests of party harmony.

No Wonder They Fled.

An authority upon chemistry was lecturing before a well-known woman's club and illustrating his remarks with experiments. All went well until he paused a moment and then said: "I'm very sorry, but I must ask any of the ladies who use face powder containing bismuth to leave the room during this experiment, as the gases I am about to set free have a peculiar affinity for bismuth and turn it purple."

Whereupon the entire audience save three courageous sisters rose and fled from the room.—St. Paul Globe.

Not So Sure.

At a dinner in Rottingdean lately, a royal academician stated to the company the curious fact that sugar and sumac are the only two words in English where su is pronounced shu. There was much interest shown in the discovery, when Rudyard Kipling was heard from the other end of the table: "But, are you quite sure?"—Chicago Chronicle.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

What They Eat.

J. H. Bell, state analytical clerk, presents a schedule of the figures paid for various items of clothing and provisions by the eleven penal and charitable institutions of the state. The compilation of this information was provided for by the last legislature. The table completed by Mr. Bell covers the quarter ending Jan. 31, 1900. In the one item of coffee there is the highest range between the maximum and minimum price paid. St. Peter hospital purchased 5,481 pounds at 11 cents, while the Soldiers' Home paid 18 cents for a large quantity. Of course, coffee is one of the principal items of rations with old soldiers, and it is not surprising that a superior quality should be provided for them. The state training school, at Red Wing, pays a little over 9 cents a pound. The Rochester asylum, however secures its coffee for less money than any other institution, paying at the institution 8½ cents per pound. Butter of a very good quality is served at all the institutions, ranging in price from 14 to 25 cents per pound. The state, for instance, uses two grades of butter, creamery and dairy, taking bottom and top prices.

During three months the state prison used 3,101 pounds of butter, costing $520.03. The St. Peter hospital, however, holds the butter record for the same period at 8,782 pounds, costing the state $1,831.23.

In three months the insane at St. Peter drank 10,279 gallons of milk, while the young men at the St. Cloud reformatory consumed but 1,328 gallons. Milk costs the state an average of 10 cents per gallon.

Short Married Bliss.

One day of married life was enough for John E. Scott, according to the story told in the Ramsey county district court, to Judge Jaggard, by Mrs. Laura Scott, in her action for a divorce.

According to Mrs. Scott, who is 19 years old, she was married to John E. Scott, Nov. 18, 1899, by Rev. A. B. Meldrum, without the knowledge of her parents. Her maiden name was Laura Cronquist.

For 24 hours the couple were together, and then Mrs. Scott went to the home of her parents, and Scott promised to follow and explain matters. When he did appear a week later, she alleged he was intoxicated, and did not stay. Then, Mrs. Scott claimed, he relaxed into evil habits.

The court ordered findings for the plaintiff, and Mrs. Scott was given permission to resume her maiden name.

Climate and Crop Bulletin.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Minnesota section, reports that north of the vicinity of the Minnesota river the soil is generally in excellent condition in the prairie regions; in the timber regions, on clay lands and in low places, the soil is still rather damp. In the southern part of the state the snows of March 25 and 29 were much heavier than farther north, and in consequence the soil is wet, and in southeastern counties it is very wet. In the Red River valley and on favorable lands in central portions seeding began on the 2d, becoming general on the 5th and 6th. In south central counties seeding has had only a beginning, while in southeastern counties it has not begun. A few oats have been sown. The condition of winter wheat, winter rye and clover can yet hardly be determined.

After a Fire Bug.

A mass meeting was held at Monticello to discuss the supposed incendiary origin of the fire which destroyed the meat market of John Khort, when the family narrowly escaped death by leaping from the windows in the second story, the fire having cut off escape by way of the stairs. Mrs. Khort was severely injured. One of her legs was broken and she sustained other injuries. It was resolved to extend public aid in re-establishing Khort's business, he being a poor man, and also if possible to detect the fire bug.

Burned to Death.

Mrs. Ludlam, wife of Rev. R. L. Ludlam, a minister of Clinton Falls, was burned to death near Owatonna. Mr. Ludlam was working in a field about forty rods away when he saw his wife come out on the porch. A few seconds later she ran toward him, but after taking a few steps she tumbled and he then noticed her clothing was on fire. When he reached the scene his wife was unconscious, although her clothing still burned. Mrs. Ludlam never regained consciousness.

Forgot His English.

Last winter Edward Berg was shot in the head by a companion while hunting out near Nary, on the Duluth line. He was taken to the Brainerd hospital and the bullet and a small portion of the brain was removed. He has been discharged as cured and now finds, that although he could before the accident talk English fluently, he has entirely lost all knowledge of the language and must learn it all over again.

News in Brief.

The electric light station belonging to the Pipestone Electric Company burned. Origin of the fire is unknown. Loss on building and machinery, about $3,000; insurance, $2,000.

At the board of trade meeting, Mankato's quota of $500 for the survey of the north and south roads was pledged by business men.

The issuance of $200,000 in certificates of indebtedness to raise funds for the prosecution of work on the state capitol, was authorized by the commission recently.

The directors of the Rochester Woolen Manufacturing Company have effected their permanent organization. The officers are: President, John A. Cole; vice president, Job T. Collen; secretary, C. F. Massey; treasurer, W. H. Knapp; general manager, H. K. Terry.

The electrict light plant at Pipestone was partially destroyed by fire. It is insured for two-thirds its value.

Sergt. Franklin, of the Minneapolis recruiting office, has received a telegram from Washington instructing him to make a special effort to enlist men for service in the Philippines.

SENATORIAL COURTESY.

The Gentleman from the South Gave Way and the Senate Was Adjourned.

Senator Pettus, of Alabama, is the most owl-like member of the senate. He is so ponderously solemn that he is unconsciously humorous.

Mr. Pettus will be 80 years old next July. He belongs to the old school of southern statesmen now fast disappearing. It is easy to see, in the dogmatic manner in which he lays down the law to his senatorial colleagues, that he has been a judge. He speaks with great deliberation, at the rate of about six words a minute, and each word is emphasized by the waving of his chin whiskers. His gestures are confined to a wide sweep of his arm from his body and an inverse motion. Everything he does or says is serious. Even when he wants the senate to adjourn, he goes about it in a way that is the very quintessence of solemn dignity. For instance, the other afternoon, when Mr. Spooner was talking on the Quay case, Mr. Pettus arose.

"I should like to ask the senator to give way for a motion, if he pleases," remarked Mr. Pettus, uttering each word as if the fate of the nation depended upon the answer.

"I will agree to anything the senator wants me to," replied Mr. Spooner, smilingly, "except to vote against my convictions on a constitutional question."

"I am not asking you to do that," said Mr. Pettus, still mysterious, "but I want you to give way to a motion."

"Well, what is it?" asked Mr. Spooner.

"It is to adjourn," answered Mr. Pettus, in his melancholy voice and without a smile.

Every member of the senate laughed, and the motion to adjourn was carried.—Washington Post.

SHOCKING A LANDLORD.

The Guests Wanted Cheap Game Instead of High-Priced Store Meat.

We had been at a Rocky Mountain hotel for a week, and beefsteak and mutton chops had been on the bill of fare at every meal to the exclusion of all other meats. It was finally decided to send the colonel to the landlord to protest, and having gained the ear of mine host, he said:

"I want to speak to you in a good-natured way about your meats."

"My meats?" echoed the landlord. "Why, is there anything wrong about my meats? I'm getting the very best."

"It's beefsteak and mutton, you know."

"Yes, I know, and they cost me a heap of money to get 'em here, yes, sir, almost worth their weight in silver, but I must have the best. What is it you complain of?"

"We don't complain. What I wanted to ask you was about game. There must be game around here."

"Of course. Do you mean to say that your crowd wants venison, bear meat, antelope, prairie chicken, turkey and so on?"

"Exactly. Yes, that's what we want."

"In place of beef and mutton?"

"Yes."

"Well, I'll be hanged. Here, Jim, tell the boys to go out after a cartload of game and to keep it up for three or four days! Here's a crowd kicking about steaks at 35 cents per pound and chops at 30 and ready to fill up on game at two dollars a ton! Well, you eastern folks beat the band in your queer tastes about eating! Next thing you'll be telling me you prefer wild goose to a Chicago sugar cured ham!"—Boston Globe.

Wagner in Dispute.

"Do you admire Wagner?" she inquired at the musicale, looking up at him soulfully, for, although they had met but ten minutes before, there already seemed to be a bond between them.

"Not much, after the bum article of baseball he's been making us stand for here in Washington all these years," was the emphatic reply, and then she was forced to the conclusion that he, too, was lacking in appreciation of the higher and nobler.—Washington Post.

The Secrets of Planets Revealed.

The immense telescope which is now in process of construction is expected to bring the moon within a mile's eyesight of this world, and to reveal the secrets of all planets. It may cause as great a change in the world's thought as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does in the physical condition of sufferers from dyspepsia, constipation, liver or kidney troubles. The Bitters strengthen the entire system, and also prevents malaria, fever and ague. Try it.

A HINT FOR SPRING.

When Housekeepers Are Brightening the Interiors of Their Homes.

Now that the backbone of this remarkable winter is broken, housekeepers are remarking the dingy look of the home interior. The question of new wall coverings is up. Paper is dear and short lived; kalsomines are dirty and scaly; paint is costly. The use of such a cement as Alabastine, for instance, will solve the problem. This admirable wall coating is clean, pure and wholesome. It can be put on with no trouble by anyone; there is choice of many beautiful tints; and it is long lasting.

FAIR WOMEN SPEAK.

MRS. COLONEL HAMILTON.

That Pe-ru-na has become a household remedy in the home of Mrs. Colonel Hamilton is well attested by a letter from her, which says: "I can give my testimony as to the merits of your remedy, Pe-ru-na. I have been taking the same for some time, and am enjoying better health now than I have for some years. I attribute the change to Pe-ru-na, and recommend Pe-ru-na to every woman, believing it to be especially beneficial to them." Mrs. Hamilton's residence is 259 Goodale street, Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Margaretha Dauben, No. 1214 North Superior street, Racine City, Wis., says: "I feel so well and good and healthful now that pen cannot describe it. Pe-ru-na is everything to me. I feel healthy and well, but if I should be sick I would know what to take. I have taken several bottles for female complaint. I am in the change of life and it does me good."

Have you catarrh of the head, throat, lungs, stomach or any other organ of the body? If so, write to Dr. Hartman at once. He will send you directions for treatment without charge. Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O.

MISS ANNIE WYANDOTTE.

Miss Annie Wyandotte, queen of the operatic stage and dramatic soprano, says:

"Fifteenth St. and Jackson Ave.
Kansas City, Mo.

"Dr. Hartman:

"Dear Sir—Pe-ru-na has been my salvation. It has given me back a beautiful voice, a gift of God; it has brought me once more to my old profession. I can talk now, and sing, where before, I could scarcely whisper. Can you wonder at my delight? I wish every person who is suffering as I suffered might know Pe-ru-na. Only those who have been afflicted can ever know the intense satisfaction and gratitude that comes with a complete cure. My voice was completely gone. April 15 I felt so elated over the restoration of my voice that I inserted an advertisement in The Star for vocal pupils. The advertisement, which cost me 65 cents, brought me five pupils, and that was the beginning of my present large class. Yours gratefully,

"Annie Wyandotte."

A congestion, inflammation or ulceration of the mucous membrane, whether of the head, stomach, kidneys, or other organ, is known to the medical profession as catarrh. It is known by different names, such as dyspepsia, Bright's disease, female complaint, diarrhoea, bronchitis, consumption and a host of other names. Wherever there is a congested mucous membrane there is catarrh, acute or chronic.

MISS CLARA STOECKER.

Miss Clara Stoecker says: "I had chronic catarrh for over a year. I tried many remedies, but found no relief until I saw an advertisement in the paper of your treatment for chronic catarrh. I tried it and I think I am now well. I recommend Pe-ru-na to all my friends who are afflicted with catarrh." Miss Stoecker lives at Pittsburg, Pa.

Mrs. Margareth Fritz, Wilcox, Okla., writes: "I extend my sincere thanks for the good advice you have given me. I do not believe I would be living now if it were not for you. I had suffered with flow of blood for four months, and the doctors could help me but little. They operated on me three times. It was very painful and I only obtained little relief. I was so weak I could not turn in bed. Then I applied to Dr. Hartman. I did not know whether he could help me or not, but I followed his advice, and used only three bottles of Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin. Now I am as well and as strong as I ever was, thanks to your remedies." Pelvic catarrh has become so frequent that most women are more or less afflicted with it. It is usually called female disease.

BELIEVES IN HORSE SENSE.

Veterinarian Converted by a Sick Steed That Sought a Doctor.

"Experience has convinced me that there is such a thing as horse sense," said a veterinary surgeon who has a shop on the South side. "A friend of mine had a beautiful chestnut driving mare that was subject to severe spells of colic. About a year ago she got very sick and Jones, the owner, brought her over here for treatment. I cared for her, and she seemed as grateful as a human being might, rubbing her nose against my coat sleeve, and showing her affection in her dumb way.

"One day about six months ago up she came to the door of the shop, moaning and evidently suffering acutely. I treated her again and she got better. I found out afterward that there was no one at her home stable that day and that she had worked the halter off and had set out to find the doctor."

"Curious circumstance," said the man who had heard the story.

"But that's not all of it," said the doctor. "Three days ago I came down to my office in the morning about nine o'clock. There lay the chestnut mare in front of the door—dead. She had been taken sick, had made her way as before to the shop in the night, and found nobody there to give her medicines, and she had died. Now, if this story isn't proof that a horse can reason I would like to hear something to beat it."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Certainly a Prize Thought.

A teacher of music in one of the public schools of the south desired to impress the pupils with the meaning of the signs "f" and "ff" in a song they were about to sing. After explaining that "f" meant forte, he said: "Now, children, if 'f' means forte, what does 'ff' mean?"

Silence reigned for a moment, and then he was astonished to hear a bright little fellow shout:

"Eighty!"—New Lippincott.

DELANO, FRIDAY, April 20, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—A dance will be given at the City Hall tonight for the benefit of R. M. Bohn. 30-1

—Buy a ticket to the Bohn dance Friday evening and assist the Prof. and his family. 30-1

—Dr. J. V. O'Connor, of Waverly, is to be on hand to help furnish music for the Bohn bennefit to-night.

—J. B. Plattner's store window is very tastily arranged showing the skill of his accommodating clerks.

—The artistic butcher (Schaust) tried the old way of painting, on the floor of the butcher shop last Monday.

—R. M. Bohn has had a tough time with Rheumatism all winter. A dance will be given tonight for his benefit. 30-1

—The rain of Monday and Tuesday was just what most farmers wanted. Crops are sown and ready for April, showers and sunshine.

—An Easter party was held Sunday afternoon by several little folks with Margurite and Louise Wittman, at their Third Street home.

—The following is contributed by F. W. who did very well for a beginner:

—Devils doings.

—Several sidewalks need repairing. Ugly and dangerous holes should be replaced by new plank; and an imminent damage suit to the village avoided.

—Chas. Belt and N. K. Coffin are fixing up the old Mulford building on Second street and R. R. Ave. Mrs. Sim's new Resturant will put on metropolitan airs.

—A surprise party was given by members of the High School and others Saturday evening to Roscoe Sturman on the anniversary of his birth. A good time was had.

—The remains of the old Valentine Eppel building, corner of River Street and R. R. ave. are being removed. This would make a good business corner for some enterprising firm.

—Rev. Taylor, of Litchfeld, held Episcopal services in Delano, Tuesday evening. The ladies of the church gave a five o'clock tea, Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Woffenden.

—Street Commissioner Welker has recovered from his Quinsy and on Monday had a crew of men putting our streets in the nicest condition they have ever been in: On acconnt of rain work was suspended at noon.

—We felt considerably flattered last Friday, on receipt of a request from "The City of Chicago" to be present at the celebration of the second anniversary of the battle of Manila Monday, April 30 and Tuesday, May 1, 1900.

—The remains of Mrs. Buckman of Great Falls, Mont. who died last week were brough here Saturday night and taken to Hanover, where her mother Mrs. Louis Haffer lives, and thence to St. Michaels for burial. Many relatives and friends from Delano attended the funeral.

—Rev. Fielder, of Minneapolis, spent Sunday in Delano. He preached morning and evening. And addressed the Sunday school, at noon; and the Easter meeting at 3 p. m.; and the Epworth League before church in the evening. He is an earnest and effective worker.

—The Eagle gives the revivals recently held in the M. E. church a lengthy write up this week. Wonder where she got her information? She is also after the Editor of the Prison Mirror. Nothing seems to agree with her about now. She must be "moulting" again or wanting to "set."

—Joe Wyndock, Ic Murphy, Al Hitsman and other live pork buyers and sellers, have been doing considerable business in Delano this week. If a slaughtering and packing house was established near town it would be a source of employment for several men, and would, doubtless, bring in considerable profit to the owners.

—Rev. A. R. Lambert whose preaching and work last week resulted in doing much good here, returned home to Minneapolis, Saturday morning. The Ellis Sisters whose singing and other assistance in the revival services at the M. E. church was so highly appreciated, left Monday morning for Montrose to spend a week.

—An unusual interest in religious matters seem to be abroad in the land Revivals are being held in many places People have learned that something is the matter when so much deceit, and wickedness of all kinds are so plainly seen in high and in low places. They have evidently concided to try the Scriptural road to prosperity. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

—Health Officer Catlin is thankful to the Health authorities of Penn. for "Public Health" March. It contains a paper on "The Present Mild Type of Small Pox: The Symptoms and Diagnosis" by William M. Welch, M. D., with the discussion by several eminent doctors, before the Philadelphia county Medical Society, Oct 25, 1899. It is illustrated, and is an authority on the subject, and should be in the hands of every M. D. in Minnesota as well as other States, where Small pox is at work.

County Cullings.

The Eagle under the head of political notes prefers "grrating". She says: "It is instantaneous and not half as repulsive looking as either hanging or electrecution". We believe her editor's legislative lightning rod failed to connect about Cokato. Not enough "Sweede Steele" possibly.

The Eagle, true to custom, is again flinging out insinuating articles concerning Bill Quinn and the GAZETTE. These hints are misleading and tend to, or would if any body believed them tend to create a wrong impression. If the Eagle knows of anything wrong between Bill Quinn and the GAZETTE we demand now, that in her next issue, she state it plainly; or forever hold her peace.

"Senator Nelson and Senator Davis may know a good deal and their opposition to the Republican majority is very loudly applauded by the Democrats; but they don't know it all and it would be a good deal better for the state convention to endorse the Porto Rico legislation than to turn the state over to the Democracy for the sake of Senator Knute Nelson who proved his loyalty to the Republican party by voting for free trade under the Cleveland administration and who isn't very particular how he gets to the Senate so long as he gets there!"—Eagle.

How are the dear people to know that the Eagle knows it all?

"The Eagle, like a good many others, has had time to study the Puerto Rican question sufficiently to come to the conclusion that the island has not been illused and that the interest of our new possessions have been conserved by the action of congress"—Eagle, —April 20, 1900.

"Free trade between Porto Rico and the United States is just as resonably as it is between Jersy City and New York.—Eagle, March 1, 1900.

It didn't take the stupid Old Bird long did it? Or was she in favor of a tariff between Jersy City and New York, all along?

MY DAUGHTER'S HAND.

You ask to-night my daughter's hand,
As much to guess a boy
You know the weight of your demand
On a mother's heart, my boy.

You say you love her wildly well,
Will it last, till the end of time;
Or will the sound of the wedding bell
Resound its dying chime?

The heart you crave is a wholy thing
So tender, trusting, true,
Can you to her devotion bring
As warm as her's to you?

Will you love her through the changing years.
As tenderly as now;
When ill shall pale, and sorrow's tears
Becloud that sunny brow?

When age shall bowe that youthful form
And bleach that jetty hair
Will you protect her from each storm
And shelter her from care.

When time shall dim those sparkling eyes
And winter furrows show;
Will your love be the last to die?
If not, I answer, No.

A woman when a loving wife
On time's terrestial shores,
Devotes the rest of this short life
To one whom she adores.

She has no existance of her own,
Apart from him she loves,
She lives henceforth, for him alone,
And in his orbit moves.

She molds her wishes to his will,
Her ways to his desires;
He leads her by love's willing web
Through life's refining fires.

She walks with him through thorny fields.
And o'er life's rugged road:
He is her idol, and ideal;
Her guid and household God.

So if you will live and burn
Through all the changing years,
If you will give her in return
The love her life endears,

If you will love and cherish her
And shield her from distress
Will always live adoring her
Why then, I answer, Yes.

MAPLE PLAIN.

The late rain was a thing very much needed, to start the sown grain; also, the grass, and cause old earth to put on her mantle of green; and, as if by magic spring into new life and animation.

The political pot in old Hennepin will begin to boil pretty soon. Some of the cross road politicians have already hung out their signs declaring themselves standing candidates for anything that comes in their way. Under the new law which effects only Hennepin and Ramsey counties of this state, by paying ten dollars to the County Auditor, you can run for office and no questions will be asked.

Ed Egan, our present County Commissioner from the Rural Dist., says he will under no circumstances be a candidate for that office this fall. We understand J. R. Cunningham, of Greenwood will be a candidate on the republican ticket. This part of the county is entitled to a commissioner, and should have it for once. We understand that our worthy P. M. of Maple Plain R. M. Mills has been spoken to as being a possible candidate, but he positively declines.

D. A. Lydiard, of Long Lake, will be up for Legislature again this fall on the Republican ticket. Mr. Lydard is an old timer and has twice before reprerented us in the Legislature. Is a man of some experience and a good deal of ability. Only a short time ago the Commissioners of Hennepin county went into retrenchment and reformed. Some of the court house officers (or helps) were cashiered, and others had their salaries cut down. Just how much whitewash there is about this we have not been able to find out, as yet. It may be an edict for the good of the cause. We expect to have a general election this fall,

Now Mr. Editor we cannot begin to tell how many candidates there are up for office in Hennepin county, for it would take more patience, than to explain the seven wonders of the world. Minneapolis is the seat of government for Hennepin county, and usually wants all of the offices, from dog pelter up to the chief executive of the state. But two years ago, the people in their better judgment, gave the Government ship to one John Lind, of New Ulm instead of giving it to that defunct ex-Mayor of Minneapolis. We have always been in love with the great and beautiful city of Minneapolis from the earliest history to the present time which has continued without intermission for more than 40 years. It is a place where politics dieth not and where the politicians mouth is shut neither by day or by night. Your correspondent has serious intentions (which have been revealed to him in dreams) of running for dog catcher of Porto Rico, at a salary not to exceed that of the President of the United States. Or it might be a fat job to be Custom house officer somewhere between the States and Porto Rico.

For further information in regard to politics. You are requested to call on the cross road politician at the single gold standard building, First floor, Room 1900.

The committee on ways and means of our town are seriously considering the road and bridge question, and it is without doubt a very important question

John Williams, of Rockford, is now visiting old time friends in our town. Mr. Williams was one of the first settlers of our town, coming here 45 years ago. He will soon be 83 years old.

The Old Lady Batdorf is reported as being quite poorly.

Chas. Budd has put up a new house in West Maple Plain. The Old Lady Pagenkoff is also building a new house on Haney's addition to West Maple Plain.

The people in over town who attempted to make sugar or syrup this spring, will have to call on Congress for a protective duty, for they will not get enough out of it to pay the freight.

DIED.

CHRISTLIEB:—On April 15, at Los Angeles, Cal., Hon. B. F. Christlieb, age 63.

On Monday April 16, 1900, Mr. Benj. Drake received a telegram from Los Angeles, Cal., informing him of the death of B. F. Christlieb, who died at that place on April 15, in his sixty third year. The deceased was born in Pennsylvania, Married in 1872 at Long Lake, his wife died in 1874. He resided for several years at Long Lake, Hennepin County, has been a Representative of that District, a correspondent of this paper, well known and liked in this vicinity, and therefore his death will be mourned by many.

Among our Exchanges.

St. Peter Herald: It is a fact That the spirit of, 76 is dead. Then men fought against taxation without representation. Now our statesmen ask for taxation of colonies without representation. Washington, Adams, Lee and other patriarchs of ancient days had queer ideas. They looked at things a good deal as Porto Ricians do now. Time works great changes

County Line: F. L. Randal, the new superintendent of the St. Cloud reformatory, granted THE LINE an interview Monday. He has been in the harness but a few days, nevertheless his conversation showed that he is rapidly getting an insight into the work. We have no hesitation in predicting that time will prove him to be the right man in the right place.

Aitkin Republican: Admiral Dewey says he is a candidate for president, and General Miles, the head of the army, also, is willing to assume the burdens of the chief executive of the nation. The time has gone by, however, when these announcements would have any effect upon the political situation. It is almost certain that McKinley and Bryan will again face each other in the presidential contest.

Waseca Herald: The imperialists in congress have nearly agreed upon a territorial form of government for the Hawaiian islands. It is a curious document to issue from Americans. It disfranchises more that three fourths of all the men in the islands, leaving more than 49,000 people (coolies) in virtual slavery. The franchise is granted to citizens of the United States who are able to speak, read and write the English language. Citizenship for the present is limited to those who were citizens of the republic at the time of annexation, so that the franchise at first will be exercised by an extremely small number of people, and most of the natives and all coolies will not be able to vote.

Broad Axe: They are afraid of W. J. Bryan who knows what he wants, says what he wants and has sincerity and courage enough to do it the extent of the power that in him lies.

Bro. Lamson might have observed with equal truth that the postoffice editors and "sech" are "a unit in favoring the renomination of Congressman Morris."—Atkin Age.

Saint Cloud Times: Admiral Dewey has been criticised because he said that the office of president is not a difficult one to fill. Yet it must be remembered that his opinion is passed upon knowledge secured since he come home from Manila.

The Press Bulletin: The markets of the United States should be opened up to her products. Our plain duty is to abolish all customs tariffs between the United States and Puerto Rico and give her products access to our markets.—President McKinley's mesage, Dec, 4, 1899.

What's the Matter With Charley?

Hon. Charles A. Towne is a candidate for nomination for the vice-presidency at the democratic national convention to be held on July 4 at Kansas City. Well, why not? He is capable.—Duluth News Tribune, (Rep.)

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 13, 1900.

Sentaor Jones, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who has just returned from New York, ridicules the story that the anti-Bryan democrats, who are behind Dewey's candidacy, would get a Dewey delegation sent from New York to the Kansas City convention. He says that Dewey's candidacy will cut no figure at all in connection with the democratic nomination for President; that Col. Bryan will be nominated by acclamation. And his opinion is shared by practically all the democrats in both branches of Congress. It is said, although your correspondent does not vouch for it, that Dewey's backers have a lot of money to use in buying the support of country democratic papers, in order to try to make it appear that there is a strong democratic sentiment in favor of his nomination. There is one draw-back to this scheme that will kill it. The country democratic editors, although mostly poor men, are not for sale. In fact, the country editors of this country have a record for incorruptibility that any class of men might well be proud of. They are constantly imposed upon, and give more for nothing than any set of men on earth; but they very rarely sell themselves.

Secretary Gage having shown by the figures sent to the House, in answer to a resolution, that the war taxes can be reduced at least $80,000,000 a year without embarrassing the government, the democratic leaders intend to try to make the republicans tell why they will not agree to make the reduction at this session.

The democrats of the House made a good fight against the Porto Rico bill but as they could not prevent republicans swallowing their publicly announced convictions they lacked a few votes and could not defeat it. The abomination has been signed by Mr McKinley and the responsibility of the republican party for it is now complete.

The action of the Senate Committee on Elections in deciding by a unanimous vote that Senator Clark, of Montana, was not entitled to the seat he holds, is considered more of a condemnation of Montana political methods than of Mr. Clarks colleagues when he said: "I have more respect for Mr. Clark than I have for those who have been hounding him. I do not think the use of $100,000 or more in electing Mr. Clark was warranted, but at the same time I have no doupt that Mr. Daly will spend at least $125,000 in prosecuting the case. I want to say, also, that I do not believe Mr. Clark was personally cognizant of the manner in which the money was used. "Mr. Clark says he intends to get vindicated, but that is all he will say at this time. There is little or no doubt that the Senate will endorse the report of the committee, if Mr. Clark's resignation does not make a vote unnecessary. Had the report been to expel Mr. Clark a two-third vote would have been required to adopt it, but as it simply deelares him not entitled to a seat a majority vote will adopt it. There is a possibility that Mr. Clark may forestall action by resigning and seeking a reelection.

Representative Catchings, of Miss., is one of the democrats who think that the ticket may be Bryan and Dewey. Speaking of that probability he said: "I feel sure that Dewey would take the Vice Presidential nomination and think that is what he is working for. He certainly must appreciate the fact that he cannot get the nomination for President from Bryan, whose selection is absolutely assured. At present no one is named for second place who would command as many votes as Deway, and, in fact, no one is suggested whose name is universally accepted. Bryan and Dewey can defeat Mr. McKinley without any question."

Representative Talbert of S. C., has a habit of saying pertinent things which are sometimes irreverent. For instance, when Representative Steele, of Ind., who had boasted of being a farmer, said in answer to a question by Representative Richardson, of Tenn., that he raised "corn and wheat, cattle and hogs," Mr. Talbert threw the House into laughter by adding: "The gentlemen will also raise hell in Indiana."

Senator-elect Blackburn sizes up the political outlook thusly: "In my Congressional experiance of 25 years I have never known a Congress in the control of either party that made as many political blunders. If we can't wipe out the republicans in November on the mistakes made thus far by the Fifty sixth Congress we ought to go out of business. They have made us the issues of imperialism, militarism and trusts exactly to our liking. Indeed, if they had deliberately started in to make a good job of it for us they could not have done better. Having these facts in mind I feel certain that the republican managers will hasten the close of the session, and welcome the day when they can breath easy again so far as Congress is concerned. For this reason I do not believe any effort will be made to force the ship subsidy bill through. The republicans are not looking for more trouble, unless they have gone crazy; and I don't believe they have."

THE RIDE TO SCHOOL.

When the snow is coming down,
And the fences, bare and brown,
Capping white,
And there's not a breeze to stir
Flakes that held to branch and burr
Through the night;
Then there comes a happy feeling in the memory of the day
When I rode to school with father in the old pung sleigh.

There was snow the same as now,
Topping every branch and bough
Through the wood;
And the spruces seemed to be
Each a giant Christmas tree
Where it stood,
Bent and hung with toy and doll, till I wished that I could stay,
And would turn about and watch them from the old pung sleigh.

Then the shapes along the walls—
Queer old women holding shawls
In their laps;
And the tents without a door,
And the balsam stumps that wore
Pointed caps;
And the tracks across the snow, where a squirrel frisked away
When he heard the squeak and rattle of the old pung sleigh.

There were thimbles you could see
On the big thorn apple tree
Near the bars;
And the flakes that fell about,
As I held my mittens out,
Looked like stars;
And beside the road a hemlock reached its arms across the way,
And would sift a shower on us in the old pung sleigh.

And the lash on father's whip,
How it used to trail and dip
In the snow.
I can hear the chickadees
Singing in the maple trees,
And I know
From the pleasures of the present I would gladly turn away
Just to ride to school with father in the old pung sleigh.
—Florence Josephine Boyce, in Youth's Companion.

THE Editor of the Minneota Mascot, S. Th. Westdal, has gone and got married and accepted a position in the government printing office, at Washington, whither he has moved, and turned over the Mascot to G. B. Bjornson editor. Success to all parties in their new relations.

JUDGE CANTY is mentioned among the possibilities for Governor. He is a good man. He is all right on some questions. But not a Bryan man. If he has but one objection to Bryan,—bimetallism,—of course he must expect bimetallists to support a bimetallist candidate for Governor. Its natural.

ONE of the warmest political campaigns the world ever saw is hastening on. Bryan and McKinley are the chosen candidates representing on the one hand the people, freedom, a republic; on the other plutocracy, trusts, Militaryism, and Imperialism. Now is the time for voters to be on the watch. To be at the primaries and see to it that only reliable, consciencious men are sent as delegates to the county conventions and to the state convention. Then may we expect a solid delegation from Minnesota for Bryan at the Kansas City convention, on July 4.

THE U. S. Senate in ousting Mr. Clark, of Montana, and Mr. Quay, of Pennsylvania, seem to have struck the responsive chord in the breasts of American and liberty loving people. Although by a majority of one it servs the purpose, and doubtless a few politicians have succeeded in keeping in the good graces of Mr. Q. by voting for his being seated, well knowing that he would not be; and by his being turned out of the Senate their votes for him will not be held up very hard as anything against them by their constituents. Anyway give the Senate, as a whole, credit for voting Quay out by 1 majority.

AT the rate of 1000 Filipinos killed a week to kill 10,000,000 it will take the United States something over 192 years. While the United States, at the rate of 20 men a week would loose 60,000 men in a little over 57 years. It does look as if Judge Canty was correct when he said the "Filipinos are going to do us. It will require 15 years and a lot of men to subjugate then".

Leading y. s. Driving.

It makes the Tribune editor wince to have the populists of the county made acquainted with the fact that the Tribune has deliberately led them into the democratic camp. Bro. Lawson hasn't anything to say when that subject is brought up.—Willmar Argus.

The actions of the g. o. p. leaders in Congress as backed up by many of the newspapers throughout the country, has some effect towards driving men into the democratic ranks. Better lead men than drive them? Bro. Wharton.

IT is really too bad that a few good men among the democrats must pull off from the party at this time and advocate the candidacy of Gorman, or Dewey or somebody to beat Bryan. Bryanites are the true democrats of today, and Bryan is a typical Bryanite. How then can these kickers over the traces, these opposition democrats have the face to receive a nomination at the hands of Bryanites. And yet some of them are being mentioned as candidates for state offices. Don't mix up so incompatible a mess for Democrats to vote for, or to stay at home and allow defeated. Give us good men for all positions. Men in harmony with the reform movement, with W. J. Bryan.

REPORTS this week from the Philippines are more horrowing than ever. 1000 Filipines it is claimed. were killed in a week. People who have been there say it was not in open battle, but murder, cruel, deliberate shooting of humans, like so many wild animals; or rabbits in Australia. And in nearly every "engagement" comes the report of one two or more boys from the United States, shot, drowned, beheaded killed in self defence as it would appear by some foeman cornered and made desperate, and who resolved to sell his life as dearly as possible. Such warfare is not to the liking of a christian nation; of this glorious United States whose freedom our forefathers obtained and bequeathed to us. This kind of treatment of human beings, in this enlightened age, is ridiculous, and has been declared a burning shame while Spain was doing it. And liberty lovers the world over must look upon it as still more beneath the dignity of the United States.

Free Paper and Free Pulp.

From the St. Paul Pioneer Press of April 16, 1900, we clip the following excellent article in favor of free trade in wood pulp and printing paper:

The following bill has been introduced in the house by Hon. Joel P. Heatwole of this state. Mr. Heatwole is chairman of the committee on printing of the house and is also the publisher of a country newspaper, and in both capacities represents interests largely concerned in the free admission of paper and its raw material, pulp. The government consumes a large amount of paper, and the country papers consume in the aggregate an immense quantity. The bill for putting these articles on the free list thus appropriately emanates from the committee of which Mr. Heatwole is chairman and from the newspaper interest which he represents. The movement to put print and book paper and pulp on the free list is one of self-defense against the paper trust, which has been organized to establish and has largely succeeded in establishing a monopoly of the production of paper in this country and of the spruce forests which furnish the pulp out of which it is made.

Since the trust was formed it has exacted from publishers an advance in the price of paper which is simply ruinous to the newspapers of the country. And the monopoly is so substantially complete that there is no escape from its clutches except by the abolition of the duty and the free admission of Canadian pulp and paper. As the government derives no revenue from duties on print paper or pulp, and but little on book paper, and as the industry no longer needs protection, there is no earthly justification for for retaining a duty wich serves no other purpose than that of a shield for the exorbitant prices extorted from publishers by the trust. It is especially obnoxious because it operates as a tax on knowledge, which it is the policy of the government, in accordance with the general demand of the American people, to render as free as possible by removing all barriers to its universal acquisition. Mr. Heatwole's bill should receive such general support by the representative of the people in congress as would promptly secure its passage through that body. It would no doubt speedily command that support it backed up by the united demand of the publishers of the country. The bill is subjoined:

A bill to amend an act to provide revenue for the government and to encourage the industries of the United States, approved July 24, 1897.

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, That clause 393 and clause 396, schedule M. pulps, papers and books, of "An act to provide revenue for the government and to encourage the industries of the United States." approved July 24, 1897, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. That clause 632 of the free list schedule of said act is amended by adding thereto the following, to wit:

"Mechanically ground wood pulp; chemical wood pulp, bleached and unbleached; printing paper, unsized, sized or glued, suitable for books and newspapers."

This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of July, 1900.

The Pioneer Press when it feels the iron hand of monopoly, and combination and trusts in its own business can wiggle, and squirm, and write as good a free trade article as anybody. It is all right. If the P. P. feels that way. It has the privilege of saying so. At least just once; until some monopoly monopolizes it. The trusts and combines on paper should have the pins taken from under them by removing the tariff. People should be allowed their newspapers, books and other paper as cheap as it can be made, profitably, anywhere in the world, and brought to them. They should also have their pine lumber, their nails, salt, coal, and woollen and cotton clothing and their sugar, and shoes and whatever else they need at the least figures that it will pay those having the most advantages in producing, wherever they live; while our people turn their attention to what they can best make a living at without the fear of being busted up in business by a change of tariff at every session of Congress. P.P. get a little more liberal and take them all in in your free trade plea. It is right.

Minneapolis Tribune: The lake season and a frisky gasoline stove opened up simultaneously out at Minnetonka the other day, and the exodus from town is now due to begin.

Duluth Herald: The Martin County Sentinel says: "With Towne on the ticket with Bryan, all of Mark Hanna's millions cannot move Minneasota to vote for McKinley."

New York World: Mr. McKinley's Porto Rican perfidy was well described by Charles James Fox in his famous defense of the American Revolution in Parliament: "Taking money out of a people's pocket without their consent."

Sherburne County Times: A resolution has just passed the House by a very heavy majority (240 to 15) which provides that the senators shall be elected by a direct vote. It ought to become a law, but we haven't any idea that it will at present.

Broad Axe: If we mistake not the same influences whose agents suddenly and unexpectedly leaped back into the saddles they vacated in 1896 in the democratic politics of St. Paul and are now runing local politics till shout and spend money to nominate Dewey at Kansas City.

Litchfield Independent: The Republican Chisago County Courier truthfully remarks that "whatever may come the Republican campaign speakers will not lack for theme this fall. They can put in their entire time making explanations on the Porto Rican tariff bill." Yes, and then not be able to convince one man out of fifty.

BRYAN TO DEMOCRATS.

(National Watchman.)

Secretary McKean, of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, has received a letter from William J. Bryan response to an invitation sent him to attend the proposed dinner to be given under the auspices of the association in celebrating the anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson. Mr. Bryan's letter was written before he was advised that the event had been declared off. The letter is as follows:

LOS ANGELES, CAL., April 9, 1900,
Mr. W. S. McKean, Secretary National Association Democratic Clubs, Washington, D. C.:

MY DEAR SIR: I regret exceedingly that engagements, made before your invitation was received, will prevent my attending the Jefferson dinner.

It is esrecially fitting that in this pentennial year of the party's first victory we should commemorate the birthday of the party's founder and patron saint. In 1800 the genius of Jefferson organized the Democratic party and led a successful fight against the aristocratic ideals of Hamilton. To-day, when Democracy is engaged in a life and death struggle with plutocracy, we can find inspiration in the teachings of the sage of Monticello. The doctrine of equal rights to all and special priviliges to none applied to present problems would restore an equitable financial system, deprive national banks of the power to issue paper money, destroy private monopolies, remove the menace of militarism and imperialism, save the nation from entangling alliances, and make it an example to other nations, and its flag an emblem of peace, justice, liberty, and progress.

I hope that the National Association of Democratic Clubs will urge each local organization to celebrate the coming Fourth of July. Those who assemble throughout the country can listen to the reading of the Declaration of American Independence, hear patriotic speeches, and then learn by wire that the National Convention of the Democratic party, meeting on that day, has reasserted the party's faith in the principles set forth in the Declaration and embodied in the Constitution of the United States.

Yours truly, W. J. BRYAN.

Leading Questions.

Should our money standard be governed by the accidents of silver mining? Should it be governed by the accidents of the gold mining?

What are the facts concerning the misery in the world's history caused by periodical scaricity of money metals? What causative relation had this to the dark ages? What effect of the sudden discovery and inflow of gold or silver always had on civilization?

Are these fluctuations—these altering periods of darkness and dawn—dependent on the accidents of mining, desirable? Would not a steady reliable and progressive developement of the forces of civilization in normal speed and relation be much more desirable than these sudden spurts, followed by stagnation and gloom?

How can we get this constant normal condition, with neither stimulation nor stagnation?

Do you wish a brief, clear statement of the fundamental principles of monetary science, as agreed upon by all the great economists?

Do you want a strong presentation of the vital fact at the base of the money question?

Do you want to know how we can secure a just, impartial, steady dollar that will regulate the ebb and flow of industry and make panics impossible?

Would you like to have at hand for ready reference the price tables and index numbers for England, Germany, France and the United States, showing the fluctuations in prices for the last century?

Would you like to have a set of charts showing at a glance just how violent these fluctuations have been in both gold-standard and silver standard countries?

Would you like to have at hand a concise history of the issuing of paper money in this country by the colonial states and the general government?

Would you like to have a brief history of the issuance of paper money in other countries including the French assignats, and the history of the famous Bank of Venice?

Would you like to have the best expressions on the money problem of the worlds greatest authorities, including President Andrews, Prof. Marshall, Prof Jevons, Recardo, Peter Cooper, United States Supreme Court, Bryan, Wendell Phillops, Franklin, Jefferson, Lincoln, etc?

Would you like to have at hand data which will aid you greatly in getting up a speech or a newspaper article on any one of the leading phases of the money question?

All these questions are answered, the "better way" is clearly pointed out, and the new and inevetable science of money portraved in a very simple and interesting manner, in the book called "Rational Money", prepared by one who is a recognized authority upon the subject. Price only $ 25.

TURKISH MINISTER PROTESTS

Objects to Articles in Sensational Newspapers Purporting to Give Information About His Wife.

One of the attaches of the Turkish legation at Washington, in explaining the position of the minister, Ali Ferrouh Bey, regarding the newspaper comment on his domestic affairs, said:

"The minister understands newspaper methods and does not at all resent ordinary description or comment. It must be remembered, however, that in Turkey it is a matter of religion and law to secure absolute privacy for the women. Therefore, when unscrupulous reporters, both male and female, represent themselves as having visited the wife of the minister, describe her face and garments, and pretend to give conversations with her or with the minister in her behalf, there is natural objection. Some of the newspaper articles printed in this country, if they were true, would disgrace the minister's wife in Turkey.

"The minister has been made the victim of a few sensational and untruthful correspondents, who have distorted casual conversations and have placed the wife of the minister in a light which has caused her great pain. She is entitled to the chivalrous respect of the American people, and the privacy which her religion and national custom enjoin should be guarded both from intruders and scandal mongers. She is the guest of the United States, and the minister cannot understand why she should not receive the same courteous consideration as the wives of the German, French, or British ambassadors.

"The minister, however, is quite aware of the fact that this abuse of good breeding and hospitality is confined to a few papers, and is not countenanced by the respectable press of the United States."

NEED OF THE NAVY.

Figures of the Navigation Bureau Show That Officers and Men Are Greatly in Demand.

According to figures prepared by the navigation bureau, the navy is badly in need of officers as well as men. With rare exception every naval vessel now afloat is short of officers. If the vessels now in ordinary should be placed in commission it would be necessary for congress to authorize the appointment of 1,484 officers to give them a full complement.

It would require 3,048 officers to commission the vessels now being constructed, and those who could be placed in service if an urgent necessity arises. The number required for each grade would be ten rear admirals, 61 captains, 86 commanders, 245 lieutenant commanders, 1,326 junior line officers, 24 chaplains, and 859 warrant officers.

To man all these vessels 32,933 enlisted men would be needed. Secretary Long has authority to enlist 17,500 men, but the quota is 2,504 short, as only 14,996 men are now in the service. Therefore, to man all the vessels now in commission, under construction, in ordinary, and authorized, it will be necessary for congress to authorize the appointment of 3,048 officers and the enlistment of 17,937 men. This estimate of course does not contain figures for vessels to be authorized by this congress.

Free To Inventors.

The experience of C. A. Snow & Co. in obtaining more than 20,000 patents for inventors hos enabled them to helpfully answer many questions relating to the protection of intellectual property. This they have done in a pamphlet treating briefly of United States and foreign patents, with cost of same, and how to procure them: trade marks, designs, caveats, infringements, decisions in leading patents cases, etc., etc.

This pamphlet will be sent free to anyone writing to C. A. Snow & Co., Washington, D. C.

Farmer is Hurt by Crows

By Wire From Kalamazoo, Mich., April 21.

Lemuel Hindes, Oshlomo township, four miles west of here, while at work in his field yesterday was attacked by a large flock of crows and frightfully injured.

Hindes was distributing a wagon load of fertilizer over the field and before he had warning a flock of apparently a thousand or more flew into the field from the direction of Kalamazoo.

His attempts to drive them away with a pitch fork were futile, and they attacked him viciously.

He killed quite a number, but the remainder of the flock pecked his face and neck in a terrible manner.

His cries attracted his wife, who came to his rescue with a shotgun, with which she killed a score or more.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Nebraska has some strange schoolhouses. There are 141 log buildings, 517 built of sod, one of baled straw and one of steel.

A scientist says: "Between the ticks of a watch, a ray of light will move a distance equal to eight times around the earth." What beautiful fairy tales that man could write.

Last year 62 new silk mills were started in the United States. The raw material must be imported, but American workmanship is producing great results in its manufacture.

The Americans will have a very prominent part in the Paris world's fair. There are over 4,000 Americans represented as exhibitors, and 16,000 Americans have been engaged for permanent employment on the grounds.

Mrs. Ruth Potter, who died recently at her home in Middletown, Pa., at the age of 102 years, smoked a pipe incessantly and claimed that tobacco was responsible for her long life. It is always very easy to make our beliefs accord with our wishes and pleasures.

The worst bush fires which have been known in Australia for half a century have devastated what is known as the Warrambool district in Victoria. A million acres of pasture were destroyed, and 20,000 sheep, besides hundreds of cattle and horses, were burned to death.

Americans have scored their first victory at the Paris exposition by an exhibition of energy in getting their building and exhibits advanced so much ahead of others as to make the French commissioner general say: "It is an object lesson to us all to see the American people work."

Massachusetts is able to produce a music lover who is a lover of music indeed. For 19 years she has each Friday traveled 80 miles by railroad that she might attend the Boston symphony rehearsal. It may be that we can show greater devotion to music than this, but it is very questionable.

A Chicagoan named Bean licked 300 mucilage pasters at a sitting and then thought it strange that he should experience unusual dryness of the mouth and throat and a painful illness. His friends are trying to account for his troubles on the theory that the mucilage was poisoned. It did not have to be.

Philip Miller and his wife arrived at Omaha, having made the entire distance of 1,100 miles on foot from Stroudsburg, Pa., pushing a baby carriage containing their infant child. Miller, discouraged by continued illluck in the Pennsylvania coal district, decided to emigrate. They slept in section-houses and worked along the route for their food.

It is explained by the Chicago lady who acts as secretary for the "United States Pet Mice Club" that the mice in which the society is interested are imported animals, "entirely different from the ordinary pestiferous household rodent, and never guilty of the indiscretion of developing into rats." The ordinary domestic mouse will, when it reads this, be disposed to remark "Rats!"

It is officially announced that a royal marriage to take place next August will cause the assembling in the little Austrian town of Gmunden of the emperors of Russia, Germany and Austria, the kings of Greece and Denmark, and the prince of Wales. Some kind of a balance-wheel ought to be put on the opposite side of the globe or the earth will tip over when that collection of sovereign majesty gets together in one tiny town.

Hundreds of persons look to Miss Helen Gould, of New York, for assistance. She has applications from all kinds of people, who, with a little ready capital, would be able to do all kinds of things. Miss Gould has been generous in her charities and philanthropies, but there is a limit to all things, even to her purse, and she would like to have it understood that she cannot found colonies, raise mortgages, make donations to colleges, purchase bridal trousseaus or invest in gold bricks.

Speaking of that famous trotter, the late Maud S., it is said on good authority that every evening at about ten o'clock Mrs. Maud Stone Carey, of New York city, calls up her father, Capt. George S. Stone, of Cincinnati, on the long-distance telephone and bids him good-night. Each message costs $3.50, but Capt. Stone thinks it cheap enough at that price. He is the street car magnate of Cincinnati, and years ago, when his daughter was still Maud Stone, he named after her the animal that eventually became the queen of the turf.

The National Educational association announces through a committee in whose hands the matter has been placed that it will give a series of prizes, amounting in all to $1,200, for essays in school hygiene. For the best essay submitted on each of the following topics: The seating, the lighting, the heating and the ventilating of school buildings, $200; for the second best essay submitted on each topic, $100. It is expected that valuable and much needed enlightenment will be secured. The essays must be submitted by February, 1901.

Prof. Mahaffy, of London, says that he has made one of the most astonishing genealogical discoveries of the age —namely, that the pedigree of the Smith family can be traced back to the time of Ptolemy III., and that a Smith, possibly the first of the line, was a saloon keeper in Alexandria 2,127 years ago. The professor should dig a little deeper, as further research would undoubtedly show him that the Smiths were men of power in the time of Amenhotep II., and that a Smith was head granary keeper when the great Sesostris ruled the nation.

MORE FIGHTING.

London, April 24.—The war office Monday evening issued the following dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated Bloemfontein, Monday, April 23, 2:50 p. m.:

"Yesterday I dispatched the Eleventh division, under Gen. Pole-Carew, and two brigades of cavalry, under Gen. French, from this point to assist Gen. Rundle. The force reached Karriefontein without much opposition. Casualties reported: Welsh regiment, private killed, Capt. Prothero mortally wounded, and seven men; Yorkshires, eight wounded; Eighth hussars, one killed, one wounded; Fourteenth hussars, one wounded; Royal artillery, two wounded; Seventh dragoons, Lieut. Jenkins and ten men missing; Capt. Rotton, Royal artillery, broke an arm by a fall. Gen. Pole-Carew's mounted infantry seized Leeuw kop, a high hill a few miles north of their last night's position. The enemy evacuated hurriedly, leaving some rifles and ammunition. Gen. Rundle reports that 25 men of the First Worcesters are missing. Fifty-three were sent with Wood to an outpost after dark, and only 18 returned. Their numbers and names will be reported today, as well as four wounded yesterday."

London, April 24.—The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Standard, describing the operations at Leeuw kop, says:

"At an early stage the cavalry came under a heavy fire from a pompom on a ridge adjoining Leeuw kop. Unable to continue its march to the southeast, Gen. Dickson's brigade fell back to the north to await the infantry attack. The flanking movement having failed, Gen. Pole-Carew, with Gen. Stephenson's brigade, advanced in crescent form from the south and west with the object of enveloping the kopjes. The Welsh, Warwickshire, Essex and Yorkshire regiments advanced in extended line, covering the west, while the Guards' brigade took up a position to the south, with two field batteries and naval guns. Sheltered by the rocks, the enemy opened a heavy fire from rifles and a pompom. Our men advanced over the open ground in splendid style by a succession of short rushes, falling prone while pouring in their volleys. The approach of darkness threatened to leave the Boers in possession, but just before sunset the Essex regiment gallantly pressed forward and drove the last man of the enemy from Paarde kraal, a bold spur of Leeuw kop."

London, April 24.—The strong body of reenforcements which Lord Roberts sent to assist the relief of Wepener and to endeavor to envelop and cut off the Boers from a retreat northward furnishes further evidence that the Boers are assembled in much larger forces around Wepener than had hitherto been supposed.

Pretoria, April 21. — Maj. Gen. Schalkburger has been gazetted vice president (in succession to the late Gen. Joubert) and Gen. Louis Botha has been gazetted acting commandant general (succeeding Gen. Joubert in command of the Transvaal forces).

St. Petersburg, April 24.—The papers announce the departure for South Africa of a body of aeronauts to organize a military balloon service for the Transvaal. They took the necessary balloons and accessories with them.

MANY FILIPINOS SLAIN.

A Week of Fighting in Manila During Which 378 Insurgents Were Killed and Many Wounded.

Manila, April 23.—Last week was one of the bloodiest of the war since the first day's fighting around Manila. Authentic reports, mostly official, show a total of 378 Filipinos killed, 12 officers and 244 men captured and many more wounded. The number wounded is hardly guessable. Considering that the Filipinos entirely lack hospital facilities, a great majority of the wounded will die. Probably the week's work finished 1,000 insurgents. The Americans' loss was nine killed and 16 wounded. Two sergeants and one private were killed in ambushes while escorting provision trains.

Col. Smith, of the Seventeenth infantry, who captured Gen. Montenegro and brought him to Manila, is in the isolation hospital suffering from smallpox, presumably caught from the Filipinos. Col. Smith's command captured 180 officers and men with Montenegro. The officers were brought to Manila. Montenegro, who was formerly one of the most dapper officers in the Filipino army, looks worn and haggard. He says he has led a terrible life for months, and he has offered to return to the north with Col. Smith to endeavor to persuade his former comrades of the uselessness of opposing the Americans.

Sent to Prison.

Belleville, Ill., April 20.—The jury in the case of seven men charged with the murder of Sheriff Herman Barnickol during an attempted wholesale jail delivery returned a verdict finding Charles Hastings guilty and fixing the punishment at 18 years in the penitentiary. Five others were given sentences of 14 years each. The jail delivery was frustrated by Sheriff Barnickol shooting to death Benton Revelle, the leader of the jail breakers, after he had been fatally wounded by Revelle.

Electricity Supplants Steam.

Chicago, April 21.—Electricity supplanted steam in the operation of the gigantic and diversified interests of Armour & Co. at the Union stock yards Friday morning. The new plant constitutes the largest individual set of electrical power-giving machinery ever put into service. The new apparatus in its entirety cost something more than $1,000,000. However, the builders assert that the saving over the old system in vogue will be so great that it will pay for itself within four years.

The India Famine.

Calcutta, April 24. — The latest official reports from the famine districts say that the misery existing there is indescribable and unparalleled and that the present relief is quite inadequate. They add that the mortality among the cattle is also so severe that the authorities are trying to adapt farm implements so that human power can replace that of bullocks. Such a drastic measure has never before been necessary even in the greatest scarcity of animals.

More Indictments.

Frankfort, Ky. April 20.—The indictments returned by the grand jury Thursday were against John W. Davis and Green Golden as accessories to the mureder of Gov. Goebel. Green Golden, the man indicted as being an accessory to the murder of Gov. Goebel, is a cousin of Wharton Golden, who turned state's evidence. John W. Davis, the other man indicted, was a policeman on the capitol square and tried to escape from Frankfort with Caleb Powers.

DISASTROUS FLOODS.

Situation in Southern States Is Appalling —Feared Worst Is Not Yet Known.

Memphis, Tenn., April 21.—A special to the Commercial Appeal from New Orleans says: The flood which commenced the early part of the week has already caused, at a conservative estimate, fully $3,000,000 loss in central and southern Mississippi, to say nothing of the damages sustained by the railroads. The extent of the losses has not yet been fully realized, and it may be some days yet before an accurate total can be reached, for mail communication has been totally cut off between those localities which have suffered most and the outside world. In Louisiana, too, the damage done by the unprecedented rains was great, but in this state they are more inferential than positive.

A special from Columbia, Miss., fixes the loss in that little town and its immediate vicinity at $500,000. Many farmhouses were carried away by the mad waters, the occupants barely escaping with their lives, and the number of cattle destroyed was great. A great many gins and millhouses were washed away. Nearly every bridge around Columbia was swept downstream. Pearl river is now higher than it has been known for many years. Miles and miles of the New Orleans & Northeastern track are still under water.

Meridian, Miss., April 24. — Additional rains have added gravity to the flood situation in the surrounding country. Small streams are all out of the banks and larger ones began to rise again by nightfall. The temporary track work which had been done will be damaged on all railroads entering the city and resumption of traffic will be longer delayed. The situation in cut-off towns is growing desperate. Foodstuffs are runnning short and relief is nowhere in sight. Reports from the interior continue to come in showing great devastation. Farmers are abandoning farms as worthless and entering the service of railroads, which employ all applicants. Meridian suffered great damage in Sunday night's rain by severe washouts. Fifteen inches of rain have fallen so far this month.

RAIN BADLY NEEDED.

Forest Fires in the Cass Lake (Minn.) Region Threaten Enormous Destruction.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 24.—Unless a heavy rain speedily visits the Cass lake region the fires now rioting in the "toppings" will extend to the standing timber, inflicting losses which will run into the tens of millions of dollars. The fire is confined to the stumpage and boughs, the old cuttings of the past two winters. Minneapolis log owners are greatly alarmed. Everything is as dry as tinder. M. J. Scanlon, of the Scanlon-Gibson Lumber company, says there has been a great deal of property destroyed in the region west of Cass lake, and extending back about 25 miles to the west and northwest, and probably 50 miles on the southwest. The streams have dried up and everything favors a most disastrous forest fire.

Winnipeg, Man., April 24.—Contractors Keith and Buchanan, whose outfits were burned in the woods near Vassar, had a final roll call of their employes Monday night, and the result was most encouraging, as only four men now remain who have not answered to their names. It is hoped that these have also escaped and will find their way to the city before many days. The fatalities among the settlers are unknown, but no bodies have been found by the search parties so far, and so many fugitives are reaching places of safety it is hoped all will escape, especially as the fire has abated in fury and the wind has fallen. The people who escaped tell of fearful experiences, and the scene of desolation over an area of more than 1,000 square miles is said to testify to the fury of the fire. Wild animals by thousands have escaped to open prairies, but hundreds of carcasses are found.

DIVES INTO COKE OVEN.

Unknown Man at Connellsville, Pa., Commits Suicide by Plunging Into a Fiery Furnace.

Connellsville, Pa., April 24.—An unknown man committed suicide Monday morning at the works of the Frick Coke company by diving into a coke oven. The coke workers saw him only for an instant as he prepared for the leap. He was well dressed. For the slightest possible space of time he seemed to pause on the sloping ground behind the ovens, then he ran down the steps. Eight feet from the oven tops the man shot into the air, his hands poised above his head in the fashion of a diver, and descending swiftly dropped head first into the head of an oven that had burned to the white heat of coke just before it is drawn. A rush was made for the oven by the oven drawers, but all there was to show of the man was a charred mass.

Estate Only $60,000,000.

New York, April 20. — The appraised valuation of the estate of Cornelius Vanderbilt amounts to about $60,000,000. Exclusive of the residuary estate, which is held in trust for Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, the valuation of properties calculated from the amount of inheritance tax is only $32,000,000. The inheritance tax amounts to $320,272, which has been paid and receipted for by Comptroller Coler. The estate of Cornelius Vanderbilt was supposed to have been worth $125,000,000.

Leap to Death.

Dayton, O., April 24.—Albert J. Deady and his 16-year-old wife jumped from a bridge into the canal and were drowned, each tightly clasped in the other's arms. Albert Deady was employed as inspector by the National Register company. They leave a young babe. They ate supper together and were cheerful. It is supposd Deady had financial trouble.

Change in Nicaraguan Canal Bill.

Washington, April 21.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce Friday made an important change in the Hepburn Nicaragua canal bill, striking out the provision for the "fortification," and thus providing what is expected to be a compromise, which will aid in bringing the measure to an early consideration.

RELIGIOUS WORKERS MEET.

Ecumenical Conference on Foreign Missions Begins Its Sessions in New York.

New York, April 23.—With an ex-president of the United States, Benjamin Harrison, to bid them welcome, there were gathered Saturday in Carnegie hall more than 2,000 missionaries from almost every quarter of the globe. For ten years preparations have been under way for this meeting, known as the ecumenical conference on foreign missions. It is the third of its kind ever held. Every branch of the Christian church is represented except the Roman Catholic, the Greek and that branch of the Christian church known as the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

The great hall was completely filled when ex-President Harrison began his adddress of welcome. On the platform were many clergymen and statesmen of world fame. Seated with the great body of the delegates were many workers from foreign lands whose bright costumes added a dash of color to the scene. Ex-President Harrison was given a great reception. In his address he made this pointed statement:

"The men who, like Paul, have gone to heathen lands with the message: 'We seek not yours but you,' have been hindered by those who coming after have reversed the message. Rum and other corrupting agencies come in with our boasted civilization, and the feeble races wither before the hot breath of the white man's vices.

"The great nations have combined to suppress the slave trade. Is it too much to ask that they shall combine to prevent the sale of spirits to men who, less than our children, have acquired the habits of self-restraint? If we must have 'consumers,' let us give them an innocent diet."

President McKinley's appearance on the platform in the evening was hailed by tremendous and long sustained applause, to which the president responded by bowing repeatedly. He made a short address of welcome on behalf of the nation.

Gov. Roosevelt followed with a welcome on behalf of the state, and was followed by Gen. Harrison, who replied on behalf of the conference.

The foreign missionary work of the world is conducted by seven great societies. They are the Christian missionary society, which represents the evangelical party in the Church of England, and is almost as large as the other six together; the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, representing the Catholic party in the Church of England, and which declined to attend the conference; the London Missionary society of the Congregational church, the American board of foreign missions, also of the Congregational church; the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church, and the American Baptist Missionary union.

The sessions of the council will last until May 1, not including Sundays. On Sundays the delegates will be assigned to churches in the five city boroughs and suburban towns to make addresses and preach sermons in regard to their work.

New York, April 24. — The first business session of the ecumenical conference on foreign missions began simultaneously at 9:30 o'clock Monday in Carnegie hall and the Central Presbyterian church. Walter B. Sloan, secretary of the inland mission of China, led the devotional exercises in Carnegie hall and Rev. James Cunningham, M. A., of the Memorial Presbyterian church of Wansworth, London, conducted exercises at the Central Presbyterian church. At Carnegie hall Rev. Dr. Augustus H. Strong, president of the Rochester theological seminary, delivered an address on the "Authority and Purpose of Foreign Missions."

ENDS ITS LABORS.

Final Adjournment of the Trans-Mississippi Congress—Work of the Closing Session.

Houston, Tex., April 21.—The eleventh annual session of the trans-Mississippi commercial congress adjourned Friday afternoon, to meet next year in Cripple Creek, Col. The important business Friday was the adoption of a plan for the organization of the congress on a permanent basis; the endorsement of the St. Louis exposition and the appointment of a committee to represent the congress in the hearing on the St. Louis fair bill, in committee, next Saturday, and the adoption of a resolution calling for the immediate passage of one of the Nicaraguan canal bills now pending before the national congress.

At the aftenoon session the committee on resolutions reported as follows, all of the recommendations being adopted:

Calling on congress to foster the sugar industry; calling on the national government to open the Gilsonite reservation in Utah; recommending exhibits at the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo; urging a systematic plan of improving waterways; indorsing various enterprises for improvement of waterways; recommending opening of Indian reservations, and favoring irrigation and settlement of reclaimed lands.

THREE MEN KILLED.

Bay City, Mich., April 21.—The packing house of the Ajax dynamite works, near the village of Kawkawlin, this county, was blown up Friday afternoon, killing three men. The dead are: William Weaver, Kawkawlin; Edward Halligan, Kawkawlin; William Van Vlassar, West Bay City. All left young wives and children. Their bodies were torn to shreds, only enough being found to fill a bushel basket. Great trees were uprooted or torn to splinters, and houses and stores in Kawkawlin were wrecked by the force of the explosion. H. H. Thomas, of Bay City, is the owner of the works. It is believed the explosion, which is the fourth in seven years, was caused by one of the men dropping a pailful of dynamite on the floor. The financial loss is slight.

Murdered.

Saxon, Wis., April 20.—John Taggart was foully murdered in Ashland Wednesday night, his body carried to a high bridge and thrown into a ravine. Officers have chased an unknown negro tramp into the forests north of Ashland, and may capture him. For the murder robbery was the motive.

Not Guilty.

Frankfort, Ky., April 23.—Ex-Congressman David G. Colson, who has been on trial here for the last four days for the murder of Lieut. Ethelbert Scott and Luther W. Demaree, was acquitted by the verdict of the jury, which was returned at 6:35 o'clock Saturday evening. The jury was out only 18 minutes.

A Mother's Tears.

"I Would Cry Every Time I Washed My Baby."

"When he was 3 months old, first festers and then large boils broke out on my baby's neck. The sores spread down his back until it became a mass of raw flesh. When I washed and powdered him I would cry, realizing what pain he was in. His pitiful wailing was heart-rending. I had about given up hope of saving him when I was urged to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla, all other treatment having failed. I washed the sores with Hood's Medicated Soap, applied Hood's Olive Ointment and gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla. The child seemed to get better every day, and very soon the change was quite noticeable. The discharge grew less, inflammation went down, the skin took on a healthy color, and the raw flesh began to scale over and a thin skin formed as the scales dropped off. Less than two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, aided by Hood's Medicated Soap and Hood's Olive Ointment, accomplished this wonderful cure. I cannot praise these medicines half enough." MRS. GUERINOT, 37 Myrtle St., Rochester, N. Y.

The above testimonial is very much condensed from Mrs. Guerinot's letter. As many mothers will be interested in reading the full letter, we will send it to anyone who sends request of us on a postal card. Mention this paper.

HE FEARED THE WORST.

Thought He Had Water on the Brain But His Fears Were Groundless.

When the doctor called in response to a hurry-up summons, the young man looked at him with eyes that had an unnatural luster, and his cheeks suggested fever to the man of science, says the Detroit Free Press.

"Ah, heavy cold, I see," ventured the doctor.

"Sure. Lungs as sore as a boil. I can't talk above a whisper, and when I cough I'd rather be on a rack. But I want to be examined, and don't you overlook a spot or place that is liable to be involved."

The doctor felt, listened, thumped and questioned. "Just a heavy cold was the verdict. "Narrow escape from pneumonia, but a few days will put you all right again."

"Sure?"

"Certainly. What am I here for? Just take your medicine and stay right in bed until I say you can move."

"Say, doctor, look at me. Is there anything the matter with my brains? Honest now."

"Not a thing. Your head's as sound as a dollar."

"Thank Heaven! I'll tell you why I ask. Two evenings ago I went to a wedding reception, on foot. Every time I crossed a street I dove in over my shoe tops and when I got there I was wet to the knees. By the time I reached home I felt as though I had jumped into the river. I'm sure I was very foolish, but do you know what I thought when I sent for you?"

"No."

"That I must have water on the brain."

FOURTH OF JULY

FORECAST OF MINNESOTA'S PART IN THE COMING NATIONAL JUBILEE AT KANSAS CITY.

Minnesota Democratic Convention to Name Delegates—Points From the Meeting of the State Central Committee. Programme For Organization of the Lincoln Republican Party — "John Brown's Body"—Points From National Headquarters at Chicago—What Chairman Rosing Found There—State and Twin City Points and Pointers—Note and Comment of the Week.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, April 23, 1900.

The first Democratic gun for Minnesota is fired in the calling of the state convention to select delegates, called by the state central committee in its meeting of Thursday. There was a very full attendance of committeemen, and in the exchanges of members outside of the committee action, there was expression of complete satisfaction at the situation, state and national. Not a murmur of discord was to be heard at the meeting, and that spirit of harmony as well as enthusiasm prevailed which marks the forces of Democracy everywhere this year. The date of the convention was fixed for June 20, the the county conventions for the 14th, as of greatest convenience to the people of the state. The state convention will be at the Exposition building, Minneapolis. The farm work will not hinder at that time, while it will not be too far from, nor too near to, the big Fourth of July celebration at Kansas City. Among sentiments prevailing, aside from harmony and enthusiasm, is the absolute unanimity in support of Bryan. It is certain that not even the suspicion of any other name lurked in the mind of any member present. Another thing is the absolutely solid ranks with which we come up to the battle, and in vain was the inquiry made, through all of the sections of the state represented, for information of the loss of a single man from our ranks of 1896, in the national, and 1898 in the state campaign. On the other hand numerous accessions to our ranks are reported. Such is an indication of how the Minnesota Democracy enters the fight of 1900.

The apportionment gives a large convention, 1,183 delegates. These will select 18 delegates to Kansas City, two from each of the seven districts and four at large.

Very important is deemed the committee's approval of the new plan for constituting the state contral committee, which will be chosen one from each county, instead of by judicial districts. Thus the counties obtain direct representation in the working organization. These committeemen are to be chosen at the county conventions, as well as a county central committee. Thus the whole working machinery of the state is in order as soon as the county conventions are held, without, as before, waiting for the usual late fall conventions.

A significant feature of the Convention call is the broad invitation given all "conservative reform citizens of the state, irrespective of past political associations," to unite for "pure economical and constitutional government," as well as those who "favor the republic and oppose the empire," to join in sending delegates.

There was among the committeemen not a little amount of talk concerning the Towne candidacy for the vice presidency. In substance it was that if such action should result from the canvassing that is being made of the situation, none would be more delighted than Minnesota Democrats. More than one committeeman spoke of the lofty sentiments expressed by Mr. Towne, so different from many men when dazzling prospects of personal preferment are held out before them. All appreciate his ability, high character and the strength which he, if selected, would bring to Mr. Bryan's ticket; and if that shall prove the wise determination of the national conventions, certain it is that none will be more pleased than the state Democratic organization.

Did you plant a tree on Arbor Day? If not stop the press and do so now.

State Chairman Rosing spent some time during the week with the management of the national campaign at Chicago, and brings good report of the work that is being done, and the prospects as viewed at headquarters. He commends in high terms the chairman of the executive committee, Hon. J. G. Johnson, and Secretary Walsh, for the thoroughness and executive ability shown and their wide grasp of the work in hand. A well-equipped force is rapidly extending the work to all parts of the country.

Mr. Rosing also met Mr. Willis J. Abbot in charge of the national press work, and speaks quite as highly of the work of Mr. Abbot's press bureau.

Mr Rosing heard from one and all the same reports of confidence in coming success.

As was announced in this letter would be the case the programme for the great movement of transforming the Silver Republican into the Lincoln Republican party has now been widely published. This is unquestionably one of the most important movements that the present generation has seen, if ever it has been equalled for devotion to principle and probable comparative results. Not a day passes but some Republican is recorded in Minneapolis or St. Paul as having decided to stand by his old party no longer. If the little incident of taxation without representation, as to Porto Rico, can so open the eyes what will not happen when the full iniquity of Hanna-McKinleyism dawns on those who have hitherto clung to the party of "Honest Old Abe Lincoln?"

"Honest Old Abe!" His name will be the sign manual of this great movement for salvation of the republic. It will be the "in hoc signo" of the allied conventions at Kansas City, and his picture will adorn all of the large amount of campaign literature, which is already issuing from the League press. This feature of the coming campaign will remind many a Lincoln Republican of the days of the "Wide Awakes" and other features of the campaigning of abolition times.

Speaking of abolition days, the colored people of Minneapolis are planning for a grand observance of the anniversary of John Brown of whose "soul" there will be so much of "marching on," in this campaign for liberty for all men of all races, in all climes.

The addresses which ex-Governor Altgeld of Illinois is delivering in different sections of the country must be productive of great good. His Albany Jefferson banquet speech is one of his greatest. And a hopeful sign of the times was that the "anarchist" was cordially received by and made the guest of one David B. Hill. The latter is certain some day, and we believe in the near future, to step out into the new light and truly say, "I am NOW a real Democrat."

Whenever a month passes that there is not some kind of a political banquet among the Minneapolis hosts of Bryan why then it is a very cold day for Banquet Baldwin. And so, he has been at it again, and the Bryan club remembered Jefferson's birthday, with a feast, of both sorts (for soul and body), with that never tiring defender of the faith, C. D. O'Brien of St. Paul, as the principal speaker.

The Twin City commercial travelers applaud the course of Mr. Dowe, of New York, in resigning from the body which it was the apparent scheme of the Hannaites to make a Republican campaign tool.

Apropos of the traveling salesmens' views, the following from a Minnesota traveling man, in the American Artisan, is right to the point:

"While the great trusts have felt the prosperity, and through control of the raw material and output, have paid rich dividends upon watered stocks, the consumer has not felt the first blush of even the newspaper prosperity. As a dealer put it a few days since, prosperity has not yet reached the masses, and long before it shall reach them I fear the great Hipozat will have sucked the orango dry, leaving only the dry crusted rind for the consumer and him who stands at his gateway holding the supplies he may never call for; in short, while the trust owner seems well protected and fortified about, the bag holder (the retailer), seems to be at the mercy of fate."

The meager report given in the Associated Press of the speech of Senator Hoar on imperialism, indicates that it was a great effort, marred only, perhaps, by the senator's futile clinging to the hope that he will drive his party into the right action. It's too late, senator. Your idol is dead—its eyes is sot!

And, speaking of Senator Hoar, several Twin City letters were written him in approval of the principal portion of his speech. The Minneapolis anti-imperialists will send a formal resolution of thanks.

Angus McKinnon, only son of Alex McKinnon of the state board of grain appeals, has just been elected editor-in-chief of The Gopher, the brilliant little organ of the University of Minnesota. The election of Mr. McKinnon is considered a triumph by the very active anti-imperialists of the old "U," and indeed, it is becoming more and more noticeable that the vigor and brain of the university, in quality as well as quantity, leans far away from the McKinley-Hanna policy of the administration.

We have received the following:

"Editor Reform Press Bulletin:—A national bank defender denies some of the points recently stated by you in the Bulletin, especially that, substantially, under new banking law, the government (the people) furnish the money gratis that the national banks loan to the people and make their interest upon. Will you repeat the facts briefly?—Otter Tail County Farmer.

Reply:—Take the case of one of the new banks which may be organized in Otter Tail, under the Nelson amendment permitting banks with as small capital as $25,000.

With this capital of $25,000 must be purchased $25,000 of the 2 per cent bonds, which must be sent to Washington and placed on deposit there, whereupon the Department prints and sends back to the bankers $25,000 in crisp new national bank notes. The bonds remain in Washington and draw their regular interest, and the new notes are ready to loan out. Of course there is some slight deduction, such as the premium on the bonds, and the charge of one-half of one per cent on circulation. But substantially the capital has been doubled, has it not? Yes, doubled, and the capital removed from all taxation of any kind!

This is the way the thing piles up for the bankers. Not only has their capital been doubled by law at one stroke, but instead of paying anything, either in interest or taxes, the people pay them one and one-half per cent for the privilege of giving them 100 per cent more capital than they had raised to do business on! The one-half of the doubled capital they proceed to loan to the people at whatever rate of interest they may conclude to charge, under the many ways which legal rate of interest can be exceeded without it being found out or punished; the other half is doing business for them in Washington by regular interest called for by their coupons. MINNESOTA NEWS.

A Close Call.

Albert Hall, 9 years old, escaped death almost miraculously. With a number of boys he was playing about the east end of the steel arch bridge in Minneapolis. Finally the boys decided to climb under the end of the bridge and catch doves. Young Hall started under and slipped. He caught hold of a live wire with his left hand, and the current began to burn the flesh. He was suspended from the ground about forty feet. The river was near by also, and it was feared that if he freed himself from the wire he would fall into the river.

One of his companions, realizing the predicament he was in, caught hold of his body and pulled him from the wire. Albert fell to the ground and came within a few feet of rolling into the river. He was picked up badly bruised and taken to the city hospital, where his hand, which had been frightfully burned, was dressed. It is not believed he is dangerously injured. Later he was removed to his home.

Badly Burned.

A sad accident occurred at the home of George Thomson, janitor of the Moorhead National Bank block. Thomson lives east of town on the property of the Moorhead Brick Manufacturing Company, and with him lives his aged mother, who is the unfortunate victim of the accident. It appears that in striking a match the head flew off and caught in the folds of a light apron which she wore. Instantly the flames rose to her waist, igniting the clothing upon the upper portion of her body. The aged woman's cry of agony quickly brought to her aid her son, who was in an adjoining room, but before the flames could be smothered she had sustained frightful burns from waist to shoulder and her son suffered from severe burns upon his hands.

We Are Interested.

Minnesota is interested in the recent decision of the supreme court of Illinois that the flag law of that state is invalid, for a similar law has been passed in this state. The court, in the Illinois case, said that it believed the law (which provided for the punishment of a man for the use of the American flag for advertising purposes) was unconstitutional, not only as an infringement of the liberties granted citizens by federal and state constitutions, but also depriving him of privileges granted him by the same instruments. The Minnesota flag law was patterned much after the Illinois law and went into effect Jan. 1.

Democratic Convention.

The Democratic State Central Committee met at the Merchants' Hotel, St. Paul, to call a convention to select delegates to the national convention. The committee did not get to work until late, but it was the prevailing opinion that the convention should be held between the 1st and the 15th of June, and that but one call should be issued—the call for the nominating convention, to be issued later on. Both district delegates and delegates-at-large will be selected at this convention.

Morman Elders.

The Mormon elders are conducting open-air meetings and making a house-to-house canvass of Little Falls, looking for converts to their faith.

News in Brief.

Examinations will be held in the federal building May 17, 18 and 19 for five cadets for the United States revenue cutter service. The examination will be open to all citizens of the United States between the ages of 18 and 25 years. This examination will be held in every city where there is a board of examiners.

The syndicate which recently acquired a half million acres of land from the Northern Pacific Railroad will be known as the Minnesota Land Company, with a capital stock of $1,200,000.

The Great Northern car shops at St. Cloud have received an order for the building of 49 new cabooses. Forty are for the Great Northern and nine for the Eastern Minnesota.

The White Line Transportation Company has been formed at Duluth. This company will run a line of boats in connection with the St. Paul & Duluth Railway.

The case of John Carroll against the Omaha Railroad for loss of an arm and leg was tried in the United States court at Mankato, the company winning. The case has been on trial for two days.

ELOQUENT ADVOCATE.

Elbert Hubbard Describes the Merits of the National Forest Park Plan for Minnesota.

The April Philistine has an indorsement of the National Forest Park done in Mr. Hubard's best and most enthusiastic style. Describing the territory he says:

One-fourth of this land is covered by water. Running streams and scores of lakes intersect it in a thousand ways. It is the last large tract east of the Missouri that exists practically as it was when the white man first set foot on American soil.

Well, there in Minnesota you can see such scenes as La Salle and Marquette saw. But now men are endeavoring to encroach on these beautiful woods with axes and saw mills, and their intent is to reduce this virgin forest to a mere mass of blackened stumps. To avert such a calamity and give these beautiful woods to the people as a heritage forever, an association of earnest men and women has been formed, called "The Minnesota National Forestry and Park Association." The intent of this association is to induce congress to make this tract a national park and throw around it such safeguards that it shall be kept the charming and romantic spot it now is.

These men and women would protect the trees and birds, the fish and wild animals, and allow no hunting except under certain well-defined restrictions. As a breeding place and home for deer, moose and bear, it far surpasses the Adirondacks or northern Maine, and as a fisherman's paradise there is nothing to approach it on the planet earth.

"Woman is a natural conservator," says Charlotte Perkins Stetson, and the remark finds ample verification in the attitude of the women of Minnesota who are using their efforts to carry this measure to a successful issue, with Charlotte Perkins Stetson, herself, arrayed on the side of those who wish to conserve and protect. But strange as it may seem, this national park project is meeting with savage opposition.

This opposition comes from those who are looking on the lumber with covetous eyes—it is historic sentiment against a nickel, John Ruskin against Jay Gould, life against death. The men who oppose this park merely want to saw up the trees, sell them for a price and pocket the money; they think but of themselves, and have no care for the generations that shall follow. Their shibboleth is, "What are you going to do about it?"

"The earth is for the people," said Wm. Morris. "It is ours while we are here, but let us leave it, as we would leave a rented house, neat and orderly and beautiful as we found it. Are we vandals that we should ruthlessly destroy and disfigure God's property?"

I have visited that beautiful tract of land in Minnesota; I know its beauty, and can guess its value as a place of rest and healing for the tired, overworked sons and daughters of earth. I know of no man working to carry this plan through who will gain a dollar by it. The men who oppose it are out for the money. I hope the good women and the unselfish men will win and that congress will see that the earth and its blessings and beauties is for all the people and not for the few; for those who live now and the many who shall follow us.

Have you ever wondered how the woods looked when only wild animals and wild men trod these misty ways, and all the forest aisles were sacred to the birds and beasts that had not yet got acquainted with man and so did not know enough to flee at his approach?

Special mention is due to the efforts of those strong and excellent women, Professor Maria L. Sanford, Minnesota University; Mrs. Lydia Phillips Williams and Miss Margaret Evans; Charles Cristadoro, of St. Paul, and that fine old veteran, General C. C. Andrews, all backed up by the State Federation of Woman's Clubs of Minnesota.

We owe it to the unborn that we shall leave this earth in as good order as we found it. Tomorrow we go—let us remember our brothers and sisters who shall live here when we are gone. And if our simple actions now shall make life's burden lighter for them—lessen their cares and add to their joys—we shall not have lived in vain.

Suicide.

A SMART LAWYER'S MISTAKE.

Mulcted His Partners in a Deal But They Afterwards Got Even.

A well-known Maine attorney is especially noted for his keenness in looking out for the best end of every bargain—and for his ability in getting hold of that end. It has made him unpopular in some circles—has that trait of his!

On one deal not long ago he was in with a couple of friends—men of wealth and standing, says the Lewiston (Me.) Journal. Business was good the first year. There was a generous division of profits. But the lawyer wasn't satisfied with what was coming to him, share and share alike with the others. After receiving his proper whack as a partner, he exacted $500 more for "councel fees." He said that as a lawyer he was worth that much more to the deal. This was a new way of looking at the matter, but the bill was resignedly allowed by the friends.

They were pretty good business men, understand. In a little while they saw that the venture wasn't panning out very well. So the shrewd men of affairs quietly unloaded without saying anything to their partner. Then a little later came the crash.

The lawyer hurried around to hold a consolation meeting with the other two.

"Gracious, isn't this too bad," moaned he. "I lost so-and-so. How much did you fellows drop. You must have been hit pretty hard."

"You're wrong, old boy," came the cheerful duet. "We never lost a dollar; no, we never lost a cent. Tra la."

"What-t-t!"

"Never lost a dollar! We saw it coming two months ago. Had a tip. Unloaded. All out!"

"Well, then, why in the name of all that's square and above board, didn't you tell me?"

"Well, we could have, had you allowed us $500 counsel fees when you took yours. See?"

Millions for Baseball.

A million of dollars are spent every year upon the game of baseball, but as large as this sum is, it cannot begin to equal the amount spent by people in search of health. There is a sure method of obtaining strength, and it is not a costly one. We urge those who have spent much and lost hope to try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It strengthens the stomach, makes digestion easy and natural, and cures dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness and weak kidneys.

Horrible Fate.

ALABASTINE Is a durable and natural cement-base wall coating, in 5 lb. paper packages, made ready for use in white and fourteen beautiful tints by mixing with cold water. It is a cement that goes through a process of setting, hardens with age, and can be coated and recoated without washing off its old coats before renewing.

ALABASTINE Is entirely different from all the various kalsomines on the market, being durable and not stuck on the wall with glue. Alabastine customers should insist on having the goods in packages properly labeled. They should reject all imitations. There is nothing "just as good."

ALABASTINE
Prevents much sickness, particularly throat and lung difficulties, attributable to unsanitary coatings on walls. It has been recommended in a paper published by the Michigan State Board of Health on account of its sanitary features; which paper strongly condemned kalsomines. Alabastine can be used on either plastered walls, wood ceilings, brick or canvas, and any one can brush it on. It admits of radical changes from wall paper decorations, thus securing at reasonable expense the latest and best effects. Alabastine is manufactured by the

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

FOR WOMAN'S HEALTH

Earnest Letters from Women Relieved of Pain by Mrs. Pinkham.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I commenced to take your medicine I was in a terrible state, wishing myself dead a good many times. Every part of my body seemed to pain in some way. At time of menstruation my suffering was something terrible. I thought there was no cure for me, but after taking several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all my bad feelings were gone. I am now well and enjoying good health. I shall always praise your medicine."—MRS. AMOS FESCHLER, Box 226, Romeo, Mich.

Female Troubles Overcome

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I had female trouble, painful menses, and kidney complaint, also stomach trouble. About a year ago I happened to pick up a paper that contained an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I read how it had helped others, I thought it might help me, and decided to give it a trial. I did so, and as a result am now feeling perfectly well. I wish to thank you for the benefit your medicine has been to me."—MRS. CLARA STIEBER, Diller, Neb.

No More Pain

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your Vegetable Compound has been of much benefit to me. When my menses first appeared they were very irregular. They occurred too often and did not leave for a week or more. I always suffered at these times with terrible pains in my back and abdomen. Would be in bed for several days and would not be exactly rational at times. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and menses became regular and pains left me entirely."—MRS. E. F. CUSTER, Brule, Wis.

Spring Body Cleaning

Every spring you clean the house you live in, to get rid of the dust and dirt which collected in the winter. Your body, the house your soul lives in, also becomes filled up during the winter with all manner of filth, which should have been removed from day to day, but was not. Your body needs cleaning inside. If your bowels, your liver, your kidneys are full of putrid filth, and you don't clean them out in the spring, you'll be in bad odor with yourself and everybody else all summer.

DON'T USE A HOSE to clean your body inside, but sweet, fragrant, mild but positive and forceful CASCARETS, that work while you sleep, prepare all the filth collected in your body for removal, and drive it off softly, gently, but none the less surely, leaving your blood pure and nourishing, your stomach and bowels clean and lively, and your liver and kidneys healthy and active. Try a 10-cent box today, and if not satisfied get your money back—but you'll see how the cleaning of your body is

DELANO, FRIDAY, April 27, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Druggist Wittman exhibits a curiosty in his window, a new electric sign.

—A game of base ball has been called for 2: 30 p. m. Saturday at Eppel's grounds. Lovers of the amusement are invited to be present.

—Some fine suckers have been captured in the river this week. It is lots of sport for the boys, and furnishes brain food for several families. Alderman Jones had a fine string Monday morning.

—The new butcher's horse took a tender notion into his head Wednesday morning, and not waiting to deliver some calves at the station, in time for the early train to the city, struck a lively, gait for the woods. He will, most likely, loose these city airs, later on.

—Among our village gardeners we noticed one day this week that our new legal light from Cokato, was shining brightly. He proposes to have something green to eat this summer; and to be on the safe side is planting the seed himself, "God helps him who helps himself."

—Long Lake, seems to be holding its own among the live towns along the G. N. Ry. It has a good grist mill, hotel, several stores, blacksmith shops, saw and feed mill, creamery, a good school, a physician, stock dealers, and various other business interests calculated to make a thriving village.

—At Saturday night's meeting of the Board of Education the corps of teachers so far as they made application were re-engaged. The assistant principal being offered a raise in wages of five dollars a month. Misses Quinn and McCartney did not apply. Miss Burmeister, of New Ulm, was offered one of the position.

—On Monday evening while spearing succors John Eppel succeeded in striking a nice one, and while the fish was struggling on the spear, in some way John was so unfortunate as to stick one prong of the spear into his leg above the knee making an ugly wound. His companion was too much scared to be of any assistance and John had to hold the spear and with his knife cut his flesh sufficient to allow the spear head to be removed. He will have a lame leg for awhile.

—Prof. Canedy has received his new tonsorial chair. It is a beauty. One of the latest fashion. After a long and fruitless effort to put it through the various positions necessary in his business, and the application of oil, as he thought in abundance, he had about concluded that the old thing wouldn't work. Luckily a couple of local scientists happened along and volunteered advice sufficient to aid the Prof. in seeing through the mysterious apparatus. More oil was poured in to the oil chamber, and, lo, and behold! it was up to all expectations.

—A few mischief makers in a town can, and often do create quite a disturbance among those who would, without their interference, live far happier and better lives. Occasionally there is found, in most villages of a thousand inhabitants, people who find time and make it a part of their everyday life; until it becomes as natural to them, as it is for some people to attend to their own affairs, to go about from place to place and give, free of charge, and even to force it upon poor suffering humanity, their individual preferences and dislikes, mostly dislikes. For, somehow, scarcely anything in the village is to their liking. If a woman needs a new dress she is advised where to go "in the city", to buy it; or what bargain sale house, in Chicago, or New York, to deal with. If a family needs groceries, some house in "the city" is recomended; for medicines they are sent to some department store. If horses need shoeing a better blacksmith is said to be at any of the smaller neighboring towns. The same is told of doctors, lawyers and ministers, carpenters, masons, and nearly everything else in the place. The proper way for a village to have the best there is in all lines, is for those in the village to seek out the best at home, and do their own trading, and recommend others to do their's at the same best places, and advertise them as being just as good as any in any town, if it is a fact. And, as a rule, there are some good, honest, respectable people in a town of a thousand inhabitants. The best way to run down a town, and, of course your own business, is, when you want to buy goods, or wares, to go away from home, hunting for good bargains, and if, as a bait, some article is found a nickle cheaper, never get done telling your neighbors about it. If you want your will drawn up get an attorney from abroad. If you are sick send to "the city" or a neighboring village, pay out your cash and have the home physician treat you till you get well or die, and wait for his pay till he gets it. If you die, don't do so till you have ordered a coffin and flowers from "the city; and engaged a minister from some place where you are unknown. His conscience wouldn't trouble him so much while he preached your funeral. Then he can write an obituary to be published at so much a line, in some "city paper" where the readers want be shocked by recalling your past life in contrast, to mar the effect.

—Mrs. Belden and Mrs. Corey will serve lunch from five to seven o'clock Tuesday, May 1, for the benefit of the M. E. church All are invited.

—Three cases of small-pox are reported at the home of J. C. Mauck in Middleville Dr. H. M. Bracken has been to see it, and the place is quarantined. Everybody ought to be vaccinated.

—We understand that three new M. D's, are in the village this morning looking for a location, and that Dr. Halgren, of Watertown, can slip away from his large practice long enough to drive over on Tuesdays and Fridays. Delano people can surely have a choice when they get sick.

—Read the Board of Health Notice to clean up your premises, and get it done before May 12. This is a fine time for cleaning up. Swill, thrown into alleys and onto lots, is now the most unsightly, offensive, and injurious to health of anything about the village. Swill barrels shoud be kept and emptied often during the summer months.

—In answer to our article "If the Eagle knows of anything wrong between Bill Quinn and the GAZETTE we demand now, that in her next issue she state it plainly; or forever hold her peace." this week's Eagle winds up an article of eight lines with "No Doc your as pure as snow. Heaven bless you!" The other insinuations, which the Eagle seems unable to leave out of her articles, we, for her especial benefit deny, as being untrue.

—A free exhibition in equestrianship was given, Tuesday, by John Bock, on the west side. He rode one of the cream bronkows lately purchased from a western herd which was offered for sale here a few weeks ago. John stuck to the saddle through bucking, kicking and falling down by the equine, much to the amusement of a large audience, some of whom had "reserved seats" in a high box lumber wagon which stood at a convenient distance, and furnished a clear field of vision of the exhibition grounds.

—Calling out the fire department twice in one night is rather metropolitan but on Fridsy evening near midnight, the barn in the rear of the Gilmer House caught and the alarm was given bringing out the fire companies. The flames were soon subdued. But hardly had people got back to bed when the alarm was again given, and the old shop of Mr. Schwirts now occubied by Gotlieb Herman was found to be on fire. This too was easily controlled. Both fires are thought to have been of incendiary origin.

—A skirmish occured on Wednesday evening on Joe Matter's farm west of Delano. His son Tony was married the day before and had come home with his bride to live. A few friends gathered to give the new family a little chivarie. Soon a larger crowd from farther off assembled outside the first ring. The new comers got unruly and engaged in mischeif making not to be tolerated. Tony and his brothers started after the crowd to disperse it when they learned that they had removed the plug from the water tank near the barn. They soon had the maruders on the run, and on returning gathered up from the battle field two guns, a string of sleigh bells, and several other bells and different articles, which the owners can have by proving property paying charges, and agreeing to behave in future. One of the routed is reported to have a lame arm. Chivarie parties will have to be prohibited if they can't be carried on without firearms, and damaging property and person.

At the County Seat.

The county seat is having its usual spring quietness. On Monday is Probate and court day. Judge Wolley was playing typewriter himself, and says he is out of politics. Clerk of Court Vorse was gone to Delano, Miss Nellie was tending office in his absence. Billy Cochrane was seeing the fellows about politics, a little. Assistant Auditor Reinmuth was paying strict attention to business, with a weather eye on the main chance to be the "whole cheese" next time. Auditor Swanburg and Sheriff Nugent were chasing each other about the corridors of the Court House. We didn't find out for sure, whether they are in collusion as to who shall be the candidates on the two tickets or not. But if the pair are to be nominated a third man would get lots of votes. If a good many people have their say George Carpenter will be in the field. If August Haffter is superseded it will probably be by a Democrat. For Treasurer, O. W. Crawford, and Charles Bugbee, of Rockford, map try conclusions. For County attorney, Spath of Waverly and Madigan, of Maple Lake are good Bryan men and seem as capable of discharging the duties of that office as any of the Republicans likely to be nominated. For Superintendant of Schools, A. P. Ritchie has got married and settled down to business in earnest, and is liekly to distance either the present incumbent J. F. Lee or his predecessor, F. H. Lindsley, if he cares to make the run. Democrats, except for Sheriff, don't seem to be electioneering just yet, while Republicans are after about everything. Why, Judge Alley and Post Master Lindsley actually had the fever so bad they blocked the main traveled road with their buggies, causing good Democrats to drive through a field of grain to get away from the county seat. The g. o. p. fellows are acting as if they thought they owned the earth and the fullness thereof. But they should not attempt blockading public roads. County Commissioner is one of the important offices in the county and good men should be elected to fill the place. It is a little early for nominating county officers but it is well to be getting ready.

New York World: What a pity that Sir George White, just landed in England has not the courage and the conscience to imitate Burgoyne, who went back from the war upon the American colonies to protest in public and incessantly againstthe injustice and the inhumanity of a war upon such a people as the Americans.

MAPLE PLAIN.

"By the rivers of the Philippine's there we sat down, Yea we wept when we remembered Zion. We hanged our harps upon the willows" etc.

Some who are bitterly opposed to the present administration, will get red hot under the collar if you tell them our armies have no business over in the Philippines; killing off the Filipinos.

It would pay any one if they have not read it to get Bryan's Speech delivered at Los Angeles, Cal., on the 10th of this month, and read it, for it is a master production. And also get Senator B. R. Tillman's speech delivered in the United States Senate Jan. 29, 1900 on the Philippine question.

The same men who favor holding those islands, and bringing the inhsbitants under subjection by force of arms are radically opposed to the trusts, the money power, the greed for office, and our present administration, and yet they do not know that this Philippine war is a stimulus, to all these combinations. It is intended to help perpetuate the National banking system. It is provender whereon the money power can feed at the national crib; and whereby such men as Carnagie can fish with his iron hook, millions of sordid gold from the toiling masses of this country. This war fosters crime, and the whiskey trust, it deals out death and damnation to the brightest young men of our country.

It is talked we have taken those people to civilize them, but the game if captured will never pay for the ammuntion.i In my opinion the people who are favoring this war are only heaping coals of fire upon their heads. The Philippine Islands had only been a dumping ground for Spain for centuries past. And now this government proposes to take them and civilize them at a great sacrifice of our nation's life and money, We believe it is an outrage. We read articles written by those who have been there, that the officers and men of our army are addicted to drunkenness and debauchery. Then what kind of an education are the young men of this country getting who enlist in the army and go to the Philippines to fight. It will be an education to thousands of them that will last them through life, and greatly to their detriment. War is crul and demoralizing, its very breath is a blight upon society and religious institutions. Even many of our ministers will kneel at the sacred shrine and then get up and from the pulpit preach a gun powder gospel. It would be well for such ministers to carry a copy of Christ's Sermon on the Mount, in their inside coat pockets for reference at a moments warning. If the shedding of blood and sacrificial offerings will atone for our sins and purify us as a nation, then we had better go back under the Mosaic dispensation.

And the ministers of the different churches are wondering why they do not have more accessions to their churches. The thing is plain and needs no explanation. There are three roads leading to war, bloodshed, foolishness and frivolity, where there is only one road leading to the church edifice. You must remember that sin and inequity grow faster and mature quicker than any other seed. It requires neither rain nor sunshine; neither frost nor heat effects it. Then why do people encourage a thing so detrimential to us as a nation and to our welfare and happiness (such a thing as war). This Philippine war can never be made a popular war. It is too unjust, and two far from home.

Farmers are now through seeding and are making garden, and getting ready for planting corn and potatoes, the spring has been fine for the farmers and they have improved their orportunity.

Yesterday your correspondent drove from West Hennepin to Buffalo crossed the line at the historical village of Rockford. But did not encounter any Porto Rico Custom-house officer although, we had some luggage and a dollar or two to pay the freight. All along the way from home to Buffalo things looked prosperious, farms looked to be in good shape and the small grain was coming fine.

There is some building being done in Maple Plain this spring, probably would have been more if material was not so high.

DIED, at her son's near Maple Plain, 21st present month, of old age and general debility, Mrs. Lydia Batdorf, age 83 years. Was buried in Lewis' cemetery Monday forenoon, 23rd. Funeral services will be held next Sunday at M. E. church, Armstrong, at 3 p. m. Mrs. Batdorf was one of the early setters in this town coming here first in the spring of 1857. FARMER.

KUCHENMEISTER. In Franklin, Monday, April 23. Mrs. Lena, widow of the late John Kuchnmeister, aged 81 years.

County Cullings.

Waverly Tribune: The editor of a country newspaper should holler long and loud against those who go outside to do their trading but when a merchant sends off for his job printing the editor is supposed to inhale considerable oxygen and feel well paid for services rendered.—Northfield News.

Wright County Times: Frank Lindstorm was taken before Justice Kreis Tuesday charged with drunkenness under the Shaffer law. He plead guilty and the justice said $10 dollars and costs. Not having the wherewithal he went to jail for thirty days. Marshall Fuller is determined to arrest all persons getting drunk here in the village.

A county superintendent of schools in a neighboring county asked every teacher at the county institute who took their local paper to hold up their hand, and out of about one hundred six responded. The superintendent expressed great surprise and said: "You don't spend a dollar a year with these papers yet you expect them to print your notices of institutes, reports, programs, etc., all free of charge, and thus expect them to advertise you, assisting you to climb the ladder to better positions and better salaries without one cent of patronage."—Ex.

The man whose name adorns the head of the editorial column of the Howard Lake Herald made himself proud in the estimation of the combination in the "combine" last week when he took upon himself the duty of sending us about half as many supplements of the County financial statement as he knew we would need for the county circulation. But when he was called up on the phone to explain the "short coming" it was found that he had failed to prepare a reasonable excuse and could not clear himself. When we wanted to know why the required number was not sent he made the silly reply that he thought we did not need more. We then asked him to send up the balance on the first train, and he replied that he had no more to send. We informed him that he had adopted a queer system of doing business, to this he only replied: "Well, don't get hot in the shirt about it." Mr. Manaige knew full well the number we wanted, and had no good reason to withold them. If we remember right the Howard Lake Herald in its bid for the county printing agreed to publish and print the delinquent tax list, financial statement etc, in the Enterprise as well as the Times, Eagle and Standard, without discrimination, and the publishers of the Herald, though also publisher and editor of the Buffalo Journal should see that his hirelings comply with the contract the county.—Cokato Enterprise.

Rational Money.

When the smoke of battle clears away after any great conflict on the money question, gold men, silver men and paper men are found intrenched in the old positions and as full of antagonism as ever; but one who looks for the harmonies that lie beneath the discords of life as the solid rock underlies the shifting sands, will discover in each opposing camp a recognition of the all-important fact that a fluctuating currency is one of the greatest of social ills, and that an ideal money would be constant in its purchasing power, affording its possessor at all times the same average command over the world of purchasable things.

The way to do this is shown in a book called "Rational Money," by Professor Frank Parsons, of Boston. In his strong articles on Political Economy in "Progress" Professor Richard T. Ely quotes from "Rational Money" at considerable length in dealing with the multiple standard and a regulated currency, treating the book as the leading authority on this phrase of the money question; and this phase governs the entire problem. The regulation of the money volume is of greater importance than any question as to the substance of which money should be made.

An account of all the important monetary systems of history are briefly and queerly given, from early history to the present time, with special attention to the experiences of various countries with paper money. This book stands alone on the money question, and offers a final solution of the problem. 200 pages. Price, paper 25c. "Equity Series," 1520 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20, 1900.

Mr. McKinley has gone off on a pleasure junket, but Boss Hanna is working overtime. He is fixing up the platform that will be adopted by the Ohio republican Convention, next week and he is trying to figure out whether the country can be enthused by a little jingoism in connection with the failure of the Sultan of Turkey to keep his promise to pay $90,000 for property belonging to American missionaries, which was destroyed several years ago by a Turkish mob. If he decides that that jingoism is advisable, Secretary Hay will probably give the Turkish minister his passport, and the republican press will be filled with spread-eagleism about the determined stand the administration has taken for protection of American missionaries and their interests. Mr. McKinley can find time to go away for a week, but his task isn't as heavy as that of Boss Hanna, who has started out to try for four more years of autocratic power and hasn't any time to waste on pleasure.

The House is in open revolt against the administration plans of preventing action on the Nicaragua Canal bill at the present session. 250 members, half democrats, have signed petitions to Speaker Henderson, asking that a rule be reported for the consideration of the Canal bill on the first of May. If he ignores that petition, those who signed it, being more than two-thirds of the House, can force their will if they stick together, and the indications are that they will.

The House bill providing a form of government for the Territory of Hawaii, which has been agreed to by the conference committee and will become a law, extends the tariff laws of the U. S. to Hawaii, making the Territory a customs district of the U. S. with four ports of entry, which serves to accentuate the injustice of the treatment of poor Porto Rico by the republicans. Hawaii is to officially become a part of the U. S, while Porto Rico, almost at our doors, is to be only an imperial colony.

Col. Bryan and Admiral Dewey are to meet in Chicago, May 1, and the prediction is quite frequently heard in Washington that the result of that meeting may change the Admiral's aspirations to the extent of making him a candidate for the second place on the Bryan ticket.

About one hundred gentlemen representing the drug trade are in Washington spending a lot of money in hotel bills while they are trying to get a bill repealing that portion of the war taxes affecting their business favorably reported from the Ways and Means Committee. They are on the wrong track. Hanna is the man they will have to see He has decided that no reduction of war taxes shall be made at this session. He figures on getting campaign contributions from every interest affected by those taxes, and the interests which chip in the heaviest will be the ones favored when the reduction is made, at the next session of Congress.

Representative Wheeler, of Ky., representing the city of Paducah, this week presented Admiral and Mrs. Dewey about the most unique invitation they have yet received. The Paducahans want the Admiral and his wife to stop with them while on their western trip. An oak casket about 18 inches square, with gold handles, and silver cornor trimmings, and a silver plate on top engraved with "Welcome to Admiral and Mrs. Dewey", contains the invitation proper, which is on a sheet of curly birch and reads as follows: "To Admiral and Mrs. Dewey: This town is yours. Pull the latchstring—we will do the rest. Don't surprise us, but inform us when you pull." Inside the oak casket were also twelve bottles of 20-year Ky. whiskey, and a cut glass decanter incased in silver, and bearing this greeting: "Admiral and Mrs. Dewey: We extend greetings and earnestly request that you visit Paducah, thus honoring our city and citizens."

Senator Hoar told some truths which were decidely unpleasant to the administration, in his speech on the Philippine question, which he declared was a long ways from being settled. For instance, he said: "If there had been a single assurance that we intended to respect the independence to which they aspired, there would have been no war. If we had dealt with them in the treaty of peace as we dealt with Cuba there would have been no war. If we had not hurried re-enforcements to Manila, both of ships and of men, strengthening the forces of our army and navy there, after Spain had yielded, there would have been no war. If the urgent request of Aguinaldo, after the outbreak of Feb. 5, that hostilities might cease, had not been met by the declaration of Otis that 'fighting must go on', there would have been no war. If Aguinaldo's offer to withdraw had been met in a like spirit, there would have been no war. If Senators had not been talking about holding on to all they could get, about making money out of their great act of liberation, about keeping from the people of these islands their liberty and their independence, for purposes of gain and trade, there would have been no war." Notwithstanding this arraignment, Mr. Hoar will work and vote for McKinley's reelection and a continuation of the policy he now attacks.

MICHIGAN democrats have endorsed Bryan and Towne for head of the ticket and approved of their platform. Good start.

FARMERS who have purchased a keg, or two, or ten, of nails while they were so high, and then had the pleasure of reading that the price had gone down $1. a keg in a day, thereby showing them that their $s had been wrongfully wrung from them will wonder if it wasn't for Mark Hannas, campaign fund? And could it have been done without a trust built on tariff? Farmers want trust tariff, so much again.

WHEN one reads of the homesickness of American soldiers in the Philippines as described by Judge Canty lately returned, and by Mike Dowling now there, it doesn't make him have any better opinion of the men that are keeping up such an unpopular war. What do we want of the Philippines anyway? Is it worth our while to have our young men cooped up the regoing crazy, drinking themselves to death, and dying off chasing peacably inclined natives about the islands; or spending millions of money to enrich a few monopolistic expansionists? We dont think it right.

Republicans Peculiar.

Charles A. Towne is peculiar in his way to say the least. Two years ago he said repeatedly that he was a republican—a free silver republican—that the silver question was the only difference between him and the party—that the party had gone wrong on that question and that he had remained right. In all other respects he was a good a republican as he ever was. Now he is after the democratic nomination for vice president. If silver is not to be the issue this year Charley has either changed his mind on the politics or he is a republican. If the latter he is acting strangely, if not he is inconsistent."—Willmar Argus.

This is peculiar argument, or would be generally speaking; But the g. o. p. is grasping at straws, and so Brother Wharton is but keeping along with the procession. He was a Democrat. Soon after he was around helping Charley Towne get elected to Congress on that platform which Towne, wrote himself, and which he claims to still be in harmony with. Two years later Brother Wharton was again around electioneering, this time against Towne and his platform. In those good old days all good American, liberty loving citizens were opposed to the way the Spainards were misusing the Cubans and Filippinos. The Democrats were then, and are now, opposed to anybody being misused. Charley Towne agreed with the people then, and does now. Brother Wharton did then; but now is one of the howlers to put down liberty, and liberty lovers in the Islands of the sea. And is upholding those who call people traitors now because they are opposed to having our own government send soldiers to do the thing that Spainards were denounced for, but two years ago. If any politician is peculiar it must be Brother James A. Wharton, of the Willmar, Argus.

A SPECIAL to the World says: "Senator Davis is said to spend $40 a month for cigars, or $1.33 a day." No wonder C. K. favors free trade with our dependencies; as Porto Rico cigars are the kind he is said to have in stock.

WONDER if it ever enters the heads of some of our hardware merchants who have been induced to lay in large stocks of nails and other articles in their lines while prices were high, in anticipation of still greater prosperity and have them still on hand since the prices have dropped, that possibly their contributions unknowningly paid by them, to the Hanna campaign fund, was the sum of their expected profits and which they will now not get?

FOUR years ago Mercantile traveling men were almost unanimous in their advocacy of gold standard, and anything to beat Bryan. They got what they worked for, and many of them got more their retirement from business, and some of them got their eyes opened. They learned that they had been made cats paws of to pull g. o. p. chestnuts out of a red hot fire. The merchants in country towns were induced to believe that the only salvation of the country, and of themselves, was to vote for gold standard, they did so. They voted for Page Morris against C. A. Towne. They helped elect the g. o. p. candidate, and now they have the dissatisfaction of feeling themselves particeps criminis in upholding a war of extermination and of annexation against the Filipinos, who, at the time they voted for Page Morris were held up as superior to, and more deserving if possible, of freedom than were the Cubans. They also have themselves to blame for their share in the vote of Page Morris to levy a tariff on goods to and from the Island of Porto Rico. Making a tariff between what is claimed as a part of the United States territory and the balance of the land, and not only an import but an export duty. This they claim was not so much for Porto Rico as for the protective principle, which they propose to provide for the Philippines, possibly. They now have the wedge in the crack that may, if not thrown out this fall, rend our country in twain. Think of import and export duties between different states of the union, between different counties, or between cities, in this boasted land of the free. Want some of our country merchants see wherein they have been misled, and followed a false teaching against their own best interest? Isnt it better for everybody to be supplied with goods as nearly at actual cost and a reasonable profit for handling, than through the aid of trusts built up by tariffs to make a few monopolies rich while the great masses are bled daily to pay the profits?

Good Times.

From the Atkin Republican we cliped the following:

"Talk about good times," says the Elk River Star-News, "there is no question about it in northern Minnesota where census jobs worth from three to five dollars a day, go begging. The Census really ought to be taken during a Democratic administration."

Is it possible that Census Supervisor Dare couldn't find Page Morris men in northern Minnesota?

Saint Cloud Times: When Senator Daniel, in reply to the Republican contention that the President could do as he pleased in Cuba regardless of Congress, said, "I deny that the President of the United States is above law," he voiced the sentiment of a large majority of our people.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27, 1900.

There is little doubt of the liability of Mr. McKinley and Secretary Root to impeachment for their open violation of law in paying two salaries to favored army officers in Cuba, and they would be likely to get it if Congress had a democratic majority. Secretary Root's answer to the Senate resolution asking for information is a pettifogging document from start to finish. It tells only a part of the truth, which is often much worse than telling a lie, but even then it contains a practical acknowledgement of violation of law by the executive branch of the government, in the citation of acts of Congress in 1853 authorizing extra compensation for army officers who performed civil duties in Mexico and California. This Congress would have done the same for officers in Cuba, had the necessity for such action been brough to its attention by the War Department; but that does not excuse the violation of law on the part of the President and the Secretary of War. In citing acts of Congress as a precedent Mr. Root shows that he knows that Congress alone has the authority which the executive branch of the government has in this case usurped. And that isn't the only ugly thing about Mr. Root's answer. His argument that the regular allowance of an annual sum from the Cuban revenues does not constitute a second salary for the officers named is farcical, but his failure to name all the officers who are known to have had an "allowance" is worse. It is too much to expect anything approaching a thorough investigation of War Department expenditures in Cuba, from a republican Congress, but steps will be taken by others to get at the truth and make it known to the people of the country.

Mr. McKinley is unquestionably the man who engineered the plans which resulted in the refusal of the Senate by a vote of 33 to 32 to seat Mr. Quay. Mr. McKinley has had it in for Quay for just about four years and has been patiently awaiting a chance to get even. In order to throw Quay and his friends off the scent, Boss Hanna allowed himself to be counted as a Quay man until the day of the vote, when it was announced that he was paired against Quay. It would be interesting to know how Mr. McKinley induced Senators Aldrich and Beveridge, both Quay men, to absent themselves without pairs. Their votes would have seated Quay. Mr. McKinley may, however, find his triumph a dearly bought one, as Mat Quay is about as relentless an enemy as any politician could possibly have following his trialing await as an opportunity to strike.

Admiral Dewey will not make a statement of his attitude toward important public questios, unless he changes his mind, but will ask the Kansas City convention to nominate him for President solely on his record. Think of the absurdity of a great party nominating a man for President without knowing how he stood upon a single one of the great issues upon which the campaign will be fought. Only a man like Dewey could think such a thing possible. Not with standing the public declaration of almost every prominent democrat in the country that Col. Bryan's nomination was a certainty, and the failure of a single democratic state leader to advocate the nomination of Dewey, the Admiral still believes that he will be nominated.

A hearing was granted by the select committee of the House which has charge of the bill to a delegation in favor of the bill appropriating $5,000,000 towards the holding of a World's Fair at St. Louis in 1903 to celebrate the centennial of the Louisiana Purchase. The delegation included governors of the States within the Louisiana Purchase and a number of prominent citizens of St. Louis.

Ex-Representative Lewis, of Washington, sized up the political situation out his way thusly: "Col. Bryan will receive the unanimous vote of the delegation for the state of Washington, at Kansas City, and I am confident he will get the electoral votes of the State. My belief that he will carry the state, in spite of the existing strong sentiment for expansion, is based on the stronger sentiment in opposition to trusts and the faith the people have in bimetallism. I believe the same thing will apply to all the Pacific slope states, except Oregon."

The men who have been slowly but surely pushing a scheme to loot the U. S. Treasury by means of contracts with the Post Office Department for pneumatic tube service in the large cities were given a hard throw down this week when the House by a vote of 87 to 50 struck out that portion of the Post office appropriation carrying $725,000 to pay for existing pneumatic tube service and to extend the same during the coming fiscal year. That action was brought about by the public statement of Representative Moody, of Mass., that these men had been bribing and trying to bribe members of Congress with stock in their company, which existed solely for what it could get through Congressional legislation.

SLAVE AND SAINT

"YOU'D not be all that of a scoundrel, Crawford?" said Tom Downing, after a minute's hesitation, during which he looked solemnly at his friend. Crawford Sands spent that minute in shrugging his shoulders and looking elsewhere. He wore an eyeglass. The thing helped him in moments like this.

"The word 'scoundrel' may be variously defined, old chap!" he said, after a further pause.

"By men who are scoundrels according to the common meaning of the word—only by them, Crawford."

"Thanks. Well, I'm off to meet Vinny. She's coming down from town this morning. I think I told you. I hope you'll help with the boat this afternoon."

"Crawford," said Tom Downing, "do be plucky, for your sister's sake."

The two young men faced each other, and it seemed for a moment as if the reckless expression was about to flit from the eyes of Crawford Sands. But he conquered the better impulse.

"Look here, Downing," he said, "it needn't make the least difference to you. You can make love to Vinny just the same, and she'll marry you fast enough whenever you like to ask her, or I don't—"

But with a rush of crimson to his tanned cheeks, Tom Downing intervened.

"That'll do, Sands," he said, quietly, "it's my turn to say 'Thanks.'"

Then he left the room and the house and it wasn't until he ran against Carruthers, of Balliol, that he realized he was hatless.

He bought a cap in one of the shops, and got into a boat and had a paddle all to himself. And while he paddled he thought:

"Was it true that Vinny Sands would marry him 'fast enough whenever,' etc.?"

The idea thrilled him.

Yet what was the use of toying with the sweet hope in the present circumstances?

"Here am I, at Oxford fighting for a degree, with the world to fight afterward, and only a hundred a year to my name! Also, to some extent, I have poor Crawford's wild ways on my soul. If I had looked after him better he would never have got mixed up with that fast Dunlace lot. And, to mend it all, I want Vinny Sands."

After this reflection he rowed more furiously still, and so it wasn't perhaps wonderful that by and by he was to be seen trotting back to the rooms he shared with Crawford Sands, dribbling Thames water onto the pavement from several parts of him. Anyhow, he had managed to save from a watery grave that young counter jumper whom in his mad career he had so unfortunately spilled. It was thus that he shook hands with Vinny Sands on the landing of the lodging house. There was trouble in her pretty eyes, but it vanished quickly at the sight of him.

Crawford Sands laughed at the wet clothes.

"I'll tell you what it means, Vin," he said. "Tom tried to drown himself because I hinted that you were engaged to that Capt. What's-his-name, but he thought better of it in the nick of time."

"Crawford!" cried Vinny.

"He's the same old feather-brain, Miss Vinny," murmured Tom, warmed by the reproach in the girl's voice and the glorious color in her face. And then he went off to get presentable for luncheon.

After dinner, by special request, the brother and sister were left alone. It made Tom's heart ache to think of this orphaned girl of one-and-twenty years thus tackling the position of debt and disgrace which confronted her brother of 22.

But it was worst of all in the morning.

There was no Crawford at the breakfast table. Tom and Vinny sat to the meal together, and when it was over the girl explained things.

"He has committed forgery, Mr. Downing, and I have persuaded him to leave Oxford at once. He will live it down, I believe. I told him I was sure you would do what was necessary—to—to sell his books and things, and—and—"

Then she broke down, and before Tom quite knew what he was doing he had taken the girl in his arms and was comforting her as if she had been his own brave little sister.

This, however, could not last. With a miserable little smile, Vinny at length freed herself.

"Yes," she confessed, being urged. "I love you very much, Tom. So much that—but it's no use talking. Please to go off to your lecture now. By and by, perhaps—"

However, there was no such by and by for Tom Downing. The brave little Vinny just left him a note to greet him at luncheon. There was no room in her life for love at present. Crawford's responsibilities were all-absorbing.

It was in vain that Tom Downing took train to London the next day and stormed the Bayswater boarding house. Vinny had left, bag and baggage, the previous evening.

Rather more than five years after he had thus lost Vinny Tom Downing went under doctor's orders to St. Leonard's. He was paying the penalty of the moderate literary success; the demands upon his brain had resulted in nervous breakdown.

The first house at which he applied for rooms could not accommodate him, but the landlord suggested that he should try next door. He did so—the name on a brass plate, Mrs. Wills, was as good or as bad as any other name. Here he was invited inside, while the maid servant sought information for him. The room he was in had an unusual air of refinement. But all in an instant Tom came near staggering, for on the mantelpiece was his own portrait in the Oxford days, and by its side Crawford Sands' portrait also. He was still absorbed in his heart's palpitations when the door opened and a matronly woman appeared.

"What brings that here?" he asked, so fiercely that the good woman stared at him. He pointed at his own portrait.

"Really, sir, I believe it is the late Mr. Wills," she replied, almost frightened by his face.

"Nonsense! My name is Downing. It is my photograph," said Tom, "when I didn't wear a beard. Are you not Mrs. Wills?"

"Oh, no. I am the housekeeper. Mrs. Wills is in London. She and her brother are returning this evening. The other gentleman is her brother."

Then Tom fancied he understood the situation. So he had found Vinny at last. She was a boarding house keeper—her early experience at Bayswater was being turned to account. She had married, changed her nature altogether, and was now commonplace, mercenary, and—a widow!

"I was told you wanted rooms, sir!" inquired the woman, breaking his reverie.

"Shall I stay or shall I not?" he asked himself.

He decided that he would.

He was very bitter that day. Mrs. Wills had not come home at dinner time. He ate his own dinner and stared at the sea. So Master Crawford was nearly a qualified medical man—he had ascertained that. What a change must have been wrought in him also. He must have gone to the hospitals almost as soon as he disappeared from Oxford.

It was while he was thus staring at the sea that he saw Vinny herself and Crawford walking toward the house.

"WHAT BRINGS THAT HERE?"

"I'll meet them. They shall have their pleasant surprise as sharp as possible," he said.

But he timed the meeting rather badly. The fact is, he lost his way in the house, which was a large one, and ere he was at the bottom of the stairs he heard Vinny's voice exclaim:

"Oh, Crawford, dear, it must be Tom; what ever shall I do?"

"Yes, it's Tom, sure enough, Mrs. Wills!" said Tom Downing from the stairs. He meant his tone to be at least commonplace.

Then with the sweetest look of sadness and appeal that was ever on a human face, Vinny sobbed out: "Oh, Crawford!" and fainted in her brother's arms.

The young doctor smiled oddly.

"It's all right, Mrs. Craig," he said to the housekeeper. "Don't you worry. Leave us alone. Lend a hand, Tom Downing, if you will condescend so far."

Tom did condescend. It thrilled him merely to touch the girl (she looked a girl still, in spite of all), and his heart was wild as he gazed at her on the sofa.

Crawford did what was necessary, and then turned to his old friend.

"She'll get around in about five minutes now," he said. "By George, what a situation!" And he laughed.

"Is there anything comical in it?" asked Tom angrily.

"Rather, old man. That girl there is a living lie. Look at that ring on her finger. There never was any such person as the Mr. Wills it indicates. She married him for my sake, old chap. Wouldn't have been proper to run the lodging house else she did. She's slaved and slaved between her duty to her customers and what she calls her duty to me. Talk about your medieval saints; they're not in it with her. And now, oh lor! Just the one thing has happened that she prayed nightly, I believe, mightn't happen — you've turned up!"

"Does she detest me so much?" asked Tom, lamely.

"No, the other thing, old fellow. And so if you would clear out quickly—she's coming round. Now, then, Downing, what are you up to?"

But Tom was on his knees by Vinny's side and was pressing her hands to his lips, and when she opened her eyes it was to look into his eyes.

She called her poor little deception an amazing crime, but so did not Tom, whose nervous breakdown left him from the moment when Vinny empowered him to summon Mrs. Craig and inform that good woman that the boarding house might on certain easy conditions be transferred to her.—Chicago Herald.

A fund is being raised by officers of the United States navy to purchase a silver model of the battleship Maine for presentation to Miss Helen Gould.

The Chicago jury that freed a man so that he might marry was invited to the wedding as a matter of course. It is always the privilege of the jury to see the penalty inflicted

Now that joke writers have worked out the vein of the "sweet girl graduate," it is proposed that the graduating essay be abolished. On the same grounds the mother-in-law might be abolished, but she will not be.

A Bostonian who recently startled the east by paying $20,000 for a flower has come to the front again by paying $10,000 for a coach horse. It would probably seem like a cruel jest of fate if the $10,000 horse should eat the $20,000 flower and choke himself to death in the process.

A movement has been started to enable the Maine historical society to raise the funds necessary to insure the keeping of the old Longfellow mansion in Congress street, Portland, as one of the city landmarks. The interior of the house is practically as it was when vacated by the beloved poet.

Jam Lee, of San Francisco, is said to be the only Chinaman who has been regularly ordained a minister of the Gospel. He came to this country in 1863, became converted soon after and was ordained in 1871. He has a church of his own in Oakland, but retains his queue and native dress in order to have greater influence among his countrymen.

John Rule, of Cincinnati, an enterprising young inventor, has perfected a slot machine which sells newspapers. The idea is to place the machines in the street cars, so that the business man going downtown in the morning can get a paper at the beginning of the journey and spend the time consumed by the trip in reading. What will the slot machine do for us next?

Col. Pope, the well-known bicycle manufacturer, is authority for the statement that automobiles will soon be so cheap as to be within the reach of all. He intimates that the reduction will be even greater than that which has taken place in the bicycle market within the past three years. The time is coming, he says, when a first-class automobile, made for two, can be purchased for $250.

Ground has been broken in Philadelphia for the new Metropolitan Baptist church. General attention has been attracted to the church by the fact that the entire structure, from the digging of the basement to the completion of the roof and the interior finishing, will be done by colored labor. The church was designed by a colored architect, the contractor is a colored man, and every carpenter, bricklayer and stone mason employed will be a colored man.

Automobiles are to replace horses on the western ranches, and the festive cowboy will soon pursue the wayward steer with motor in place of bridle, a reversing lever instead of a roweled spur. Thus passes the last bit of "romance of the plains," the horsemanship of the dashing cowboy. Instead of "Lariat Luke" and Broncho Bill" the cowboy of the future will be "Automo Pete" or "Busted-Tire Cornelius," and even the thick-headed steer will laugh at the transformation.

What seems to have very greatly impressed the foreign visitors to the recent great ecumenical gathering in New York is the simplicity and cordiality with which the American people receive their presidents and governors. The absence of pomp, display and ceremony when President McKinley and Gov. Roosevelt came upon the platform at Carnegie hall was in striking contrast to the fuss made when any old world sovereign appears in public. But of course there is another difference. In America the people themselves are the sovereigns.

Recently in Palmer, Mass., Miss Sarah E. Bradford, a lineal descendant of the colonial Gov. Bradford, died in the sixty-ninth year of her age. She was unknown outside the town where she was born. After her death the motto she had adopted as the rule of her life was found upon her mantel. It read: "I shall pass this way but once; if, therefore, there be any kindness I can show or any good thing I can do to my fellow human beings, let me do it now; let me not defer it nor neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

The application of the electric motor to small implements continues to extend, and the field of electricity is daily being developed. The Electrical Review tells of new surgical instruments operated by motors, the most wonderful of which is an electric saw which cuts through bone and tissue with lightning speed. This saw is being extensively used in several of the larger hospitals in New York city, and has proved of value in severe operations where the shock attending the use of the slower-acting hand saw would have proved fatal to the patient.

FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

Senator Mason (Ill.) introduced a resolution in the United States senate on the 26th to withdraw troops from Cuba on July 4 and turn the government over to the people. The bill to increase the powers of the interstate commerce commission was reported unfavorably. The right of Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, to retain his seat in the senate was discussed, but no action was taken. In the house the post office appropriation bill was passed, as was also a bill to increase the salary of the director of the census to $7,500 and the pay of the supervisors two per cent.

The United States senate on the 27th ratified the treaty with Spain extending for six months the time in which Spanish residents of the Philippines may become citizens. Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, was declared entitled to his seat. The house passed 91 private pension bills, among them one granting $60 per month to the widow of Col. Stotsenberg, of Nebraska, killed in the Philippines, and adopted the conference report on the Hawaiian government bill and sent it to the president.

Senator Pettigrew (S. D.) succeeded in introducing a resolution in the United States senate on the 28th extending sympathy to the Boers. A motion to refer it failed because of the absence of a quorum. The house devoted the greater part of the session to the senate bill to adjudicate the claims of citizens of the United States against Spain assumed by this country by the treaty of Paris.

FROM WASHINGTON.

In Washington Admiral Dewey was presented with a watch purchased by one-cent contributions from 500,000 children in the northwest.

The American contributions to aid starving India will reach $3,500,000.

THE EAST.

In a drunken rage William Edmunds fatally shot his wife and himself in Chicago.

At Junction City, Wis., Mrs. Maria Hook and Sadie Hook, a granddaughter, were burned to death.

Near Sandusky, O., William Bolyard killed his wife because she refused to live with him and then killed himself.

In Jackson county, Wis., fires destroyed over 75,000 acres of blueberries.

Advices say that the Boers have completely evaded the cordon which Gen. Roberts intended to throw around them. They are not expected to make any determined stand against the British until Kroonstad is reached.

Miss Eunice Arnson and Willis E. Mayne, both of Minnehaha county, S. D., were married while the body of Mayne's first wife was lying in the house awaiting burial.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

A fire destroyed Hull, Ont., leaped the river at Ottawa and burned half the latter city. The homeless persons number 15,000 and the property loss is $20,000,000.

Advices say that Lord Roberts is apparently moving his forces slowly toward the Transvaal, driving the Boers in the Free State before him. The Boer smokeless powder plant and arsenal near Johannesburg was wrecked by an explosion and 23 persons were killed and 82 injured.

Boers are preparing to spend the winter in Natal and are bringing in their stock for winter grazing. Lord Roberts has not as yet begun the advance toward Pretoria.

A statement that Germany has decided to exclude American meats is denied authoritatively.

Later advices say that the fire at Ottawa and Hull destroyed 2,000 buildings, did $17,000,000 damage and killed seven persons.

By the collapse of a bridge at the Paris exposition nine persons were killed and 40 injured.

In many parts of Germany mysterious murders of young girls and boys occur.

The head of the Filipino "National Assembly," Pedro Paterno, was captured by American troops at Automac, southeast of Trinidad.

LATER NEWS.

By a vote of 20 to 29, the United States senate refused to consider Pettigrew's resolution of sympathy for the Boers.

The latest news received from the Orange Free State indicates that though the Boers have evacuated Thabanchu they have only done so in order to occupy stronger positions. On Sunday, April 29, General DeWet made an effort to turn French's eastern flank, which was only foiled by the cavalry after vigorous maneuvering.

The constitutional committee of the riksdag has reported in favor of the impeachment of the ministry for violation of the constitution of Sweden in appointing a Norwegian, Ditten, to the highest departmental post in the foreign office.

The battleship Indiana has gone to League Island, where she will be laid up in ordinary.

A tornado and hail storm visited Orrville, Ala., literally denuding several farms of vegetation. Several cows and hogs were found dead after the storm had passed.

WORK OF FLAMES.

Ottawa, Ont., April 28. — Over five square miles of territory burned over; more than 2,000 buildings destroyed; 7 lives lost; 7,000 men, women and children homeless, and property loss of $17,000,000, according to the latest estimate, insured for about half its value are the results of the destructive fire which swept this city and Hull Thursday and Friday. Although under control for many hours, the flames were not entirely extinguished until about noon Friday.

The neighboring villages of Hintonburg, Mechanicsville, Eddyville and Birchtown have also been the victims of the terrible visitation.

The dead are:

Miss Minnie Cook, aged 40 years, cremated in her own house; John Pumple, car repairer, 646 Somerset, suffocated in Canadian Pacific railroad yards; George Peeley, shoemaker, 124 Queen street, West, suffocated; John Dare, Hull, fireman for E. B. Eddy & Co.; unknown man, found dead in Meyer's house, Wellington street, Hull; Mrs. Carron, Wellington street, Hull, died from fright, aged 80 years; A. Baudin, eight years old, son of Charles Baudin, Duke street, Hull.

A relief committee has been formed by the citizens, and this, together with the Catholic archbishops of Ottawa and Montreal, will make an appeal for relief to the country. The most serious problem that confronts Hull is that of work. The majority of householders who were burned out are poor and have large families. It is not expected there will be employment for a considerable period, and the way in which many of the poor are going to live in the meantime is doubtful. On the Ottawa side fully two-thirds of Dalhousie ward is devastated, and an estimate by residents of the district places the number who were without roofs of their own in this district at 5,000.

The fire area was viewed by hundreds of people Friday afternoon and evening. One of the most remarkable things about the sad scene was that no smoke was to be seen. There were no half-burned buildings or smoldering logs anywhere. Everything that the fire touched was burned to ashes. All of Hull's principal buildings, with the exception of the Catholic church, are things of the past. The buildings and land in the place are valued at $2,700,000, and of this amount over $1,000,000 may be put down as a loss. Then in stocks, fixtures, household effects and wearing apparel there is a loss of nearly $3,000,000. The vast piles of lumber which went up in smoke may be reckoned at $2,000,000 more.

CUBA FOR CUBANS.

Senator Mason Introduces an Important Resolution—Urges Withdraal of Our Troops.

Washington, April 27. — Senator Mason Thursday introduced a joint resolution in the senate requesting the president to withdraw the forces of the United States from Cuba, so as to turn the government of that island over to the Cubans by the Fourth of next July.

The resolution is preceded by a preamble setting forth that in entering upon the war with Spain the United States disclaimed any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty over the island; that the United States is under treaty obligation to give independence to the Cuban people; that "the continuance of the United States in possession of the island has excited the attention of the world and is exciting the apprehension of the people of Cuba;" that under the Monroe doctrine the island is safe from foreign invasion; that "the Cubans have shown a disposition to make their best efforts to govern themselves and can undoubtedly do so without endangering life or property; and that the United States has done all that could be expected of it."

The full text of the resolution follows:

"That the president of the United States is hereby requested to withdraw the forces of the United States as rapidly as may be done with convenience and safety and that on the fourth day of July, 1900, all civil and military power of the United States be turned over and surrendered to the people of the island of Cuba."

PRACTICALLY AN ULTIMATUM.

American Note to Sultan Produces Great Impression—Not Ready To Pay, However.

Constantinople, April 28.—The American note handed to the Turkish minister of foreign affairs, Tewfik Pasha, on Tuesday, is couched in peremptory terms, demanding immediate payment for the indemnity several times promised to Minister Straus by the sultan. The note does not fix a time limit for an answer, but its tenor is not far from the character of an ultimatum. It has produced a great impression upon the porte, which, however, shows no disposition to modify the attitude hitherto maintained, namely, repudiating the responsibility and seeking to diminish the importance of the matter. It is presumed that the porte's reply will be in this sense; and hence, it is feared the United States government will be obliged to take steps to enforce its demands.

Damage by a Tornado.

Blum, Tex., April 28.—A tornado passed through the eastern part of this place at noon Friday, destroying several residences and a two-story school building. Fortunately but two people were seriously hurt, one of whom, Eunice Hanks, will die. She was caught between two timbers and received internal injuries. About 15 others were slightly hurt.

Treaty Ratified.

Washington, April 28.—The senate in executive session Friday ratified the treaty with Spain extending for six months the time in which Spanish residents of the Philippines may decide whether they will remain subjects of Spain or become citizens of the Philippines. Senator Davis explained briefly the provisions of the treaty and it was accepted without debate.

Killed Himself.

Appleton, Wis., April 30.—Herman E. b, Jr., a former mayor of Appleton, committed suicide Sunday by shooting himself in the head. He had just returned from a Milwaukee sanitarium, where he had been under treatment for mental trouble. His condition was said to have been caused by worry over the Appleton library building imbroglio.

DURBIN IS NOMINATED.

Republicans of Indiana Name Him for Governor—Brief Sketch of His Career.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 27.—After a contest that lasted from nine o'clock till three in the afternoon, Col. W. T. Durbin, of Anderson, was nominated for governor by the republican state convention.

Newton W. Gilbert, of Angola, received the nomination for lieutenant governor on the fourth ballot. The following were nominated by acclamation:

For Secretary of State—U. B. Hunt, Winchester.

For Auditor of State—W. H. Hart, Frankfort.

For Treasurer of State—Leopold Levy, Huntington.

For Attorney General—W. L. Taylor, Indianapolis.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—F. L. Jones, Tipton.

For Judge of Supreme Court of Fourth District—Leander J. Monks, Winchester.

COL. WINFIELD T. DURBIN.
(Republican Nominee for Governor of Indiana.)

Hernley, chairman of the republican state central committee.

Alternates—Nathan Powell, T. H. Adams, F. A. Amsden, G. Brewer.

Electors at Large—Hugh H. Hanna, Indianapolis; Charles Miller, Goshen.

[The republican nominee for governor of Indiana is a native of the state, having been born at Lawrenceburg May 4, 1847. He served throughout the civil war as a private in an Indiana regiment. He taught school during his early life and then became a dry goods clerk in St. Louis, arising later to confidential credit man for the firm. He removed to Anderson in 1879 and engaged in banking. He is still in this business, and is also connected with the natural gas enterprises of Indiana. He has been known as a strong republican since he was a youth. He has declined to accept public office. In 1892 he went to the national republican convention as a delegate, having prior to that time served as a member of the republican state committee. In 1896 he was made a member of the national committee from Indiana, and since that time he has taken a prominent part in the work of the national party. He has taken an active part in grand army affairs. Mr. Durbin was appointed colonel by Gov. Mount to serve in the late Spanish-American war as commander of the One Hundred and Sixty-first regiment. He and his regiment went to Cuba, where it did garrison duty.]

HAS TWO SIDES.

Trade Situation Shows Varying Conditions, But Is, on the Whole, Very Favorable.

New York, April 28.—Bradstreet's says: "Evidences of the fact that there are now two sides to the general trade situation, where for a year past there was but one, come to sight each week. Different sections of the country and lines of business return differing reports, but that the situation as a whole is a favorable one and suffers merely by commiseration with the enormous and almost feverish activity of some time ago is also evident. Excluding the great speculative centers the aggregate of business is undoubtedly larger than a year ago and the business done even in several industries reporting reduced activity would seem very large even to those bearishly inclined had it not been for the enormous aggregate done some short time ago. Crop prospects, except in the wheat area of the central west and in some flooded sections of the south, remain all that might be wished for. Retail demand is improving and nothing of a definitely depressing character has yet developed.

"In agricultural products the situation is generally one of sustained strength. Some slight shading in wheat prices is largely the results of the flattering winter wheat crop prospects in the sections west of the Mississippi. Spring wheat seeding is reported almost completed in the northwest, much ahead of the average. Corn has been quite strong, partly on continued good export demand and partly in sympathy with provisions, which are stronger, more because of steady consumptive requirements than because of lighter receipts of hogs.

"Failures for the week have been 204 in the United States, against 184 last year, and 22 in Canada, against 23 last year."

THE PHILIPPINES WAR.

Reports of Recent Engagements in Which the Insurgents Lost Heavily.

Manila, April 27.—About 300 of the enemy have been killed recently in north Ilocos, including Dodd's fight and the attack on Batoc April 16, when from 600 to 700 rebels, a quarter of whom were armed with rifles, determinedly attacked the Americans, charging their positions and fighting at close quarters. The engagement lasted all the afternoon, the enemy burning the town; but they were repulsed, after the arrival of American reenforcements. The insurgents generally are aggressive in that province. They captured an American provision wagon near Lapo.

Manila, April 30.—Maj. Gen. Lloyd Wheaton reports that Senor Paterno, the former president of the Filipino so-called cabinet, was captured in the mountains near Trinidad, province of Benguet, April 25. Paterno recently, through relatives in Manila, requested and received permission to enter the American lines, but failed to appear.

Will Visit Three Oaks.

Three Oaks, Mich., April 27. — The world-renowned Dewey cannon boomed for the first time on American soil Thursday evening at sunset in Three Oaks. The cause of the demonstration was a telegram received from Mayor E. K. Warren, who had an interview with Admiral George Dewey Thursday morning, in which the admiral gave his full and definite promise that he would devote at least two hours to Three Oaks early in June at the time of his promised western trip, which covers Detroit, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids and a few other prominent cities.

Gives an Impetus to Building.

Cleveland, O., April 30.—The price of steel plates having gone down from $2.20 to $1.85, several large contracts have been made, some of them for as much as 20,000 tons, within the past few days. The effect upon the building prospects is already perceptible.

BOERS GROW ACTIVE.

Threaten to Interrupt British Communications—Buller Reported to Have Resigned.

London, May 1.—The Boers are now showing uncommon activity west of Bloemfontein. They are in force between Fourteen Streams and Kimberley. On Sunday they occupied Windsorton, west of the railway, and now threaten to interrupt the communications of the British force at Warrenton, to the north. This, too, at a time when Gen. Hunter is about to start on a 200-mile march to Mafeking, probably with 5,000 men.

According to information from Maseru, the main body of the Boers reached Leeuw river, due west of Ladybrand, Sunday, small parties trailing behind at intervals of ten miles to protect the rear and whip up the herds.

Slight outpost actions take place daily beyond Karee Siding, where the head of the British invasion is cantoned.

The morning papers give special prominence to the statement of a news agency that Sir Redvers Buller sent his resignation to Lord Roberts after the Spion kop censures were published, and that Lord Roberts declined to accept it.

London, May 1. — The latest news received from the Orange Free State indicates that though the Boers have evacuated Thaba N' Chu they have only done so in order to occupy stronger positions. On Sunday, April 29, Gen. De Wet made an effort to turn French's eastern flank, which was only foiled by the cavalry after vigorous maneuvering. The Boers hold the ridges to the eastward, whence they will probably fall back when the pressure of superior numbers increases.

A conception of the continuous ravages of the war can be gathered from a Cape Town dispatch, dated Monday, briefly announcing the arrival from Natal of 25 officers and 252 men invalided home, and the sailing of the Aurania for England with 400 sick and wounded soldiers.

According to a special dispatch from Lourenzo Marques, the latest authentic estimates of the Boer forces place them at 32,900, of which 13,900 are at Kroonstad, 6,000 at Fourteen Streams, 6,000 in Natal, 700 about Mafeking, and 1,000 at Pretoria, while 250 have been ordered north to intercept Gen. Carrington's force. The work of entrenching Pretoria is proceeding.

SWEPT BY FLAMES.

Michigan Towns of Gladwin, Ames and Others Suffer Severely by Fire.

Gladwin, Mich., May 1.—Aided by a high wind fire destroyed 16 buildings here, including the Methodist church, Michigan Central depot, Brunswick hotel, and the city hose house, causing a total loss of $50,000. The fire originated in a billiard hall, and Albert Bergen, who slept there, is believed to have burned to death. The destroyed property was insured for only about $5,000.

Fisher, Mich., May 1.—Forest fires ragd furiously north of Fisher, along the right of way of the Wisconsin & Michigan railway, Saturday and Sunday. The town of Ames, Mich., was practically wiped out, the loss being $30,000.

Athens, Mich., May 1.—All but three of the buildings in the east side of Main street were burned Sunday. The losses aggregate $18,000. The fire started in the Athens hotel.

GREET THE ADMIRAL.

Hearty Welcome Extended to Dewey Upon His Arrival at Chicago—Many Attend Reception.

Chicago, May 1.—Admiral George Dewey stepped inside Chicago's gates Monday forenoon to the thunderous music of booming cannon and the cheers of 5,000 lusty-voiced Americans gathered in and around the Grand Central passenger station.

Mayor Harrison welcomed him to the city, and the cheering multitudes that patiently waited for his arrival greeted him as he drove through the streets to the hotel. Salutes of 17 guns heralded his arrival at the Grand Central station at 10:55 o'clock, five minutes ahead of the scheduled time, and a second salvo was fired from the United States cruiser Michigan and revenue cutter Morrill, stationed in the lake, as the hero of Manila was driven to the Auditorium Annex.

Two thousand persons attended the ball in the Auditorium Monday night given in honor of Admiral Dewey.

Estimated Deficiencies.

Washington, April 30. — The estimates for the general deficiencies in the public service, which will be included in the general deficiency appropriation bill, were transmitted to the house Saturday. They are included under the following heads: State department, $87,000; treasury department, $543,250; District of Columbia, $77,332; war department, $38; navy department, $6,306; interior department, $9,460; department of justice, $151,168; post office department, $2,560,763.

Died of Her Inuries.

Havana, April 30.—The wife of Maj. Gen. James H. Wilson, military governor of the department of Matanzas-Santa Clara, died Saturday afternoon from the effects of burns accidentally received during the morning while driving with her daughter. While alighting from her carriage Mrs. Wilson stepped on a match, which ignited her dress. She was terribly burned, and although everything was done to relieve her sufferings, she died about three p. m.

Census of Klondike.

Seattle, Wash., April 28.—Telegraphic advices of April 21 from Dawson to Skaguay, and brought to Seattle on the steamer Humboldt, state that the census of the Klondike has been completed. The population of Dawson is 5,044, and the Klondike, 3,397. Dawson has 1,120 voters and the entire district 1,944. The district has 2,767 British subjects and 5,539 citizens of the United States. The population of Dawson has increased 1,200 since January.

That Tired Feeling

Just as surely indicates that the blood is lacking in vitality and the elements of health as does the most obstinate humor that the vital fluid is full of impurities. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures that tired feeling by enriching and vitalizing the blood, creating a good appetite and invigorating every organ of the body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I had that tired feeling all the time. Was as tired in the morning when I rose as I was when I went to bed. I took four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made me feel like a new man. I could work hard and not feel tired. I recommend Hood's to all who need a good medicine." A. P. CHARTER, Creston, Iowa.

MORE LIND REFORMS

FIRMNESS OF GRAIN AND WAREHOUSE COMMISSION GIVES THE SOUTHWEST LOWER GRAIN RATES.

The Roads Yield Gracefully—First Fruit of a Full Board in Sympathy With Governor Lind—Other State Political Points—The National Field—Encouraging Outlook on Every Hand—The Coming Conventions—Twin City Gossip—Note and Comment of the Week.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, April 30, 1900.

The administrative event of the week has been the final adjustment of the controversy between the state railroad and warehouse commission and the southwestern roads, as to the rates on grain, being the conclusion of the commissioners' determined effort to bring the rates on flax seed and grain down to a fair basis.

After many weeks of consideration, and after a number of conferences between the railroad officials and the commission, the determined stand taken by the latter induced the companies to yield. They have now accepted the rates demanded by the commission which involves a reduction from 169 stations on the following roads:

All stations on Minneapolis and St. Louis, from Winthrop to Dakota state line, and from Winthrop to Iowa state line.

All stations on the Chicago and Northwestern, between Kasota and Dakota state line, including branches.

All stations on Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha in Minnesota west and south of Mankato.

All stations on Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul in Minnesota west of and including Wells.

Eleven stations on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern.

From the 169 stations affected a few are selected to show the reductions in the various localities, as follows:

Table Showing Reduction April, 1900.

Marshall	18	14	4	14	12½	1½	13	12	1

The reduction ranges all the way from 5 to 25 per cent or more, and will average fully 10 per cent for the whole region affected. Anyone can figure out the net local benefit to farmers and localities. If a point, say Senator Miller's town of Luverne, ships 1,000,000 bushels of wheat in the season, the saving, which will range from $12 to $15 a car load, will not be less than $12,000 for the season. Governor Lind judges that the saving for the 20 counties of the Second congressional district will be at least $250,000, and be perhaps as much or more than all the state and county taxes paid by those counties.

This is the second reduction which the railroad commission has been instrumental in bringing about since Governor Lind's inauguration. Below is a table showing the rates in force Jan. 1, 1899, and the rates as now fixed by this latest reduction. For the sake of brevity only a few stations are selected.

This is the first time in the history of the railroad and warehouse commission that the commissioners have taken up the grain rates on their own motion without being pushed into it by the filing of a complaint.

The people will not be slow to recall how much they have lost in all the years that the high freight rates have prevailed under former administrations. The people will not be slow to approve of the firmness of the railroad and warehouse commission in insisting upon this act of justice. They will recognize that the commission has not only done its duty, but that its duty has not been to harass the transportation companies with unreasonable and unjust demands; but to make such demands as the conditions required and as the earnings of the railroads justified. That the commission has asked only what is fair and equitable is proved by the fact that the rates proposed by them have been accepted by the railroads and will go into effect at once. To have accomplished the subtantial reductions above cited within so short a time after getting control of the commission, and to have done it without resorting to litigation, conclusively refutes the claims so often made by former administrations, that they were doing the best that could be done.

The inquiry relative to merchandise rates is still pending. But it can be safely predicted in the light of what has already been done that it will be pushed to a final decision as rapidly as possible.

The coal rate case, affecting the same territory, is now before the supreme court. An early and favorable decision is confidently expected.

Apropos of Minneapolis they do say that Mayor Gray is driving the spikes of successful administration in every direction, and the Republicans themselves recognize that they have no man who can come within a mile of beating him. This and other auspicious circumstances cause the reform forces of Hennepin to set their stakes at the election of every man on the city and county tickets this fall. And if that is the case in Hennepin, it is even more so, if possible, in Ramsey. Ramsey, Hennepin, the state, and a clean sweep in the legislature, is the way it looks now.

With Minnesota landed this fall, and Bryan inaugurated next March, what veteran campaigner will not be willing to "step down and out?"

State Auditor Dunn has issued a circular to county auditors more than usually emphatic in defining their duties. Special stress is laid on the subject of assessment of corporations so as to cover taxation of franchises, in which Governor Lind's suggestions and the recommendations of the board of equalization are followed.

The auditor refers to the "plain duty" of the officers addressed, and now the query arises, will he, a la McKinley, follow the circular with a hint to pay no attention to it. But Plain Duty Dunn and Plain Duty McHanna are quite different "critters."

The Lincoln Leaguers report a great boon to their movement of organization of the Lincoln Republicans. No serious dissent from the movement is heard in any part of the country, unless it be in the extreme silver sections.

A fair expression of current sentiment is the following from Dr. Ohage, the veteran St. Paul Republican, who said: "For 25 years I have been a believer in the Declaration of Independence. I am for Bryan or any other good man who stands for that revered document, unless my party shall stand for it," which the same it wont.

Hanna is now very busy in the keynote business. "We know our business." "Keep mum and put up." Somehow they do not seem to gibe any better nationally than they will, in due time, in Minnesota.

Speaking of key notes, steam whistles and the like, it will soon be time for Van Sant's craft to loom up coming "around the bend."

And speaking of the commodore, a prominent Republican politician now located in the east, formerly near the head of the Republican machine, recently visiting in the state, declares that his party with Van Sant at the head will be buried deeper than it was with Eustis. This remark being by the writer repeated to one of the present goppite "war hosses" of the northern part of the state, the latter took a big bite of "plug," and said: "I ain't saying a word."

"What beats me," said another old-time Republican to the writer, "is the way the Lind administration keeps on piling up the good things with which to go to the people. This success of the grain and warehouse commission, in reducing the rates in the Southwest, will add thousands to the vote Lind received in 1898." "And," he added, "I don't say that I am sorry."

It is of course the season of the year when the dairy and food department is most interested in the new "bossy cow," and the fish commissioner harvesting fish eggs.

It is very sad that the state insurance department and the public examiner's department will go on closing those institutions that are unfit to deal with the public. The latest insurance scheme that Commissioner O'Shaughnessey was obliged to lay hands on had assets of 4½ cents.

Let's see. Philippine island reports are that the slaughter of Tagalos fighting for liberty, by McKinley's soldiers, has recently amounted to 1,000 per week. That would be 52,000 a year. The Filipinos number 8,000,000. Therefore at this very stiff rate it will require over 150 years to kill them all off, and meanwhile some more will come on.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Nickel With a History.

At St. Cloud, while workmen were engaged in making repairs at the Ladner building, having removed the floor, they made a somewhat odd find. It was only an ordinary green card, but the writing it bore showed that it had a history. It read as follows: "St. Cloud, Minn., March 21, 1871. This five cent Lincoln nickel was dropped in here through a crack in the floor while playing "crack low" for the beer. Whoever finds it will please return it to K. Leiser or J. F. Bradford, or their heirs. 1871." A search resulted in the finding of the nickel, which bore the date of 1863. It was in good state of preservation, being still bright and showing little signs of wear. The place in the store building where the nickel was found was once occupied as a tin shop by G. Leiser. The card and nickel were shown to Mr. Bradford, who has been sick for some time, and is still unable to leave his bed. He readily recognized the writing on the card as his own, notwithstanding it's over 29 years' rest under the floor of the building.

Reduced Rates.

General Traffic Manager Clark, of the Omaha, acting as chairman for the committee on the southwestern Minnesota grain rates, submitted the schedule agreed upon by the roads. These are the same rates submitted to the roads by the state railroad commission, and are based on rates for similar distance on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads in the northern part of the state, put in effect nearly two years ago as a result of the Steenerson rate case. The new schedule includes wheat, flax and coarse gain.

Taking wheat as a basis, there is a cut of from half a cent to 3 cents per bushed from existing rates, the latter being the extreme, however. The average reduction is about one cent. On the Milwaukee there is no cut at Wells, half a cent at Fairmount and a cent at Fulda. On the M. & St. L. there is a cut of a cent and a half at St. James and one cent at Sherburne, and so on.

She Got Her Wardrobe.

Miss Ada Henry was, until a few days ago, leading lady in the Hot Old Time Company. At Hibbing she had a falling out with her manager and left the troupe, but she says the manager refused to give her either her hotel or her theater trunk. She secured both of them at St. Paul by stratagem.

Miss Henry went down to the baggage room and picked her trunks out from the company's baggage, smiled sweetly on the employes and asked them to call a cab and have her trunks sent to the hotel, as she had to get one of her dresses in order to have it mended in time for the opening performance. The men, she says, did as she asked, and when she reached the room she took her clothes from the trunks, filled them with brick and returned them to the depot.

The Fish Hatchery.

Half a dozen ideal sites in the beautiful Glenwood Park district, in Hennepin county, near Glenwood Springs, will be offered to the state game and fish commission for the fish hatchery now located at Willow Brook, St. Paul. The state's lease of the present hatchery will expire in a few months, and Minneapolis is most anxious to secure this valuable acquisition for her park attractions. For two acres of land in the Willow Brook hatchery the commission is now paying a yearly rental almost equal to the value of the property, and the commissioners have been considering the advisability of selecting another site for a long time.

Labor Conditions Good.

At the monthly meeting of the directors of the Associated Charities the secretary reported 118 cases dealt with during the month, and 149 visits made. The cases were relieved through twenty co-operating agencies. Work in the employment bureau shows a very marked decrease in comparison with that of the corresponding month last year, there being 111 odd jobs given to men, against 278 the previous year, and 386 to women, against 489. It was decided to start the penny savings system in connection with the employment bureau.

News in Brief.

The State Bank of Belle Plaine has been sold to Dr. G. R. Maloney.

The 4-year-old son of Charles Gakin, of Buckman, was burned to death. A team of horses, harness and some farm tools were also burned.

Mrs. L. A. Larson, wife of the senior member of the Crookston Foundry Company, was shot and instantly killed by her 9-year-old son. The boy picked up a loaded rifle and accidentally discharged it. The bullet entered her temple.

The first big catch of fishermen this season was made at Clitherall lake, when Deputy Game Warden Bushnell arrested twenty-three on a charge of netting, spearing and using artificial lights.

More new druggists have been turned out by the state board of pharmacy. At its last meeting the board examined 120 applicants.

At Weaver, John Dosdall was thrown from his buggy during a runaway and was dragged nearly half a mile before the horse was stopped. He was brought to the Winona hospital.

Owing to domestic unhappiness, Louis Rehfeldt, of Winona, a German, aged 53, attempted to commit suicide by severing an artery in his wrist. His wife summoned a policeman and the man was taken to a physician's office.

A tramp giving the name of Martin Connor was arrested at Mankato, charged with having assaulted the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brainard, North Mankato. Connor came from Minneapolis.

A dual track meet between the teams of Minnesota and Wisconsin universities has been definitely agreed on, the same to be held in Minneapolis May 12.

Miss Minnie Fisk, daughter of Chauncey Fisk, living one mile north of Elgin, committed suicide with a shotgun, the charge entering her forehead.

HORROR IN PARIS.

Temporary Bridge Collapses Burying a Number of People—Nine Known to Be Dead.

Paris, April 30.—An accident within the exposition grounds caused a total of nine deaths, while an equal number of persons were injured. Three of those dead succumbed to their injuries after being taken to the hospital.

A temporary bridge, unable to withstand the Sunday crowd, broke. The accident threw a pall over the happiness of an immense throng who had profited by the magnificent weather to visit the exposition. Sunday's was probably the record attendance. Not merely the interior of the grounds, but the precincts also, were crowded, and the concourse was particularly great along the Avenue de Sufren, which forms the northern boundary of the grounds.

Here is situated a big sideshow, the Celestial Globe. A foot bridge, on which the finishing touches were being put crosses the Avenue de Sufren, connecting the sideshow with the exhibition. It was constructed of wood with a stucco facade and with a plaster-made tower at each end. Strangely enough, the bridge had been condemned only Sunday morning as unsafe by the exposition authorities. The public was therefore not allowed to go upon the structure, and in this way a disaster even more terrible than that which occurred was averted.

The weighty plaster towers seem to be responsible for the fall of the structure. The disaster was the leading topic of discussion in the cafes and at the other Paris resorts, and strong criticism was leveled against the exposition authorities for allowing an unfinished structure to jeopardize the lives of citizens, fears being expressed that the incomplete state of works within the exhibition grounds themselves might lead to a similar accident. It should be said, however, that the exhibition authorities are not responsible for the defective construction of the foot bridge, which was erected by the management of the Celestial Globe. As a result of the accident, M. Pepine, prefect of police, has ordered the closing of several sideshows, the structural arrangements of which are considered dangerous.

CONFEREES AGREE.

Their Report on Porto Rico Bill Is Adopted by Both Houses—Changes Made.

Washington, May 1.—The conferees on the joint resolution amending the Porto Rico act reached a complete agreement, after a second session, Monday. The original senate resolution extending the tenure of military officers in Porto Rico until their successors are appointed is retained intact. The sections added by the house relating to corporations are considerably changed, and in their final form are as follows:

"Sec. 2. That all railroad, street railway, telegraph and telephone franchises, privileges or concessions granted under section 32 of said act shall be approved by the president of the United States and no such franchise, privilige or concession shall be operative until it shall have been so approved.

"Sec. 3. That all franchises, privileges or concessions granted under section 32 of said act shall provide that the same shall be subject to amendment, alteration or repeal; shall forbid the issue of stock or bonds, except in exchange for actual cases, or property at a fair valuation, equal in amount to the par value of the stock or bonds issued; shall forbid the declaring of stock or bond dividends; and, in the case of public service corporations, shall provide for the effective regulation of the charges thereof and for the purchase or taking by the public authorities of their property at a fair and reasonable valuation. No corporation shall be authorized to conduct the business of buying and selling real estate, or be permitted to hold or own real estate, except such as may be reasonably necessary to enable it to carry out the purposes for which it was created, and every corporation hereafter authorized to engage in agriculture shall, by its charter, be restricted to the ownership and control of not to exceed 500 acres of land, and this provision shall be held to prevent a member of any corporation engaged in agriculture from being in any way interested in any corporation engaged in agriculture. Corporations, however, may loan funds upon real estate security and purchase real estate when necessary for the collection of loans, but they shall dispose of real estate so obtained within five years after receiving the title. Corporations not organized in Porto Rico, and doing business therein, shall be bound by the provisions of this section so far as they are applicable."

The report was adopted in both houses, so the bill now goes to the president.

Plead Not Guilty.

Frankfort, Ky., May 1.—The circuit court convened at two p. m. Caleb Powers, John Davis, Harlan Whittaker, W. H. Culton and "Tallow Dick" Combs were arraigned on motion of the commonwealth, on the charge of murdering William Goebel. Judge Cantrill overruled a motion to take up the motion for a change of venue in advance of arraignment. Combs and Whittaker were first arraigned, and each entered a plea of not guilty. All of the defendants were brought into court and arraigned. All of them entered pleas of not guilty.

Death in a Cloudburst.

Waco, Tex., April 28.—A cloudburst, accompanied by a high wind, descended upon this city at noon Friday, and the result is that eight people are known to have perished in the city limits and property valued at several thousand dollars has been destroyed or injured. The known dead are: Mrs. Nancy Caudle, Miss Clara Caudle, Rosa Chapman, Emma Decker, Thomas Capps, Frank Walker, two negro men, names unknown.

Fire at Beaver Dam.

Beaver Dam, Wis., May 1.—Fire broke out in the engine room of the Beaver Dam malleable iron works at one o'clock Tuesday morning and razed the plant to the ground, with a loss of over $100,000. The fire also communicated to the freight depot of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, which, with five loaded cars and contents, was also destroyed, with a loss of $10,000.

A Damaging Storm.

Selma, Ala., May 1.—A terrific tornado and hailstorm visited Orrville Monday. Several farms were literally denuded of vegetation. Corn and cotton will have to be replanted. Hailstones of enormous size fell and several cows and hogs were found dead after the storm had passed. Fences and outhouses were swept away and a great amount of damage was done.

The Worm.—"I'd like you to meet my fiancee," said Slangiman, spitefully, to his former sweetheart. "I tell you she's a bird." "Indeed!" she retorted, "and I suppose she must be an early one, inasmuch as she caught you."—Philadelphia Press.

Fair Tragedienne—"And so you liked my performance?" Gallant Admirer—"Oh, it was the very acme of tragic art. But I am almost sorry I went, as I caught such a fearful cold." "Cold? Why, the room was warm." "Yes, but the floor was so damp." "Indeed! What could have caused that?" "The tears." She gave him a free pass for the season.—Sydney Town and Country Journal.

TEXAS REFINEMENT.

It Was Not Up to the Requirements of This Old Alabama Lady.

Louisiana folks are fond of telling this story about their neighbor state, Alabama:

Just after the war of secession there lined up in Texas street, then about the only street of note in Shreveport, La. a prairie-schooner wagon loaded to the canvas-roof with odds and ends of household goods of primitive make and pattern. Two big, overgrown boys, a blowsy-headed girl and an old woman of 50 years were in charge. While the boys were removing the pots, kettles and pans, preparatory to fixing camp for the night, the old woman sat with feet dangling over the front of the wagon-bed, smoking plug tobacco from a black, stubby-stemmed pipe, one of those genial old gentlemen common to country towns and villages approached the wagon and inquired where they were going.

The old woman, after assuring herself that there was no danger of her pipe going out, answered:

"Well, stranger, we jist ain't goin' nowhars to-night, but in the mornin' we reckon to start on our journey back to Alabam."

"Where are you from now?"

"We come from Texas."

"What part of Texas, madam?"

"Oh, from pretty much all over it."

"Did you not find Texas healthy?" continued her questioner.

"Oh, yes. Some places was and some places wasn't."

"Was the water good?"

"We found plenty of good water and lots of bad water out thar."

"Did you find the climate good?"

"Well, yes, pretty fair sometimes and sometimes it wasn't."

"How was the soil?"

"Well, stranger, some of the land is mighty good and some of the sile is mighty pore, I kin tell you."

"I am surprised, madam," said the gentleman, "that as you say you found the climate good, good water, good health and good soil, you could agree to move back to the old, red, worn-out hills of Alabama again. Why did you not stay in Texas?"

"Well, stranger," replied the old dame, "I'll tell you why. It was the society that I objected to. They wasn't refined enough for me."

At that moment she spied a dog nosing about among the kitchen vessels and called out to her son:

"Look thar, Sam, at that thar infernal, lousy, skin-back dog a-lickin' out them pots. Throw a brick at the cuss and run him out. Yes, stranger, them folks don't know a darned thing 'bout bein' refined."

The next morning they went on their way back to the refinements of "old Alabamer."—J. R. Murphy, in Judge.

AN ABUSED HUSBAND.

Tries to Make a Graphophone a Speaking Witness Against His Scolding Wife.

A new use for the graphophone was recently found by a henpecked husband who had a virago for a wife. After vain applications to the courts for relief, in which his allegations were rejected for lack of proof, he set a graphophone to record her violent language. Then he took the machine to the police station on the Rue La Rochefoucauld, and turned the crank. "Wretch, scoundrel, brute. I will eat your liver out," the machine shouted.

A sergeant arose from his desk and said: "Stop that abusive language at once or I will have you arrested!"

"Why, that is my wife talking to me," the man said. "Don't lose your temper. Think how I have suffered."

"Just cease this poor joking," the sergeant said, "and explain yourself."

The unhappy man related his tale of suffering. He said that he was one of the most domestic and tractable of men, but had been forced to submit daily to insults and threats from his wife. He had vainly endeavored to induce her to treat him like a human being, only to be treated with renewed execrations. Finally he sought police protection preparatory to action for divorce. As his wife was careful to keep her threats from the public, he had employed a graphophone.

"Now," he said to the sergeant, "having heard a record of this abuse I ask you to send for my wife and tell her that these insults must cease."

The police said they could do nothing, and advised the man to take the case to the courts.—Paris Cable, N. Y. Journal.

"Oh, whenever I see him my heart beats faster and my nose turns cold."—Detroit Free Press.

LIKE THE REST OF US.

Before Marriage Everything Is Sweet and Lovely, After We Get Down to Earth Again.

"George, dear," she said, a night or two before the wedding, according to Tit-Bits, "do you think it possible that our love and our married life can become the commonplace, coldly practical love and life of the married people we see around us? Oh, George, my heart would break if I thought so."

"But it will not be so," said George, passionately. "We love each other too tenderly, too fondly for that. Our love is not of the ordinary kind, my darling, and our lives will not be so. Ah, no, my angel; that can never be."

And the other day she said: "I say, George, how would you like pork for dinner with apple sauce? You would? All right, then; and don't you forget that feeding bottle for the baby, or I'll send you back after it, and mind that you don't keep dinner waiting."

And he, with a falling-off of the passion of ten years ago, replied: "All right, Lou; and I wish you'd sew a button on the back part of those striped trousers of mine; you'll find them hanging over a chair in our room. Don't have the pork as dry as last time, and you watch the baby's cold. That watering of the eyes looks like measles to me. There's my 'bus. Good-by!"

Barred Him Out.

"I suppose that Rev. Mr. Sheldon must have endeavored to set up a moral standard for his subscribers during 'Sheldon week,'" remarked a fat ex-Kansan, as he rode with a friend on a South side car, according to the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"How so? It looks reasonable to suppose that the worse a man is the more he needed Sheldon's newspaper," said the other man.

"Humph! Looks that way. But I used to live out in Topeka, and I've subscribed for that paper the last ten years. Well, the week that Sheldon ran it I never received a single copy. Reckon they thought I wasn't fit to receive it."

"Sized you up 'as Jesus would,'" chuckled the friend as he slid off the car.

Too Much for the Elephant.

A Chicago showman recently advertised a "piano-playing elephant," and drew a crowd for the first performance. After a preliminary "spiel," describing the talents of the beast and his education, the elephant was led into the ring. He stepped up to the piano, ran a scale, stopped, lifted his trunk and ran bellowing, from the tent. The showman stepped forward. "Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "an unfortunate occurrence prevents the intelligent animal from continuing the performance. I am sure that you will all respect his reason. He has just recognized his dead mother's teeth in the piano keys."—San Francisco Wave.

British Aristocracy Blamed.

Many people attribute the recent reverses of the British to the degeneracy of the aristocracy. The life of luxury certainly does not produce vigor. Indigestible suppers, late hours, constant nerve strain and lack of exercise upset the stomach and weaken both physical and mental vitality. The blood that makes men heroes must come from active, healthy stomachs. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters purifies the blood and strengthens the stomach. It cures constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia and biliousness.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Peruna is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy—I am as Well as Ever."

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, of the Famous Ohio Family.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy." Very respectfully, Dan. A. Grosvenor.

Hal P. Denton, Chief National Export Exposition, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I was completely run down from overwork and the responsibility naturally connected with the exploitation of a great international exposition. My physician recommended an extended vacation. When life seemed almost a burden I began taking Peruna, and with the use of the fifth bottle I found myself in a normal condition. I have since enjoyed the best of health."

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain, and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."

ALABASTINE

LABASTINE is the original and only durable wall coating, entirely different from all kalsomines. Ready for use in white or fourteen beautiful tints by adding cold water.

ADIES naturally prefer ALABASTINE for walls and ceilings, because it is pure, clean, durable. Put up in dry powdered form, in five-pound packages, with full directions.

LL kalsomines are cheap, temporary preparations made from whiting, chalks, clays, etc., and stuck on walls with decaying animal glue. ALABASTINE is not a kalsomine.

EWARE of the dealer who says he can sell you the "same thing" as ALABASTINE or "something just as good." He is either not posted or is trying to deceive you.

ND IN OFFERING something he has bought cheap and tries to sell on ALABASTINE'S demands, he may not realize the damage you will suffer by a kalsomine on your walls.

ENSIBLE dealers will not buy a lawsuit. Dealers risk one by selling and consumers by using infringement. Alabastine Co. own right to make wall coating to mix with cold water.

HE INTERIOR WALLS of every church and school should be coated only with pure, durable ALABASTINE. It safeguards health. Hundreds of tons used yearly for this work.

N BUYING ALABASTINE, customers should avoid getting cheap kalsomines under different names. Insist on having our goods in packages and properly labeled.

UISANCE of wall paper is obviated by ALABASTINE. It can be used on plastered walls, wood ceilings, brick or canvas. A child can brush it on. It does not rub or scale off.

STABLISHED in favor. Shun all imitations. Ask paint dealer or druggist for tint card. Write us for interesting booklet, free. ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich.

DELANO, FRIDAY, May 4, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Wednesday morning was so cold that overcoats, mittens and other familiar articles of apparel were hunted up and worn with comfort.

—Our dairy friends will get a nice pamphlet from which they can learn much about dairying, by addressing Secretary J. A. Vye, St. Anthony Park, Minn. Free to all.

—School will close the first week in June. Attendance seems to have kept up this year better than some years before, so late in the season.

—Mrs. Katherine Kelly Green had a number of her old pupils out for a walk and a picnic last Saturday. All enjoyed the occasion.

—Ice formed on water standing in pails in the yard last night. There was also quite a frost this morning. Pipe plant leaves were stiff. Rather cold for early gardens.

—Spring moving is still going on Mr. Orison moved into the tenement in the rear of the Post Office. John Teichnor and father now occupy the house vacated by Orisons.

—Remember to clean up your premises as per order of the Board of Health and not wait for the Marshal to come around and notify you. Several alleys need cleaning and grading to make them even passable for travel.

The boys have not yet succeeded in locating a ball ground for the season. We presume so important a matter will be attended to later on. Base ball, properly carried on is interesting and good exercise for the participants.

—John Peterson did not escape the chivarie party, though he got married in the city and came home on a late train. It is strange how news travels so fast. John says he would surely have felt slighted if the boys hadn't called round.

—Electrician Muckey has had his residence nicely repainted. The M. E. parsonage has been painted. A. L. Mealy and Frank Swadner are building additions to their residences, and things are being beautified generally, for spring.

—John Cunningham drove to Montrose to mill one day this week. He says they have an A. 1, good mill. That is what Delano needs. But for the grasping greed of some of our citizens it is altogether likely we would have had one under way before this time. Some people want the earth and a fence around it for their own especial benefit.

—Our school notes say that some of the pupils had rather "quituate" than graduate. It was ever thus. There are too many "quituates" all through life's journey. The other kind do better. "Never sit down with a tear or a frown: But paddle your own canoe" "If at first you don't succeed, Try, try again." That's what makes the difference between "quituates" and graduates. Go on and graduate.

—Ye editor visited the High school room Tuesday morning, and was well pleased with the order: and with the attention the pupils were giving their studies, The board, some members of which are responsible for the leaving of Prof. Dewey a few years ago, are trying to jew down the wages asked by Miss Cotton Parents having children in school should visit them occasionally and satisfy themselves if they are being properly taught, and if we can afford to hire cheaper teachers.

—Rev. A. F. Thomson will preach in the M. E. church at 11 A. M. Sunday, May 6. After services the Sunday school officers for the coming year will be installed. The newly elected are:

Superentendent—Dr. T. J. Catlin.
Assistant Supt.—William Hawker.
Secretary—William Mowatt.
Assistant Secy.—Reynold Bronkow.
Treasurer—Bessie Wilder.
Librarian—Eugenie Dannehr.
Assistant Lib.—Annie Martin.
Organist—Mollie Maxfield.
Assistant Org.—Queeny Buckley.
Chorister—Annie Cotton.

—The Minnesota Daily, of the University of Minnesota, has an article on "Our Strong Men". It says: "Dr. Cook announced yesterday the list of fifty strongest men at the University. The results are very gratifying to the doctor, and Minnesota should show up second or third this year in the totals. "Roy W. Allis, who makes the best record, is a freshman special from Oronoco, Minn." 'French, who was first last year, must be content with third place this year, as Catlin is ahead of him by forty kilos." That's our John, and Delano can well be proud of being so near the front among strong men.

—Several law suits grew out of the chivarie given Tony Matter last week. First a fight in which Pete Matter was bruised up. He had Louey, Henry and John Bock, brought before Justice R. M. Walter A plea of guilty was made and a fine of $5, and costs taxed up to each of them. Then Pete and Tony Matter were arrested for using abusive language. Henry Bock offeared for prosecution and Billings for defendants. Defendant, after several witnesses had been heard, appered a motion to disiniss as the court had no jurisdiction; a jury not having been summoned, nor waved, by defendants. Justice Walter granted the motion. The county pays the cost.

—Rev. A. F. Thompson's subject for Sunday morning is "The Heart the Ruler of our Life."

Wanted, in the High School, someone to mark demerits.

Nearly all the scholars have changed their seats. A few have been slighted.

The (6 grade) Arithmetic class are having quite a time with the miscellaneous problems.

Three recitations were given last Tuesday by Mollie Maxfield, Ernest Marr and Mary Steffes.

The Physical Geography class had to stay after school to read over their lesson several nights this week.

Morning exercises were opened Thursday with a song by the school, a recitation by Miss Lotta Sleight, a very interesting talk by Mr. Carleton.

Joseph Sosnick, one of the former pupils of the Delano school, but now of Great Falls, Montana, visited the school last Thursday.

Many of the pupils of the High School made the remark that they had rather "quituate" than graduate.

County Cullings.

Look out for the call for the first Democratic primary election. Be there and cast your vote for Bryan delegates to the county convention.

Be sure not to loose your only opportunity of saying who shall be the Democratic nominee for President. But be at the first primary election and vote for delegates to attend the county convention to be held June 14, at Buffalo, to elect delegates to the State convention to be held the 20th of June, and which elects delegates to the Kansas City convention to be held July 4, and which is to nominate Bryan and his mate for the head of the ticket. If you don't go to the primary and vote for Bryan delegates to Buffalo never complain if you get Dewey, Gorman or Cleveland for a candidate. Be on hand and do your duty.

Among our Exchanges.

Minneapolis Democrat: Bryan and Towne would sweep the country. Such a campaign as they would make would be an epoch in history.

Duluth Herald: The Springfield Republican says: "'Frank Jones, brewer,' used to be a reproach hurled at the Democratic party of New Hampshire. But 'Frank Jones, brewer,' now goes to Philadelphia as a Republican delegate-at-large. Mr. Jones must no longer be referred to in polite Republican circles as a maker of beer."

Le Suer Sentinel: The great speech of Senator Hoar of Massachusetts in the United States senate on the question of the retention of the Philippines, was a splendid presentation of his views and created a profound impression. He only found one man of national prominence, and that was Aaron Burr, that was in favor of retaining them. Quoting McKinley's own words, he makes him vote No, in his speech.

Carver County News: Last Thursday night Page Morris, of the sixth district, told the people of Duluth how they had been misled in their ignorance in regard to the Porto Rican tariff bill. He declared that the sugar trust does not want a tariff on Porto Rican sugar, and that the proposed tariff would not benefit the tobacco trust. If such are the facts it would now be in order for Mr. Morris to explain why it is that those two trusts lobbied so persistantly to secure the passage of that bill.

SHE IS ONE IN OUR THOUSAND.

She is one in our thousand innocent and sweet.
Like a little gazelle her flying feet,
'Neath her sunbonnet falls a curl
She is one in our thousand this little girl.
She is one in our thousand this little "Miss"
As oft she passes you with a kiss
A mother's love beams on her face
She is one in our thousand with childish grace
She is one in our thousand knoweth no fears
In her little arms a "wee" bundle of years
She is one in our thousand passing along.
To the wide wide world By by to her song
She is one in our thousand so innocent and sweet
Like the sweet gazelle her flying feet
'Neath her brow falls a little curl
She is one in our thousand this dear little girl.

MAPLE PLAIN.

Fine spring weather with now and then copious showers. The grass and flowers are coming fine; with plenty of wood ticks as an accompanment.

Some say prosperity is looking every man, women and child in the face. The farmers have a fine prospect for a 50 cent crop of wheat.

Last Saturday your correspondent attended assessors meeting in Minneapolis at the $3,000,000 court house. All the assessors in the county were present and a basis of assessments was fixed. The court house chime of bells furnished us with music while we were deliberating. Some thought we ought to push up our assessment a notch or two, in order to have plenty of money to pay the $90,000 interest on the court house bonds that accrues every year. This colossal building represents the sweat and toil of thousands of farmers and laborers of Hennepin county. We imagine Rome, Athens and Thebes in all their glory could not have produced such a mammouth structure as the Hennepin county court house.

It seems Mark Hanna and company has a pattent right on state republican platforms. They make them to order at so much a head. Written in either Greek or Hebrew in single gold standard letters.

Porto Rico has been admitted into the United States and is now open for settlement at so much ahead including trimmings and all.

The civil governor, gets $8,000; a year; Secretary of council $4,000; Attorney general, $4,000; Insular Treasurer, $5,000; An auditor, $4,000; and eight other official at a salary of from $3,000 to $5,000 a year. Also three commissioners to codify the laws of the Island at a salary each, of $5,000 a year. One commissioner of the United States at $5,000 a year, and the end is not yet. We have a Protective duty going and coming to help pay the freight on these officials Nero fiddled while Rome burned an some of our Plutocrats are swimming in fat while the rest of the people are being bed they are more subtle and deceptive than was the serpent that beguiled Eve in the garden of Eden. It is said that Lew, Wallace one of the leading Republicans of the state of Ind. is quoted as saying our present canditians, are awaiting for the coming of a Caesar and Caesar says; "and you to Brutus" and he received 23 wounds and fell dead in the senate.

In regard to our politics some of the papers say we are in need of a change another says that was the cry in 92 and Lord knows we got it. And again that was the cry in '96 and we got it. And have had it ever since, The administration papers have been upholding the Philippine war right along. Now some of them say paupor labor of Porto Rico and the archipelago will be injurious to the laborers of this country and the tobacco, rice and sugar industry here at home for their products will come in competetion with the same products raised in the United States. It did not take a Philosopher to see this, it is plain and can be seen as easily as a mill post.

A school of experience sometimes comes pretty high, and yet many will not learn any other way.

Give us the flag, the Declaration of Independence the constitution of the United States and the principles of our forefathers as indorsed by Lincoln and our ships of state will come into port not at half mast but in full sail with colors flying. FARMER

Delirum of Empire.

Mr. President, I know how imperfectly I have stated this argument. I know how feeble is a single voice amid this din and tempest, this delirium of empire. It may be that the battle for the day is lost. But I have an assured faith in justice and the love of liberty of the American people. The stars in their courses fight for freedom. The Ruler of the heavens is on that side. If the battle of to day go against it, I appeal to another day, not distant and sure to come. I appeal from the clapping of hands and the stamping of feet and the brawling and the shouting to the quiet chamber where the Fathers gathered in Philadelphia. I appeal from the spirit of trade to the spirit of liberty. I appeal from the Empire to the Republic. I appeal from the millionaire, and the boss, and the wire puller, and the manager to the statesmen of the elder time. In whose eyes a guinea never glistened, who lived and died poor, and who left to his children and to his countrymen a good name far better than riches. I appeal from the President, bloated with material prosperity, druken with the lust of empire, to another and a better age. I appeal from the President to the Future and to the Past.—Senator Hoar on Philippines.

A PROGRESSIVE POLICY.
North-Western Line's Constant Improvement in Service.

Speaking the other day of the progress that railroads are making along the line of better equipment for the benefit of the traveling public, a well known business man who spends half his time in railroad trains, said—"There has been a wonderfull change for the better during the last ten years in railway equipment, but I have noticed that most of the roads do not make an improvment in passanger service until competition makes improvement a necessity."

A notable exception to this rule however, has been the policy of the North-Western Line.

This road I noticed has kept steady pace with the evolution of modern railway appurtenances, until today it occupies the very front rank of progressive railway equipment builders, and its trains now stand unexcelled by any in the country.

This progressive policy of the "Omaha" has not been dictated by necessity, but the road has grasped the situation where others have failed, and it has given the traveling public, the best and latest of everything modern in train equipment, even on those parts of the system where it had pratically monopoly of business, as for instance in its Twin City-Omaha service, and from the Head of Lake Superior to Chicago.

The railroad trains which in my opinion are the leaders today in railway equipment: are the New Duluth Superion-Chicago Fast Mail trains, operated every night between the Head of Lake Superior and Chicago; The North-Western Limited running every night between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago; Badger State Express, the fine day train on the Chicago run; the bright new day trains between Minneapolis, St Paul and the Superiors and Duluth, know as the "Twilight Limited"; the new Twin City and Omaha Limited, night train from Minneaoplis and St. Paul to Sioux City and Omaha, and other fine night and day trains of the North-Western Line.—The North-west Magazine, St. Paul.

Leading Questions.

Should our money standard be governed by the accidents of silver mining? Should it be governed by the accidents of the gold mining?

What are the facts concerning the misery in the world's history caused by periodical scarcity of money metals? What causative relation had this to the dark ages? What effect of the sudden discovery and inflow of gold or silver always had on civilization?

Are these fluctuations—these afterring periods of darkness and dawn—dependent on the accidents of mining, desirable? Would not a steady reliable and progressive developement of the forces of civilization in normal speed and relation be much more desirable than these sudden spurts, followed by stagnation and gloom?

How can we get this constant normal condition, with neither stimulation nor stagnation?

Do you wish a brief, clear statement of the fundamental principles of monetary science, as agreed upon by all the great economists?

Do you want a strong presentation of the vital fact at the base of the money question?

Do you want to know how we can secure a just, impartial, steady dollar that will regulate the ebb and flow of industry and make panics impossible?

Would you like to have at hand for ready reference the price tables and index numbers for England, Germany, France and the United States, showing the fluctuations in prices for the last century?

Would you like to have a set of charts showing at a glance just how violent these fluctuations have been in both gold standard and silver standard countries?

Would you like to have at hand a concise history of the issuing of paper money in this country by the colonial states and the general government?

Would you like to have a brief history of the issuance of paper money in other countries including the French assignats, and the history of the famous Bank of Venice?

Would you like to have the best expressions on the money problem of the worlds greatest authorities, including President Andrews, Prof. Marshall, Prof Jevons, Recardo, Peter Cooper, United States Supreme Court, Bryan, Wendell Phillips, Franklin, Jefferson, Lincoln, etc?

Would you like to have at hand data which will aid you greatly in getting up a speech or a newspaper article on any one of the leading phases of the money question?

All these questions are answered, the "better way" is clearly pointed out, and the new and inevetable science of money portraved in a very simple and interesting manner, in the book called "Rational Money", prepared by one who is a recognized authority upon the subject. Price only $ 25.

The House bill providing a form of government for the Territory of Hawaii, which has been agreed to by the conference committee and will become a law, extends the tariff laws of the U. S. to Hawaii, making the Territory a customs district of the U. S. with four ports of entry, which serves to accentuate the injustice of the treatment of poor Porto Rico by the republicans. Hawaii is to officially become a part of the U. S, while Porto Rico, almost at our doors, is to be only an imperial colony.

Interesting Questions.

What is the history of land tenures from the earliest times to the present, and what kind of land tenures have there been in the past and what kinds are now in existence in this and other countries?

How large is the largest landed estate in this country? Where is it? Who owns it?

What is the extent of alien ownership of land in this country?

Is the tendency in this country to larger holdings of land in few hands? Or small holdings in many hands?

With what rapidity is our land accumulating into the hands of the few as shown by our last three census reports?

What are some of the frauds in our system of distributing the publis lands?

What is the attitude of the different state constitutions toward the single tax and other land reform movements?

What are the arguments both for and against the single tax? What other land reforms are being advocated?

What is the necessity of forestry laws in this country, and what forestry laws have already been enacted by our State and national governments?

What was John Stuart Mills' plan of land reform, and how can it be applied and adopted in this country?

What are the best means of preventing the accumulation of land in the hands of the few, and of multiplying homesteads and small holdings?

Would it suprise you to know that the amount of lands that has been given to railroads in this country would equal the area of almost eight states the size of Ohio?

Do you wish to have ready at hand figures and historical data by which you can show the facts and evils of land monopoly? Do you wish material from which you can get up a speech either for or against the single tax? Or present the claims of other systems of land reform?

All these questions are answered and information is given on every phase of the land question in the book called "The Land Question from Various Points of View," prepared by thoroly competent writers, several of whom are well known authorities upon the subjects dealt with; 246 pages only 25c. Rational Money.

When the smoke of battle clears away after any great conflict on the money question, gold men, silver men and paper men are found intrenched in the old positions and as full of antagonism as ever; but one who looks for the harmonies that lie beneath the discords of life as the solid rock underlies the shifting sands, will discover in each opposing camp a recognition of the all-important fact that a fluctuating currency is one of the greatest of social ills, and that an ideal money would be constant in its purchasing power, affording its possessor at all times the same average command over the world of purchasable things.

The way to do this is shown in a book called "Rational Money," by Professor Frank Parsons, of Boston. In his strong articles on Political Economy in "Progress" Professor Richard T. Ely quotes from "Rational Money" at considerable length in dealing with the multiple standard and a regulated currency, treating the book as the leading authority on this phrase of the money question: and this phase governs the entire problem. The regulation of the money volume is of greater importance than any question as to the substance of which money should be made.

An account of all the important monetary systems of history are briefly and queerly given, from early history to the present time, with special attention to the experiences of various countries with paper money. This book stands alone on the money question, and offers a final solution of the problem. 200 pages. Price, paper 25c. "Equity Series," 1520 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

And the little birds are singing where he lies.

It is well we all remember,
When we gathered in the little room side by side;
It was in the mild September,
And the birds were singing far and wide.

But now we are sad and lonely,
And down our cheeks the tear drops sadly flow;
And we feel like one that is forsaken,
Since Uncle Joe is no longer with us now.

Party of Promises.

The Duluth News Tribune, a republican paper published at the head of Lake Superior, where lives our Congressman who promised to go to Congress, if he went, a republican and come home a republican, clipped our article and give it a head, as follows:

Sunday Liquor Selling

The Duluth News Tribune reports of Judge Ensign of that place as follows:

"The court then called the special attention of the grand jury to the cases of saloon keepers who have been bound over for selling liquor on Sunday The court read the law on the subject and said that the law is explicit, and no one, be he a municipal officer: or otherwise, had any right or power to allow saloons to keep open one hour or any number of hours on Sunday. The court was very explicit on this point."

Ought to be Settled.

Suppose, asks the Springfield Republican, a "citizen of Porto Rico" should go to Europe and be abused by some European official. What government could he claim the protection of? The theory thus far has been that in order to claim the protection of the United States abroad a man must be a citizen of the United States. But a "citizen of Porto Rico" is not an American citizen, and is not meant to be. All these points, of course, will be worked out with a beautiful, symmetrical logic by the imperialist lawyers" Duluth Herald.

If the "citizens of Porto Rico" was wise enough to have the United States flag up, of course the g. o. p. would back him up no matter what he did; but if he should not happen to have his colors with him perhaps he would he left to shift for himself.

RECENTLY appointed census Enumerator Ex-Gov. Merriam, of Minnesota, is said to have learned of applicants for census positions that "They are lacking in ordinary English grammar and composition. They can't spell, and they can't do ordinary arthimetic." and that. "Fifty per cent fail and they fail because they can't divide 100,000 by 4,028. That is they can't get the correct result. Its simply marvelous the lack of education in these rudimentary branches. There is something radically wrong with our system of education." The above we get from Editor Dare's paper, the Star News, published at Elk River. There is too much truth in this charge. Something is awfully wrong with the modern system of school work; or with the carrying out of the plans. But some of Mr. Dare's applicants for census positions didn't get a chance at this examination and claim the pass word to success was "who will you vote for for Congress?" "Hon. Page Morris."

MINNESOTA is said to be slated for an appointment to Porto Rico. Of course our Page will help to pick out the man. What's the matter with sending Dare?

THE well worn reports or "the situation well in hand" will now doubtless not be wafted over from Manila for awhile as Aguinaldo is among friends and Otis on his way home.

WHARTON BARKER for President and Ignatious Donnelly for Vice-President is the Middle-of-the-road ticket. They may get a few votes from the other candidates. But surely it can't be many unless the unforseen transpires.

Bryan and Towne.

The Populists in National convention at Sioux Falls yesterday placed in nomination for President and Vice-President W. J. Bryan and C. A. Towne. This is the strongest ticket that has been placed before the voters of the United States for years. When the Kansas City convention nominates the same ticket their strength will become manifest to all. No one will be called upon to defend the character or the political actions of either. With such men at the head, the country stands a good chance of getting back upon constitutional grounds, and the declaration of independence will again be recognized, and the stars and stripes will mean freedom, liberty and American ideas.

Neither of Them.

In the party of promises of course it makes no difference. It has got to a stage where promises are made, but not always kept. The main idea seems that a voter must be a republican, right or worng. No matter what his principles are; or if he don't have any, the party platform is wide enough for him to get on. If a man believes in the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States of America; the Farewell adress of George Washington, and patriotism generally it is all right. If he believes that these ancient documents are out of date; that their originators and the long and patriotic line of defenders were spending their time foolishly, and that we must consider them too small for our commercial interests; that we must grab the Islands of the sea, exterminate the people who are patriotic enough to fight for their native land, and by "criminal aggression" subject those who succeed them to the dictates of military rules and laws in direct violation of what we have been taught through successive generations from the founding of our government as best for all people. If he believes that our country no longer can get along with what it has had, a small standing army of trained soldiers, a small but efficient navy, but must needs have thousands of soldiers, homesick boys, in foreign climes for years fighting not for glory, honor, or in self defense but for "criminal aggression" and the extension of our "commercial interest" the navy so big that men enough to man the vessels can't be induced to enlist but will have to be drafted, if the present arrangement long keeps up, well and good they are the kind of voters the g. o. p. is looking for. If you want to ape the imperiaism and the militaryism of Europe and their financial plans you are Welcome, if you want to live beneath the stary emblem of liberty and in this glorious republic you are still asked to come and help vote the g. o. p. into power just once more," Promises are made, no matter what you want, candidates representing extremes are put up for your vote.

AGUINALDO has "taken to the woods" and Otis is "at sea". Possibly peace may come among the Filipinos.

GEN. OTIS has left the seclusion of his quarters at Manila and started for home. Gen. Arthur McArthur succeeds him in command. Gen. Tindo is said to have with him away up north, where only terrible savages are said, by censored correspondence from Manila, to dwell, no less a personage than Aguinaldo himself.

The recent small-pox scare in Dassel, turned out to be nothing but a fatal case of measles. One of the family where the man died has since come down with a common case of measles—mild form, and the patient is doing well. We are glad to learn that this is the case, for it would be a terrible sad thing to have small-pox get a foothold in this locality.—Litchfield News Ledger.

Peace in Philippines.

Up to date the casualities in the Philippines as reported from Washington are as follows, the last report being dated May 1:

Died of wounds, disease and accidents	1,224
Total deaths	1,717
Wounded	2,092
Total loss	3,809

Gold for Rich, Silver for Poor.

Some Republican papers show a reckless disregard of truth and honesty in denying our statement that the McKinley Republicans have passed a law agreeing to pay the bondholders' bonds in gold, and in the same law requiring all other people to take their pay in silver or paper money. This statement is proven by the law itself, as is well known to all intelligent men; and it is to be regretted that some of McKinley's postmasters do not know enough to know it. We repeat the question: "Why does the present administration require the poor to take their pay for work in 50-cent silver dollars, while bondocracy may demand gold?" Will the echoes of McKinley imperialism explain?—Waseca Herald.

True Republicanism

Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, a lifelong Republican, made a most eloquent plea in opposition to the McKinley policy of imperialism, last week. Speaking of the authority to be found in the Declaration of Independence for expansion, Mr. Hoar declared:

"There is expansion enough in it, but it is the expansion of freedom and not of despotism; of life, not of death; never was such growth in all human history as that from the seed Thomas Jefferson planted. It has covered the continent. It is on both seas. It has saved South America. It is revolutionizing Europe. It is the expansion of freedom. It differs from your tinsel, pinch back, pewter expansion as the growth of a healthy youth into a strong man differs from the expansion of an anaconda when he SWALLOWS HIS VICTIM. It has been the expansion of Thomas Jefferson. Yours is the expansion of Aaron Burr."

Let every patriot think it over.—Waseca Herald.

It was Small-Pox

All doubt as to whether Rile Cunningham died from small-pox is set at rest. Columbus Cunningham brother of Rile, was taken down with the dread disease Thursday. He has a typical case of small pox, but owing to the fact that he was recently vaccinated he is having a mild run of the disease. The town board have established a strict quarantine, and it is hoped there will be no further cases.

The following taken from the Howard Lake Herald adds additional proof toward showing that Rile Cunningham had small-pox. He was working in the same lumber camp at Atkinson at which Will Esterling worked, and the disease the latter had has been pronounced small-pox by Dr. Bracken of the state board of health. the Herald says: "Three well developed cases of small-pox were discovered by Dr. A. G. Moffatt at the home of J. G. Mauck in Middleville on Wednesday. Will Esterling came down from Atkinson several weeks ago was taken sick at Mauck's got well and returned to the woods. He arrived here last Monday a week, and since then three members of the Mauck family have been taken down. The sickness had all the symptoms of small-pox and H. M. Bracken was called and arrived here Wednesday evening going direct to the house in Middleville in company with the local doctor. The disease was pronounced small-pox and the place quarantined. Esterling was in town Monday and was in several of the business places and quite a number of people have been exposed. School has been closed in the district and the teacher it is said will be quarantined.—Dassel Anchor.

A PATHETIC INCIDENT.

Gentle and brave amid the ranks he rode,
And felt the steed beneath him proud and true;
Gentle and brave the steed beneath him strode,
And felt "My master's hand will guide me through."

And hour on hour, through dying and through dead,
And lashed by rain from heaven, and hail from hell,
From morn to eve, unscathed alike, they sped,
But at the close of day the charger fell.

He saw the shattered limb, the heaving breast,
And eyes entreating aid he could not lend
With kiss on kiss the velvet nozzle pressed,
And longed, yet loathed, its agony to end.

And heedless for awhile how trumpet blared,
Or round him roared and flashed the fiery zone,
He, who all day the battle's worst had dared,
Now dared not brave the bivouac alone.

Then in one sob a fond farewell he spoke,
The loaded death with hand reluctant drew.

O dear dumb friends! O patient of our yoke!
There's many a heart, ye know not, aches for you.
—James Rhoades, in London Daily News.

THE MAKING OF A HERO

PERHAPS it would never have happened had a comrade given him a word of encouragement. But the men were too intent on the grim work before them, so, in the hail of lead, when Private Cory dropped to the ground it was generally understood that a bullet had knocked him over. Such, however, was not the case, as the ambulance corps following in the rear soon discovered. He had merely fainted from fright.

The doctor turned over the shivering bit of humanity to look for the wound, found none and smiled. Cases of this kind were not unknown to him. "Poor fellow," he murmured. "Let him remain with the rest."

"No, he is not hurt at all," he said to one of his assistants. "His wound will come afterwards, when he recovers from that faint, and God help him then. There is no bullet wound that will give him the agony that is before him."

"Shall I throw a bucket of water over him, sir?" asked a man with a blood-stained bandage around his head, but sufficient of his face left uncovered to show his intense disgust at his comrade.

"No, you must not disturb him," was the curt answer, and he turned to give his attention to the burdens which the stretchers were now quickly depositing in the improvised hospital.

"Poor lad," he mused, as he bent over his work, "I must give him a word of encouragement when he comes round."

But when, later on, Private Cory staggered to his feet, the kindly doctor was too busy to notice him. He looked wonderingly round the tent. Then the remembrance of what he had done seemed to rise up and strike him full in the face. He sank down again with a choking sob. He clutched the earth with his hands, as men do when struck down in battle with a mortal wound. It was a burning hot day—the wounded were suffering terribly from the intense heat—but he shivered with cold. Outside the shells were screaming, while now and again came the subdued but harsh growl of the smaller arms. It seemed as if a thousand voices were shouting at him and reproaching him for his cowardice. Then a human voice joined in the wild orchestra.

'You bloomin' cur. Call yourself a man?"

It was the stern sergeant of his company, who had been brought in wounded in three places before he had given up. His face was gray with the pain he was enduring, but he must needs give vent to his disgust at such pusillanimity. A contemptuous smile played about his bloodless lips.

"I call it gettin' money under false pretenses. You're clothed and stuffed with the best o' everything the country can send out, includin' a briar pipe and bacey, and then yer go and —Pah!" and he broke off. "I couldn't hev believed it o' any man in the whole bloomin' company."

He stopped because the pain of his wounds became too great, and he bit hard the piece of Cavendish he had in his mouth to stifle a groan, but other men took up the cue.

No agony of the battlefield could equal what Private Cory was now enduring. He quivered as if acted upon by some powerful electric current, but he made no answer to their taunts, and continued to lie with his face turned to the ground. He tried to reconstruct the wreck of his manhood, but his brain was still in a whirl and those shrieking shells outside still seemed to be telling the world that he was a miserable coward.

A man was handing round some broth. He had been hours without food, and the savory odor caused a craving hunger to take possession of him. A pannikin full was being passed, from which men took a drink, their expectant comrades looking on with eager, wistful eyes. Cory raised his head, hoping his turn had come, but he was immediately greeted with a storm of curses that caused him to drop it again. Fool that he was to expect it. He might have known.

At that moment the doctor came up.

"Give Cory some of that soup. Hold up, my lad," he said, not unkindly; "you may make a soldier yet. Drink this," and he handed him the tin vessel.

"He is a broth of a boy," shouted a man, and this poor joke was greeted with laughter even by those who knew that they had but a few hours to live.

Cory sat up. The soup seemed to put life into him, and he ceased to shiver. He was barely out of his teens, but his face, in its ashy grayness, looked more like that of a man who had passed his prime.

"Feelin' a bit better now?" began the sergeant.

"He'll run for it as soon as he's able," remarked another. "Whew! listen!" he broke off, as a shell exploded just outside. "They seem to have got the range of us now. Nice Christians these, firing on the Red Cross."

For a few seconds there was silence as the men realized their danger. The angry growl of the quick-firers was every now and then punctuated by the long, deep-mouthed baying of the larger guns.

"They are aiming at us!" shouted a man, running into the tent with his right arm hanging helplessly by his side.

Immediately there was a violent concussion; the air was filled with dust, smoke and a pungeant smell, and the end of the tent lit up with a tongue of flame. In an instant three or four men sprang forward, and the fire was extinguished.

"The devils are firing at us!" cried the sergeant. "The next shot will count a bit if I am not mistaken."

Scarcely were the words out of his mouth when a huge rent suddenly opened in the canvas, and a shell dropped right into the middle of the tent. The wounded ducked under their covering as if they would bury themselves beneath the ground. The doctor, with another, rushed forward; but Private Cory was before them.

"Not you, doctor!" he shouted, as he seized the bomb.

"Quick, my man! Into the bucket with it!" said the doctor. "No! There's no water! My God—"

But Cory had dashed through the opening and was running like a hare. They were all dumfounded for a moment. Then a cheer broke from them when they realized what he was doing—a cheer in which dying men joined.

"Throw it away! Now! Throw it!" yelled the doctor after him.

Still he ran. The music of what he knew was their applause rang in his ears. Nothing had ever sounded so sweet to him as this. He smiled. It reminded him faintly of his achievements in the football field, when the crowd roared their applause. The ball he carried was heavier, but the applause—only he knew what it meant to him, and he clutched the destructive missile like a child hugging a doll. He felt inclined to kiss it. If he lived he would be a man and a comrade again. If not—but he ran on.

Someone has wisely said it requires often but the turn of a straw to make a coward a hero, or a hero a coward. Cory was now a man again. The paralysis of panic that had seized him a few hours ago and had frozen his heart existed now only as a hideous dream. Another ten yards—he was quite 50 from the tent. He heard them urging him to throw it. A few more yards, then with a tremendous effort he hurled it from him. Instantly there was an explosion, and Cory fell on his face.

"Poor chap! He is done for, I doubt," said the doctor, as several raced forward, followed by a number of wounded, who limped in pain.

They knelt by his poor shattered body. The sergeant, his old tormentor, regardless of his own wounds, had been among the first who rushed to his assistance.

Cory raised the only hand left him, which the N. C. O. clasped, murmuring something about forgiveness. A smile of exultation played about his comrade's face for a moment, then the film of death gathered over his eyes. He tried to speak, but no words came in obedience to the moving of his lips, for his soul had taken its flight to that land where brave spirits are at rest.—Mainly About People.

The Oldest Table.

A wealthy man was once exhibiting proudly to a younger acquaintance a table which he had bought. He said it was 500 years old. "That is nothing," remarked his young visitor. "I have in my possession a table which is more than 3,000 years old." "Three thousand years!" said the host. "That is impossible. Where was it made?" "Probably in India." "In India! What kind of a table is it?" "The multiplication table."

Working Both Ends.

"My friend," said the long-haired passenger to the young man in the seat opposite, "to what end has your life work been directed?"

"To both ends," was the reply. "I have the only first-class hat and shoe store in our village."—Chicago Evening News.

A typewriter that will write shorthand is the latest invention. The world still moves.

The mills of justice are about as slow in their grinding as the mills of the gods. A case 102 years old has just been settled in the court of claims at Washington.

The official report comes from Wyoming that during the past year 10,000 wolves were killed in that state. All of which reminds us that the west is still a trifle "wild and woolly" around the edges.

Historical coincidences are sometimes interesting. Hon. Charles A. Allen was inaugurated governor of Porto Rico on May 1, the anniversary of the battle of Manila bay, and arrived there on the Mayflower.

The sawmills are not the only ones that are eating their way through the great forests of America. It is stated that of the 525,000,000 feet of logs cut in Maine the past season, fully half of it will go to the pulp mills and be made into paper.

It is rather surprising to find that there were dentists of considerable skill in Egypt in the time of the Pharaohs, but it is a fact. At the same time the artificial incubation of eggs was practiced in Egypt, and at the present day ovens for the purpose are found there.

Freda Poignee, an 11-year-old Illinois school girl, died as the result of a rope-jumping contest. She jumped the rope 230 times in order to acquire the title of "the champion rope jumper" of the school, but a short time later she became very dizzy, and soon after reaching home died. All of which is something for parents to remember.

It appears from a letter of an army paymaster that the soldiers in Panay and Negros islands have deposited $200,000 of their pay as savings during the past six months. He says hundreds of the men intend to remain in the Philippines when their terms of enlistment expire and engage in business, and are hoarding their pay as capital.

An Iowa young man not long ago proposed marriage to a young woman and was accepted. But hearing that her hair was false he declined to fulfill his engagement. She brought suit against him for breach of promise, and, being put on the stand, admitted that she wore a wig, whereupon she was nonsuited on the ground that she had won the young man's affections under false pretenses.

Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, has signed the new law which makes it a misdemeanor to publish the letters left by a suicide unless permission to publish the same has been given by the coroner. Such letters will not be published unless there is some chance that the publication will lead to the discovery of a crime. The law is a good one. The public hears too much about sensational suicides.

Secretary Wilson, of the agricultural department, has been considerably worried by the continual appearance of a fake story in the press of the country about great fortunes being made in skunk farming in different parts of the country. Secretary Wilson says that the story is a barefaced fake, and that he does not know of anyone who is making a fortune out of skunk farming. Not a scent!

There is much room for development in Cuba. The total area of the island is 45,000 square miles, and of this 15,000 square miles, or one-third, is uncleared and unexplored forest. Some 7,000 square miles is devoted to pasture, 10,000 square miles is fit for cultivation, but has never felt the plow, and only about 12,000 miles, or a little more than one-fourth of the aggregate area, has ever been made productive.

Gustavus Bates returned to Rochester, N. Y., to plead guilty to an indictment for forgery which was returned against him 25 years ago. He ran away from the indictment and has kept out of its way ever since, but the strain was too much for him and his conscience finally forced him to give himself up. This man has lived as a fugitive from justice for 25 years and the forgery netted him a mean little $200. The straight and narrow path is the best.

A. E. Stillwell, organizer of the Orient Short Line railway from Kansas City to Port Stillwell on the Pacific coast, states that the road will be 1,800 miles long; will cost $36,000,000; and trains will be running over the road in 18 months. Kansas City is anticipating great benefits from this new road, because it will be 450 miles the shortest route from that place to the Pacific coast, and it will shorten the water route to South American ports 2,000 miles; that is, Port Stillwell is 2,000 miles nearer the South American ports than San Francisco.

Ottawa's great conflagration reminds the world again that cities on this side of the Atlantic are sometimes almost wiped out by fire. Under certain conditions of wind great areas of buildings are devastated and the flames stop only when they have cleared everything in their path. Ottawa was a well-built city in every respect except that it was not fireproof. It was constructed of the most convenient materials, not of those that would have saved it $17,000,000 and its people great hardship and suffering. Such fires do not occur in Europe.

A woman in Binghamton, N. Y., just for a joke, told her husband that she had taken poison and intended to end her life. When he attempted to force a strong emetic and antidote down her throat she thought the joke had gone far enough and refused to take it. Believing that she was still making a determined effort to end her life, her husband struggled with her and finally succeeded in getting the stuff into her stomach. The result was that after being sick for a week or two the wife has come to the conclusion that there are several kinds of jokes.

FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

The army appropriation bill, after a spirited debate, was passed in the United States senate on the 3d, and the naval appropriation bill ($63,128,616) was reported. In the house the "free homes" bill granting patents to bona fide settlers on lands purchased from Indians was passed and the sundry civil appropriation bill was further considered.

The United States senate on the 4th passed the army reorganization bill, which practically revolutionizes the present staff arrangements of the army, the fortifications appropriation bill, carrying $7,733,628, and the bill to create the rank of lieutenant general and make the adjutant general a major general. Adjourned to the 7th. In the house 73 of the 132 pages of the sundry civil appropriation bill were completed. President McKinley submitted his first veto. It was on a bill to open a part of the Navajo Indian reservation to settlement under mining laws.

The United States senate was not in session on the 5th. In the house the senate amendments to the army appropriation bill were disagreed to and the bill was sent to conference. The sundry civil appropriation bill was passed. The general deficiency and military academy appropriation bills are now the only general supply bills unacted upon by the house.

FROM WASHINGTON.

An order will be issued by the post office department forbidding use of the mails by "divine healers."

President McKinley has appointed Sanford B. Dole, of Hawaii, to be governor of Hawaii, and Henry E. Cooper, of Hawaii, to be secretary.

The chairman of the house committee on banking and currency reports a net saving of $6,664,454 by the new currency law.

Until the claim is settled the United States will send no minister to Turkey.

THE EAST.

At the leading clearing houses in the United States the exchanges during the week ended on the 4th aggregated $1,845,882,647, against $1,732,446,108 the previous week. The decrease compared with the corresponding week of 1899 was 14.5.

In the United States there were 209 business failures in the seven days ended on the 4th, against 204 the week previous and 158 in the corresponding period of 1899.

Gen. S. M. Bailey, one of the famous 306 which stood by Gen. Grant in the convention of 1880, died at Uniontown, Pa., aged 64 years.

Robbers entered the First national bank at East Brady, Pa., blew open the safe and secured $10,000.

Flames destroyed the Mallory line steamship pier in New York, the loss being $1,000,000.

The death of William C. Endicott, secretary of war under President Cleveland's first administration, occurred in Boston, aged 73 years.

In the National league the percentages of the baseball clubs for the week ended on the 6th were: Philadelphia, .714; Cincinnati, .643; Brooklyn, .571; Chicago, .467; St. Louis, .467; Pittsburgh, .429; New York, .385; Boston, .308.

WEST AND SOUTH.

In Ashtabula, O., and vicinity snow fell and ice formed.

Off Hatteras the British steamship Virginia was wrecked and six of the crew were drowned.

Admiral Dewey was given an ovation in St. Louis. Ten thousand Sunday school children sang patriotic songs to him and presented him with a flag, and the citizens gave him a punch bowl.

A mob took Marshall Jones, a negro, implicated in the murder of Allen Crosby, a white man, from jail at Douglas, Ga., and lynched him.

The death of Benjamin Douglass, founder of the R. G. Dun & Co. mercantile agency, occurred suddenly at his home in Santa Barbara, Cal., aged 84 years.

The Illinois G. A. R. encampment at Jacksonville elected Joel M. Longnecker, of Chicago, commander.

Dr. Edward E. Vincent, who was surgeon of Lieut. Peary's '93 arctic expedition, was run over by a street car and instantly killed in Detroit, Mich.

Flames destroyed the business section of the village of Fruitport, Mich.

Fire swept away the business part of Glasgow, Ky.

The Ohio socialists nominated a state ticket headed by Samuel Barton, of Valley, for supreme judge.

In central Kansas a hurricane wrecked many buildings and at Ellinwood George Helfrich and his wife were killed.

Fire destroyed the Mississippi Valley Hay Storage company's buildings and the lumber yards of Holner & Lohman in St Louis, the loss being $350,000.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Fire nearly wiped out Sandon, a British Columbia mining town.

Mounted infantry with Lord Roberts have picketed their horses on the south bank of the Vet river, 18 miles north of Brandfort. The head of Lord Roberts' columns has thus advanced 53 miles north of Bloemfontein.

In Rio Janeiro a celebration of the fourth centenary of the discovery of Brazil took place.

On the transport Meade Gen. Otis sailed from Manila for the United States. He will be succeeded in the Philippines command by Gen. MacArthur. Before sailing he reported to Washington that "leading Filipinos express confidence in the early pacification of the islands. They say the war has terminated. Leading insurgents are surrendering."

Gen. Garcia, the highest insurgent officer except Aguinaldo, was captured by Americans in the town of Jaen, province of New Ecija.

In Paris an attempt was made by unknown persons to blow up part of the exposition.

British troops captured Winburg; a fierce battle along the Vet river continued all day, but the Boers were vanquished during the night; there was also hot fighting near Thaba N'Chu; Mafeking's relief was deemed far away.

LATER NEWS.

James Nettles, colored, who had twice been respited, was hanged in in the jail at the Four Courts, St. Louis.

Gen. Young reports that Aguinaldo has joined Gen. Tino in the north of Luzon, and has reassembled a considerable force in the mountains. Gen. Young has asked for reinforcements and desires to strike them before the rainy season sets in.

SAY WAR IS OVER.

Leading Filipinos So Express Themselves to Gen. Otis—Leading Insurgents Surrendering.

Washington, May 5.—The war department has received the following report from Gen. Otis:

"Manila, May 4.—April captures from enemy were 30 pieces artillery, 1,209 rifles, considerable ammunition and large stores of property. During the early portion of the month the enemy was active in the extreme northern and southern Luzon and some Viscayan islands. Our reported losses for the month were 13 enlisted men killed, three officers, 24 enlisted men wounded; rumored recent loss in Samar of 19 killed and number wounded not yet reported. This is due to small detachments scouting in mountains in the interior of the island. The enemy losses officially reported were 1,721 killed, wounded and captured. Leading Filipinos express confidence in the early pacification of the islands. They say the war has terminated. Leading insurgents are surrendering. OTIS."

Washington, May 5.—In accordance with Gen. Otis' request to be allowed to return to the United States the war department Friday issued orders relieving him, to take effect Saturday morning, May 5, the date fixed by Gen. Otis for sailing.

The orders designate Maj. Gen. MacArthur to succeed Gen. Otis in command of the division of the Philippines. Brevet Maj. Gen. Wheaton is designated to succeed Gen. MacArthur as commander of the department of southern Luzon.

Manila, May 7.—Gen. Pantelon Garcia, the highest insurgent officer except Aguinaldo, was captured Sunday by Lieut. E. V. Smith, of Gen. Funston's staff, in the town of Jaen, three miles northeast of San Isidro, province of New Ecija.

Manila, May 8.—Telegrams received here from Gen. Young report that Aguinaldo has rejoined the rebel general, Tino, in the north, and that they have reassembled a considerable force in the mountains. Gen. Young desires to strike them before the rains and asks for reenforcements.

The tenor of the dispatches indicates that Gen. Young is confident that Aguinaldo is with Tino and it is presumed they are planning to resume fighting during the rains.

Two rebel attacks on the American garrisons in the Visayan islands recently have resulted in the killing of 280 of the enemy and the wounding of two Americans.

A force of Filipinos estimated to number 200 men armed with rifles and and 600 armed with bolos, and operating four muzzle-loading cannon, attacked Jaro, on Leyte island, April 15, which place was garrisoned by 25 men of B company, of the Forty-third regiment, Lieut. Estes commanding. Estes left 15 men to protect the town and with the remaining ten men he advanced on the enemy in two squads, sheltered by the rides south of the town, whence they stood off the Filipinos for three hours. Then 20 armed members of the local police force sallied out to help Estes' Americans. The latter, with the police, charged the enemy, and together they dispersed the Filipinos and after the fight was over buried 125 of them. There were no American casualties.

Pier Burns.

New York, May 7.—A fire that started at the river end of the Mallory line steamship pier, at the foot of Maiden Lane and the East river, early Sunday morning, completely destroyed the pier and valuable contents. The police place the loss at $1,000,000. Several barges which were moored near the pier were also destroyed, and many rescues of their captains and of the members of the families on board were made. Only one life was lost. The nine-months'-old daughter of Capt. Charles Lochs, of the barge Sherwood, was drowned.

Six Drowned.

Cape Henry, Va., May 5.—The British steamer Virginia, Capt. Charles Samuel, from Daquiri, Cuba, for Baltimore, with a cargo of iron ore and with a crew of 26 men, including one stowaway, stranded on Diamond shoal about six p. m. Wednesday, May 3, during thick, heavy weather. The crew took to the boats and attempted to leave the ship. One boat with 15 of the crew got away, but the other boat was swamped and six men drowned.

Gen. Bailey Dead.

Uniontown, Pa., May 7.—Gen. Silas M. Bailey, one of the 306 of the famous "old guard" which stood by Gen. Grant in the convention of 1880, died at his home here Saturday, aged 64 years, of brain trouble, which resulted from a bullet wound received during the war. After the war President Johnson brevetted him major general of volunteers for gallant service. He was elected state treasurer by the republicans of Pennsylvania in 1881.

Status of Porto Rico.

St. Paul, Minn., May 4.—Judge Lochren, in the United States circuit court, on Thursday remanded Rafael Ortiz, the Porto Rican, back to Stillwater prison. In his decision Judge Lochren held that by the cession of Porto Rico that island became an integral part of the United States, and that the federal constitution thereupon, ex propria vigore, extended over the island and its people.

The Mine Disaster.

Salt Lake City, May 8.—W. G. Sharp, superintendent of the Pleasant Valley Coal company, has made a report to the treasurer of the company in regard to the mine disaster at Scofield, in which he says: "Total killed, 199; bodies recovered to date, 195; injured, 7. Of those in the mine, 103 escaped alive and uninjured. There are 105 widows and 270 orphans."

No Minister Sent to Turkey.

Washington, May 7.—It is authoritatively announced that until the pending issue relative to the payment of the American indemnity claims is settled to the satisfaction of the state department no United States minister will attend at the Turkish capital, and Mr. Straus' leave of absence will remain as it is now, indefinite as to duration.

Will Dress Like a Man.

London, May 8.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The favorite wife of the shah of Persia, a beautiful Circassian, will accompany him during his forthcoming tour in Europe disguised in male attire."

THE METHODISTS.

Bishop's Quadrennial Address Read to the General Conference—A Splendid Document.

Chicago, May 4. — The reading by Bishop Andrews of the episcopal address, an official expression of the high executive board of the church, resembling in scope the annual message of the president of the United States, was the event of great interest Thursday at the second session of the Methodist general conference. It outlined the position of the church on the great questions of the day, political, temporal and ecclesiastical. Many of the leading men present characterize it as the greatest expression of present-day Methodism that has been uttered. It was signed by 13 of the board of bishops.

The address, among other things, expressed the following points:

Hearty concurrence in the equal lay representation act.

The conclusion that the time is not ripe for formal Christian unity.

That the church has a message concerning trusts, labor unions, lockouts and strikes, capital and labor, tariffs and taxation, currency and the colonies, but it is not one of dictation and observes no class.

The church, aroused at the aggressions of the liquor traffic and inexcusable miscarriage of the anti-canteen law, will pledge ministers and people to a more determined struggle.

Divorce statistics indicate that the glory of the pure family is suffering eclipse and if need be the church law should be amended to conform with the New Testament rule of marriage.

Amusements are being degraded; the attempt to enforce absolute abstention from recreative amusements reacts toward unrestrained indulgence; the amusement question deserves careful attention of the conference.

Sabbath desecration is increasing and the church must stand opposed to laxity.

The church must sound the call for a strenuous and militant political righteousness to meet the colossal evils that threaten the nation.

Entire removal of the time limit of pastorates, with limiting of appointment to three years, would be of advantage.

Bishop J. C. Hartzell pleaded the cause of the Briton in the Transvaal Thursday night before an audience that almost filled the Auditorium. He spoke from impressions gained by personal observations of conditions in South Africa, from personal acquaintance with President Kruger and his advisers and from a close study of laws and administration of laws by the government.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

Conditions Which Threaten Disaster Shown by Dun & Co. Not to Exist.

New York, May 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Failure returns for April are especially valuable because they show that there does not exist, in the most important branches of business, the conditions which threaten disaster. They call attention to one line in which some curtailment had seemed from previous returns to be in progress and has been hastened by extensive strikes in the building trades. The state of business has been represented to fit and used to support several hundred theories already. The simple fact is that some reaction from the abnormal excitement and expansion and rise of prices last year was necessary to continued prosperity. Its duration may therefore be expected to depend on the promptness with which production and prices adjust themselves to actual demands. Much progress in that adjustment has been made during the past week, with increased activity already resulting. Strikes springing from disputes about the terms of work and wages for the coming year have also made distinct progress toward settlement.

"Failures for the week have been 209 in the United States, against 158 last year, and 27 in Canada, against 23 last year."

Illinois G. A. R.

Jacksonville, Ill., May 5.—The last session of the Grand Army of the Republic encampment was held Friday amid much enthusiasm. Peoria will have the gathering next year. The principal officers elected were: Judge Longenecker, Chicago, commander; F. M. Berry, Chicago, senior vice commander; T. F. Blankley, Litchfield, junior vice commander; Rev. S. W. Thornton, Jacksonville, chaplain; R I. Lane, South Galesburg, medical director.

Varnish Tanks Explode.

New York, May 5.—Explosion after explosion followed the breaking out of a fire in the extensive Standard varnish works at Elm Park, Staten Island, shortly after midnight. Vast tanks of varnish were blown to pieces, and the blazing material, hurled high in the air, made a pyrotechnic display that was wonderful to behold. The damage was $150,000. After a hard fight of four hours the firemen saved the main plant of the works.

Ex-Secretary Endicott Dead.

Boston, May 7.—William Crowninshield Endicott, secretary of war under President Cleveland's first administration, died at his residence in this city Sunday afternoon of pneumonia, aged 73 years. The funeral will be private and burial will be in Salem. Mr. Endicott's daughter, the wife of Joseph Chamberlain, the English secretary of state for the colonies, was notified by cable.

Sent to Prison.

New York, May 8.—Judge Foster dismissed four old indictments against Francis H. Weeks. Weeks is a lawyer who as manager and executor of about 70 estates misappropriated about $1,500,000. Five indictments were found against him. Recorder Smyth sentenced him to ten years at hard labor on his confession to one of the indictments.

New Record Established.

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—Fred Gilbert, of Spirit Lake, Ia., established a world's record at the Illinois Gun club shoot Thursday, when he killed 50 pigeons straight at 31 yards' rise in the Grand Capital City handicap. In the shoot-off Gilbert won a purse of $100. This makes a run of 126 pigeons for Gilbert at this shoot, and he has not missed yet.

Hail Causes Great Damage.

Toledo, O., May 8.—A terrific hailstorm here Monday broke many thousands of dollars' worth of plate glass, damaged the city greenhouses, stripped young fruit trees of buds and blossoms and caused a number of serious runaways. The aggregate of losses over the city and vicinity will be large.

Decided to Strike.

St. Louis, May 8.—At two o'clock this (Tuesday) morning the mass meeting of employes of the St. Louis Transit company without a dissenting voice decided to go on strike immediately. Twenty-six hundred men participated in the meeting.

BOER RETREAT CONTINUES.

British Troops Driving Enemy Before Them—Expected to Make a Stand at Kroonstad Hills.

London, May 8.—The Boers are everywhere retiring before the British, except on the Natal frontier and at Mafeking, to the inner circle of their defenses. They appear determined not to fight until the Kroonstad hills are reached. Lord Roberts is expected to do another 40 or 50 miles and then wait for a time in order to bring up supplies and to repair the railway.

London, May 8.—Lord Roberts reports to the war office, in a dispatch dated Smaldeel, May 6, afternoon, as follows:

"We crossed the Vet river this morning, and are now encamped at Smaldeel Junction. The enemy is in full retreat toward Zand river and Kroonstad. The turning movement was made by the mounted infantry just before dark yesterday. It was a very dashing affair. The Canadians, New South Wales, New Zealand rifles and Queensland mounted infantry vied with each other in the determination to close with the enemy. Capt. Anley, of the Essex regiment, commanding the Third infantry battalion, behaved in very gallant manner.

"The naval guns and the artillery made excellent practice, particularly two five-inch guns used for the first time with this force.

"We captured a Maxim and 25 prisoners. Our casualties are very few—only 15 wounded, one killed and three missing."

Warrenton, May 7.—Saturday Gen. Barton drove from 2,000 to 3,000 Boers from hilly positions at Rooidan, where they awaited them. They retreated after stiff fighting, leaving a number of dead on the field. The British casualties were slight. Gen. Barton is still pursuing. Windsorton and Klipdam have been evacuated. Gen. Paget's brigade is attacking the Boer position at Warrenton. The engagement Saturday was severe and lasted from nine in the morning until four in the afternoon. More than once the British infantry were obliged to engage the Boers at close quarters, and the Boers only retired when their retreat was nearly cut off.

The British losses were five killed and 25 wounded—mostly Welsh fusileers. The British took a batch of prisoners, including the Swedish ambulance, which they allowed to return. The Boers, in their hurried retreat, left 13 dead.

PASSES THE SENATE.

Bill for Reorganization of Army Goes Through—Houses Passes Free Homes Bill.

Washington, May 5.—Friday's session of the senate was rendered especially notable by the passage, after a debate lasting only three hours, of the army reorganization bill. The fortifications appropriation bill, carrying about $7,500,000, was passed.

[In military circles the army reorganization bill is regarded as one of the most important of the present session. It practically revolutionizes the present staff arrangements of the army. It proposes to change the present system of permanent appointments in certain staff corps to one of detail by a gradual process, as the officers now in those corps go out of active service. As vacancies occur in departments of the adjutant general, the inspector general, quartermaster general and commissary general, they are to be filled by details from the line, the details to be temporary, and not to exceed four years. The new system is not applied to the corps of engineers, medical department, pay department or judge advocate general's department. The bill discontinues the regimental organization of the artillery, and establishes an artillery corps of two branches, viz, 126 batteries of coast artillery and 18 batteries of field artillery, with a total of 17,448 men. It provides for an increase of 100 in the corps of cadets at West Point, two at large from each state and ten more to the present number of 20 from the United States at large. The rank of the commanding general of the army is raised to that of lieutenant general, and that of the adjutant general to major general, the latter being during the incumbency of the present adjutant general, Gen. Corbin. The president is empowered to place on the retired list any officer who has been suspended from duty by sentence of court-martial or by legislative order in mitigation of such sentence, for a period extending to or within one year of the time of his compulsory retirement for age. This is well understood to apply to Commissary General Egan.]

Washington, May 4.—The house without division passed the "free home" bill which has been pending before congress for a number of years. A remarkable thing in connection with the passage of the bill was a speech in its favor by Galusha A. Grow (Pa.), the venerable ex-speaker of the house, who 48 years ago fathered and passed the original homestead bill. He was then the youngest, and is now the oldest, member of the house. The remainder of the day was devoted to the sundry civil appropriation bill, the last but one of the great supply bills.

Destructive Cyclones.

San Antonio, Tex., May 8.—A destructive cyclone wrecked the San Antonio Loan and Trust company's five-story steel and terra cotta building. The loss is about $70,000. The building was uninsured.

The tornado caused a loss aggregating over $100,000. No loss of life is reported. At Fort Sam Houston the entire galleries of three barracks were demolished and the officers' quarters were unroofed. Hundreds of trees within the fort are utterly ruined.

Seeks a New Trial.

Lansing, Mich., May 4.—The attorney for Arthur F. Marsh, ex-inspector general of the Michigan national guard, who was recently convicted of conspiracy to defraud the state in connection with the fraudulent clothing deal, filed a motion Thursday for a new trial. The basis for the motion is irregularities in the drawing of the jury.

Tornadoes Visit Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo., May 7.—Half a dozen distinct tornadoes occurred in Central Kansas Sunday afternoon, following a day of exceedingly high temperature. Two people are known to have been killed and three injured. Wires are down in the affected districts, making it impossible to accurately sum up the damage done.

Lynched.

Douglas, Ga., May 5.—Marshall Jones, a negro, implicated in the murder of Allen Crosby, a white man, at Gillis' still, in Coffee county, was taken from jail at Douglas and lynched. The negro was tied to a small pine tree and his body riddled with bullets.

Damaging Frosts.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 5.—There have been heavy frosts in this section. Reports of damage to the fruit crop, vegetables and flowers are coming in from all directions, but just what devastation was wrought cannot yet be estimated.

Few College Students Die.

The death rate in colleges is extremely low. The strict attention to the physique is given as the cause. People outside of colleges, as well, may have health and strength. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is recommended most highly for preventing as well as curing bodily weakness. It is for the blood, the nerves and all stomach disorders, and its cures of constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, sluggish liver or weak kidneys, are most remarkable.

Naturally a man commences to go to the dogs when he begins to growl.—Chicago Democrat.

An Ironic Condolence.

When a man becomes suddenly rich it not infrequently follows that he becomes as suddenly oblivious to his old friends. Thus, a Persian having obtained a lucrative position at court, a friend of his came shortly afterward to congratulate him thereon. The new courtier asked him: "Who are you and why do you come here?" The other coolly replied: "Do you not know me, then? I am your old friend, and am come to condole with you, having heard that you had lately lost your sight."—San Francisco Wave.

Free Government Lands.

There are still thousands of acres of government lands in the states of Washington and Oregon, also prairie and timber lands near railroad or water communication that can be bought for $5.00 per acre and upwards. Finest climate in the United States. No failure of crops. If you wish to raise grain or the finest stock on earth, you will find locations in these two states where you can do this to perfection. Take your choice. I have no lands for sale, but if you want information where it is best to locate, call on me when in St. Paul, or write me at cor. Third and Rosabel Sts., St. Paul, Minn. R. E. PEOPLES PARTY STATE CONVENTION MEETS.

Bryan, Towne, Lind—The St. Paul Victory—Presages of Success in All Directions—What the Farmers Say and Think — State Administrative Points Twin City "Prosperity" Pointers—The Week's Roundup of Political News and Comment.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, May 7, 1900.

That there will be effective co-operation of the allied forces in this campaign on both state and national issues, was made absolutely certain by the action of the Peoples party convention that selected delegates to the Sioux Falls convention, and in equal measure is Republican disappointment in the expectation of serious divisions. The latter were given all the color possible by the anti-reform press, magnifying each and every incident or utterance that shaded in such direction. But the rugged truth is that there was absolute harmony, and on test questions less disagreement than occurs ordinarily in the most "harmonious" political bodies. The convention was large, as well as harmonious, not less than 200 delegates being actually in attendance, while the authorized representation was not less than 400. As to character of the representation it is enough to say that it embraced that large body of intelligent, pioneer Peoples party men, to whom is due in a large measure the initiative of those principles and measures of state reform, the benefits of which the people are receiving in the administration of Governor Lind, which these men made possible. Among such men are S. M. Owen, Thomas J. Meighen, Editor H. G. Day, James E. Childs. C. J. Buell, Francis H. Clarke, Sturgeon Odell, N. C. Hardy, M. J. Daly, Geo. N. Lamphere, and a long list of others, not to mention that large number of Peoples party men throughout the state, who are by commission from Governor Lind, associated with him in the state administration. The sound discretion of the body was shown in the wise declarations by resolution, reaffirming the Declaration of Independence and former party tenets, pointing out the dangerous drift of Republican administration, and demanding return to the doctrines of the fathers, declaring most earnestly for destruction of the trusts, and, as to candidate, for "that man who will best combine all opposition to the present administration;" extending sympathy to the Boers, protesting against the treatment of Porto Rico, condemning the financial policy of Hanna-McKinley, and endorsing most heartily the administration of Governor Lind.

The endorsement of the Lind administration, out of the usual in a national body, was due to the strong feeling among the farmer delegates, who thus spoke from their own experience from substantial benefits. The idea was put into a ringing speech by such a delegate, who gave his experience of the price of wheat now and two years ago, when the market was about the same, the higher grade received now on the same wheat being the difference which be measured in his own pockets. One cent, two cents or more a bushel, whatever it was, it spoke more of practical political results than all the "resoluting" that could be done, and will answer more G. O. P. appeals this fall than anything else.

The delegation that at Sioux Falls this week will have registered the sense of the National Populists is very properly headed by that noble quartet, S. M. Owen, T. J. Meighen, P. M. Ringdal and S. H. Reishus, whose alternates are Judge Frank Ives, C. A. Nye, E. C. Lommen and D. H. Evans. The delegation was carried and cared for, as to transportation, by the Omaha, the delegations from outside parts of the state joining the others at the Twin Cities.

Outside of the convention work proper, there was everything to encourage. Talks with delegates and others showed that there is enthusiasm and deep interest in state and national matters, sure signs of good results. The counties are organizing thoroughly, especially the strictly agricultural counties. Special instances are Otter Tail and Kandiyohi. In the latter the young men are "in the saddle," and under the leadership of Editor Lawson are making things hum.

Without exception reports from the country were that Governor Lind is stronger with the people than he was in '98.

Significent of the hour's demand for the right men, was the action commending the vice presidential candidacy of Hon. C. A. Towne, and while enthusiastically urged, still the same feeling prevailed that has actuated Mr. Towne and his warmest friends, that all must be subject to the wise determination of the national conventions.

Such reports are very proper companion pieces to the magnificent victory of combined forces in St. Paul. The latter has knocked the Republican outfit silly. Everything was staked on St. Paul success, where Goppite victory would set the pace for the state boom it was hoped to plant. It was planted all right, but is several feet under ground, where all dead things go. It doesn't do to say that there is no more than local significance to this knockout. Every meeting of the local campaign had state and national politics in it. It was that "Lind and his men must be downed," the administration must be sustained. Van Sant, the supposed state leader, shouted this while "waving the flag" and making other Vansantian demonstrations. "We must set the pace for national success," was General Clapp's and others' oratorical burdens. Well, the pace has been set and the united, victorious forces will see that it is maintained.

In this connection will kind readers recall that this Letter distinctly and clearly predicted this success? Will goppite readers make a note that the same prediction is for overwhelming state and national success in November?

We stop the press to announce that Your Uncle Loren Fletcher has actully made a speech in congress, and that the Capitol roof has not yet fallen in.

And speaking of six other Minnesota congressmen, it is not yet clear whether they will be laid out by their own party in defeat for renomination, or the pig-sticking job be left to the reform forces in November.

The week's Philippine news summarizes the capture by Funston of a "rebel" warehouse filled with the archives of the Filipino republic before McKinley's soldiers scattered its congress, and the almost total annihilation of an American outpost by bolo-armed "niggers." The one calls for goppite rejoicing, the other for a pre-election appeal to "stand by the president."

Speaking of state action, how appropriate that Nebraska Republicans head their state ticket with a national banker for governor. And quite as appropriately is Corporation Senator Thurston placed at the head of the McKinley delegates. Yea, verily, the ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib.

About all the significance we can see in the Dewey Chicago affair is that his ability to stand a trip on the drainage canal would indicate that he had the endurance, at least, to run for president on a G. O. P. ticket.

While the True Americans have been acquiring the Hoars, Boutwells, Carnegies, Schurz and Edmunds, whom have the Republicans acquired?

Speaking of the national situation, those men of whom fortunately Minnesota possesses but a very few who are so densely ignorant as to doubt Bryan's renomination, should know that each and every state convention, as fast as held, endorses him. The list to date stands:

Massachusetts, Nebraska, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Oregon, District of Columbia, Michigan, Kentucky, Iowa, Ohio, Idaho and South Dakota, by present action and state declarations since the last election. In every case, so far, delegates have been instructed for Bryan, and the Chicago platform reaffirmed.

The Michigan Democratic state convention sends a solid delegation to Kansas City instructed for Bryan and Towne. The resolution adopted regarding Mr. Towne was in the following handsome terms:

"We heartily approve of the nomination of the Hon. Charles A. Towne to the vice presidency and greet him as a native of this state, whose love of right and justice rose superior to partisanship, whose brilliant ability, fearless courage and statesmanship eminently fits him to be placed by the side of our greater leader as a joint standard bearer."

In state administration the wheels of good government and regard for the people's interests keep steadily turning.

Public Examiner Pope has called the banks for statement to the close of business April 30.

Superintendent Lewis is after a set of scoundrels that have been working school districts by sale of charts, on which a divide is said to be given to school officers when necessary. The parties in the schemes will hear from Professor Lewis vigorously.

The game and fish commission, by Agent Beutner, is about closing spring distribution of fish, and the streams of the Southeastern part of the state which were long ago depopulated of the finny tribe will be generously restocked, the streams from Lake City to Minneiska having received 3,000,000 trout. Those streams were in former years alive with trout, and it is believed that they will soon be as good fishing there as in the early times. These streams and the small inlets into Lake Superior are the only waters of Minnesota where the gamey fish will thrive. The commission expect under the vigorous administration of Agent Beutner, to plant fully 50,000,000 of wall-eyed pike during the present season.

State Superintendent Lewis has issued the biennial report of the department, highly complimentary notices of which abound in our state press. The report is pronounced the ablest issued from the department in years.

The trust wire and steel mills shut down, and their 10,000 to 12,000 employes out of work; the Vanderbilt line men at Buffalo out on strike; Chicago in the worst labor troubles for many years; strikes of builders, woodworkers and of plumbers in most of the leading cities of the country, such are a few of the McKinley "prosperity" pointers. And while mills are closed or closing, farmers' products lower and lower, Hanna is raking together his campaign corruption fund to give the country some more of the same sort.

And, as to the Twin Cities, those local papers which each week gloss over the situation as much as possible, are positively funny. Thus the regular real estate "column" has "things moving," while the current news shows that labor is idle, building nothing to speak of, and transfers by mortgage foreclosures about all the deals there are.

Some of the delights of single blessedness were discovered by a British bachelor who was sewing a button on his overcoat without a thimble. When the needle was partly through the cloth he would force it further by pressing the shank against the wall; then he would aid the movement by dragging the needle forward with his teeth. He was engaged in the latter part of the performance when his teeth slipped from the needle and he fell backward from his chair to the floor, breaking his collar-bone.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

The Lumber Interests.

If a straight line were drawn on the map of Minnesota in a northeasterly direction from the southeast corner of Kanabec county to the southeast corner of Lake county, thence in a westerly direction clear across the state to the northwest corner of Marshall county, thence south to the northwest corner of Polk county, thence southeasterly to the point of beginning, the area thus inclosed would embrace the present pine region of the state, throughout which logging camps are more or less thickly scattered during the winter season. This area embraces about 31,000 square miles, or 37 per cent of the total territory of the state, and includes all or part of the following counties: Lake, St. Louis, Itasca, Beltrami, Polk, Red Lake, Hubbard, Becker, Cass, Crow Wing, Aitkin, Carlton and Kanabec.

The state labor department has for some time been engaged in collecting statistics concerning this industry, and has received detailed reports from 300 of these camps, showing an army of workers numbering 14,500 men and 7,600 horses. The logs cut by these camps during the season just closed is shown to have been considerably over 1,000,000,000 feet. Now, the statement "one billion feet," while it expresses the facts, fails to convey an adequate impression of the magnitude of the work. A clearer idea is obtained when it is stated that one billion feet will supply sufficient material for a sidewalk nearly eight feet wide around the earth at the equator.

An anaylsis of the report gives an average of 50 men and 27 horses for each camp. It also shows an average cut per camp of about three and a half million feet.

Important Decision.

Justice Brown, of the supreme court, has filed a decision in the case of the state vs. Mary W. Camp, of Minneapolis, which will set the state auditor and every county auditor in the state by the ears, in view of the coming forefited tax sale.

The decision is an affirmation of an order by Judge Harrison, of Minneapolis, and is in effect that if a man buys a tax title to land for taxes due for 1895, for instance, the state cannot sell his land for taxes due for the prior years 1894, 1893, 1892, and so on down the list. It practically gives the purchaser of this title a clean bill. The prior tax judgments may operate as a claim against his land, but since the state cannot sell the land to enforce the lien, it is of no value to the state.

Cash, but No Will.

They did not find the will, but they found $11,000 in cash.

When Jesse H. Southwick died in Minneapolis April 24, his relatives at Pierce county, Wis., thought that there was a will which should have been easily found.

To settle the matter they went to the Ramsey county probate court and secured the appointment of a special administrator to open a safe deposit box in the Germania Bank, St. Paul.

When the box was opened the will was not there, but the $11,000 was, and that made the search profitable.

Minnesota Crop Bulletin.

Early sown wheat, oats and barley are up in all parts of the state, and where the rains have been more abundant, the stand is excellent. In the extreme southeastern counties an absence of rain during the week has enabled the farmers to finish seeding, and to catch up with work heretofore delayed by too much rain. All the barley is not yet seeded, and in some places ground is being plowed for this crop. A few pieces of oats are still to be seeded. A little flax seeding has been done.

The state capitol commission opened bids for the new issue of $250,000 certificates of indebtedness. The entire issue was awarded to Popper & Stern, St. Paul, at the following premiums: One hundred thousand dollars, maturing in 1906, $55; $100,000 maturing in 1905, $46; $50,000 due in 1907, $31.50.

St. Paul Democrats won a sweeping victory in the municipal election. They elected Robert A. Smith mayor by about 978 plurality; Otto Bremer, treasurer, by about 3,000, and even defeated the popular controller, J. J. McCarthy by 15 votes, his rival, Levis Betz, getting in by that margin. All the aldermen but two were captured by the Democrats, and six Republican assemblymen pulled through.

ARMOR FOR SOLDIERS.

Individual Metallic Shields Proposed Now to Be Used in Attacking Intrenchments.

The experiences of the Boer war have shown how difficult it is to carry an intrenched position by direct assault. The natural result is that the attacking force must intrench too, both forces then working round each other's flanks, or approaching each other's fronts by sap and trench, as in the slow operations of a siege. Circumstances will arise, however, in which it is necessary to carry a position at all hazards; moreover, rapidity of advance will not be given up by energetic commanders so long as there is any hope of success. Consequently the military world is continually striving to overcome, by some protective device for the attacking troops, the great power of the defense, says the New York Sun.

The method proposed of producing, by means of smoke balls fired from the guns just before the infantry attack, a cloud of smoke at the enemy's trenches to shield the attacker from the enemy's view, will not always be efficient. Consequently, steel shields are now again advocated.

The Boynton shield, proposed for the British troops, is a steel shield which can be used singly on a rifle, or several shields may be fastened together to make a larger defense. Each shield is three-sixteenth inch thick and has been found bullet-proof at all ranges and weighs nearly 13 pounds. On the march it is carried on the back, covering the knapsack, and in use it is hung on the rifle so as to protect the head and heart in firing or advancing. A seven-pound shield, one-eighth-inch thick, would be sufficient up to 400 yards range. These shields are to be used only in supreme moments, and are therefore not continually carried by the men, but are transported by other means and distributed when required.

It has been reported recently that the British war office has purchased for the soldiers small steel shields, weighing about seven pounds, for merely covering the heart.

During the month of March a captain of the British service proposed for protection a steel cylinder, six feet long, 3½ feet in diameter, weighing 200 pounds, mounted on wheels, (which raise it about a foot from the ground), so that it can be pushed forward in advancing or pulled back in retiring. Each roller is intended to cover six men. Chrome steel of one-fifth inch thickness would be sufficient up to 100 yards, and the cylindrical form, preventing perpendicular impact, would probably make it bullet proof at any range. Two hundred of these would cover a front of half a mile.

Of course, none of these, except the heart shield, has been adopted, but experiments have been conducted with the Boynton shield and with others, and the military world is actively interested in every suggestion on this important subject.

A Story from Gibraltar.

During the war stories in plenty have been current of the stratagems and treachery which have imposed upon British officers charged with very serious responsibilities. Changing the venue, we have the following story from Gibraltar: Some time ago a consumptive German gentleman arrived there with introductions from influential people in England. The governor and other officials received him hospitably and every consideration possible was shown him on account of his health, but, of course, he could not be granted permission, as he requested, to go to the top of the rock for the sake of the purer air, as there is a regulation that "Foreigners are on no account to be permitted to walk about the top of the rock." Further acquaintance, however, with the German gentleman, through the medium of dinners and other social functions, resulted in a relaxation of the strict rule, and he was granted a pass. The result of the visit is now to be seen at the German war office, which is in possession of the most perfect plans from photos of all the works and defenses of Gibraltar.—London Saturday Review.

DR. HARTMAN'S ADVICE

Is Sought by Female Sufferers From Ocean to Ocean.

Mrs. F. W. Goulder, 1306 4th ave., Rock Island, Ill., writes: "I was afflicted for five or six years with catarrhal difficulties and was growing worse all the time. I began taking your Peruna with a marked improvement from the first. Independent of curing that, the Peruna has greatly improved my general health."

"Every bottle of Peruna is worth its weight in gold; especially to me, for I owe my present good health to Peruna."

All over the country there are women who have been invalids for many years, suffering with female derangements which the family doctor cannot cure.

What a boon to such women is Dr. Hartman's free advice! So famous has his skill made him that hardly a hamlet or town in the country but knows his name. He cures tens of thousands, and he offers to every woman who will write to him her symptoms and a history of her trouble, free advice and treatment.

The medicines he prescribes can be obtained at any drug store, and the cost is within the reach of any woman. He describes minutely and carefully just what she shall do and get to make a healthy, robust woman of herself.

The Doctor has written a book especially for this class of women, entitled "Health and Beauty." This book contains many facts of interest to women, and will be sent free to any address by Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A BIT OF SPRING.

The Pensive Poet Said the Crocus Is the Rooster of Flowers.

"Do you wish any spring poetry to-day?" inquired a long-haired caller, and the lamblike editor reached for his gun. The caller saw the motion and held up his hand appealingly.

"Shoot if you will this long-haired head, but do not kill the poet dead," he crooned, softly. "Did I understand you to say you would like some spring poetry to-day?" he added, with mild insistence.

"I would like it as well to-day as any day," replied the editor, "but I do not liket it any day. There's housecleaning and moving and a superabundance of bile and torpid livers and influenza and enough other things to contend with in the spring without having any poetry shoved in on us."

"But think of the kind mine is," insisted the visitor; "listen," and he pulled out a dingy-looking slip of paper and read:

"There bursts the jonquil from the earth
To meet the growing showers,
And there the crocus presses its plumes,
The rooster of the flowers."

"What do you think of that?"

"Who in thunder ever heard of a flower being a rooster?" queried the editor. "The most unlimited poetic license will not permit that sort of a wrench to the imagination."

"Steady, steady, my Pegasis," said the visitor, soothingly, "I knew you would be kicking out of the traces, and I don't blame you, for there is a really startling thought in that suggestion. It is plain enough when you see it."

"Which isn't saying that anybody can ever see it."

"Only the blind will not see. Now observe, please. The crocus is the rooster of the flowers is what I said, didn't I? And I am right, for the rooster is a crow cuss, ain't he? Now, what have you got to say?"

And what the editor said is not fit for publication.—N. Y. Sun.

THE POET'S GRIEVANCE.

His Lines Were Badly Treated by the Printer and He Was Justly Indignant.

The editor was sitting in his office one day when a man whose brow was clothed with thunder entered. Fiercely seizing a chair, he slammed his hat on the table, hurled his umbrella on the floor and sat down, says Collier's Weekly.

"Are you the editor?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Can you read writing?"

"Of course."

"Read that, then," he said, thrusting at the editor an envelope with an inscription on it.

"B——" said the editor, trying to spell it.

"That's not a B—it's an S," said the man.

"S—oh, yes, I see. Well, it looks like 'Salt for Dinner,' or 'Souls of Sinners.'"

"No, sir," replied the man, "nothing of the kind. That's my name—Samuel H. Brunner. I knew you couldn't read. Called to see you about that poem of mine you printed the other day on the 'Surcease of Sorrow.'"

"Don't remember it."

"Of course you don't, because it went into the paper underneath the infamous title of 'Smearcase To-morrow.'"

The editor fled.

BABY'S BAWLS

MAM-M-MA!!
DON'T YOU HEAR BABY CRY?

Do you forget that summer's coming with all its dangers to the little ones—all troubles bred in the bowels.

The summer's heat kills babies and little children because their little insides are not in good, clean, strong condition.

Winter has filled the system with bile. Belching, vomiting up of sour food, rash, flushed skin, colic, restlessness, diarrhoea or constipation, all testify that the bowels are out of order.

If you want the little ones to face the coming dangers without anxious fear for their lives, see that the baby's bowels are gently, soothingly, but positively cleaned out in the spring time, and made strong and healthy before hot weather sets in.

The only safe laxative for children, pleasant to take (they ask for more) is CASCARETS. Nursing mothers make their milk mildly purgative for the baby by eating a CASCARET now and then. DELANO, FRIDAY, May 11, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Delano Fair day tomorrow. A big crowd is expected.

—The village sprinkler is on duty. It is nice to have the dust kept down.

—The little folks enjoyed the St. Cecelia Club's social at Wash Rader's Tuesday afternoon.

—The remains of G. U. Miller, who died in Minneapolis, were shipped to Watertown where they were buried Saturday.

—Charley Carleton is building some fine counters and shelvings for Mrs. Billings who is going to open up a confectionery store at the old stand, soon.

—The nights keep cool several times the themometer has reached the freezing point. Plums and other blossoms begin to show the effects by dropping off.

—About twenty of the Delano Epworth League members visited the Armstroug League last Sunday evening. A good meeting and a plesant trip is reported.

—Prof. Canedy has placed one of the finest sets of mirrors in town in his shop. All the good looking young men will now be expected to patronize him. Competition is the life of trade.

—Farmers say that oats and wheat were considerably frozen during the cold nights last week, but they seem to think they will come out all right again. They claim the ground froze an inch and a half or two inches in places.

—Bev Yancy has had his office rejuvinated and brought up to grade, and down to modern times. He intends that the lower town people shall have as fashionable shaves as do the up town folks. Competition is the life of trade.

—S. S. Simpson, at one time buttermaker at the Svea creamery, is now located at the Lyndale creamery in Hennepin county. The Lyndale creamery is one of the best in the state and we are pleased to note Mr. Simpson's employment there.—Willmar Argus.

—Rev. B. F. Kephart who has been in Ashville, N. C. the past winter was visiting in our village, and on Sunday morning occupied his old place, the pulpit in the M. E. church. He was enroute to Sauk Center where his eldest daughter resides.—Sherburne County Times, Clear Lake.

—News reached Delano last Friday evening of the overturning of a buggy and the injury of one of the occupants Miss Kate Flannery, who lived with her Uncle J. W. Walsh at Waverly, E. S. Redmond drove up with their priest, who happened to be here. But Miss Katie died before their arrival.

—O. L. Billings has become owner and proprietor, of the old Mrs. Roehl property on R. R. Ave. and J. E. Borsch of the Peterson blacksmith shop on Bridge street, by purchase of tax titles at Buffalo on Monday. People must keep taxes paid up nowadays or the other fellow will own their property almost before they know it.

—C. G. Roosen sold his farm on the Buffalo road known as the Rausch farm one day this week to Miss Alice E. Leonard, a Minneapolis schoolma'am. Consideration enough to require an investment of $5, in revenue stamps to put on the deed. And yet there are people advocating pensioning schoolma'ams in Minneapolis.

—From the Pioneer, of Ida Grove Iowa we clip:

"The school board of Ida Grove, at their last regular meeting reduced the salaries of principal and assistant of their public schools. Moral—Pay good wages if you expect to retain good teachers.—Battle Creek Enterprise.

The Delano Board of Education might think on this subject, Possibly they may.

—New sidewalk is partially down on Bridge between Second and Third street. Work was suspended on account of the supply of lumber running short. The sidewalks between the City Hall and the school house is much improved. There should be a new walk built from Schaffer's corner on River and Elm, up Elm to Third Street at Ziebarth's corner. This would be quite a convenence to many people.

—People at the early train from the west, on Wednesday morning remarked that there was plenty of room in the cars for all, and if any one from here was going to the city he would have no trouble in finding a seat. This is rather an unusual state of affairs for morning trains through Delano, and explanations were offered, the most plausible of which was that on account of the strike in Montana, no through passengers were aboard. Passengers will have much better accommodation but the railroad company will make much less money by running big trains with so few passengers.

Lincoln on Despotism.

No man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent When the white man governs himself that is self government; but when he governs himself and also governs another man, that is more than self-government That is despotism.

Empty Tin Pails.

To judge from the gigantic strikes for higher wages occurring all over the country it would appear that the "full tin pails" Mr. McKinley alluded to in his stump speeches last autumn have been emptied and further filling material not to be had.—National Democrat.

People keep throwing dead dogs, cats, hogs, and other animals into the river. Some of these days some one will be caught at it, and be obliged to suffer the penalty. Then it will be an easier matter for them to bury their dead animals than to put them in the river.

Elsewhere we publish a list of census enumerators for Wright County Although it was at first distinctly understood that politics would cut on figure in their selection, it would be interesting to know just what percent of the twentynine are not Morris men.

The Christian Endeavor rally led by Gen. Adams, at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday, was attended by many from neighboring villages and was a success. Dinner was served at noon, at the church, and exercises were kept up most of the day from early morning till late at night.

If our, economical on hiring teachers, school board allows the efficient teacher of the High school to go, on account of a difference over wages of $5, per month, will they offer that $5, per month to as good an instructor in music, or will they pay more? Or do they intend dropping music from the school curriculum?

A few "smart" young men make a practice of getting onto passenger and other trains at the depot and riding out for a distance and jumping off to walk back. Should they fall into the powerful paws of Villiage Marshal Merriman they need not be surprised. There is a fine attached to such conduct and they may be asked to contribute their shares to the treasury.

A strange thing about Gen. Adam's lecture on Porto Rico is the way different people tell what he said. One says he excused McKinley's army canteen by saying the water was so poor in Porto Rico. Another says he said nothing of water except that the country was well watered, while the Eagle says he described the "perfect climate, pure water," etc. You will have to take your choice.

The J. I. Case, Threshing Machine Company of Racine, gave our citizens a short concert this morning while their gaily decorated train load of threshers and engines bound for the west stopped long enough for the water tank to be filled with Crow River water. This is the first band we have heard for lo! these many days. What a pity enough musicians cant dwell in harmony in Delano to keep up a band.

On Wednesday after school, Stephen, the seven year old son of the late Casper Janikula lost the end of his middle finger, above the first joint. His older brother cut it off with an ax. The family live in the suburbs of the village and the accident was not known outside of the family, for sometime. Mrs. Zillo on her way to church passing by, found Mrs. Jannikula in a fainting condition and on further enquiry the boy with his fieger off. She sought surgical aid. Drs. Catlin and Shrader ampulated the bone and dressed the finger. Stephen is doing as nicely as possible under the circumstances. Boys should be more careful in handling tools

Friendship, Truth and Love.

The following article was read by Mrs. Katherine Kelly Green at the anniversary of Oddfellowism recently held in their hall in Delano:

The beautiful words of this little motto are so dependent upon one another that the least digression from the dictates of the one, seriously impares the consistency of the other.

Friendship is the circlet, that when adorned by the peail of truth, finds its full development in the beautiful and holy crown of love.

What standard of measure can define the value of true friendship.

Emerson says, "the only way to have a friend is to be one: The essence of friendship is entireness, a total magnanimity and trust."

In these days of self emolument and social aspirations we often find the nobler virtue of friendship occupying a secondary place in the human heart.

The divine mandate, "Love thy neighbor as thyself" is of ten painfully disregarded. Household duties weigh upon its business interests absorb our attention so completely that self surcumscribes our horizon of sympathy.

Duty often prompts us to make friendly concessions, but like the knight of old, we throw from afar and like his alms it lies untouched in the dust. For "he gives nothing but worthless gold who gives from a sense of duty."

The virtue of friendship has seriously degenerated, since the human family must organize into fraternal societies for its perpetuation.

Truth walks hand in hand with friendship. No noble friendship can exist with out its truthful guilding.

The philanthropist who for personal aggrandigment beetows his gifts with lavish hand, soon experiences the transparency of his motive unless guid by truth.

Love is the full development of friendship and truth.

It is that virtue that lightens the most fatiguing tasks, and casts the most excruciating pain into oblivion.

The love of country has sustained and buoyed the faltering courage of the half famished soldier on his weary line of march to the field of battle; the love of friends has prompted many a one to receive the missile intended for another. When the two were on the sinking spar in mid ocean, it was love that inspired the one to step off into the raging billows in order to preserve the life of his companion. It is love of home ties that sustains the parent through out his midnight vigil over his helpless little ones, and causes him to eke out his existince in their behalf, and it was love of mankind that occasioned that wonderful sacrifice on Mt. Calvary.

Let us pray for more zeal in practicing these virtues, and promoting the happiness of our fellow men; then when the final summons to assemble is wafted to our ears may we be found words among those to whom these are addressed:—

"For I was hungered and ye gave me meat; I was thsrsty and ye gave me drink; I was naked and ye clothed me; I was sick and ye visited me: I was in prison and ye came into me."

County Cullings.

Waverly Tribune: The Republicans are boasting that they have kept all their pledges to the country, but most people think that they ought to take off at least 15 per cent of the claim.

Not much work seems to be done in this part of the county in opposition to Mr. Swanberg in his effort to secure the sheriffs nomination. Every thing seems favorable so far, and no change is liable to take place as he is immensely popular throughut the county.—Cokato Enterprise.

There is a remarkable sameness in Republican state platforms this year. By some this is regarded as a sign of unusual harmony, while others credit it to the work of a master hand. Mark Hanna is evidently pulling the strings and the machine is running smoothly. But it may slip a few cogs in November.

The republican county convention for electing congressional and State delegates was held on Wednesday, at Buffalo. Postmaster Lamson was Chairman and Postmaster Towle was Secretary and P. M. Jewett and Post master Lindsley and we don't just know how many more Page Morris men were either present or elected delegates to Duluth. The convention resolved in favor of Page Morris, McKinley, A. P. Peterson, but neglected Capt. Van Sant. Did they make any thing or did they loose by that? Following is a list of delegates chosen:

Delegates to the state convention, are:

At large: Jim Graves, C. A. Pidgeon, S. J. Swanson.

First Dist.: Thos. Hudek, H. Spindler, A. J. Lindberg.

Second: W. H. Marvin, J. T. Alley, Aug. Hafften.

Third: Nate Warner, O. A. Burns, J. F. Lauzer.

Fourth: H. L. Wright, R. C. Workman, E. C. Bowman.

Fifth: E. Y. Chilton, A. P. Peterson, C. G. Holmberg.

Delegates to the congressional convention were chosen as follows:

At large: A. T. Larson.

First Dist.: W. D. McDonald, A. A. Jewett, Fred Murray, D. McKenzie.

Second: G. R. Wedgewood, F. B. Lamson, C. B. Parker, Geo. C. Carpenter.

Third: D. R. Thompson, C. J. Buckley, F. H. Lindsley, O. C. Roberts.

Fourth: C. G. Kingstedt, E. R. Olson, W. G. Young.

Fifth: A. Hammersten, J. H. Ajimer, M. M. Woolley, Jacob Ojanpera.

Among our Exchanges.

Duluth News Tribune: Admiral Dewey is cordially received in the West, but it's the kind of enthusiasm that can't be expressed in votes.

Duluth Herald: Mr. Towne's boom for vice president on the ticket with Mr. Bryan continues to grow. The Democratic state convention in Michigan strongly endorsed him, and now the Minnesota Populist convention has done likewise.

Waseca Herald: "The Svenska Folkets Tidning, leading Swedish newspaper in the state, comes out strongly for Van Sant for governor," say the echoes. Well, what of it? That paper was recently bought by McKinley politicians on purpose to fight John Lind, and what else can one expect of such a paper?

Will Nott and Gus Luhman have imported a trio of well bred Belgian Hares and will breed them for market. Belgian hare is becoming a dainty dish and the boys expect soon to be in the market. Along with the hares came their pedigrees which goes to show that the boys have chosen well if breeding is a sign.—Howard Lake Herald.

Saint Cloud Times: The Senate on Monday voted down a resolution of sympathy for the brave South African Boers. This is the first time in the history of the nation that Congress has refused words of sympathy to a people struggling for their liberty against the armies of a monarchy. But, things have changed since McKinley became President.

Duluth Herald: It is not often that the American soldier has an opportunity to show all the grit that is in him, but it came to that little garrison on the island of Samar, P. I. Surrounded by hundreds of natives these brave fellows, thirty or them, beat back the foe for five days. When help came there were but ten of them alive, but they had not surrendered.

Duluth Herald: The venerable Judge Jickson of the United States circuit, at Wheeling, W. Va., expressed a pessimistic view in charging a jury on Wednesday: "My experience on the bench has not been a limited one, and I regret to say that crime in this country is on the increase. I am unable to determine whether it is a result of increasing population or of the lowering of the standard of public morality"

A PROGRESSIVE POLICY.
North-Western Line's Constant Improvement in Service.

Speaking the other day of the progress that railroads are making along the line of better equipment for the benefit of the traveling public, a well known business man who spends half his time in railroad trains, said—"There has been a wonderfull change for the better during the last ten years in railway equipment, but I have noticed that most of the roads do not make an improvment in passanger service until competition makes improvement a necessity."

A notable exception to this rule however, has been the policy of the North-Western Line.

This road I noticed has kept steady pace with the evolution of modern railway appurtenances, until today it occupies the very front rank of progressive railway equipment builders, and its trains now stand unexcelled by any in the country.

This progressive policy of the "Omaha" has not been dictated by necessity, but the road has grasped the situation where others have failed, and it has given the traveling public, the best and latest ot everything modern in train equipment, even on those parts of the system where it had pratically monopoly of business, as for instance in its Twin City-Omaha service, and from the Head of Lake Superior to Chicago.

The railroad trains which in my opinion are the leaders today in railway equipment: are the New Duluth Superion-Chicago Fast Mail trains, operated eaey night between the Head of Lake Superior and Chicago; The North-Western Limited running every night between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago; Badger State Express, the fine day train on the Chicago run; the bright new day trains between Minneapolis, St Paul and the Superiors and Duluth, know as the "Twilight Limited"; the new Twin City and Omaha Limited, night train from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Sioux City and Omaha, and other fine night and day trains of the North-Western Line.—The North-west Magazine, St Paul.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27, 1900.

Does the administration really favor the Nicaragua Canal? In view of the known condition of public sentiment, that question may sound odd, but there were things said in the debate which preceded the passing of the Nicaragua Canal bill by the House which made it pertinent. Representative Hepburn, of Iowa, who was in charge of the bill, had a sensational row with Representative Cannon, of Ill., a man close to the administration, whom he charged with working in the interest of the Panama Canal ring, in trying to defer action on the bill. Representative Burton, of Ohio, also a man close to the administration, made a speech against naming the route of the canal in the bill. These things were enough to arouse the suspicion that the administration was not acting in good faith, and there were others. It is said that the failure of the Canal Commission to make a preliminary report was owing to a hint from the administration. Perhaps Boss Hanna thinks of working the Panama Canal Company for a big campaign contribution. At any rate, it is well known that the bill just passed by the House will not be acted upon by the Senate at this session.

Capt. Chadwick has found out that the protection extended to Rear Admiral Sampson by the administration does not include all of Sampson's friends. Secretary Long's letter remanding Chadwick—the second within a year for the same offense,—published this week, for slaring at Rear Admiral Schley, was about as stinging a document as was ever sent by a Secretary of the Navy to an officer; but the universal verdict is that Chadwick got no more than he deserved.

Senator Sewell, of N. J., has more nerve than most of the republican Senators on the trust question. His republican colleagues work for the trusts on the quiet, but he had the audacity to say in a speech on the floor of the Senate that the Standard Oil trust and the Sugar trust were public benefactors. A few more benefactors like them and there will be no more trusts. Benefactions of the sort they bestow contain the germs of revolution. Senator Pettigrew presented figures showing that neither of the trusts named by Mr. Sewell had done anything which was not directed toward the crushing out of competition and the increase of their own profits.

From every direction comes the strongest evidence that the republicans have a hard fight before them. Nobody realizes this any better than Boss Hanna, and he is frank enough to say so. That there is a general revolt against the policies and practices of the McKinley administration, is certain, although its strenth is as yet uncertain. Mr. H. J. Jackson, a business man of Fall River, Mass., has been showing his Washington friends a letter written him by a prominent citizen of Massachusetts, from which the following is quoted: "From this distance it looks as though the game of national politics is going to be a hard one for President McKinley to play this year. The coming of the Boeremisaries seem likely to stir up a hornet's nest among the Irishmen and the German-Dutch sympathizers of the Boers in this country. The longer the war continues the stronger the American sentiment seems to grow against England.." Mr. Jackson says of the political outlook: "The republicans are going to have trouble in New England." There are a great many causes to which this can be attributed. Yes, and they are going to have trouble in all the other sections of the country, and they are only going to get what they deserve.

The U. S. Supreme Court, after spending two days hearing arguments in the Kentucky case, took a recess until May 14, when the decision will probably be made public.

It looks as though the republican leaders in Congress had become afraid to carry out the imperialistic programme mapped out by Mr. McKinley, until after the Presidential election.

The Spooner Philippines bill, which gives Mr. McKinley autocratic control of the Philippines under civil government, which he now exercises under military government, is slated for postponement until the next session of Congress. Public sentiment has frightened the republican steering committee of the Senate and its members ignored the Spooner bill in preparing the legislative programme for the remainder of the present session. This does not mean the abandonment of that imperialistic measure, but that the republicans are afraid to pass it now for fear of its effect upon the voters.

The republican majority in the Senate stood by the trusts and voted down Senator Berry's anti trust amendment to the army bill, which merely instructed purchasers of army supplies to give preference to bidders not connected with a trust. Not a single democrat voted against the amendment, but Jones and Stewart, of Nevada, who once claimed to be populists but who both seem to have returned to their republican affiliation did. Teller, Pettigrew and Wellington voted with the democrats, for the amendment. Senator Berry said: "The trust question is the greatest problem of the day, and we may yet fight it out in this chamber."

Sacred Trusts.

John D. Rockefeller said in an address for the New York Bible class the other evening: "The pursuit of riches is not a wrong thing. On the contrary, gold is one of the mightiest agents for the doing of good, and though there are bad rich men just as there are bad poor men. I believe that most wealthy persons look upon their money as a sacred trust which they hold for the good of their fellows."—The Carver County Times.

This kind of "Sacred trust" business, like charity, covers a multitude of sins." Rich men hold a vast estates, grasp all they can; hoard all they can. Of what benefit is the wealth of one man to the multitude who labor? It is often a detriment. And these miserly people hang on to their "Sacred trusts" usually, till they die. Even the President of the United States has his "Sacred trusts" Porto Rico, Cuba, the Philippines.

Bryan and His Mate.

When you hear a man saying that "It never'll do to have Towne on the ticket" ask him if he is a Bryan man. If he says he is, ask him "If he thinks Towne is a Bryan man". If he says "yes". ask him why then the two best Bryan men in the United States shouldn't head the ticket. You will find you have struck a "gold bug" and got him cornered; and that he wants to beat Bryan. If he can't keep him from being nominated he wants to help load up the ticket with some old "money bags" so that he can't get his full vote. Everybody, even the republican papers know that no better Bryan man can be found in all the broad country than Charles A. Towne. Of course he is the right man. If the populists think so too, let 'em. If the free silver party wants it so, well and good. The democrats are satisfied. And if any of our republican friends had sooner vote our ticket than the Hanna ticket they have our permission to do so.

INTELLIGENT voters who are opposed to the present militaryism and imperialism of the g. o. p. that is following far in the rear of its Lincoln, Sumner, Blaine, Garfield, Windom and other noted men, are rapidly arriving at the correct conclusion that in order to avert the dire calamities threatening our land and its institutions they must, together with all who like themselves desire to retain a republican form of government, vote for men in whom the citizens of the United States have confidence to lead them out of the mirey clay of despotism. Men who are Bryanites on all principles of public policy save, perhaps one, or two, have determined, in order to stop the ship of state drifting rudderless among the huge breakers of imperialism, militaryism, trusts, combines, tariffs at home on imports and exports, McKinleyism Hannaism, to vote for Bryanism, the constitution and American liberty. People who foresee the shadow of an empire looming up have made up their minds to vote for W. J. Bryan with a running mate as near like himself as they can get, and to help elect Congressmen of the same faith. Save the republic.

JOHN W. Willis, of St. Paul, who is well known as one of the best campaigners in the state, for Democratic princeples. is a candidate for Delegate at Large to the Kansas City convention. He would doubtless fill the bill as well as any man that could be sent.

MINNESOTA is coming to the front with great men. C. A. Towne has been nominated for vice President. Ignatius Donnelly has too. W. D. Washburn is prososed for another. C. K. Davis has quite a few friends who think he would made a better President than McKinley.

The Constitution of the U. S.

It is the pride of the people of the United States that they live under a constitutional government. That the Constitution is plainly printed that all may read it, yet how many of them do read it? Far too few. When we think for a moment, what is being done in the world today, under the flag of our country, and in the name of the United States, and then read the preamble of the constitution can we harmnoize them? Can we lead our selves to believe that a country practicing "criminal aggrecsion" on countries thousands of miles away, floating its flag over Sultan's harams and slaves, upholding tarriff on imports and exports between lands claimed by by itself, permitting trusts to thrive, and selling bonds to pay the bills, and which will have to be redeemed or repudicted generations to come, is the same country which has for the preamble of constitution:

"We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic. Tranquillity, provide for the common defece, promate the general Welfare, and secure the Blessing's of liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this CONSTITUTION for the United States of America.

Do Soldiers Need Whiskey.

"Do Soldiers Need Whiskey" is now being generally discussed throughout our country. Some of our highest medical authority including Gen. Sternberg of the army, are arraped against the use of intoxicants by the army. Church conferences have expressed themselves against its use. Law abiding and civilized people generally cry out against it. And yet the commander-in-chief of the army continues through the advice of his Attorney General to permit it to be furnished freely to our soldiers in foreign lands which the government pretends are under control of the President of the U. S. If a President can't keep whiskey away from his own army when the law is expressly made for that purpose how is he to be expected to civilize the people of the Islands of the sea. When Secretary Sherman was in the administration's way of going to war, a way to "resign" him was found. When even the liberty loving among the republicans got tired of Secretary Alger, he also "resigned". But the Attorney General who can't find the law sufficient to suppress drunkenness, "sticketh closer than a brother."

Ordinarily soldiers fighting for freedom and liberty do not need liquors; but, if soldiers ever needed stimulants, intoxicants, something to deaden manhood's better sensibilities it must be those kept for months on their nerve, fighting for "conquest", for "benevolent assimilation", called out to fire gattling guns, or volleys of musketry into flocks of natives fleeing from the homes of their childhood; from their dead and dying friends and neighbors, from liberty, from all that is dear to them on earth; to make records to be sent home, across the thousands of miles of trackless ocean that another battle occurred two or three casualities among Americans while the "thieving bands" lost heavily. It must be hard for our officers to have to sit in court martial suits to try Generals for hanging Filippinos without trial, for turning prisoners over to other savage enemies to kill. How could out army ever do these things without stimulants? It would be well nigh imposible.

Methodist Temperance.

"The report read as follows: "We are, however chagrined, humilated and exasperated by the purile and absurd construction placed upon the anti-canteen law, so-called by the attorney general of the United States and with all due respect to his exalting situation we record the fact that we are pained and disapointed at the course of the president in accepting as final and satisfactory an opinion without binding force. Such an abuse of power is nullification in its most dangerous form. Upon the President as commander-in-chief of our army, rests the responsibility for the canteen saloon, an evil which, to quote the Episcopal address, 'is a more deadly foe to a soldier than bullet or tropical heat'.

"We urge upon the president an early exercise of the power vested in him to the end that the authority of the government, instead of being used to place temptation in the way of the soldier, shall be used to save him, as far as possible, from the moral hazards incident to military life".

The Methodist general conference adopted resolutions against the action of President McKinley, who is claimed as a Methodist, and yet many ministers continue to vote for him. Can a consistent Methodists pass such resolutions and then vote for the man whose actions they condemn, on so grave a question as that of an army csnteen?

Probably all Three.

"The campaign is young yet, but thre are already four presidential candidates in the field, of which Bryan is the latest and most nondescript, since it is impossible to tell whether he is running as a Populist, Democrat or free silver Republican."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Miss Van Eman Wins.

Faribault, Minn., May 8.—(Times Special)—A verdict of $500 damages was brought in by the jury in the damages suit of Miss Vanemans, a teacher in the public chools of the city, against E B Ford, editor of the Referendum, who published a libelous article about the plaintiff the past winter.—Minneapolis Times.

Potatoes for Manila.

The Government has contracted at San Francisco for potatoes to be delivered at Manila in good condition at three cents per pound, and for onions to be delivered there at five cents per pound.

Good Burbank potatoes are bringing 60 cents per sack and those which are strickly first-class will sell for 60 cents per hundred pounds which is equival ent to about 70 cents per sack. A Portland merchant has secured a government contract for supplying potatoes to the soldiers in Manila.—Oregon Agriculturist.

Towne For Vice President

"The nomination of Charls A Towne for vice president by the People's party in national convention at Sioux Falls is an honor not only to him personally, but to Duluth and the state of Minnesota * * * The Democratic convention will search in vain for a better candidate in point of ability and character or in respect to personal popularity. He will have hosts of enthusastic friends in the Kansas City convention from all parts of the Union, and it is reasonable to expect that the Western delegates will be practically united in his favor".—Duluth Herald.

The Victorious Banner.

Grand Forks Plaindealer: The People's party convention placed in nomination William J. Bryan and Charles H. Towne for president and vice president respectively. It is a noble ticket. Both are grand men and the banner on which their names are inscribed ought to be carried straight forward to victory. While some democrats wanted the People's party to forebare from nominating a candidate for vice-president, still it is probably just as well that Mr. Towne was selected for the place. Certainly no better man could have been chosen, and besides, it settles, or ought to settle, all question as to whose name is to go on the ticket of the allied Bryan forces. Bryan and Towne is a combination with which to conjure for votes. In fact it means victory.—Duluth Herald.

Genius That Sold Good Money at Cut Rates at a Profit.

"DON'T talk to me any more about Dewey and Hobson and that fellow that swam from Hong-Kong to the Philippines towing a regiment of soldiers with his mouth," said Promoter Pimley. "They're mere innocent babes alongside of the fellow I ran across on my last trip west.

"Do you know Stoughton, Wis.? It's one of those towns with a future and one business street. I'd run up from Chicago after an option on some timber lands and lay over there one Saturday and Sunday. Saturday afternoon I was hanging round the hotel office when a man and boy drove up outside in a buggy. The boy, who worked in the town livery stable, got down, unhitched the horse and led him away, and the man stood up and began to arrange and rearrange packages on the buggy seat.

In about two minutes there was a small crowd around him, and in about 15 minutes the crowd included practically the entire male population of the town. But the man in the buggy seemed oblivious of any attention. He rearranged his packages for 15 minutes more without looking up. Then suddenly he stood erect, pushed his silk hat back on his head and held up a silver dollar.

"'I have here,' he said, 'a United States silver dollar. What gentleman in the crowd will give me 50 cents for it?'

"The crowd didn't seem to hanker after silver dollars at 50 cents apiece.

"'It's a perfectly good silver dollar,' urged the man in the buggy. 'If any gentleman wishes to examine it, let him step right up. Besides, how long do you suppose I'd be outside of state prison if I went about selling counterfeit money in the public streets?'

"Just then his eye lighted on the proprietor of the hotel, who was in the crowd.

"'I put up at your house last night, didn't I?'

"'Yes,' said the hotel man.

"'Did I pay you with good money this morning?'

"The hotel man said he thought he did.

"'Well, step right up here and risk 50 cents to start the ball a-rolling. You may take my word for it, it's a hundred per cent. investment.'

"The hotel man laughed and finally came forward and gave him 50 cents for the dollar. The man in the buggy immediately held up the 50 cents.

"'Now,' he said, 'who'll give me a quarter for this half-dollar."

"This time it wasn't difficult to get a taker and the man in the buggy thereupon sold the quarter for 15 cents, the 15 cents for a dime, and the dime for a nickel. These last bargains went like hot cakes. Then he held up the nickel.

"'Gentlemen,' he said, 'I want to buy six matches for this five cents.'

"He got a dozen or two offers. The crowd seemed to be grasping the idea that they were trading in a bull market. The man in the buggy secured his matches and held one up.

"'What gentleman,' he said, 'will give me a dollar for this match?'

"This was a new phase and the bull market took on a conservative tone.

"'Oh, I know as well as you do,' said the man, 'that that's a high price to pay for a match. You can buy 50 boxes for the money. But, gentlemen, these don't happen to be ordinary matches, and somebody's going to give me a dollar for each one of these six, and it's going to be the best bargain he's made for a long time.'

"There was nothing of the salesman about the man in the buggy. He was the prophet pure and simple. He stated his case calmly and carelessly like a man who was not concerned with the result. There was a pause for a few moments then somebody handed up a dollar. The man in the buggy folded the match in a bit of paper and made the buyer step up to the wheel. Then he poked it into his vest pocket and said:

"'Now, you button your coat up over that, and stay right there, so I'll know where you are when I want you.'

"Then he held up a second match, and sold one after another of the six at a dollar apiece in less than three minutes. After that he pulled out a five-dollar bill and said he wanted to buy three more matches with it, and the crowd tumbled over itself. He broke these matches in halves and began to sell the halves at a dollar apiece. He disposed of three, and then the market sagged again. But the man in the buggy was not in the least disconcerted. He broke the remaining halves into quarters and offered the quarters at two dollars apiece. The crowd began to laugh. Then they stopped laughing. The man in the buggy said little or nothing, but somehow he was hung as thick with promises as a Christmas tree. The first thing the crowd knew he had sold four of the quarters at two dollars each. Then the market halted again.

"'All right, gentlemen, just as you say,' said the man in the buggy. 'I've got just two more quarter matches, and I'm going to sell them at five dollars each. Two little bits of matches at five dollars apiece! Funny, isn't it?'

"It was funny, but he sold them. And every match, or half, or quarter, he sold he wrapped up in a bit of paper, poked it into the buyer's vest pocket and made him button his coat up over it and stand close, so he could be got at when wanted.

"'Now, I've got something a little different,' said the man in the buggy. "He took out of an inside pocket a roll of bills the size of a small cabbage and laid it down on the seat before him. Then he opened one of his packages and held up a brass watch case without the works.

"'Here, gentlemen,' he said, 'is an empty brass watch case—brass, understand; no gold about it. And here is something you can all see for yourselves—good money, too.'

"It was a two-dollar bill, and after folding it up in plain sight of everybody he stuffed it into the watch case and shut down the lid.

"'Who wants the combination for a dollar?' he asked.

"He got his dollar on the run, put the case with his own hands into the buyer's pocket and made him button his coat up over it and stand close, just as he had done with the matches. Then he picked a five-dollar bill out of his wad, put it in another brass case and sold the outfit for three dollars; then a ten-dollar bill for five dollars, and then a $20 bill for ten dollars.

"'This is fun for you, gentlemen,' he said, 'but my turn's coming after awhile.'

"Finally he opened another box and shook out a lot of shoddy jewelry, badges and pins and the like, that sell at retail for five and ten cents apiece.

"'This is the last chance for bargains,' he said, and began to offer them at one, two and three dollars, and, so help me, he got it. And every piece was wrapped up and shoved into the customer's vest pocket, and the customer himself made to stand up among the elect who were going to have something nice happen to them later. Once in awhile when a sale dragged he'd wrap the gewgaw in a five-dollar bill instead of paper, but never until it was sold. And this uncertainty as to what the wrapper was going to be also had a good effect on the market. I guess he sold 15 or 20 pieces at an average of perhaps two dollars apiece.

"Then all of a sudden he stopped and began to pack up his cases. He did it carefully and leisurely. Then he adjusted his tie and his hat, said: 'Thank you very much, gentlemen,' got out of the buggy, took his grips and sauntered in the direction of the railroad station. The crowd loitered. He stopped in at the hotel on the way and bought a cigar, and the crowd waited for him outside and then continued to follow. He seemed amused, and jollied one or two of them pleasantly. When the mob reached the station there was still ten minutes to wait for the Chicago express. They waited, and the stranger conversed humorously with them from time to time. When the train pulled in he stepped onto the back platform, still conversing. Then the train started, and he made a grand stand bow.

"'So long, boys,' he said, and that was the last of him.

"Then the man that had bought the watch case with the $20 bill in it pulled out his prize. The watch case was there, so was the bill; but it was a one-dollar bill. Then the other watch case buyers and the men who'd bought jewelry wrapped up in bills opened their coats and held an autopsy. The bills were all good, but they had changed somehow to one denomination—one dollar. The men who had invested in matches went home without saying anything. But that night at the hotel we counted up the stranger's profits as follows:

RECEIPTS.

6 matches at $1	$6 00
3 half matches at $1	3 00
4 quarter matches at $2	8 00
2 quarter matches at $5	10 00
4 watch cases	10 00
Jewelry, say 18 at $2	37 00
	$82 00

EXPENDITURES.

To horse and buggy	$1 50
" 6 matches	1 00
" 3 matches	5 00
" 4 watch cases, says	.25
" jewelry, 18 pieces, say	.20
" 10 one-dollar bills	10 00
Net profit	$63 95

"Pretty good for two hours' work, wasn't it? But what's been troubling me is the way that smooth stranger is throwing himself away. Why, with a little coaching, that fellow could command senates and own continents. And the story I'm telling you is literally and absolutely true. If it came to a matter of proof, I could show you one of the two-dollar quarter matches."—N. Y. Sun.

Not the Place for Willie.

A bright-looking boy applied to the manager of one of the big department stores the other day for a position, and was asked what particular thing he felt competent to do.

"Well," he said, "I might start in as a cash boy."

"Very well. What is your name?"

"Willie Steele."

The manager looked at him doubtfully for a moment and then said:

"No, Willie, I'm sorry, but we can't have that name connected with our cash department. Go down in the basement, where they handle iron goods, and see if they can't use you there."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Railroading Patents.

A single firm of Patent Lawyers, C. A. Snow & Co., of Washington, D. C., have in the last year procured 1,630 patents for their clients, many of them for rejected inventions. C. A. Snow & Co. have been accused of railroading patents through the Patent Office, but they insist that this locomotion is better than ox carting them for by the latter process the inventor often dies before he gets his patent. 16.

A PROGRESSIVE POLICY. North-Western Line's Constant Improvement in Service.

Speaking the other day of the progress that railroads are making along the line of better equipment for the benefit of the traveling public, a well known business man who spends half his time in railroad trains, said—"There has been a wonderfull change for the better during the last ten years in railway equipment, but I have noticed that most of the roads do not make an improvment in passenger service until competition makes improvement a necessity."

A notable exception to this rule however, has been the policy of the North-Western Line.

This road I noticed has kept steady pace with the evolution of modern railway appurtenances, until today it occupies the very front rank of progressive railway equipment builders, and its trains now stand unexcelled by any in the country.

This progressive policy of the "Omaha" has not been dictated by necessity, but the road has grasped the situation where others have failed, and it has given the traveling public, the best and latest of everything modern in train equipment, even on those parts of the system where it had practically monopoly of business, as for instance in its Twin City-Chicago service, and from the Head of Lake Superior to Chicago.

The railroad trains which in my opinion are the leaders today in railway equipment: are the New Duluth Superior-Chicago Fast Mail trains, operated every night between the Head of Lake Superior and Chicago; The North-Western Limited running every night between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago; Badger State Express, the fine day train on the Chicago run; the bright new day trains between Minneapolis, St. Paul and the Superiors and Duluth, know as the "Twilight Limited"; the new Twin City and Omaha Limited, night train from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Sioux City and Omaha, and other fine night and day trains of the North-Western Line—The North west Magazine, St. Paul.

Foreign newspapers state that colossal crosses are to be erected this year on 19 mountain peaks in Italy to commemorate the nineteenth century of the Christian era. The crosses will be cut from granite and marble and will be large enough to be seen for miles.

John Brown, who has just been taken to the county almshouse of Orange county, New York, was once manager of that institution and superintendent of the poor for that county. He was once well to do, but is now a pauper 78 years old and incapable of self-support.

"What does this nation need?" shouted the impassioned orator. "What does this nation require, if she steps proudly across the Pacific—if she strides boldly across the mighty ocean in her march of trade and freedom? I repeat, what does she need?" "Rubber boots," suggested the grossly materialistic person in a rear seat.

It appears from a letter of an army paymaster that the soldiers in Panay and Negros islands have deposited $200,000 of their pay as savings during the past six months. He says hundreds of the men intend to remain in the Philippines when their terms of enlistment expire and engage in business, and are hoarding their pay as capital.

During 1899 the national government redeemed 15,210 pieces of the old fractional currency, including specimens of every denomination that has been issued, the aggregate value of which was $3,344.48. More than $350,000,000 of the fractional paper currency has been issued at various times, but about $12,000,000 is still unredeemed, one-half of which it is estimated has been destroyed.

Less than two years ago Grant Gillette was perhaps the leading cattle dealer and speculator in Kansas. He was worth millions and bade fair to practically own all the herds in that state. Just before Thanksgiving, 1898, he collapsed through overspeculation. Cattlemen and banks are now fighting over the remains of his once vast estate, and Gillette is now peddling shirt waists to the senoritas of Chihuahua, Mexico.

Two persons of the name of William McKinley are on Uncle Sam's pay roll. One draws a salary of $4,166 a month as president and the other $100 a month as engineer in the Louisville custom-house. There are 48 Bryans and three of them were christened William. There used to be two Grover Clevelands in the public service, but only one now, who is assistant farmer at Fort Peck Indian agency and receives a salary of $180 a month.

A story of a strange will comes from Rochester, N. Y. A. A. Putman, an electrical engineer, in the presence of a number of friends as witnesses, talked his will into a phonograph. He then took a hot copper wire and guided it along the wax roll of the phonograph, writing "this is my last will and testament" and signing his name. The witnesses then signed their names in the wax. It is a clever idea, but we are willing to bet that the lawyers will find some way of getting around it.

A Chicago paper tells of two boys about 17 years of age who, starting last summer without a cent of outside aid, worked their way to Baltimore, then on a cattle ship to London, and finally to Paris, where, through the assistance of Consul General Gowdy, they obtained remunerative employment, learned the city and the language, and are now advertising to act as guides for American visitors to the Paris exposition. Those boys will be heard from later.

Boston has long been known as the most advanced municipality in the country in undertaking things elsewhere left to private initiative. One of Boston's efforts at this time of year is the free distribution of trees. To be sure, the care and planting of trees in a city is not new, and many cities do it altogether. Boston each spring distributes among its citizens thousands of trees free, the only regulation being that the number each person may have is limited by the extent of the street frontage of his property.

In an address at the banquet of the Worcester (Mass.) board of trade Gen. A. W. Greely, head of the signal service system, made a statement which indicated the efficiency of the United States army during the war with Spain. He said the signal service was carried forward with so much enterprise and with such adaptation of electrical apparatus that at no time during the war was Gen. Shafter in Cuba more than five minutes distant from President McKinley. The English in South Africa are modeling their field signal apparatus on the same system.

"Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just," said Shakespeare. And a woman with a hatpin seems to be even better fixed for purposes of offense and defense. As two ladies were passing through the streets of Derby, Conn., they were held up by four men, who attempted to rob them. One of the ladies ran away, but the other, Miss Bertha Lynch, drew a hatpin from her bonnet and jabbed the would-be robbers so furiously that the entire four were glad to escape by flight. If that doesn't vindicate the hatpin habit, then may footpads maraud at will.

FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

In the United States senate on the 10th the Clark (Montana) case went over until Tuesday next. A joint resolution concerning certain Chippewa Indian reservations in Minnesota, the project being to preserve forests on the reservations as a national park, was passed. In the house Mr. Pearson (rep.) was given the seat occupied by Mr. Crawford (dem.), of North Carolina. A favorable report was made on the pure-food bill, which is intended to prevent the adulteration, misbranding and imitation of beverages, foods, candies, drugs, etc.

Consideration of the naval bill occupied the time of the United States senate on the 11th. During the discussion a notable speech was delivered by Senator Lodge (Mass.) upon the necessity of building up the United States navy without delay. The house broke all records, passing 180 private pension bills, and adjourned until the 14th.

The time in the United States senate on the 12th was occupied in discussing the naval appropriation bill. An official report by Col. E. B. Willis ton in answer to an inquiry shows that there is less liquor sold in Manila than prior to the American occupation. The house was not in session.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Gross receipts at 50 of the principal post offices for April show an increase of $255,655 over April, 1899.

Appropriations at this session of congress will be $200,000,000 less than two years ago.

President and Mrs. McKinley after the adjournment of congress will go to their Canton home to remain the greater part of the midsummer.

THE EAST.

With 200,000 bushels of corn for the famine district in India the steamer Quito sailed from New York for Bombay.

At the leading clearing houses in the United States the exchanges during the week ended on the 11th aggregated $1,651,891,839, against $1,845,882,647 the previous week. The decrease compared with the corresponding week of 1899 was 18.0.

In the United States there were 192 business failures in the seven days ended on the 11th, against 209 the week previous and 165 in the corresponding period of 1899.

James J. Jeffries remains heavyweight champion of the world by defeating James J. Corbett in 23 rounds at Coney Island, N. Y.

Percentages of the baseball clubs in the National league for the week ended on the 13th were: Philadelphia, .722; Brooklyn, .539; Pittsburgh, .526; Chicago, .500; Cincinnati, .500; St. Louis, .500; New York, .353; Boston, .313.

In Camden, N. J., fire destroyed a market, ten stores and 50 dwellings.

BRYAN RENOMINATED

Populists in Convention Name Him to Head Their Ticket.

Chas. A. Towne, of Minnesota, Selected for Second Place at Sioux Falls—Middle-of-the-Roaders Name Barker.

Sioux Falls, S. D., May 11.—The populist national convention made its nominations on Thursday. Its ticket is: For president, William J. Bryan, of Nebraska; for vice president, Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota.

A synopsis of the platform adopted by the convention follows:

The platform consists of a preamble, and a long series of resolutions. The preamble congratulates the people's party on the marvelous growth of its principles during the last four years among people of all political parties.

The resolutions on imperialism and militarism deplore the conduct of the administration in the Spanish-American war, and denounce its conduct in connection with the Philippines. Referring to the latter matter, they say it is in conflict with all the precedents of our national life, at war with the constitution, and without reasonable excuse. Demand is made for the cessation of this war. With reference to this connection at Porto Rico it is declared that the declaration of independence, the constitution, and the American flag are one and inseparable. It is also declared in this connection that the island of Porto Rico is a part of the territory of the United States, made so by our promises and the consent of the Porto Ricans themselves.

Trusts are denounced and the populistic method for the control of public utilities such as the railroads and the telegraphic systems and of the issuance of money is recommended as the proper remedy for this evil.

The financial plank is as follows: "We reaffirm the demand for the opening of the mints of the United States to the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of sixteen to one; the immediate increase in the volume of silver coins and certificates thus created to be substituted, dollar for dollar, for the bank notes issued by private corporations under special privilege granted by law of March 14, 1900, and prior national banking laws, the remaining portion of the bank notes to be replaced with full legal tender government paper money and its volume so controlled as to maintain at all times a stable money market and a stable price level."

Mr. Bryan's nomination was made by acclamation and was accomplished with expedition and tact. There were not to exceed half a dozen speeches in Mr. Bryan's behalf. The real contest of the convention was as to the nomination of a vice president. By a vote of 492 to 268 the convention rejected a plan to leave the nomination for the vice presidency open pending action by the democratic gathering at Kansas City. During the call for nominations many names were presented, but later all but Mr. Towne's were withdrawn, and he was nominated by acclamation.

After some routine business had been transacted a motion to adjourn was carried, and at 12:58 Friday morning the convention adjourned sine die.

AT CINCINNATI.

Barker and Donnelly Are Chosen as the Candidates.

Cincinnati, May 11.—For president, Wharton Barker, of Pennsylvania; for vice president, Ignatius Donnelly, of Minnesota. This is the ticket placed in the field Thursday by what is commonly known as the middle-of-the-road populist party, but which, according to leaders of the movement, is the one and only people's party.

The platform favors irredeemable paper currency, direct legislation and public ownership of railroads, telegraphs, coal mines, etc.

IS STILL CHAMPION.

Jim Jeffries Defeats Corbett in a Hard Fought Battle of 23 Rounds in New York.

Seaside Club, Coney Island, N. Y., May 12.—Jim Jeffries is still the heavyweight champion pugilist of the world. He defeated Jim Corbett in the twenty-third round of their fight with a decisive knockout. The finishing blow came as a sudden and startling surpise. Corbett had been making a wonderful battle. His defense was absolutely perfect, and while he was lacking in strength, he had more than held his own, and stood an excellent chance of winning the fight, had it gone to the limit. He had not been badly punished, and had managed to mark his man severely. The winning punch was a short left jolt to the jaw. Corbett dropped like a weight and was clear out. Jeffries showed ability to take punching, at any distance, and punch hard. He was clearly outboxed, and at times made to look like a novice. The crowd, which numbered fully 8,000, was with Corbett, and his defeat fell upon a silent crowd. There were cheers given him when he revived and left the ring, and he was generally shown more consideration than the victor.

Murderers Caught.

Emporia, Kan., May 15. — Sheriff O'Connor and a posse of farmers on Monday captured E. F. Estell and James Murphy, the jail escapes from Marysville who shot and killed Deputy Marshal Roberts at Dunlap on Sunday. The escapes were found asleep in the woods. Murphy surrendered at once, but Estell started to run and was shot in the legs. A crowd of several hundred men surrounded the jail when the prisoners were brought here, but they are under a strong guard and no trouble is looked for.

Wipes Out Exile.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—The New York Journal correspondent cables: Siberian exile, so long a blot on Russia, is finally to be abolished, by order of the czar. A bill for the abolition of deportation to Siberia was introduced into the council Wednesday and passed unanimously. The worst side of deportation to Siberia—exile without trial—is to be abolished altogether, and the transportation of criminals in mass will cease, while the construction of central prisons for their temporary reception will be hurried forward.

Has Raised Its Contribution.

Philadelphia, May 15. — At a meeting of the finance committee of the citizens' national republican convention committee the announcement was made that all of the $100,000 pledged by the city to the national republican commitee for convention purposes has been raised.

COURT INTERFERES.

Sweeping Injunction Issued by a Kansas City Judge Against Strikers—In St. Louis.

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—The federal authorities found alleged cause for interfering Saturday evening in the strike inaugurated Saturday morning by the union employes of the Metropolitan Street Railway company. Judge William C. Hook, of Leavenworth, Kan., sitting in Kansas City, issued from the United States district court an injunction that is more absolute and sweeping in its terms than any injunction ever heretofore secured in this district in a contention between labor and capital.

The injunction is predicated upon the fact that several of the persons complained against as threatening the interests of the company are residents of other states, and the further fact that the strikers threaten to prevent the company from carrying out its contract with the United States government to transport the city mail carriers to and from their routes.

Harry Bryan, the national organizer of the Amalgamated association, described as a resident of Michigan, is one of the parties enjoined, and the others named are 21 local leaders of the union, several of whom are mentioned as residents of Ohio and Kansas.

The injunction restrains the persons named and all others from in any manner, directly or indirectly, stopping or interfering with the running of cars on the lines of the Metropolitan company; enjoins them from harassing, assaulting or in any manner interfering with any person who may be in the employ of the company as he goes to or from his work or as he is engaged in the operation of a street car; enjoins union men and all others from picketing or patrolling the carhouses, stopping places, stations, tracks or approaches thereto or loitering in large numbers in or about any of the places named, or making loud or boisterous noises in the vicinity thereof for the purpose of intimidating or interfering with the company's employes.

The injunction even goes further than this and enjoins any concerted action to cause any act or annoyance which will assist in stopping the operation of the cars or interfering in any wise with an employe in moving a car which may carry a mail carrier, or a messenger, or upon which a mail carrier or a messenger may wish to ride.

St. Louis, May 14.—A mob tore up the tracks of the California division at Eighteenth and Papin streets Saturday night, so that a mail car which had passed south could not get back over the line to the post office. When the police arrived the damage was done. The crowd desired to wait and see the fun when the mail car returned. The officers beat some of the leaders over the head with their clubs, but a fusillade of stones was the reply. Then they drew their revolvers and fired into the crowd, but no one was hit. It is likely that the officers did not care to wound anyone. The volley caused the crowd to scatter hurriedly, and the wrecking crew was sent out to repair the damage. Wednesday the federal grand jury will consider the complaints that the United States mail is being interfered with by the strikers.

THE WAR IN LUZON.

Several Collisions with American Troops Result in Many Filipinos Being Killed.

Manila, May 11.—A force of 500 insurgents attacked 25 scouts of the Forty-eighth regiment, near San Jacinto, province of Pangasinan, on Monday, but were routed by the scouts, ten of their number being killed. The Americans lost two killed. On April 26 the rebels burned and sacked the town of Trocin, near Bulan, murdering natives who were friendly to the Americans, and two Spaniards. The Americans killed 37 of the insurgents.

Manila, May 12.—Senor Buencamino, at one time a member of the so-called Filipino republican cabinet, who was recently liberated by Gen. Otis, announces that he has become reconciled to American sovereignty, and that he will devote his influence to bring about peace. He has sent a proposed peace platform for the national Filipino party to the insurgent leaders in Manila and to the insurgent generals, including Aguinaldo, in the field, in which he declares that it is impossible for the Filipinos to exist as a nation without the protection of the United States, and that, consequently, they must recognize American sovereignty and strive to attain, under a constitution, the utmost liberty possible. He also argues that the Filipinos are incapable of self-government.

Manila, May 14.—The towns of Kilongos and Maasin, in the island of Leyte, have been occupied by troops of the Forty-third volunteer infantry. The insurgents opposed the landing of the Americans and sustained heavy losses. The Americans had three casualties.

SLEPT AT HIS POST.

Tower Operator in a Tunnel in Philadelphia Caused Bad Wreck—Seven Killed.

Philadelphia, May 14.—By falling asleep at his post, Frank Lamtel, a tower operator of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, stationed at the Callow Hill street entrance to the tunnel under Twenty-fifth street, caused a rear end collision, resulting in the death of the engineer, fireman and five tramps, the injury of over a score of persons, the loss of $185,000 to rolling stock and contents, besides causing one of the fiercest fires ever witnessed in the city, and which will burn for the next 24 hours. In addition to the loss on rolling stock, etc., the interior of the tunnel was swept by the flames, and part of it will have to be rebuilt. Lamtel fled and the company offered $1,000 reward for his arrest. Saturday afternoon he was captured.

To Float from the Eiffel Tower.

Washington, May 15.—Ferdinand Peck, United States commissioner general to the Paris exposition, recently requested the loan of the large flag which hangs in the pension office. It was the intention, he said, to float it on the Eiffel tower on the Fourth of July. Secretary Hitchcock has decided to grant the request. This is the largest American flag in the world, measuring 26x50 feet.

Two Girls Drowned.

Joplin, Mo., May 14. — Mary McNally, aged 16 years, and Edna Worden, aged 20, were drowned Sunday in Neosho river, their boat capsizing. One of the girls clung to the boat for several minutes while their two male escorts were trying to save the other, but she lost her presence of mind and sank.

OCCUPIES KROONSTAD.

Lord Roberts Enters the Town Without Opposition—Advance of Gen. Buller.

London, May 14.—The British army has occupied Kroonstad, completing what is believed to be the last important step in the campaign in the Orange Free State. No opposition was offered the imperial forces, the Boers retiring before Lord Roberts arrived.

Lord Roberts' dispatch announcing the capture of the burgher city declares that he expects no more resistance in the Free State; that the Transvaal troops refuse to make another stand outside of their own territory and that the Free State Boers, in consequence, holding themselves abandoned by their allies, will do no more fighting.

London, May 15. — A special dispatch from Stone Hill Farm, Natal, dated Monday, says:

"Gen. Buller's advance commenced Thursday, when he left Ladysmith in strength. When within two miles of Helpmakaar the Boers opened a heavy artillery fire and the British guns replied, while a portion of Buller's troops worked round the Boer flanks. The British attack was pressed home Sunday. Bethune, on the right, outflanked the Boers, whose splendid defensive positions on the Biggarsberg were practically taken.

"Gen. Buller's march subsequent to the attack was carried out without a hitch.

"The British are still pushing on."

London, May 15.—Gen. Buller's turning of the Biggarsberg position was effected by a bold movement. The Boers had evacuated Helpmakaar, but were making a stand Monday evening at Bleskoplaagte, seven miles from Dundee. The corps on the spot regarded this as a rear guard action, intended to cover the retreat of the army. At the same time Gen. Hildyard took Indoba, and it is reported that the Boers withdrew in disorder. Gen. Buller, who seems to be employing his full strength, is expected to push on. His first marches were 45 miles in three days. He is thus breaking into British territory which had been administered for six months by the Transvaalers as though it were part of the republic, they holding courts and levying taxes. His success, therefore, has political as well as military consequences.

While Lord Roberts' infantry are concentrating at Kroonstad, where they will rest for a day or two, his horsemen have penetrated 18 miles northward.

The latest supposition concerning Gen. Hunter is that possibly he is marching up the north bank of the Vaal with a force sufficient, in cooperation with Lord Roberts, to render Boer defense of the Vaal frontier impracticable.

Kroonstad, May 12.—President Steyn has gone to Heilbrun, not Lindley. He has declared the former the new capital. Four hundred burghers have given up their arms here and in this neighborhood. Although the bridge across the Valsch has been destroyed, a good deviation exists where the road ran before the bridge was constructed.

THE CUBAN SCANDAL.

Evidences of Frauds in the Island Seem to Increase Day by Day.

Havana, May 15.—The extent of the postal frauds is far greater than was originally expected. Besides taking in the postal department, the frauds seem to include the local office at Havana and various other offices throughout the island, and also to have extended to outside points, which have been used for the sale of some of the old issue of stamps that were ordered destroyed. The result of the investigation at the local post office is the suspension of Postmaster Thompson, who was installed in April of last year. He will remain at his own house for the present. Moya and Mascaro, stamp sellers in the main office, have also been arrested, and further arrests are expected to-day. As many as six others have been placed under the closest supervision, and they will be arrested as soon as their services can be spared.

Every additional revelation increases the amazement of the Americans here. The Cubans seem to be immensely pleased. They declare that the Americans can no longer boast in Cuba of their superior honesty when in government employ.

Following are the developments of the past week or so:

C. F. W. Neeley, of Indiana, treasurer of the Cuban post office, under $20,000 bail for embezzling upward of $150,000.

E. C. Rathbone, director general of the service, relieved from duty and his place taken by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow.

Charge entered that a spur of railroad outside the city of Havana cost Cuba $1,400,000, notwithstanding that it could have been built at a maximum cost of $125,000.

The postmaster of Havana and two subordinate officers of the postal system of the island suspended and under arrest pending investigation.

A Terrible Fire.

San Francisco, May 12.—Mail advices from Yokohama give particulars of the big fire at Fukin, a large town on the western coast of Japan, April 18. The flames originated in the suburbs of the city and were carried by a heavy wind to several parts of the city at once. The fire raged for six hours before it could be controlled. Sixteen hundred houses, including 30 temples and all the principal buildings, were burned. Sixteen persons perished and nearly a hundred more were injured. The property loss is estimated at 5,000,000 yen, or about $2,500,000. There was but a small amount of insurance.

Town in Ruins.

Milwaukee, May 15.—A Sentinel special from Marinette, Wis., says: Fire started in the big lumber and cedar yards of C. H. Worcester & Co. at Fisher, Mich., 28 miles west of here, at noon Monday, and by night the town was in ruins. A high westerly wind prevailed. The loss will be over $200,000, partially insured. The C. H. Worcester company, of Chicago, which owned most everything in the place, is the heaviest loser.

Work of Firebugs.

Duluth, Minn., May 15.—A desperate effort was made to burn the business portion of the city Monday night. Some unknown incendiary started five fires in less than two hours, burning one man and five horses to death and endangering over $300,000 worth of property. In a livery stable John Larson, a saloon attache, was burned to death, and five horses owned by the Hamm Brewing company were burned.

THE LETTER WAS GENUINE AND CONTAINED FACTS.

A Former American Settled in Canada Flooded with Inquiries.

A short time since a letter appeared in these columns signed by Mr. W. H. Kinkade, of Alameda, Assiniboia, Western Canada, which caused that gentleman to receive a great many inquiries, most of them anxious to know if the letter was genuine. To a large number of the inquiries answers were sent, but it was impossible to reply to all. We take pleasure in submitting to our readers a specimen of replies sent by Mr. Kinkade:

"Yes, the letter dated December 22, 1899, supposed to have been written by me which you saw in your local papers was genuine and contained facts. I will say of the information received from the Canadian Government agents prior to coming here, I did not find a single untrue statement. The Canadian government is an honorable one and its agents dare not misrepresent this country or they would lose their job. There is quite a bit of land for homesteading yet, a very little close to market, but mainly from six to twenty miles from stations. The country hereabouts is a prairie, nearly level, slightly rolling, not a rough country by any means. Homestead entries cost ten dollars; on land that has been cancelled there is a five-dollar cancellation fee extra and in some cases an inspection fee of five dollars, and where the former occupant has made any substantial improvements there are small amounts to pay for improvements. This is a poor place for a poor man unless he has brains and muscle and "git and grit," but with these requisites he can succeed. The population of this part of Assiniboia has doubled during the past two years. There has been as much prairie broken the past two years as was already broken previous to 1898. C. P. R. land (odd sections) joining homestead land sells at three dollars per acre. Improved quarters within four to five miles of town sell at $1,000 this spring. This is not a Garden of Eden at all. No man need think he can come here and get rich in a short time without much labor, but if he will work and be saving he can soon be an independent farmer tilling his own soil and getting good returns for his labor.

"We burn coal, which costs us $1.85 per load at the mines which are 20 miles southwest of us.

"People with stock and machinery should come in May, so as to have all June to break in. Those who expect to work for wages for the first year or two should come by the end of July to work through harvest and threshing and then go to the coal-fields and work all winter, and by spring he could be ready to improve homestead.

"A quarter-section of railway land sells at three dollars per acre. The interest is all figured up and a man has about $71 to pay cash, and if he breaks at least ten acres first breaking season his $21 interest for the first year is thrown off and the second fall following purchase he has $60 to pay and then $60 to pay for eight more falls, which makes a total of $611 the quarter costs him, including all interest. Paying for a quarter of land that way is like keeping a life insurance policy paid, only it does not take so long to do it. By a man homesteading one quarter and buying another quarter gives him a chance to have a 320-acre farm all his own and have it paid for in ten years and after that he is sure of an easy living if he is any good at all.

"SIGNED) W. H. KINKADE."

HIS TREASURE.

An Incident of City Life That Shows Up a Masculine Failing That Is Universal.

Vanity seems to spring eternal in the masculine breast, and the less it has to feed upon the more it thrives, apparently.

One day, says the Baltimore News, a tramp of high degree in vagrancy stopped before the window of a house at which two young women were standing. He was tattered and torn and melancholy looking to such an extent that he aroused a feeling of deep sympathy in the hearts of the maidens who looked down upon him as he stood gazing intently at some object he held in his hand.

"I wonder what he has," said the sentimental one of the two, as she peered down on him; "a lock of some woman's hair, I shouldn't wonder."

"More likely a coin he's found; he looks pleased," rejoined the practical one, scoffingly, as she maneuvered for a position that would reveal the object to her.

But it was neither, they discovered. It was just a bit of looking-glass, in which the man was surveying his features with a satisfied air that told of his entire contentment with his very rugged physiognomy.

Which shows, as was said at the beginning of this story, that vanity springs eternally in the masculine breast just as curiosity does in the feminine.

"BRYAN-TOWNE"

BLAZONED ON THE VICTORIOUS SIOUX FALLS ALLIANCE BANNER.

The Call to Minnesota's Well-Loved Son. The Convention's Work in Summary. Work and Character of Minnesota's Delegation—Mr. Towne's Attitude—Other National and State Comment of the Week.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, May 14, 1900.

The current news reports have covered with considerable fullness, and with a somewhat unusual accurary and fairness, the proceedings and incidents attending the Sioux Falls Populist convention, and the work of launching that branch of the allied forces, with the matchless leaders, Bryan and Towne, at their head. It remains but to record some fair degree of credit to the work performed by the Minnesota delegation, which can the more reliably be done, since under the personal observation of the writer.

The delegation proved staunch, courageous and of great combined sagacity. During the trying circumstances of and at times fierce contention, in the discussion of the policy of full nominations. With all the interests of their "favorite son" at stake, there was never a blunder nor a misstep. Chairman Meighen, the Filmore county political veteran, was ever the alert, cool, calculating commander, holding his forces in line for any juncture, and quick to discover every opening that might be seized to advantage. Not that the success of a Minnesota candidate was the chief object. When the delegation reached Sioux Falls it was not even decided on the wisdom of a nomination being made for vice president. When having learned the situation it was satisfied that nominations were necessary, in order to keep the Peoples party intact, it so decided, and having unanimously chosen Bryan and Towne, it never deviated an inch from that course, nor made a slip in its wise pursuit. When the victory was won congratulations on all these points were showered upon the delegation. The state body which the delegation represented, as well as the other allies of the state, have reason to feel proud of the body of delegates and alternates which stood for Minnesota at Sioux Falls. Six delegations were larger, but none abler and none so successful.

The convention itself was remarkable for the intelligence, high character and lofty patriotism of its members. The extreme intractables that have often cast discredit upon the Peoples party were not there, and are gone forever. Gone with them is the ridicule of the press, and the opportunity for invidious comment and comparisons. The only semblance of controversy was over the policy of completing a full ticket, which was debated thoroughly, and properly so. Such decision was the refined wisdom of all. Mr. Towne's nomination with Bryan was then first, as the choice of a wise statesman, and a leader worthy of the high companionship given him, and second, as a representative from one of the allied forces whose selection would disarm objection that might be felt by another ally.

The organization perfected since the convention is admirable with Senator Butler of North Carolina chairman, Edmiston of Nebraska vice chairman, while General Weaver of Iowa heads the executive committee, with Minnesota represented thereon by Major J. M. Bowler.

A sincere disappointment was the absence of Hon. S. M. Owen, on account of the death of his brother Horatio Owen, of Farm, Stock and Home. The latter's death was a sad blow to thousands of friends, and in it the people lost a champion and defender of great ability and unwavering steadfastness.

The state's national representation is wisely made up in selection of Thomas J. Meighen of Forestville, Springer Odell of Marshall, and Z. H. Austin, St. Paul.

Mr. Towne resisted every appeal of warm partisans to come to Sioux Falls to further his own candidacy, maintaining to the last the lofty view that he could only be a candidate except in response to a call to duty. That it came unanimously and irresistably, appeals all the stronger to the people in their rallying cries of the campaign.

There was one universal sentiment as to the absence of the Mid-Roaders. It was hail and goodby—not au revoir!

Reports are conflicting as to how the second campaign for McKinley will be conducted, whether McKinley the One, will again stay in Canton, or make great swings around the circle. We incline to expect that it will be Canton again, with subsidized newspapers to lie about the crowds of pilgrims, as they did in 1896. The truth probably is that no greater humbug was ever perpetrated on the American people, than by the papers and Associated Press which in '96 had control of the reports from Canton. We were given the facts from confidential sources, not long after the campaign, but nothing could be said about it, because some of our own friends who ought to have been in better business, were in the disgraceful plot. Scores on scores of the "delegation visits" were bogus, and there was a systematic and continuous magnifying of the delegations that did come, and bogus reports of enthusiasm, etc. As a rule these reports concealed the fact of free trains, and of men sent by the thousand on employers' time, thus hired to go. These in scores and hundreds skulked from the "procession," and otherwise showed their disgust, all of which was carefully suppressed by the feted, dined, wined and otherwise corrupted writers. We have this from unimpeachable authority. It will be a far different front-porch campaign this trip, Mr. Hanna.

Some things the Flag stands for:

In America, for the good old constitution and for the Declaration of Independence, which declare for liberty for men, of all races, of all climes. In the islands of the sea, under "Criminal Aggression," the Flag stands for the destruction of human freedom, and the subjugation of a feeble though liberty-loving people.

In America, for freedom to white and black men alike. In the Philippines, it stands for conquest of people whose skins are brown and whose stature is small.

In America the Flag stands for the American home, with one wife and one mother for the family. In Sulu it stands for polygamy, with as many wives as the Sulu chief can support on his McKinley salary.

The prison binder twine plant at Stillwater is being run overtime by the management, to meet as far as possible the increased orders of farmers for twine.

Speaking of "prosperity," how many people in Minnesota know that Philadelphia, where the great ratification meeting of the "Advance Agent" is soon to be held, is in the throes of a strike by over 4,000 carpenters, striving to secure a moiety of increase of wages necessary to merely live, on account of the prevailing high trust prices of all that they must have to live on? Perhaps few except those who read the Philadelphia local papers. Such is the case, and that nearly every large city in the country, and numberless small ones, have such "prosperity." The press dispatches, however, very carefully suppress the reports, as a rule. St. Louis' street car strike of 3,500 men has, however, filtered through the censorship.

The once great Republican party, whose administration has stricken down the Filipino republic and spread death and destruction throughout the Philippine archipelago, only 28 years ago—1872—declared as follows in its national platform:

"The national government should seek to maintain honorable peace with all nations, protecting its citizens everywhere and sympathizing with all people who strive for greater liberty."

That was while the memory of the sainted Lincoln still hovered over his party, and before the advent of Hanna-McKinleyism.

And so Montana Republicans will prove their "prosperity" by a special Pullman train to the Philadelphia convention, conducted without money and without price. As the said gold bedecked specials speed through the 50-cent wheat regions, they will make votes by the thousand—against the gold standard oligarchy. See if they don't.

Kind Reader—If you and I, hoping to reap some of the much talked of advantages in Porto Rico, remove there, the following are some of the tariff duties the Minnesota citizen of the United States will have to pay, after he becomes a Porto Rican citizen of the same, under the McKinley "Plain Duty" taxes, both export or import, and on wholesale prices:

Corn, 2½ cents per bushel; cornmeal, 3 cents per bushel; oatmeal, 9 cents per bushel; oats, 2½ cents per bushel; whisk brooms, per dozen, 7 1-5 cents; candles, 1½ mill per pound; coal, 10 cents per ton; cotton cloth, 3 to 6 mills per yard, according to value; shirting, 6 mills per pard; wire, 22 cents per 100 pounds; nails, 9 cents per 100 pounds; wire nails, 5 cents per 100 pounds; steel bars, $18 per ton; boots and shoes, 3-7 mills on each $1; India rubber boots and shoes, 2¼ cents on each 50 cents; cotton thread, 1 3-10 cents on each dozen spools worth 20 cents; clocks, 6 cents on each $1; carpets, 2 6-10 cents per yard valued at 35 cents; dried herring, 1 mill per pound; writing paper, $1.36 per 100 pounds; lard, 6 cents per 100 pounds; butter, 3 cents per 100 pounds; beans, 6 7-10 cents per bushel; household furniture, 5 2-5 cents each $1. harness and saddlery, 6 7-10 cents each $1; earthenware, 3 7-10 cents on each $1; white china ware, 8 1-5 cents on each $1; glassware, 6 7-10 cents on each $1.

How we would enjoy this new "liberty" under the American flag for which we ourselves fought, or, perhaps, to make Porto Rico free, and to save the Union to which we have now attached Porto Rico! G. S. C.

THE IDEAL CITY.

What makes a city great and strong?
Not architecture's graceful strength,
Not factories' extended length,
But men who see the civic wrong,
And give their lives to make it right,
And turn its darkness into light.

What makes a city full of power?
Not wealth's display nor titled fame,
Not fashion's loudly boasted claim,
But women, rich in virtue's dower,
Whose homes, though humble, still are great
Because of service to the State.

What makes a city men can love?
Not things that charm the outward sense,
Not gross display of opulence,
But right, that wrong can not remove,
And truth, that faces civic fraud,
And smites it in the name of God.

This is a city that shall stand,
A light upon a nation's hill,
A voice that evil cannot still,
A source of blessing to the land;
Its strength not brick, nor stone, nor wood,
But Justice, Love and Brotherhood.
—Rev. Chas. M. Sheldon, Topeka, Kas

OLEOMARGARINE SECRETS.

They Are Made Public in a Reply of Secretary Gage to a House Resolution.

Washington, May 15. — Secretary Gage Monday sent to the speaker his reply to the house resolution of May 8, as follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your resolution of May 8, 1900, as follows: Resolved, That the secretary of the treasury be, and he is hereby authorized and directed to furnish the house, for its information, the monthly duplicates of pages one and two of form two hundred and sixteen of the internal revenue department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, also for the month of December, 1899, as returned by the various manufacturers of oleomargarine throughout the United States for the above periods.

"In response thereto, I have the honor to transmit herewith the report of the commissioner of internal revenue thereon, to whom said resolution was referred.

"'Treasury Department, Office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., May 14, 1900.—To the Hon. the Secretary of the Treasury: Sir:—In compliance with your instructions in responding to the house resolution of May 8, 1900, I have the honor to submit herewith data therein called for.

"'The original forms in which this information is submitted to this office are not only very large in bulk but voluminous in number, and cannot very well be transmitted; besides, they are a part of the records of the internal revenue bureau, and should not, therefore, leave the custody of the treasury department.

"'The data submitted disclose the kinds of material used, the amount of each ingredient and the per cent. that each bears to the total amount of oleomargarine produced in the country, for the periods named, and, it is believed, furnishes all the information intended to be called for in the resolution.

"'Very respectfully, G. W. Wilson, Commissioner.'"

WORK IS SLOW.

Resume of the Business So Far Transacted by the Methodist General Conference.

Chicago, May 14.—The general conference of the Methodist church has been in session two weeks, but very little of the work mapped out has reached the stage of final action. The great reforms being advocated are nearly all in committees. The following was the net result at the close of Saturday morning's session:

Equal representation of laymen confirmed.

Nine of the ten articles of the constitution adopted.

A commission created to report four years hence on the consolidation of the church extension, freedman's aid and southern education and home missionary and general education departments.

The effective bishops to be continued in their present relation.

There are in the hands of the various committees plans for the following reforms and changes:

Number of new bishops and missionary bishops to be chosen.

Consolidation of or reduction of church papers.

Abolition of the time limit of ministers.

Modification of the prohibition against amusements.

Reduction of the number of salaried officials.

Confinement of the business of the book concern to the purpose for which it was established.

UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT.

Inheritance Tax Provision of War Revenue Act Declared to Be Valid.

Washington, May 15.—The supreme court of the United States on Monday announced opinions in the cases arising under the inheritance tax provision of the war revenue act and also in a case involving the applicability of the state inheritance tax law of New York to estates composed of government bonds. There were five decisions under the federal law and one under the state law, but two of the former class applied, as did one of the latter class, to the taxation of government bonds. The court held that neither under the state nor the national enactment were national bonds exempt from taxation. The validity of the general federal law was affirmed, but it was held to be purely applicable to legacies, and not to the entire estates of deceased persons, the court holding "the tax is on the passing of legacies or distributive shares of personalty, with a progressive rate on each, separately determined by the sum of each of such legacies or distributive shares." The decisions dealing with the federal law as a whole were handed down by Justice White and those relating to government bonds by Justice Shiras.

Big Mortgage Is Filed.

Chicago, May 15.—By the terms of a lease filed Monday the Chicago & Alton Railway company becomes lessee of all property of the Chicago & Alton Railroad company in Illinois, Missouri or elsewhere. The consideration was $100. The company also filed a mortgage for $22,000,000 to the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, New York, which authorizes the issue by the trust company of 3½ per cent. first lien 50-year gold bonds, the railway company giving as security all of its personal and real property in Illinois, Missouri and elsewhere. The mortgage is due July, 1950.

Fire in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., May 15.—Shortly after midnight fire broke out in the warehouse of the St. Paul Gas company on Jackson street. The building is some five stories in height and the upper floors are used as storage rooms of electrical supplies, the lower floor as the general office of the company. It is estimated the loss will be from $75,000 to $100,000.

Will Soon Adjourn.

Washington, May 14.—When the house has sent to the senate this week the last of the general supply bills it will be ready for adjournment after argument in conference upon appropriations. June 10 is named as a probable date for the session's end.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

He Was Swindled.

Moses De Roche, a St. Paul saloonkeeper, was cleverly swindled out of $1,300 by two French confidence men. A man named Charles Boullena made De Roche's acquaintance a week before and claimed that he was waiting for a rich friend who was going to invest in real estate extensively. Finally the friend arrived and surprised De Roche by the amount of cash he carried about him. They induced De Roche to draw his money from the bank and then the rich investor produced a tin box in which he placed all his money, at the same time inviting De Roche to put his $1,300 with it, the latter to act as guardian of the box. De Roche was willing and a few moments later he was in possession of the box with its treasure, and some time after his friends left he became suspicious and, breaking open the box, found it contained nothing but worthless paper.

A New Building.

C. R. Aldrich is at work on the plans for another handsome building for the state university. The building will be styled the Mechanics Art building, and will be completed in September. It will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000. The architecture will be in the style of the Italian renaissance.

The building will contain machine and woodworking shops, a forgeroom and foundry, with all accessories. The total dimensions of the building will be 60 by 194 feet, and the wood work and machine shops will each measure 45 by 98 feet. The handsome structure will be located on the campus between the Medical and the Power Plant buildings. The building now under construction will be but a wing of the entire building. Mr. Aldrich is at work on the plans of the whole structure, but it will not be erected for some years to come.

Experiments.

At the Minnesota experiment station in Itasca county, the state is attempting reforestation on a small scale, in order to test the various kinds of pine and other woods suitable for replanting. Some ten thousand young pines, white, Norway and Scotch, have been set out this spring, and will be carefully watched. The station is doing a great deal of work that is of importance in that it demonstrates the value for general farm purposes of the great areas of cut over pine lands in the northern part of the state. The results of the experiments so far as most encouraging and do not indicate that these lands need be considered at all worthless. Corn matures well, root crops and small fruits.

Work at Sugar Factory.

Three hundred men are earning their daily bread at the St. Louis Park Park beet sugar factory at present. Improvements now in process of construction in and about the factory necessitated a large addition to the ordinary staff of workers. It is expected that the sewer extension to the Park will be completed in time for the increase in business next fall.

Burned Up.

Mrs. Klinkner's residence in St Joseph was destroyed by fire with all its contents. The loss is fully $1,200 with no insurance. The family was at St. Cloud, save a 10-year-old boy. When the neighbors reached the burning building the boy was found in a fainting fit, but later rallied and admitted he had lighted the kitchen fire by means of kerosene, leaving the can on the stove.

News in Brief.

Professor W. R. Hoag has gone to Paris to act on the committee of awards.

Minneapolis bankers are still talking about the record-breaking bank clearings of that city May 2, when the total footed up to $5,053,215.60, a sum which vastly exceeds that of any other day's clearings in the history of the city.

While the combination train for Taylors Falls was pulling out of Wyoming, a young man named William Duffy, who was working on the section, attempted to board the engine tender, but missed his hold and fell under the wheels and was instantly killed. He was 18 years old.

Alvas, six-year-old son of John Lindecker, at New Paynesville, fell from the platform of a traction engine, beneath the wheels of the water tank wagon attached, one ear nearly severed, scalp torn from the head, arm, ribs and chest torn, and was badly crushed. He was playing on the street and caught on the engine as it passed.

The body of an unknown man was found on the railroad track three miles south of St. Cloud. He is supposed to have been run over by a freight train, and was badly mangled. He carried a blank receipt book, with the name Alex Nahlum written on the inside of the cover.

The 12-year-old son of C. Reed, while working for a farmer near Argyle, got his foot under the plow and it was so severely cut that amputation may be necessary.

The state has almost $250,000 outstanding due from county school districts July 1. Of this sum, $62,076.18 will go into the general school fund.

During the year 1899 there were 694 fire alarms in St. Paul with a total loss of $422,844.72.

The hold-up artists are operating again in Minneapolis. Wm. D. Logan was robbed of $13.25.

St. Paul lodge No. 7, I. O. O. F., celebrated its fifteenth anniversary with appropriate ceremonies.

The residence of Mrs. Eicholzer, at Owatonna, was destroyed by fire. In endeavoring to save some furniture Mrs. Eicholzer was severely burned.

The gasoline engine of the Idea laundry, at Wills, exploded, doing damage to the amount of $300.

P. O. Blagsvelt and six children, of Preston, were poisoned by eating a sour cream salad stewed in a tin pail.

FIREPROOF CLOTHING.

Timid People in Germany May Array Themselves in Incombustible Raiment.

Consul Liefeld, writing to the state department from Freiburg, Germany, tells of a new fireproof material coming into use there. He says:

"As is well known, the substance usually employed for the manufacture of fireproof clothing, paper, theater curtains, etc., is asbestos, a mineral silicate, a variety of hornblende, which can be woven or otherwise prepared, and is infusible at ordinary temperatures; hence soiled articles made of asbestos need only be thrown into a fire to be cleaned. Asbestos has, however, several great disadvantages, viz., its high price and its great weight, the specific gravity being about three.

"A new method has been introduced here by which goods are rendered fireproof when treated chemically by a very quick process, which does not act on the fiber, so the goods lose nothing in strength, nor does the treatment in any way affect the color or perceptibly increase the weight, and the advance in the price of the article is very little.

"I procured some samples and tried a few experiments with cloth which had been made fireproof by this new process, and found that no flame or fire is produced, as was the case with similar goods which had not been so treated. Only where the candle flame came into contact with the cloth was the fiber charred, but there was no spread of fire, and as soon as the flame was removed the charring ceased. I poured some kerosene oil on a piece of the cloth and ignited it; the oil burned vigorously, but the cloth was simply charred where it had been soaked with oil, and there was no spread of fire. A piece of wood wrapped in thick fireproof canvas was placed for a few moments on the red-hot anthracite coals of a furnace, and when examined was found to be uninjured, except where it had been in direct contact with the coal.

"There is one disadvantage connected with this discovery, which prevents the use of these firepoof articles for outdoor purposes, viz., that water can dissolve the chemicals and then the substance is no longer fireproof, but as such material can be washed and then reimpregnated very easily and cheaply, and so again rendered incombustible, it would seem that this does not greatly depreciate its value. Steam and moisture do not affect the fireproof qualities, nor does the application of heat. It is also claimed that the manufactured article is not in the least poisonous.

"I have learned that the increase in price to the consumer of the fireproof article need not be more than about three cents per square yard over that of the unimpregnated, and in large quantities the difference would be even less, and the difference in weight is such that a piece of flag material weighing before treatment 130 grams per square meter would weigh after impregnation from 140 to 150 grams, which means only from ten to twenty grams per square meter more. If we consider 500 grams to the pound and one and one-fifth square yards to the square meter, this would mean an increase in weight of only one pound for about every 50 square yards of material. For other goods the average increase might be even less."

Where Happiness Perches.

"Happiness? Huh!" snorted the lunchroom growler. "There isn't any such thing as happiness; never was any such thing; never will be!"

"Oh, I dunno," said the man with the square jaw, musingly. "If the black newsboy, with a bag of peanuts in his fist and a bunch of cigarettes in his pocket, occupying a rail seat in the gallery of a variety theater, isn't happy, then what the dickens is he?"

"You win, Bill," said the square jawed man's listeners.—Washington Post.

Ascending Cheops.

Tourists ascend upon the outside of the summit of Cheops, the largest of the three pyramids of Ghizeh. The height of the stone blocks comprising the pyramids average three feet, and up them you clamber. An Arab is tugging at each hand an another assisting in the rear. You really do not climb, you are simply hoisted. It is a tiresome and dizzy performance. Next day you ache in every bone and sinew.

HE MADE HER TIRED.

And She Gave Him to Understand as Much in a Most Emphatic Manner.

"Anything wrong?" asked the hotel clerk of the New York drummer who had just got home from the west, relates the Buffalo Courier.

"I was thinking," was the reply. "I rode from Toledo to Buffalo with the prettiest girl I ever saw."

"But that didn't hurt you. Who was she?"

"Can't tell."

"You didn't introduce yourself and get her card in return?"

"No."

"No particular trouble, eh?" solicitously insisted the clerk.

"Well, it was this way," replied the traveler, as he braced up for the explanation. "She sat opposite me, you know, and I tried for an hour to catch her eye. She simply ignored me and gazed out of the window. Then I rose and handed her a magazine, but she declined with thanks. Ten minutes later I bought the latest novel out, but she said she didn't care to read. Then I bought some fruit, but she would accept none. She also ignored me when I tried to draw her out on music."

"But you persisted?"

"Oh, yes. That is, I was about to make another attempt to enter into conversation when the train came to a halt at a town and the girl beckoned me over. I was there in an instant, and with the sweetest smile you ever saw she asked me if I would do her a slight favor."

"With all my heart," I hastened to say.

"Well," she said, smiling even more sweetly, "suppose you leave the train here and take the next one that follows, for you have made me dead tired, and I feel like taking a nap."

"Good gracious," whispered the clerk.

"Yes, sir," said the drummer, as he reached for a cigar, "and I want to go up to my room and sit and think and try and figure it out. Perhaps it's time I left the road and settled down at home."

Easily Done.

"How did they open the Paris exposition, George? I've lost the paper containing the account of it." "Why, it was a simple and impressive ceremony. Looby stepped up and—" "Who is Looby, George?" "Looby is the president of the French republic. Looby walked up and pushed away a painter's ladder, and kicked aside a plasterer's hod and a pile of bricks, and yanked a carpenter's horse out of the way, and tore down the 'Positively No Admittance' card—in French, of course—and scraped a lot of sand and gravel away from the bottom of the door, and then gave the knob a yank—and the exposition was wide open! Simple, isn't it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Proposed Alliance with England.

If the United States and England should form an alliance, the combined strength would be so great that there would be little chance for enemies to overcome us. In a like manner, when men and women keep up their bodily strength with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, there is little chance of attacks from disease. The old time remedy enriches the blood, builds up the muscles, steadies the nerves and increases the appetite. Try it.

Unwelcome Friendship.

"I want to say to you," roared the red-faced passenger, "that I am a friend to the Boers, all the time."

"Well," said the slim passenger, who was in a corner of the car, where he couldn't escape, "I hadn't thought much about it, but if you are with them I am sorry for them myself."—Indianapolis Press.

Ostentation.

"Such ostentation I never saw in my life," declared Mrs. Nugget, of Dawson City, after her return from church on Easter Sunday.

"What was it, my dear?" asked Mr. Nugget, who had remained at home.

"Why, that odious Mrs. Placer had her new bonnet festooned with strings of dried beans."

SEE TO THE WALLS.

A Danger in Schoolrooms and How to Prevent It.

Owing to the gathering of so many different classes of persons therein, the interior walls of churches, schoolhouses, hospitals, etc., are apt to become repositories of disease germs unless preventive measures are taken. These walls should always be coated with a clean and pure cement, such as Alabastine, which is disinfectant in its nature and more convenient to renew and retint than any other wall coating. The first cost is no greater than for inferior work, while renewals are more easily and cheaply made.

THE HEALTH OF YOUNG WOMEN

Two of Them Helped by Mrs. Pinkham —Read their Letters.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am sixteen years old and am troubled with my monthly sickness. It is very irregular, occurring only once in two or three months, and also very painful. I also suffer with cramps and once in a while pain strikes me in the heart and I have drowsy headaches. If there is anything you can do for me, I will gladly follow your advice."—MISS MARY GOMES, Aptos, Cal., July 31, 1898.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—After receiving your letter I began the use of your remedies, taking both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. I am now regular every month and suffer no pain. Your medicine is the best that any suffering girl can take."—MISS MARY GOMES, Aptos, Cal., July 6, 1899.

Nervous and Dizzy

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express my thanks to you for the great benefit I have received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered constantly from terrible sideache, had chills, was nervous and dizzy. I had tried different kinds of medicine but they all failed entirely. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and three of Blood Purifier I am all right. I cannot thank you enough for what your remedies have done for me."—MISS MATILDA JENSEN, Box 18, Ogdensburg, Wis., June 10, 1899.

BUFFALO GAZETTE

DELANO, FRIDAY, May 18, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Couches, from $1.00 up, at Albeitz Furniture store River Street. 2t

—Kelsey Bros. received a new tresh-ing engine Monday morning. They are bound to be in fashion and up to date.

—Rain and hail are reported as having appeared east and south of us last Sunday evening, but here we had none.

—Bedroom sets, from $15, up, at Albeitz Furniture store, Delano. 2t

—Brenshaber and Borsch received a carload of western horses a few days ago. Horses seem to be getting more in demand than they were a few years past.

—Rockford people announce their intention of holding a big celebration on 4th of July. Delano don't seem to be going to have a celebration this year.

—Gotlieb Fauteh has bough the mill and house and lot on South River street, of Ferdinand Kelser. He will endeavor to treat customers in a satisfactery manner.

—If any strange noises are heard in the south east corner of town, like the distant rollings of thunder and a coming storm it is possible that it may be the President of the Board of Education rehearsing his address to the graduating class.

—A good 100 barrel mill in Delano, on a spur track, could handle all the wheat marketed at this place and could furnish brand shorts and flour for home use, besides shipping much. It is a wonder somebody don't invest some of their idle capital in such a paying enterprise.

—Four generations of the inhabitants of our neighboring village Watertown, visited Delano last week, Mrs Luther Cunningham, her daughter Mrs C. A. Halgren, her daughter Mrs Dr. E. E. Shrader, and her son Glen. Several other members of the family including two M. Ds. came along.

—If there is money in shipping so many fine hogs to market as goes from Delano, why wouldn't there be much more for some one to slaughter and pack them here? There would be barrels to make, and hauling to do, and many kinds of employment would feel the stimulus of a good pork packing establishment.

—The State Board of Health recommends in the interest of health that each village have a slaughter house which will be kept clean, and that each animal killed be properly inspected. This seems like a good sugestion as it would do away with the slaughtering by individuals, in barns, and on lots about the village. Besides many diseased or injured animals might be kept out of the markets. Our village authorites would do well to consider the suggestion.

—Quite a number of dead dogs that had got into the river and along the banks were removed or buried during the past week. A couple near the power house had begun to scent the air and even the water quite perceptibly. People ought to know better than to put dead animals in a river near an intake pipe for water works. But all of them don't. It would be much better for Delano to have some good clean wells to pump water from; water that people could safely use in their houses.

—Memorial Day is hastening on. Will our citizens remember the gallant men of the sixties who went forth to battle for their country; who have laid their armor down and become pioneers to the great beyond. Will they spend an hour in decorating their graves and remembering them and their deeds to the rising generation; or is the spirit of patriotism flown from the breasts of their surviving comrades and friends? Has love of country, and of freedom given place to greed for gain and personal aggrandizement to such an extent that Memorial Day is to be, so soon, left unobserved Let those who so desire assemble at a given hour at the cemeteries and strew flowers over the graves of all departed soldiers at least. It is well to call to mind for a brief hour once a year at least, the sacrifices for patriotism made by these defenders of their country, of our country.

—Too much attention can't well be given to learning children to read spell and write. Some think because they send their children to school, that they have done their duty in this line. They expect them to become finished scholars without fur her attention on their part. They seldom do. If some of our citizens who have children half grown, and who have been attending school for five or six years, much longer than their parents ever had an opportunity to go, will ask them to read for them, they will find the pupil objects simply on account of his inability to do so correctly. Many pubils in our own school who are old enough and have attended school long enough to be fair scholars are very deficient in reading, spelling, and writing as well as in arithmetic If you doubt this fact just call up your own offspring if you happen to be a patron, and put them through an examination of your own. How can pupils learn History, Grammar, or other branches before they learn to read and to spell fairly well?

—Remember the ice cream sociable, at the M. E. church yard from 5:00 to 9, this evening.

—The Journal Junior Club will give a social and entertainment in the City Hall next Friday night, (May 25, 1900), the program will be given in our next issue.

—Joe Leudasher is just putting the finishing touches onto his nice, new red barn. Joe proposes to keep along with the most progressive farmers in Franklin town, —There will be services in the M. E. Church next Sunday morning at 10:45. Subject "The reflections of an old man". Sunday School at 12 m. A cordial invitation extended to all.

—John McGary, of Independence, says: "the next President's message should be the sermon on the Mount." John thinks the golden calf is altogether to much in evidence among the people ot today.

—The streets have been nicely cleaned. If two or three alleys were as nicely cleaned i' would materially add to the beauty of the village, and make a part of the town much more plesant to live in.

—The Delano Epworth League will celebrate the eleventh anniversary af the organization next Sunday evening. Aside from an especially prepared program Prof. Carleton will give a short address; Mrs. Thompson a paper; and Miss Cotton a musical selection.

MRS A. F. THOMPSON, Pres.

—A contractor was heard to remark a short time ago that possibly the railroad authorities would soon have a steel arch bridge built across Crow River, at Delano. It is needed. People often shudder, when they see trains thundering across the old wooden, structure, at the rate of a mile a minute, at what a fearful wreck would pile up in the river should the bridge break.

—A few visitors from afar to the Delano Fair hitch their teams to posts, trees or any place they can, and leave them stand all day in the hot sun, with calves, pigs, sheep, etc in the wagons. None of the animals haying a thing to eat or drink for hours, while the proprietors are acting as if they were trying to drink enough for the whole outfit. When a man gets so much to drink as to be unable to give the poor dumb animals under care a drink for a long summer day, some one ough to look after all the animals together.

—Considerable dissatisfaction exists among patrons of the school as well as members of the board and others concerning the holding of a secret session and engaging a teacher. The President of the Board claims that he knew nothing of the "special" until after it was over, Such doings are just a little beneath the dignity of the district, and will, doubtless be resented at the coming annual school metting. People who are interested in haying our schools up to grade should attend the meeting and help elect a board that is not afraid for the public to know its actions; or if they are not afraid won't act as if they were.

—At the regular meeting of the Board of Health held at Dr. Catlin's office on Wednesday evening T. J. Catlin C. A. Brunkow and H. E. Bock being present the Health Officer was requested to appear before the village council at their next meeting and request.

That the two alleys between River and Third street, frome R. R. Ave. to Elm street be cleaned.

That an ordinance be passed obliging all swill and slops to be removed from the village or deposited in such place as the street commissioner shall direct.

That action be taken on the request of the State Board of Health concerning a slaughter house, and inspection of animals and meat.

—A good school in a community is an advantage in many ways. It advertises a town as nothing else can. It stimulates a thirst for an education, for knowledge. It furnishes graduates or pupils who are able to overcome the trials and tribulations of life. A town with a first class school don't have to send away for young men and women for clerks, teachers, professional men, but has them at home; has them in abundance and to spare. Every parent is well aware of these facts. All like to have good schools. They wish to have their own children and their neighbor's children as highly educated as possible. They are not ashamed of the spelling, reading, writing or other work of the young people of the place. The school is under the control of a board of Education, and upon the knowledge and character of that board much depends. If the board is intelligent, honest, energetic, and enthusiastic the teachers are apt to be, and the pupils become interested, they strive to have their lessons; they imitate their instructors in many ways. If the members of the board are representative citizens the school feels it. If they are not the school and the community feels their influence. In a couple of months an election of a board of education will be held. In Delano at least three members, half the board will be to elect, usually too little attention is paid to these elections and consequently our schools have suffered. Women can vote on educational questions, and for school officers Let every voter be present and prepared to choose the best our town affords for the next Board of Education. Then will our schools begin to look up, and be looked up to, and Delano young men and women be respected still more for their learning and ability. For there are exceptions, and quite a few Delano school pupils have been honored at home and abroad.

Cruelty to animals was exhibited on the front steps last week. Scholars should not follow suit as: some folks have mistaken jugs, and the like, soon after dark, and helped them down the back yard, at a rapid rate, off steps and porches, and all from the habit of kicking.

County Cullings.

Some of our Democratic friends are growing impatient to see an organization of the party effected in Wright county. It needs it badly. Let every good Democrat constitute himself a committee of one to do what he can to further the cause by gettting the voters out to the primaries and electing the purest possible delegates to the county convention to be held at Buffalo on the 14th of June.

We understand that Prof. A. P. Ritchie, of Cokato who has engaged for the third term there, is to again try his luck as a candidate for County Superintendent, on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Ritchie has been teaching and qualifying himself for a first grade and now takes a back seat for none of Wright county's aspirants for the position. The probabilities are that he will be the next County Superintendent of Wright County.

Free To Inventors.

The experience of C. A. Snow & Co. in obtaining more than 20,000 patents for inventors hos enabled them to helpfully answer many questions relating to the protection of intellectual property. This they have done in a pamphlet treating briefly of United States and foreign patents, with cost of same, and how to procure them; trade marks, designs, caveats, infringements, decisions in leading patents cases, etc., etc.

This pamphlet will be sent free to anyone writing to C. A. Snow & Co., Washington, D. C.

Trip to the County Seat.

The road from Delano to Buffalo is in fine condition most of the way. In a few places a roller or a road grader could be used to advantage; and there is a bridge well along towards the Buffalo end of the road where a bowlder has been placed in a hole in the plank. The road boss in that district should repair that bridge; it has been "cobbled" long enough. Small grain is stooling well, corn planting is being done. Sugar beet farmers are at work. Every thing seems to need a little rain.

At the County Seat things are unusually quiet. Farmers are too busy to come to town much. A number of boats are to be seen on the lake, and fish are being brought to shore; even by amateurs.

Politicans are quietly at work, some of them. The chairman of the republican county committee was away part of the week leaving his store in charge of Miss Hattie Cruikshank, a former Delano girl, while he helped look after the interests of the Congressman who helps a tariff on lumber, and on goods coming and going to Porto Rico, and which most of his constituents don't believe in; even if his post masters, census enumerators and other office holders do talk favorably of it; and even though the Delano Eagle professes to have, on deliberation, concluded that it is right, after saying that a tariff between Porto Rico and the United States was needed as badly as between Jersey City and New York.

The chairman of the Democratic county committee was attending to his hardware business, and awaiting the arrival of the time for the county convention, after which he expects the campaign will open in earnest.

The chairman of the Populist county committee puts in his time "pounding the iron while it is hot." and claims that all anti republicans should pull together. He sees no need of so many parties pulling and hauling. Every body that is anti-republican should be a good Bryan man and aid in every way to elect him.

Hotel business seems good. Visitors on business and pleasure are numerous at this season of the year.

An evening ride on the steamer around the lake is quite fashionable The County Seat is a nice place this time of year.

If you will vote with the Democratic reformers you are invited to be at the primaries before Thursday June 14 and help elect men from your precints to represent you at Buffalo, at the county convention. This is your only chance to vote so it will count for your choice of a nominee for president.

If you don't want Gordon, Dewey, Hill, Grover Cleveland, or some such man to supersede Bryan as democratic candidate for President, be at the primary to be held at your voting precinct on Thursday, June 14, and help elect delegates to the county convention, you can trust to vote for Bryan delegates to the State convention. Don't fail, it is your only chance, If you love your country and its institutions help preserve them by your vote.

We glory in a free country; the privilege of having a voice and a vote in directing the government in the chanel we prefer. We esteem it a boon, inherited from our forefathers that we can cast a ballot that counts for as much as the ballot of any other man in the United States; yet sometimes we forget, or neglect to attend the primary election that chooses delegates to the county convention that elects delegates to the State convention to elect delegates to the national convention. This really is our only opportunity to use our ballot for saying who the nominees for President and vice President shall be, Let us be on hand and discharge our duty by seing that good reliable men of our way of thinking are elected delegates to Buffalo. The Convention will be on the 14th; the primary before that.

County Commissioner's Meeting.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 11, 1900.

Peculation has been added to the extravigant missmannagement of the Cuban affairs for which the McKinley administration is responsible. The War Department and the Post Office Department are each trying to throw responsibility upon the other for the shameful condition of affairs in Cuba, which have beenlonly partially uncovered to public view through the discovery made by Col. Barton, an army officer who has been on duty in Cuba, that C. W. F. Neeley, a prominent republican politician of Indiana, who is financial agent of the Cuban postal system, had embezzled many thousands of dollars. Col. Burton has just reached Washington from Havana, under orders to tell Secretary Root the full extent of his discovery and to keep his mouth shut to everybody else Rumor says that other American officials have been getting rich through handling Cuban funds, but no official information can be obtained in Washington. In fact, no one need be surprised to see Neeley escape punishment, although he is now under arrest, and get a thick coat of whitewash, as the easiest way out of the dirty scandal for the administration. The profound ignorance expressed by officials of the War and Post Office Departments is of itself suspicious. It implies an intention to deceive, for everybody knows that both of those departments must have been in possession of all the facts before Neeley was arrested, in New York.

The House overruled the majority of the Ways and Meanes Committee and adopted a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information concerning the amount and character of materials used by manufactures of oleomargarine. The majority of the Ways and Meanes committee contended that the information asked for would violate law by betraying trade secrets, but the House thought otherwise and adopted the resolution.

Boss Hanna had the nerve to inform Senators that the administration opposition to the Nicaragua Canal bill would be withdrawn and the bill allowed to pass the Senate at this session if the Senate would ratify the lopsided Hay-Pauncefote treaty. His proposition was not seriously considered. The friends of the canal bill know that if it fails to pass the people will know that the responsibility for the failure will rest upon the shoulders of Mr. McKinley. As Senator Morgan put it, "We will pass the Canal bill at this session or we will defeat Mr. McKinley at the polls." That is the situation in a nutshell. The people want this bill passed. That was made evident enough by the overwhelming majority by which it passed the House. Individual Senators numerous enough to make as great a proportionate majority in the Senate are on record in favor of the Bill. If, in the face of these things, Mr. McKinley is willing to allow his obligations to the British government to cause him to use his influence to prevent action on the bill at this session of Congress he can do so, but he will have to face the music of a disappointed and enraged people and the penalty of losing many thousand votes. The democratic party can stand it if he can.

How confident the democrats are of electing a majority of the next House, in November, may be judged from the fact that the friends of several democratic candidates for speaker are beginning to work for them. Among those who already have more or less backing are Representatives Richardson, of Tenn; De Armond, of Mo.; Bankhead, of Ala., and Sulzer, of New York.

Gov. Teddy Roosevelt is-in his own estimation,-the biggest thing in Washington and the most showy flower in the republican bouquet. He has been strutting around the Capitol and the White House as though he owned the wole shooting match, and patronizingly giving advice to Mr. McKinley, Boss Hanna and others who thought they knew a little something about the party machine. For some reason the republican leaders are all adding to the size of Gov. Teddy's head by the deferential manner in which they are treating him. Mr. McKinley gave a dinner in his honor, and he was invited to a dinner given to the republican leaders in Congress by Boss Hanna, at which the platform to be adopted by the Philadelphia convention was read by Hanna and Roosevelt's advice asked as to its planks If you ask what all this means, you ask the question which has been asked thousands of times in Washington, this week, and not yet satisfactorily answered. One very reasonable answer is that the republican managers have become alarmed about New York, and are seeking to add to the prestige of Gov. Teddy in order to help him towards reelection, which they regard as helping McKinley in the State. Whatever their object, they are making Gov. Teddy believe that he is the whole thing, which by the way, is not difficult to do.

IT MUST BE SETTLED YET.

How ever the battle is ended,
Though proudly the victor comes
With flattering flags and prancing nags
And echoing roll of drums,
Still truth proclaims this motto
In letters of living light—
No question is ever settled
Until it is settled right

Though the heel of the strong oppresor
May grind the weak in the dust,
And the voices of fame with one acclaim
May call him great and just,
Let those who applaud take warning
And keep this motto in sight—
No question is ever settled
Until it is settled right.

Let those who have failed take courage,
Though the enemy seemed to have won,
Though his ranks are strong, if he be in the wrong.
The battle is not yet done.
For sure as the morning follows
The darkest hour of the night
No question is ever settled
Until it is settled right.

O man bowed down with labor,
O woman young yet old,
O heart oppressed in the toiler's breast
And crushed by the power of gold,
Keep on with your weary battle
Against triumphant might,
No question is ever settled
Until it is settled right.

—ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

THE United States Supreme Court has decided to not interfere with the Kentucky courts decission that the Democratic Governor, Beckman is the governor.

WHAT a slap the Morris men got when the state convention went to work and elected C. K. Davis and Knute Nelson delegates to the National Convention. Both of them have been boarding at Washington so much longer than Page Morris has, and according to some of the Page Morris arguments, must have absorbed a great deal more knowledge than has our Congressman from the Sixth. And yet, while Page couldn't see his way to allow an iota of the protective system to be interfered with, only by adding to the import an export duty, both the Senators succeeded in making capital for themselves, politically by opposing such an unAmerican idea. The goodlooking but profane, especially after a Towne lecture, in his neighborhood, Joel Heatwol and Your Uncle Loren, noted for "Hell of a fix", of the 4th Dist. might have secured places on the state delegation if somebody had only thought to nominate them on the anti-protective issue.

The Boer Envoys.

The St. Paul Dispatch bearing date May 16, 1900, is slapping in the face over one hundred thousand Republicans, by calling the Boer envoys "pronounced representatives of lawlessness and disorder." Does the Dispatch think its readers are all fools? Does the Dispatch know that Great Britain is a Monarchy; and a greedy one at that? Does it know that it was, and is, the biggest enemy this country ever had? Does it know that the United States went to war with Spain, in order to free Cuba from the Spanish yoke? The Boers ask nothing only to be let alone. They have as much right as any business man has to be let alone in his business.

A REPUBLICAN THAT THINKS LIKE THOUSANDS OF OTHER REPUBLICANS.

Don't Care to.

There are rumors of a struggle in the State Republican convention over the adoption of a plank relative to the Porto Rica tariff measure. There ought not to be anything of the kind prior to the national convention. It would be very embaracing for Minnesota to adopt a platform on National issues and then have the national issues and then have the national convention adopt one radically different.—Star-News.

Editor Dare's aspirations for R. R. and W. H. Commissioner might get another backset if this happened. His chances seemed good before he swallowed the Page Morris census enumeration bait. Come to have a high tariff pland for Porto Rico opposed by the State Convention weile there is a good $2 per M. tariff on ordinary pine boards would rather complicate the R. R. and W. H. business.

A Poor Excuse.

Charles A. Towne of Duluth, was nominated at Sioux Falls, by the national Populists convention, for vice-president. Only one objection will rise up against him at Kansas City, and that is locality. For Nebraska and Minnesota, two northwestern states, to take both of the leaders, will not be relished by the rest of the country, and will not probably succeeded.—Le Suer Sentinal.

The constitution prohibits the election of a President and vice President both from one State, bnt no further. There is law against having both candidates from one state but there is no law against having one candidates from Nebraska and the other from Minnesota. When all are agreed that Hon. C. A. Towne is the proper man, aside from locality, it would be the hight of folly to select one from another state; or another from Minnesota. The two typical Bryanites, are the proper men to put up.

Other Constituents.

Congressman Morris declared last winter in his Lincoln Club speech that he was willing to stand in his district to send him back to congress; he would make no particular effort for the nomination, and would be content with the verdict of his constituents whether he won or lost it. He immediately left for Washington and has remained there since, so his unanimous nomination means that the party has confidence in him. Not one of the Minnesota representatives will be paid a higher tribute than that which the Sixth district gave Judge Morris—none could. His constituents with spontaniety and unanimity have declared that they are entirely satisfied with his record and that they have confidence in his ability to care for their interests in the future.—Anoka Herald.

Since the Herald has drawn the line so closely and strangly showing that the post master, census enumerator, etc, constituents are willing to hurrah for tariff, import and export between Porto Rico and the United States, and to nominate Page Morris who voted for them, for another term to Congress we perdict that when the votes are counted next fall it will appear that there are other constituents of the Congressman of the Sixth District.

Democratic Success.

Some of our exchanges notably the Saint Cloud Times seems to be opposing the nominations of Hon. C. A. Towne, for vice President, by the Democrats at Kansas City. We respect Brother McDonald's opinions usually. But if he is for the success of Bryan it would be better for all parties if Mr. Bryan when in the office of President had the support of friends, of men who like Towne would aid him in carrying out the promises made to the public. Of what use would the election of Bryan alone be to the party electing him, or to the country at large except through the use of the veto power? But with those about him who would assist and not oppose his efforts things could be done that would benefit all. Democrats succeeded in getting a Governor into the chair in Minnesota. Their Lieutenant governor and others were kept out. No body knows better than Brother McDonald the result of such cases. It is better to place in nominations for President and vice President men repected for the stands they have taken and pull together for their election. People are tired of McKinleyism and Hannaism, and are for Bryanism. Let us have it.

GOLD BUG Democrats have been holding a meeting in Indianapolis and passing resolutions to the effect that silver is not a dead issue. They evidently want to help McKinley back into his chair

Of course They Would.

If the Democrats accept this nomination at Kansas City, in our judgment Bryan and Towne would sweep the country like a whirlwind.—Minneapolis Democrat.

Among our Exchanges.

St Peter Herald: It's a Fact that Bryan and Towne will make a presidential team that can certainly expound the doctrine and go some too.

Dassel Anchor: Old Line Insurance Superintendent (suspiciously).—"How did your husband happen to die so soon after getting insurance for a large amount?"

Widow.—"He worked himself to death trying to pay the premiums."

Broad Axe: The democrats might look a long time in vain to find as acceptable a great man for vice president as Charles A. Towne and not to nominate him at Kansas City can not fail to be numbered among democracy's political blunders.

Thrice-a-week World: The Boer war is said to be about over. The American Revolution was about over, from the same source of information, from the beginning of it till the end. And the Filipino war, as we all know, was "about over" a year ago.

Minneapolis Tribune: The unanimity with which the Minnesota congressmen, who are to be turned down for their Porto Rican vote, have been renominated is only surpassed by the agility with which the mugwump press that predicted their downfall has reversed itself.

Broad Axe: A gold standerd can only be had by paying it price. The price of a gold standard is a condition of slavery to the money kings for all debtors, taxpayers and wealth producers, and the overthrow of popular government and the arrest of advancing civilization,

Minneapolis Democrat: Trade follows the flag-perhaps-but taxation certainly does. The American Chamber of Congress at Manila has sent to Congress a protest against the distructive taxation in vogue there, which, they say, is worse than ever enforced by Spain.

Norwood Times: The Methodist general conference now in session in Chicago has passed a resolution criticising McKinley for his attitude on the liquor question. William was a good Methodist once, but since his election to the presidency his religious parent finds it necessary to use the spanking machine occasionally.

Pioneer Press: The best way to tell whether a package contains something odoriferous is to carry it to the nostrils. Congressman Tawney is going on this plan in his fight against oleomargarine. A few days ago he displayed in the house a sample of stearin, an ingredient of oleomargarine, and it is safe to say that that little chunk of indigestible substance won more votes for pure butter than ten colums of flowery talk.

Buffalo Journal: Minnesota has two presidential candidates, Towne for the populists and Donnelly for the mid-road populists. If the democrats will accept Towne and the republican convention will select a Minnesota man we will have a cinch on the office. If on the other hand Towne is endorsed and the republicans have no home man they will have no cinch on the presidential electors from this state, for Towne is quite a hypnotist on the platform.

The German Village.

Auch meine lieber Augustine "Der Wacht am Rhine and Hoch Faderland" will be heard sounded and resounded when the native clans gather in the German Village that is to be constructed on the Midway in connection with the.....Street Carnival. The Village has always been one of the most popular of the establishment for the Tyetons have a jolly way of making themselves fel in the amusement line. The entertaining company in the village comprises a German Ladies Orchestra. A genuine grokp of six Torolese warblers and singers, a minature theatre and a host of other attractions.

THE GLAD HEART OF SPRING.

Oh, the piping of the frogs when the spring is young;
When the green creeps so faint at first to mingle with the brown;
Oh, the thousand-voiced chorus when the rain-clouds blind the sun,
When the winds die away and the twilight settles down.

Oh, the half-soaked meadows that are filling all the rills;
Oh, the brief sweet days when the sunshine will not stay;
When the morning and the evening chase each other o'er the hills;
A sunbeam and a shadow a-vanishing away.

Oh, the long, lonely hill where the first grass springs
White about the bowlders—I can see the very place;
And far among the pastures a song-sparrow sings,
And damp and fresh the west wind blows against my face.

Ah, the still, still nook where the pine needles drift,
And the sun burns out their incense to load the slumbering air;
Oh, the warm brown bank where the south wind loves to loaf
Among the wood anemones he finds a-growing there.

Oh, the glad heart of spring is beating 'gainst my own,
And the mad pulse of spring is throbbing through mine!
Till I long like a bird to wing me and be gone,
To dream my life away in the glad sunshine.

—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Mr. Jobson Retaliates

"MR. JOBSON," said Mrs. Jobson on Monday evening last, after he had thrown away the butt of his first cigar and was leaning back in his chair, twiddling his thumbs, "do you recall requesting me, when I was in the midst of housecleaning at this time last year, to notify you, this year, 12 hours in advance of the time when I intended to begin housecleaning, in order, as you expressed it, that you might 'waft yourself somewhere away from the smell of soapsuds, varnish, furniture polish and kerosene oil?"

"Who, me?" inquired Mr. Jobson, looking up with a surprised expression. "Don't you think you've got that tangled—that you only dreamed that, or got me mixed up with somebody else? Never said anything of the sort."

"Well, not giving you a contradictory answer, you did say just that thing," replied Mrs. Jobson, "and I hereby beg to present you formal notice that I am going to begin to rehabilitate this house at 9:30 a. m. sharp tomorrow."

"Huh—is that so?" said Mr. Jobson, twiddling his thumbs with a good deal of deliberation and gazing at Mrs. Jobson severely. "By the way, what's your idea? Want to get rid of me? Want to drive me out of my home? It's a wonder you don't suggest a permanent arrangement of that sort."

"You told me to give you notice, you know," said Mrs. Jobson, without withdrawing her eyes from her fancy work.

Mr. Jobson didn't make any reply, but he looked real grieved and hurt.

"Blamed pretty note, this is, isn't it?" he mused. "Wants to get me out, does she? I've a good notion to give her a lesson and just take her at her word—stay out one night, anyhow. 'M 'fraid it might break her heart, though. If I thought she wouldn't go to every police station in town after I was a couple of hours overdue, and send out a general alarm, and telegraph to all of her relatives and my relatives that I was a victim of foul play, and weep her eyes out, and all that sort o' thing, I believe I'd just teach her a lesson by taking her at her word—mighty anxious she is to get rid of me!—and stay away from the house altogether to-morrow night."

"Er—uh—am I to understand, Mrs. Jobson," said Mr. Jobson, aloud, with great dignity and composure of manner, "that it is your desire—er—uh—to have me seek other quarters during your period of house-cleaning?"

"Well, I only reminded you of what you told me last spring," said Mrs. Jobson. ("He wouldn't stay away from his home for a night for anything in this wide world," she said complaisantly to herself.)

"Very well, madame—very well," remarked Mr. Jobson, still with frigid dignity. "You are to remember that you are on record in this matter, Mrs. Jobson—that you have deliberately invited me to leave my own house to suit your convenience. Er—uh—very well, Mrs. Jobson," and he haughtily left the sitting-room and went up to his den.

"Pooh! pshaw! he'd never dream of staying away from me over night," thought Mrs. Jobson, smiling to herself.

"Only thing I'm afraid of," thought Mr. Jobson, "is that she'll send out a general alarm if I stay away all to-morrow night, but I'm going to take a chance on it, anyhow. Huh! the idea! As if I ever said anything last year about wanting to be wafted anywhere. Never made a kick about housecleaning, anyhow. Like housecleaning, in fact. 'M fond of the smell of varnish and all that. That's pure imagination, and I'm going to teach her to—" and then his mind wandered off to a consideration of things she might do in alarm over his absence.

"Are you still desirous, I beg to inquire, of doing without the society of your husband during the period you are to devote to your housecleaning?" Mr. Jobson asked Mrs. Jobson, with vast solemnity of manner at the breakfast table on the following morning.

"Now, he just wants me to beg him not to stay away, when he hasn't the slightest idea of doing any such thing," Mrs. Jobson rapidly thought to herself, "and I just won't, so there, now!"

"I only reminded you last evening of what you said last year at this time," said Mrs. Jobson, aloud.

"Er—uh—may I venture to inquire if you can give me an approximate estimate of the length of time it will take you to conclude your spring housecleaning?" Mr. Jobson asked, with tremendous impressiveness.

"Oh, it'll be all finished by to-morrow afternoon, I suppose," replied Mrs. Jobson, saying to herself: "Now, you'd really think the man actually wasn't going to come home for his dinner at the regular time this afternoon!"

"Er—uh—very well—good morning," said Mr. Jobson, striding out with vast rigidity of carriage. "You shall have your desire."

"How perfectly ridiculous!" said Mrs. Jobson, not, however, without a certain apprehensive thought that he might, after all, put his bluff through.

Immediately after breakfast Mrs. Jobson and the servant began to pull and haul the furniture around, and fool with the pictures, and yank down the curtains, and roll up the rugs, and perform all of the other extraordinary functions in connection with the approved modern method of "cleaning-house." They were at it until three o'clock, when Mrs. Jobson told the servant to get the dinner. When Mr. Jobson's hour for arriving home came around, and he failed to show up, Mrs. Jobson smiled a bit nervously.

"He's just doing it because he thinks it'll make me fell bad—the idea!—and he'll be here about an hour or so late," she reflected. But when two hours passed, and still no Mr. Jobson, Mrs. Jobson began to dab her handkerchief to her eyes.

"I wonder if the poor, silly, old thing really thought I meant he should stay away from his own house—and he is so good, and kind, and domestic," she thought, with awful self-reproach.

When midnight came around and still no Mr. Jobson, Mrs. Jobson was on the verge of hysterics, and the servant had to rub her head and put the smelling salts at her nose, until Mrs. Jobson finally fell asleep from sheer weariness. When she awoke at dawn, and Mr. Jobson not at her side, she had to think for fully two minutes to arrive at the cause of it all, and then she was in a very sorry state of mine indeed. But she felt positive that he would be home for dinner that evening, and she determined that she wouldn't go down to his office to see if he was all right. She pitched in and finished up the housecleaning, and at the usual time in the evening the dinner was ready.

Mr. Jobson had gone to a hotel the night before, feeling as miserable as it is possible for a human being to feel, but with his jaw hard set and his mind fully made up to stick it out.

"Huh! if I'd ever said anything of that sort it would be different!" he thought; "but here I am deliberately chased out of my own home, and I'm derned if I go home to-night."

Before going upstairs to the hotel room he bought four magazines, and he gazed at the covers of each of them upside down in his room for an hour or so, thinking with terrible bitterness of the way he was abused. At ten o'clock he determined that, after all, it might be better for him to go home about midnight, and he made up his mind to do so. But he fell asleep, and didn't wake up until it was time for him to go to the office.

When the hour for his arrival came around Mrs. Jobson was in a dismal state for fear he wouldn't come, and

"VERY WELL, MADAM, VERY WELL."

Mr. Jobson was in a condition of funk for fear something had happened at home the night before.

Mr. Jobson walked up the steps, and Mrs. Jobson hastily retreated from behind the curtains, where she had been watching for him for half an hour. He came in whistling jauntily, hung his hat and coat on the rack, looked around with a smile, and said, with all the cheerfulness in life:

"Ah! got everything nicely arranged, I see."

"Yes," said Mrs. Jobson, smiling with the greatest external coolness, "we had everything to rights by two o'clock this afternoon."

"Glad to hear it," said Mr. Jobson, taking up his whistling where he had left off. "Dinner ready?"

"Huh! I wonder if she isn't going to say anything about my being away last night!" thought Mr. Jobson, nettled to see her so complaisant.

"Yes, dinner is ready," said Mrs. Jobson; and then her mouth began to twitch and her eyelids to flutter, and—well, curtain. By the time Mr. Jobson got through telling her he was a brute and a barbarian, and she had finished denying that he was anything of the sort, and saying that she had cruelly driven him forth from his own little home, etc., etc., the dinner was cold—and on Wednesday night last the white dove of peace certainly did hover over the Jobson household. — Washington Star.

One More Unfortunate.

"My latest love affair," sighed the girl in the pale blue taffeta shirt waist, "was a disappointment.'

"Tell me all about it," said the other girl, snuggling up to her. "I'll never breathe a word of it to anybody."

"It was a love of a bonnet. I couldn't afford it!"—Chicago Tribune.

Thrice-a-week Edition.

As Good to You as a Daily and You get it at the Price of a Weekly.

It furnishes more at the price than any other newspaper published in America. Its news service covers all the globe and is equaled by that of few dalies. Its reports from the Boer war have not been excelled in thoroughness and promptness, and with the presidential campaign now in progress it will be invaluable. Its political news is absolutly impartial. This fact makes it of especial value to you at this time.

If you want to watch every move of the great political campaign take the Thrice-a-week World. If you want to keep an eye on the Trusts—and they need watching—take the Thrice-a-week World. If you want to know all foreign developements, take the Thrice-a-week World.

The Thrice-a-week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year. We offer this unequaled newspaper and the BUFFALO GAZETTE together one year for $1.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. 32.

Railroading Patents.

A single firm of Patent Lawyers, C. A. Snow & Co., of Washington, D. C., have in the last year procured 1,630 patents for their clients, many of them for rejected inventions. C. A. Snow & Co. have been accused of railroading patents through the Patent Office, but they insist that this locomotion is better than ox carting them for by the other process the inventor often dies before he gets his patent. 16.

A PROGRESSIVE POLICY.
North-Western Line's Constant Improvement in Service.

Speaking the other day of the progress that railroads are making along the line of better equipment for the benefit of the traveling public, a well known business man who spends half his time in railroad trains, said—"There has been a wonderfull change for the better during the last ten years in railway equipment, but I have noticed that most of the roads do not make an improvement in passenger service until competition makes improvement a necessity."

A notable exception to this rule however, has been the policy of the North Western Line.

This road I noticed has kept steady pace with the evolution of modern railway experiences, until today it occupies the very front rank of progressive railway equipment builders, and its trains are second unexcelled by any in the country.

This progressive policy of the "Omaha" has not been dictated by necessity, but the road has grasped the situation where others have failed, and it has given the traveling public, the best and latest of everything modern in train equipment, even on these parts of the system where it had pratically monopoly of business, as for instance in its Twin City-Omaha service, and from the Head of Lake Superior to Chicago.

The railroad trains which in my opinion are the leaders today in railway equipment: are the New Duluth Superior-Chicago Fast Mail trains, operated every night between the Head of Lake Superior and Chicago; The North-Western Limited running every night between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago; Badger State Express, the fine day train on the Chicago run; the bright new day trains between Minneapolis, St. Paul and the Superiors and Duluth, know as the "Twilight Limited"; the new Twin City and Omaha Limited, night train from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Sioux City and Omaha, and other fine night and day trains of the North-Western Line—The North west Magazine, St. Paul.

After having been 44 years in the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad company as a telegraph operator, Miss Elizabeth Cogley, of Harrisburg, Pa., has retired from active duty and will be placed on the company's pension list. Miss Cogley received Gov. Curtin's first message calling for troops at the outbreak of the civil war and sent an answer to the same. She is 67 years old.

All census enumerators have been instructed this year to be polite and conciliatory, the idea being to avoid unpleasant criticisms as much as possible. But were every enumerator a Chesterfield fault would still be found. There are some people who are sure to become highly indignant at any attempt to inquire into their personal affairs, and nothing the census bureau can do will [illegible]

The word candidate is from the Latin candidatus. Literally it means white-robed, and it was thus called because in Rome those who sought office wore a glittering white toga. Fancy, if you can, all our modern Americans dressed in accordance with their political ambitions. In some sections there would be no such thing as a dark suit of clothes; Washington would simply be one shining center of universal whiteness.

Bishop William Taylor, who is now on the superannuated list of the Methodist Episcopal church, has had a most eventful career. Previous to his retirement from active life four years ago he had preached continuously for 53 years. He began as a street preacher in California and then went to work in foreign missions. He has worked in Africa, Australia, India, South America, Asia and in most of the islands of the South Pacific.

George Foster Robinson, who saved the life of Secretary of State Seward when Lewis Payne, a member of the Booth gang, attempted to assassinate him at the same time that Booth shot Lincoln, is still living in Pomona, Cal. He was serving as a guard in the sick chamber of Seward when Payne, who had overpowered Seward's son, broke into the room. He received the thanks of congress, and was promoted from the rank of private to that of major.

The one hundreth anniversary of the birthday of John Brown was celebrated at Torrington, Conn., at an old farmhouse where he spent the first five years of his life, after which the family moved to Ohio. The celebration was under the auspices of the John Brown club, formed for the preservation of the house. Many relics were shown, among them the handcuffs placed upon him when he was captured, the bolt which held the rope by which he was hanged, and the sword which he carried through the Kansas troubles, and other relics.

The great "Celestial Globe" at the Paris exposition is said to be the greatest freak novelty at the exposition, and is to the Paris fair what the Ferris wheel was to the Chicago fair. It is an immense globe 150 feet in diameter resting upon four solid masses of masonry. On its surface are the signs of the zodiac and other illustrations of the heavenly chart. One can go up in an elevator and alight upon another big globe 30 feet in diameter, representing the earth and automatically describing its proper rotation within the bigger globe.

The Chinese government seems to be moving against the reactionaries known as the Boxers, who are murdering foreigners, and who take especial delight in driving out Americans and Englishmen. It is known, however, that the empress dowager, who is the real Chinese government, is favorable to the Boxers and all other elements against reforms that the Americans and Europeans are trying to introduce into China. WILL NOT INTERVENE

Secretary Hay States President's Position to Boer Delegates.

United States Must Remain Neutral in South African War—Full Text of Secretary of States' Reply.

Washigton, May 22.—The state department has met the issue raised by the coming to Washington of the Boer delegation by declining to interfere in behalf of the South African republics in the present struggle.

The three delegates called upon the secretary of state Monday afternoon and were at once shown into the diplomatic room. Just what passed between them probably will never be exactly known, for when the meeting was over, after lasting an hour, the Boers, in departing, stated that they had, and would have, nothing to say as to what happened. For his part, the secretary of state was just as uncommunicative, but later on he gave out the following statement:

The Secretary's Statement.

"Messrs. A. Fischer, C. H. Wessels and A. D. W. Woolmarans, the delegates in this country of the South African republics, called by appointment at the state department. They were cordially received and remained with the secretary of state for more than an hour. They laid before the secretary at much length and with great energy and eloquence the merits of the controversy in South Africa and the desire of the Boer republics that the United States should intervene in the interest of peace and use its influence to that end with the British government.

"The secretary of state made the following reply: 'The president, in his message to the congress last December, said:

" 'This government has maintained an attitude of neutrality in the unfortunate contest between Great Britain and the Boer states of Africa. We have remained faithful to the precept of avoiding entangling alliances as to affairs not of our direct concern. Had circumstances suggested that the parties to the quarrel would have welcomed any kindly expression of the hope of the American people that war might be averted, good offices would have been gladly tendered.'

"As the war went on, the president, while regretting the suffering and the sacrifies endured by both of the combatants, could do nothing but preserve a strict neutrality between them. This he has steadily and consistently done, but there never has been a moment when he would have neglected any favorable occasion to use his good offices in the interests of peace. On the 10th of last March we received from Mr. Hay, the United States consul at Pretoria, this telegram:

" 'I am officially requested by the governments of the republics to urge your intervention with a view to cessation of hostilites. Same request made to representatives of European powers.'

Note to Great Britian.

"The president at once directed me to convey the substance of this telegram to the British government, and in communicating this request I was directed by him to express his earnest hope that a way to bring about peace might be found, and to say that he would be glad to aid in any friendly manner to promote so happy a result. The Transvaal government was at the same time informed of the president's action in the matter.

Salisbury's Reply.

"Our representative in London promptly communicated the president's instruction to Lord Salisbury. In answer he was requested to thank the president for the friendly interest shown by him, and Lord Salisbury added that her majesty's government could not accept the intervention of any power. This communication also was immediately transmitted to our consul at Pretoria, to be communicated to the president of the South African republic. So far as we are informed, the United States was the only government in the world of all those approached by the South African republics which tendered its good offices to either of the combatants in the interest of a cessation of hostilities.

"As allusion had been made to The Hague conference, and as action had been suggested based upon that instrument, it may be well to quote a phrase from Article III., which states:

" 'Powers stranger to the dispute may have the right to offer good offices or mediation even during the course of hostilities,' and Article V., which says: 'The functions of the mediator are at an end when once it is declared, either by one of the parties to the dispute or by the mediator himself, that the means of reconciliation proposed by him are not accepted.'

"This would seem to render any further action of the United States unadvisable under existing circumstances. The steps taken by the president in his earnest desire to see an end to the strife which has caused so much suffering may already be said to have gone to the extreme limit permitted to him. Indeed, if in his discretion he had chosen not to present to England the South African request for good offices, he might have justified his action by referring to the following declaration, which was made in the very act of signing The Hague convention by the plenipotentiaries of the United States:

" 'Nothing contained in this convention shall be so construed as to require the United States of America to depart from its traditional policy of not intruding upon, interfering with or entangling itself with questions of policy or internal administration of any foreign state; nor shall anything contained in the said convention be construed to imply a relinquishment by the United States of America of its traditional attitude toward purely American questions.'

Must Remain Neutral.

"The president sympathizes heartily in the sincere desire of all the people of the United States that the war which is now afflicting South Africa may, for the sake of both parties engaged, come to a speedy close; but, having done his full duty in preserving a strictly neutral position between them, and in seizing the first opportunity that presented itself for tendering his good offices in the interests of peace, he feels that, in the present circumstances, no course is open to him except to persist in the policy of impartial neutrality. To deviate from this would be contrary to all our traditions and all our national interests, and would lead to consequences which neither the president nor the people of the United States should regard with favor."

Great Britain Satisfied.

London, May 22.—The reply of the Washington government to the Boer peace envoys satisfies Great Britain and corresponds with the predictions made here.

An Awful Deed.

Pueblo, Col., May 21.—Frenzied by a jealous quarrel with his wife, Calvin Kimblern (colored), formerly a corporal in company M, Twenty-fifth United States infantry, Sunday morning shot his wife twice, once in the abdomen and once across the neck, and then deliberately and in the coldest blood put a revolver to the heads of 15-year-old Ethel Straussen and 11-year-old Jessie M. Skaggs and fired, killing the latter girl instantly, the other girl living for some hours.

Christians Slain.

London, May 18.—The Peking correspondent of the Times says: The anti-foreign movement headed by the "Boxers" has attained alarming proportions. There has been a serious anti-Christian outbreak near Pao-Ting Fu, province of Pe-Chi-Li. Seventy-three native Christians were murdered, including women and children. Many were burned alive.

DECIDES AGAINST TAYLOR.

United States Supreme Court Sustains Beckham's Claim to Office—Justice Harlan Dissents.

Washington, May 22.—The United States supreme court Monday decided the Kentucky governorship case in favor of Gov. Beckham, dismissing the writ of error from the Kentucky court of appeals. The opinion was handed down by Chief Justice Fuller, and a vigorous dissenting opinion was delivered by Justice Harlan. Justices Brewer, Brown and McKenna also dissented from portions of the opinion.

After reviewing the facts in the case Chief Justice Fuller said:

"It is obviously essential to the independence of the states and to their peace and tranquillity that their power to prescribe the qualifications of their own officers, the tenure of their offices, the manner of their election and the grounds on which the tribunals before which and the mode in which such elections may be contested should be exclusive and free from external interference except so far as plainly provided by the constitution of the United States, and where controversies over the election of state officers have reached the state courts in the manner provided and have been determined in accordance with state constitutions and laws the cases must be rare in which the interference of this court can be properly invoked."

After the chief justice had concluded, Justices McKenna, Brewer and Harlan read opinions dissenting from the opinion of the court, Justice Harlan entirely, and the others on certain points.

Louisville, Ky., May 22.—W. S. Taylor fled from Kentucky Monday afternoon. He left Louisville shortly after the decision was announced, knowing that his arrest was certain to follow as soon as Judge Cantrill could convene court and order the issuance of a bench warrant. Mr. Taylor crossed the river to Jeffersonville, eluding the detectives who dogged his steps. There he took the fast train for Indianapolis, leaving Louisville at four p. m. Detectives watched this train at both stations in Louisville.

Mr. Taylor will be safe from arrest in Indiana so long as Gov. Mount persists in refusing to recognize Gov. Beckham's requisitions Gov. Beckham is certain to issue a requisition for Mr. Taylor, and it is believed here that Gov. Mount will refuse to honor it. In fact, it is openly stated that Mr. Taylor received assurances that he would be safe in Indianapolis.

INJUNCTION ISSUED.

Federal Judge Seeks to Protect Mail Cars from Strikers—Another Victim of Riots.

St. Louis, May 21.—Judge Elmer B. Adams, of the United States circuit court, on Saturday enjoined the striking street railway men from in any way interfering with the operation of mail cars on the lines operated by the Transit company. The writ is made returnable May 26. It commands the strikers to refrain from doing anything whatever that will delay or obstruct the operating of mail cars or the gathering and distribution of the mails. Everything prayed for in the petition for an injunction presented last Saturday evening to Judge Adams by United States District Attorney Rozier was granted. The only point not covered in the injunction which the company would possibly have asked is that the strikers be enjoined from all interference with the running of passenger cars.

St. Louis, May 21.—Cars were run Sunday on five of the lines of the St. Louis Transit company without any interference from the strikers or their friends. The lines which were operated were: Park, Laclede, Delmar, Page and Spaulding avenues.

The Metal Trades Council met Sunday afternoon and after a long discussion decided to recommend to all affiliated unions that they go out on a sympathetic strike whenever asked to do so. About 5,500 men are affected by this action.

St. Louis, May 22.—One boy was killed and three men and a girl were wounded Monday as a result of the strike. Martin Zika, 18 years of age, was struck in the left breast by a bullet fired from a street car and killed. Conductor Farley and Motorman Joseph Drake were placed under arrest. The wounded are: Clarence E. Mullen, motorman, shot in upper portion of left arm; home in Jacksonville, Ill., wound not serious; Minnie Krueger, 18 years of age, struck in left thigh by a glancing bullet, not serious. Two rioters, seen to fall during a fight at Thirteenth and Herbert streets between a mob of 250 men and the police, were carried away by friends and names not learned.

GIFT OF VETERANS.

Statue of Gen. Grant in the National Capitol Unveiled—Elaborate Ceremonies Held.

Washington, May 21.—The statue of Gen. Grant, presented by the Grand Army of the Republic to the nation, was unveiled in the great rotunda of the capitol Saturday, and elaborate ceremonies commemorative of the event were held in the hall of representatives in the presence of a vast concourse of people, who included the widow, daughter and descendants of the hero of Appomattox, hundreds of his comrades in arms, the officers and committee of the G. A. R. and many persons distinguished in military, political and social circles. The statue of the preeminent chief of the union forces in the civil war represents the contributions of thousands of his comrades of the G. A. R., none of whom was allowed to subscribe more than 15 cents, and is the result of a movement started shortly after Gen. Grant's death at McGregor, in July, 1889. It is the work of Franklin Simmons, an American sculptor.

Revokes Action of Spriggs.

Butte, Mont., May 19.—Gov. Smith on Friday sent dispatches from here to Senator W. A. Clark, Senator Chandler, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, and Senator Frye, president of the senate, saying he had disregarded and revoked the action of Lieut. Gov. Spriggs in naming Mr. Clark to succeed to the vacancy caused by his own resignation; and saying he had named Martin Maginnis, of Helena, to fill the vacancy. The governor gives as his reasons his opinion that the apopintment of Mr. Clark by the lieutenant governor was tainted by collusion and fraud.

TOO STRONG TO WORK.

She Had Her Specialty and Could Not Be Induced to Depart from It.

A few days ago a well-known Washington lady, being unexpectedly bereft of her kitchen assistance, advertised for a colored woman capable of performing general housework, says the Star.

The first caller in response to the advertisement was a mulatto damsel, bedecked with ribbon and finery. From her airs and graces she might have been a graduate of a seminary. She announced that she had noticed the advertisement and was desirous of securing employment.

"Are you a good cook?" inquired the lady of the house.

"No, indeed, don't cook," was the reply.

"Are you a good washer and ironer?" was the next query.

"I wouldn't do washing and ironing; it's too hard on the hands," declared the caller.

"Can you sweep?" the housewife then wanted to know.

"No," was the answer, and it was a positive one. "I'm not strong enough for that."

"Well, in the name of goodness, what can you do?" said the lady of the house, exasperated. The placid reply was:

"I dusts."

Curiosity Saves Life.

A package marked quinine was secretly sent to a bright woman, but being curious she took it to a druggist who said it was not quinine, but arsenic. A like inquiry into some of the medicines offered will certainly detect the false from the true. For half a century Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been curing indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles and has never once failed. Try it if you feel weak and tired.

Histrionic Improbability.

It was during the performance of "Quo Vadis" at Eureka, and Vinicius was begging Petronius to forget his reproaches, saying, tearfully:

"Ah, how can you ever forgive me?"

"Vinicius," replied Petronius, with great earnestness, "thou art my only sister's dead child."

Whereupon the audience, which was not dead, but only bored, burst into huge laughter.—Kansas City Journal.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

Matter of Memory.

The man who was attempting suicide was not sinking for the third time.

Of course, it was necessary hereupon that he recall everything in his past life in the space of one instant.

This he failed to do.

"Again my cursed memory!" he hissed, and he waded ashore in much chagrin, which was in nowise lessened by the derisive laughter of the spectators.—Detroit Journal.

Binder Twine at Low Prices.

If you want a special inside price on binder twine, either Sisal, Standard or Manila, cut this notice out and mail it to Sears, Roebuck & Co. WILL SWEEP THE STATE

UNIFIED AND ENTHUSIASTIC REFORM FORCES, UNDER BRYAN AND TOWNE AND LIND.

Crystallization of Sentiment Since the Sioux Falls Convention—The Rising Ground Swell Which Will Sweep All Before It—Mr. Towne and the Democrats—Other State and National Politics—The Republican Delegation to Hanna's Convention a Body Guard of Bank and Trust Defenders—Twin City Note and Comment—Political Points of the Week, State and Nation.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, May 21, 1900.

Crystallization of sentiment among the reform forces, following the action of the Sioux Falls convention, is in every respect inspiring of enthusiasm and hope for success this fall in the North Star state. In summary there is, first, complete satisfaction that the convention did the best that was possible to do in the situation, that is in making any nomination for vice president. It is generally known now that only by nominations, completing a ticket, could these allies be held together. In the next place, going outside the Peoples party for both candidates, was such a proffer of co-operation as appealed to the consideration of all. Finally, the recognition of Mr. Towne has touched off the enthusiasm of his devoted following in every nook and corner of the state, inspired of the universal love and admiration for this great son of the North Star state. These expressions have literally piled up in letters and telegrams at Mr. Towne's home, but are in plentiful evidence at state headquarters.

The net result is a tremendous impetus for the reform movement all over the state. Our forces are not stopping to quibble about just how all the matters are to be finally adjusted, knowing full well that the spirit of patriotism and devotion which inspires and prevails will well be able to direct all things wisely in the end. If here and there some one has halted or stumbled in his anxiety for satisfactory results as to the remaining allies, it is probably due to a too hasty view of the situation. The real situation is such as to inspire and satisfy all.

So far as this may relate to the Democratic view there is this to be said, speaking for the sentiments as collected at state headquarters. The feeling is quite like the position and attitude Mr. Towne himself has maintained, in that he has not been a candidate in the sense of urging or even encouraging it in any way, to wit: that there should be a cordial Democratic endorsement of Mr. Towne, as to fitness, ability and courageous devotion to the interests of the people, for all of which he can be commended in the state pride felt for this favored son, the question of his nomination finally at Kansas City, to be wisely referred to the national convention. This attitude is perfectly satisfactory to Mr. Towne. It will reassure his warmest friends.

Our friends, the enemy, are likely to hope in vain for dissensions on which to hang hopes of success in Minnesota. They are dismayed at the rising ground swell which has now loomed up, supplanting or supplementing that steady growth of favorable sentiment, which has never abated a moment since the election and inauguration of Governor Lind.

The first national gun for Minnesota is fired by the Republicans in selecting delegates to Hanna's convention, and the goppite traditions were preserved throughout. In fact the delegation may well be called a monopolistic bodyguard. Street Railway Magnate Lowry is near the top of the list, with the biggest district delegation, Hennepin's, composed of Department Store Magnate Olson and Lumber Truster Tom Shevlin. The electoral ticket is headed by Banker W. E. Lee.

The resolutions maintained the G. O. P. record for inconsistencies. Thus, Senators Davis and Nelson, who voted for Porto Rico free trade, were commended along with the rest of the delegation in congress which voted for tariff. How sad it would have been if the resolutions reported by United States Marshal Grimshaw had failed to inform the people that "all classes" are in a "higher state of prosperity than ever before in all our national history." On the same spot where Grimshaw read his resolution of pride that the Republican party "has written the gold standard into the law of the land," the Republican national convention of 1892 declared as follows:

"The American people, from tradition and interest, favor bimetallism and the Republican party demands the use of both gold and silver as standard money."

The platform declares itself as "unalterably opposed to all trusts and combinations that stifle competition or fix prices," and selected Department Store Olson and Lumber Trust Shevlin to carry the sentiment to the national convention.

Speaking further of the goppite convention, it was dreadfully sad that the corpse of another member of the Maneater club, Minneapolis, should strew the wayside, in the defeat of "Judge" Werner. The Republicans can turn down the Swedish-Republicans as fast as they bob up.

Of course the G. O. P. steers clear of all "nationality rackets," but it went out of its way at the convention to choose a colored man instead of one of Swedish birth. Selah!

How kindly considerate of the Twin City Republicans to relieve the country delegates from the fuss and worry of any part of the convention work, carrying out their cut-and-dried programme. But the country delegates might have been saved the time and expense of coming.

Norwegian day, May 17, was observed in the Twin Cities, though with less attention than usual.

Candidate Barker of the Mid-road ticket at least has a good sense of the proprieties. As soon as the Hanna convention was over he went over to Washington and reported, informing the back end of Hanna's firm that his running would be sure to defeat Bryan. Of course, in the language of the gentlemen from Texas, "What are we here for?"

And the convention also had plenty of "slaps" to dispose of, thus declaring for the re-election of the whole delegation to congress, when but two have been nominated, and thus "ruling out" all ambitious and deserving Republican aspirants.

How cruel is political fate when ex-Governor, ex-Speaker and ex-Banker W. R. Merriam, although basking in Hanna's broad smiles, is yet by cruel edict of the senior goppite senator deprived of having a personal friend go to the national convention from Merriam's district!

And speaking of Twin City congressional politics, they do say that in both Ramsey and Hennepin the selections are as good as made for men to fill the present "vacancies." In Hennepin it looks as if the job is to be done by Frank D. Larabee.

The annual encampment of the M. N. G. is approaching, anent which Adjutant General Lambert has purchased an artillery target range at Lake City.

And here comes the dairy and food department again, interfering with that "liberty" of trade which makes strawberry soda water out of analine dyes. Is there no way of stopping this state interference with food adulterations?

A recent circular by Public Examiner Pope makes the following reference to the duties of boards and county auditors, regarding depositories of county funds:

"The duty of selecting and designating the depository or depositories is vested solely in the board of auditors, but I may suggest that it is very desirable that at least one depository be located at the county seat, even if its rate of interest is lower than that offered by some other, and it may not be thought improper for me to remind you that banks organized under state laws (being under state supervision) are open to the inspection and examinations of the state officials, who can thus secure fuller knowledge concerning their financial conditions than can be secured regarding national or private banks. The public examiner and superintendent of banks would thus become, in a way, the guardian o the interests of the counties whose financial affairs are also under his supervision."

In the same circular a call is made by General Pope for a statement of the present condition of depositories, which reports are now coming to hand. The examiner will enforce full compliance with the laws relating thereto.

The department of public instruction is completing arrangements for the approaching summer schools, of which an unusually interesting session may be expected.

The G. O. P. congressional conventions, as fast as held, carry out Washington instructions to renominate everybody, and so Morris, Eddy et al. are "saved."

Speaking of congressional conventions, the Sixth district's declaration on the Porto Rico matter is another goppite specimen. "We are in favor of free trade with Porto Rico," says the resolution, Morris having just been renominated for having voted for tariff!

Governor Lind and board having approved the petition for a vote on division of St. Louis county, that proposition, which, if carried, will advance Virginia to a county seat town, will be voted on in November.

"Yes, undoubtedly, I will be nominated by acclamation this time." Thus spake the genial Captain Van Sant to a veteran of the Civil war, who hailed from "way down South," after the two had exchanged thrilling reminiscenses of the war. The Southern gentleman knew all about the wicked Democrats in Kentucky and a few things about Missouri, and told the captain about it. Jimmy Tawney languidly gazed out on the fleeing landscape, and another passenger (for this took place on a Milwaukee train bound in from Winona the other evening) remarked: "Yes, the Republicans are all for Van Sant, and the Democrats, strange to say, really want to see him nominated. Funny, isn't it? O, yes, he is very popular." The involuntary eavesdropper smiled.

Speaking of the Kansas City conventions, Minnesota may go in two brigades, each having a train, one of Democrats and one of "Lincoln" men. And why should not Minnesota be in evidence?

In January last the administration declared the war of conquest in the Philippines over. Since then more Americans have been killed and wounded there than in any equal period since we invaded the territory. Otis sailed for home, and since MacArthur took command we have lost over 100 killed and wounded, losing a full score in a single fight, while Otis is still on the briny deep.

One Israel Bergstrom has "withdrawn" from the "race" for secretary of state. Lack of money is given as the principal reason. It takes money to make the goppite mare go, and Israel is not as well fixed as when formerly the state Republican machine carried him on the state pay roll. G. S. C.

ABANDON THE SIEGE.

Relief of Mafeking Officially Announced in London.

Severe Bombardment Forces Boers to Abandon Their Positions Around the Town—Joy in London.

Pretoria, May 19.—It was officially announced Friday that when the laagers and forts around Mafeking had been severely bombarded the siege was abandoned, a British force from the south taking possession of the place.

It is reported that 5,000 British troops have surrounded Christiana, and the landrost and other officials have been taken prisoners.

Under a Heavy Fire.

London, May 19.—From the mention of the laagers in the Pretoria dispatch it is understood here that prior to the raising of the siege of Mafeking the Boer laagers around that place were vigorously bombarded by the British relief column, and that the burghers were practically compelled to abandon the siege.

Joy in London.

London, May 19.—The dispatch announcing the relief of Mafeking was posted outside the mansion house and the news rapidly spread. A large crowd collected and at this hour all the streets in the neighborhood are already resounding with cheers. At 9:40 Lord Mayor A. J. Newton, in his official robes of office, announced the joyful news to the crowd outside. The masses of people outside of the mansion house soon grew to such dimensions that the police were compelled to divert all traffic, omnibuses, etc., through the side streets. The cheering was incessant.

Buildings Illuminated.

Midnight—The scenes in the streets of mercantile London, usually quite deserted at this hour, are almost indescribable. Bands, banners and flags appear to have sprung suddenly from the earth. Every other vehicle is decorated with flags. Brass bands are parading and leading crowds who sing songs. Colored fire is being burned in every direction. Along Fleet street, the Strand and Pall Mall the public buildings are illuminated, and the whole of the West end is alive with enthusiasm. At the war office immense crowds quickly gathered, for, although no doubt was thrown on the accuracy of the news, there is the greatest anxiety felt to get official confirmation from Lord Roberts.

Buller Occupies Newcastle.

London, May 19.—Gen. Buller, in a dispatch to the war office, dated Newcastle, May 18, says:

"Newcastle was occupied last night, and to-day the whole Second division and the Third cavalry brigade will be concentrated there. I have sent the mounted force through Nquutu to expel a small force of the enemy and to reassure the natives. The enemy have burned the chapel, broken much glass, plundered many houses and taken cash from the banks, but otherwise they have not done much harm. The railway is badly damaged; the Ingagane and Nkader bridges are destroyed, as are many culverts and the pumping station and waterworks. Of the 7,000 men flying before us about 1,000 seem to have gone to Wakkerstroom and some by Miller's pass to the Free State. The remainder, who are described as disorganized rabble, have gone north and say they intend to make a stand at Laings Nek."

SUDDEN CALL OF DEATH.

A Commissioner to the Presbyterian General Assembly Dies at Session in St. Louis.

St. Louis, May 18.—Rev. William A. Echols, of Middlesport, O., a commissioner to the Presbyterian general assembly, representing the Athens (O.) presbytery, dropped dead at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in the auditorium of the Washington and Compton Avenue Presbyterian church. He was seated in a pew in the rear of the church when attacked with heart disease. Three physicians who were hastily summoned did all in their power to resuscitate the minister, but without avail, for he died in ten minutes.

There were 800 clerical and lay commissioners in attendance when the temporary moderator called the assembly to order 30 minutes after Rev. Mr. Echols had been taken away. The One Hundred and Twelfth general presbytery promises to excite more than ordinary interest because of the agitation for a revision of the Westminster confession of faith. There are a number of commissioners present who will make a vigorous fight for a change, and so expressed themselves.

Owing to the street car strike, Rev. Dr. F. W. Sneed, chairman of the committee on arrangements, had fixed the hour for convening in the afternoon at three o'clock, at which time the commissioners assembled, remaining in session until after 6:30, when adjournment was taken until evening. The election of a moderator to succeed Rev. Robert F. Sample, D. D., LL. D., after a spirited contest resulted in the choosing of Rev. Charles A. Dickey, D. D., of Philadelphia, president of the Presbyterian hospital.

EARLY IN THE FIELD.

Indiana Republicans Booming Senator Fairbanks as Presidential Candidate in 1904.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 21.—Indiana republican leaders and delegates to the national convention will go to Philadelphia with the intention of starting a boom for Senator Fairbanks for president in 1904. They have talked the matter over among themselves, and have come to the conclusion that the time is ripe to begin. Since Congressman Landis, in a speech before the state convention, announced that Indiana would propose the name of Senator Fairbanks for president in 1904, it has been regarded as almost a certainty that Senator Fairbanks will be a candidate for the nomination.

Will Visit Canton.

Washington, May 21.—The president has decided to go to Canton late in June for a rest of two or three weeks and incidentally to attend the monster nonpartisan celebration which is being arranged for July 4. This decision is contingent upon the adjournment of congress before that time, but from information Saturday received from leaders in both houses there is reason to believe an adjournment will be reached by June 9 or June 11

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Invested.

The investment of a half million dollars belonging to the permanent school fund and received by the state from payment on land certificates and land sales held by the state auditor since Jan. 1, has just been completed by the state treasurer. The last $200,000 was invested a few days ago in Virginia state bonds, bearing 2 per cent interest for the first year and 3 per cent thereafter.

Some difficulty has been found in securing desirable investments for the school fund, and as a result with the last investment made, as well as previous ones, it was necessary to pay a premium on the bonds before they could be purchased. In all, the state has invested in United States bonds and the Massachusetts, Alabama, Delaware, Tennessee, Virginia, state capital certificates and other miscellaneous bonds, over $7,000,000.

The various school funds also have as an asset $6,280,003 due on land contracts, that is, land sold to settlers on time, bearing a good rate of interest, making a total of over $13,000,000 owned by the permanent, general and permanent university fund.

Suicide to Music.

Mrs. Barber Cizek, of St. Paul, committed suicide by hanging herself over the stairway leading to the basement of her home. The body had been hanging nearly an hour when found. Deceased was a sufferer from melancholia, and at times had talked of death.

She seemed in unusually bright spirits and talked cheerfully to her 17-year-old daughter, Mary, to whom she remarked that she believed she was getting well and would live many years.

Mother and daughter were busy together about the house until shortly before 9 o'clock, when Mrs. Cizek requested her daughter to play the piano. The daughter complied, and played a number of selections, while she supposed her mother was engaged in an adjoining room. Finally, calling to her mother, and getting no response, Miss Cizek became alarmed and began searching for her.

Took a Tumble.

Early in the morning a guest at the Grand Central, Crookston, fell out of a south third story to the ground beneath, a distance of about 25 feet. It is not known just what he had in his mind when committing this thrilling escape, but it is supposed he was simply walking in his sleep and the fact that he landed partly on some bricks near a basement window without hurting himself in the least, lends a suspicion to the establishment of this belief. In order to get out of the window he had to remove a large screen and crawl over another bed in the room.

Forcible Possession.

While holding possession of a building leased to P S. Lobdell as a meat market at Mankato, George E. Keene, a well known photographer, shot Lobdell, inflicting three wounds, none of them servious. Lobdell emptied his revolver at Keene, without effect. Lobdell was battering his way in at a door. A crowd was present, besides attorneys for both sides, and Chief Bruees and one-patrolman. Keene and Lobdell are both under arrest. The affair caused much excitement, as both parties are well known.

Forest Fires.

Forest fires on the line of the Duluth & Iron Range road totally destroyed the camps of the Martin Tie & Lumber Company, near Waldo station, nothing but horses being saved. The lumber camps of Scott & Holston Lumber Company were also threatened but were saved. The telegraph operator at York station was compelled to abandon his office, which did not burn, however. A heavy shower has dampened the woods considerably.

News in Brief.

The bids for the construction of Polk county's new court house, to be erected in this city this summer, was let today to the Gross Construction Company, of La Crosse. The building will cost $54,696.

CARTER MEDICINE CO. WINS.

Obtains Injunction in Case Involving Simulation of Labels.

Brent Good, president of the Carter Medicine Company, yesterday received a telegram from his lawyers in Chicago, informing him that a final injunction, with costs, had been granted against the Chicago Label and Box Company. This company makes a specialty of manufacturing labels, boxes, etc., for druggists. The Carter Company has been following them through the courts for two years on the complaint that the label company was making simulations of the labels of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They have now obtained a final injunction, with costs, and the costs are very large, as the case has been submitted to a Master in Chancery for a final accounting.

The Carter Medicine Company has been the first and only one to prosecute printers or engravers who have prepared such labels and wrappers. It marks a new departure in infringement cases, and their victory is one of great importance to the whole "proprietary trade," and also of interest to retail druggists.—N. Y. Press, May 2, 1900.

WANDERING IN DREAMLAND.

How an Absent-Minded Woman Created a Laugh in a Street Car.

The young woman's mind was probably 'way off in the land of cut-on-the-bias, and yokes and flarings, and plaitings, and applique, and ruffles, and things like that, whatever they may mean, says the Washington Post.

Anyhow, when she got on an uptown Ninth street car the other afternoon, she dreamily opened her pocketbook when the conductor came around for her fare, stuck a gloved finger and thumb into one of the compartments of the same, extracted a couple of foulard samples and, with that faraway expression still in her eyes, handed them to the conductor. The conductor was a middle-aged man. He smiled and waited for the young woman to come out of her trance. But she held the foulard samples out to him with her eyes on vacancy, until the conductor, still grinning, had to fetch her back to earth.

"Yes, they're pretty, miss," he said, "and I'd like to get my wife a dress off that piece on top, but she's—

The young woman blushed like a red-hot stove lid, dug into another compartment of her pocketbook for a car ticket, and she looked real embarrassed when the brutal male persons across the car aisle grinned, so she did.

BARBER GOT IT MIXED.

In Relating a Little Joke He, After the Manner of His Kind, Turned It Upon Himself.

Henry Lamm, an attorney of Sedalia, told a story at the reception to the Missouri Bar association recently which caused a great laugh, says the Kansas City Star. Mr. Lamm was called on to make an impromptu speech. He said:

"This is taking an unfair advantage of me. I have a paper in my pocket which I am to read at the meeting to-morrow. It is a very dry paper and it will take me an hour to read it. If I am given the slightest encouragement I will read it right now. That would be one on you, wouldn't it?

"And that reminds me. I was in Texas recently and there they have a new joke. A man asks you: 'Have you heard the story about the two dirty collars?' You are supposed to answer: 'No.' And then the man says: 'That's one on you.'

"A Dutch barber who had been sold on this joke concluded to try it on the next customer who came into his shop. So as he was getting ready to shave the next caller he asked him:

"'Haf you heard dot story about the two dirty collars?'

"'No,' answered the customer.

"'Vell, dot's one you got on.'"

"Mit Lots of Feddars."

Robert Frank, the well-known artist, is a self-made man, and not until he become self-supporting did he have a chance to pursue the regular studies which most people have in earlier life, says the Philadelphia Post. When he began drawing for a living his workmanship was so excellent that he had no difficulty in securing orders. One day he delivered some sketches to an employer, who said: "By the by, Frank, I want a picture drawn in a great hurry. It is a novel thing, a boxing kangaroo."

"Ja wohl," answered the artist, "I will have it ready to-morrow for you."

"You know what a kangaroo is, of course."

Frank must have been thinking of an ostrich, because he answered with a complacent smile:

"Ja, gewisslich. It is a long, tall thing mit lots of feddars." And "Feddars" has been his nickname ever since.

Willing to Show 'Em.

An honest young man, who had escaped a great peril by an act of heroism, was much complimented for his bravery.

One lady said: "I wish I could have seen your feat."

Whereupon he blushed and stammered, and finally pointing to his pedal extremities, said: "Well, here they be, mum."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ALABASTINE

LABASTINE is the original and only durable wall coating, entirely different from all kalsomines. Ready for use in white or fourteen beautiful tints by adding cold water.

ADIES naturally prefer ALABASTINE for walls and ceilings, because it is pure, clean, durable. Put up in dry powdered form, in five-pound packages, with full directions.

LL kalsomines are cheap, temporary preparations made from whiting, chalks, clays, etc., and stuck on walls with decaying animal glue. ALABASTINE is not a kalsomine.

EWARE of the dealer who says he can sell you the "same thing" as ALABASTINE or "something just as good." He is either not posted or is trying to deceive you.

ND IN OFFERING something he has bought cheap and tries to sell on ALABASTINE'S demands, he may not realize the damage you will suffer by a kalsomine on your walls.

ENSIBLE dealers will not buy a lawsuit. Dealers risk one by selling and consumers by using infringement. Alabastine Co. own right to make wall coating to mix with cold water.

HE INTERIOR WALLS of every church and school should be coated only with pure, durable ALABASTINE. It safeguards health. Hundreds of tons used yearly for this work.

N BUYING ALABASTINE, customers should avoid getting cheap kalsomines under different names. Insist on having our goods in packages and properly labeled.

UISANCE of wall paper is obviated by ALABASTINE. It can be used on plastered walls, wood ceilings, brick or canvas. A child can brush it on. It does not rub or scale off.

STABLISHED in favor. Shun all imitations. Ask paint dealer or druggist for tint card. Write us for interesting booklet, free. ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich.

BUFFALO GAZETTE

DELANO, FRIDAY, May 25, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Bedroom sets, from $15, up, at Albeitz Furniture store, Delano. 2t

—The Democratic primaries will be held Saturday, June 9, between the hours of 7 and 9, P.M. Don't forget.

—Read the call for the Democratic county convention and see if you are among the invited to vote at the primary.

—Paul Reichel and Elmer Erickson two Delano boys are laid up for repairs in Montana hospitals on account of injuries received.

—Soldiers Memorial services at the M. E. church next Sunday morning at 10:45 Epworth League at 6:45 P. M. Everrbody invited.

The St. Cecilia Club will hold a concert at the City Hall on Tuesday evening. Several artists from abroad will assist in the exercises.

—Quarterly conference and Quarterly meeting is to be held a week from Saturday and Sunday at the M. E. church, in Watertown.

—We understand that the Hennepin County Courts decided the two cases between Jake Bryant Sen. and Jake Bryant, Jr. in favor of the former.

—Rev. John Whitworth who has been preaching in the Rader neighborhood for a few weeks, has we understand organized a Sunday school at the schoolhouse there.

—We can furnish you with 4th of July Posters in the latest styles at reasonable rates. Cash to accompany orders. It is not always easy to raise money to pay for such things after it has been done. The time to raise it is before hand.

—The exercises on Sundev evening on the occasion of the eleventh anniversary of the establishing of the Epworth League, held at the M. E. church, were well carried out and appreciated. The Christian Endeavor Society was invited to be present.

—The fire alarm was sounded on the midnight air Monday evening. The fire company turned out in time to answer to roll call. The fire had a good start in the smoke house of Spekel & Shaust. No one seems to know how it could have caught. Frank Roban being next door was on hand promptly and subdued the flames before the hose could be turned on it was a good drill for the fire laddies as far as it went.

—Ex Alderman Coffin was out early Tuesday morning notifying his friends of the escape, during the night, of his pants. He couldn't find them any where in the morning though he knew he had left them near a open window. His garden rake appeared outside the window and led him to suspect that the theif had used it in fishing the pants through the open window. How easy. But the most he mourns is the $25 that was in the pocket.

—If you want better business men in town, better tradesmen, better professional men, better preachers, better schools, patronize and aid in making better what we have. If people engaged in the different avocations in town are to be forsaken and every new thing that comes along be patronized, while the cash holds out; and if possible the city visited every time a few dollars is to be spent, we must not expect village people to keep up with those who get the cash.

—Something of a jangle has occurred about sprinkling the streets. At the last meeting of the council a majority voted to sell the sprinkler to the highest bidder. But it seems that William McRoberts rather has the inside track for the season, as he has an agreement with 39 business men and women to sprinkle streets before their places, until November 1 He has the names to the written agreement which seems as good as any promisary note. Things will, doubtless, be arranged rightly, so that there will be no interference with the sprinkling. It wouldn't do during this dry spell to stop the sprinkler.

—The buglars seem to have been around Monday night. Besides N, K, Coffin's vist. F. E. Belden says soon after the fire and before he went to sleep he heard some one breathing near his window and on raising up saw a man running away in the darkness. It might pay to double up the police force for awhile. The pants of George Shaffer living in the same end of town wandered away, one night some time ago and were afterwards found in a slough not far off. The transgressor may be traced. This kind of business is riskly, and some fellow might get hurt at it yet if it isn't stopped.

—A narrow escape occurred Saturday when a horse hitched to a buggy was tied to one of the large pillars to the porch in front of the Pogreba building on River Street. He frightend at something and backed pulling the bottom of the post loose from the floor out into the street, then by a dexterous turn brought the heavy timber down, in such a manner as not to hurt himself nor the large plate glass windows, in that vicinity. Luckily people who have been standing under the porch had moved on just a few minutes before and saved a bad accident most likely.

Moral: Don't tie your horse to the porch pillars no matter how big and solid they are. That is not what they are made for.

—Couches, from $4.00 up, at Albeitz Furniture store River Street. 2t

—Our now Long Lake correspondent is a good one. The Long Lake Locals read well.

—A Hennepin county man informs us that Frank Gralla is putting the roads in fine shape in his district, in Independence, and that he is a good pathmaster and is liable to be re-elected; or possibly to Congress.

—William Hellman has painted several River Street fronts this week. It improves their appearance very much. If they will have Freeman make them some respectable signs now they will begin to look metropolitan and be metropolitan. The city fellows get their work done at home, That's what builds up a city; or a village.

—The finest lettering in Delano now shows forth from the windows of Martin Stralka's place. This work was done by W. D. Freeman, our local sign writer who is an old hand at the business and can't be beat in these parts. And yet a few individuals patronize some new itinerant when ever he comes along for cheay work, which looks "cheap" along side local work.

—The Episcopalians held a tea at the home of Mrs. T. B. Rader. yesterday.

—The old Roehl house, on R. R. Ave. has been partially torn down, and the frontyard fixed up improving the appearance very much.

—The new sidewalk in front of what was once dubbed "robers roost" entitles that part of town toa new name. Quite an improvement.

—Teachers have been employed for the Delano High School as follows:

Principal, Herbert Carleton,
Assistant, Miss Gould,
Grammar, Miss Teeters,
Intermediate, Miss Klopsteg,
2nd Primary, Miss Webber,
1st Primary, Miss Murphy.

—A regular meeting of the Villag Council Monday evening, a resoution to offer the street sprinkler for sale to the highest bidder was passed. Joe Merriman was appointed Pound Master. The GAZETTE was made the official paper for the ensuing year. A number of bills were allowed. The Health Officer offered his annual report. It was decided to have the alleys cleaned if the property owners didn't. Rev. Savs asked that the council assist him in securing some funds of the county for the use of Joe Nestroy. Councilman Bock said he was going to the County Seat soon and would lay the matter before the proper authority.

—From the last Eagle we are pleased to learn that "The constant kicking, nagging and fault finding of the BUFFALO GAZETTE is extremely tiresome". But the balance of the Eagle's sentence is, as is apt to be the case with some of her items, especially on such subjects, extremely misleading. It is this: "especially when it is known that there is absolutely no foundation for the complaints it makes." Although the Eagle's main head who is a member of the board of Education sorry to say, has been laboring hard to make people believe that the President of the school board is being run by a lot of dishonest outside cranks, and that there was no meeting of the board held surroptitiously, has too much testimony against him to succeed very well.

MAPLE PLAIN.

It has been sometime since I made a visit to your sanctum through the medium of the postal service. We are still doing business at the same old stand farming and acting as itinerant Assessor. The farming business would be all right if a fellow was insured against trusts, combines, and the money power. The assessing business is not as profitable as to be a member of one of McKinley's Envoys to some forign court.

The farmers in our town have about every thing planted and are waiting for it to grow but we are in need of rain, very badly, for growing crops and also pastures.

The people of Maple Plain and surrounding country will observe Memorial day as usual by decorating soldiers graves at Lewis Cemetery, Armstrong, with picnic dinner; and speaking in Coxe's grove, south of town. Every body is invited. Come and bring your patriotism.

We think the late frost injured some of the fruit and early gardens.

Last Saturday the patriotic people of Maple Plain raised a liberty pole, from which will float a new flag, on Memorial day the emblem of liberty and independence. It will be the flag of the constitution and of our forefathers, who, with flint lock guns and powderhorn accompainment after a seven years war prevailed over the British troops and established Freedom and Independence upon this continent. Thall all this blood, death and privation of home, and social privaliges for seven years be sacrifised in vain. The daily press is now teeming with war news, rumors of wars, strikes, casualties of all kinds, pestience and famine, and the end is not yet. And the enquiring mind might ask when will be the end of all these things? In my judgment it will not come untill Gabriel blows his trump, and sounds the resurection morn. Some people talk about the world's concersion. Does it look like it just now? We think not.

"The scripture shall not depart from Judah, nor a law giver from between his feet until Shiloh come, and unto him shall the gathering of the people be."

The day of our Nation's birth will soon be here. Then will be heard from rostrum and platform, by speakers of different orthodoxy about our glorious country, and its free institutions, handed down to us by our forefathers. All this is true. Then let us cherish the freedom and liberty guaranteed to us by our Revolutionary fathers, and not run after strange Gods and the traditions of men. We are engaged in a war of conquest and subjugation 10,000 miles from home, that is costing us thousands of lives and millions of money and only a few men in this country will reap the benefit as to wealth and finance, while the rest of the nation will reap death, taxation and devastation. We always thought it was the policy of this government to render the gteatest good to the greatest number but it seems it is not counted so now. The chief of our Nation said in the early beginning of the Philippine war that forcible annexation would be crimrinal aggression. But in this it seems our chief has changed front, and now the proverb is added that might makes right and we are still fighting the Filippinos and are likely to be for a generation to come unless settled by arbitration or mutual agreement.

Many of our government officials, and leading men say, we must be one of the world. So said Israel, when they clamored for a king. They wanted to be like other nations and have Samuel annoint Saul king over Israel but Saul became involved in war with the Philistines and got himself in sore trouble and had to seek Telephone communieation with Samuel by the aid of the Witch of Endor to find out what should befall him. Things went on untill finally the tribal relations of Israel were broken and they were carried away into Babylonian captivity.

Very soon now the Presidential campaign will be on with a night and day working force and there will be Patriotism to burn. There will be sleepy looking dude politicans going around the country making political speeches and telling the people how to vote when they know about as much of the needs of the goverment as a warlike Sioux.

This nation had better ask for wisdom and guidance before seeking for new acquisitions and more territory, A few years ago the Chinese were debared from coming to this country the Negroes in the South work for 50 cents a day but it seems this government is willing to take the pauper labor of all those Islands and let their labor come in competition with the laboring class of the states. Consistancy though art a jewell, Does every man who endorses or approves of this Philippine war think he or the common people of this country are going to be benefited by it. If he does he is only laboring under, imaginary visions which will never materialize. This war was fostered by the greed of Mammon, it was hatched and drooded by designingmen. A war for subjugation and conquest is not a patriotic war, FARMER.

Notice!

To whom it may concern: Learning that the village Council had resolved to sell, to the highest bidder, the street sprinkler, I thought best to notify those who may be intending to engage in the sprinkling business that the job has been let for this season. 39 of the leading business people in town have signed an agreement for me to sprinkle the streets in front of their places until Nov. 1, 1900.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16, 1900.

The troubles of the Administration are rapidly increasing. The deeper the Cuban stealing is probed, the worse it gets, and it is now believed that the conspiracy existed to loot the Cuban revenues and that it included officials in Washington as well as in Cuba. In addition to that worry, the enthusiastic reception of the Boer Peace Envoys in New York and Washington, indicating deep public sympathy for two little republics which are fighting so bravely for existance, has caused Mr. McKinley to loose sleep trying to think up some way to jolly the envoys without offending his silent partner—the British Premie.

How the Cuban scandal stands may be judged by the following extract for a Congresional investigation of all receipts and expenditures in Cuba since it passed under American control: "Within the past week the fact has been disclosed—a fact that brings the blush of shame to the cheek of every American citizen—that trusted officials in Cuba have miss-appropriated large amounts belonging to the people of Cuba. Nobody knows how large these amounts are. At first it was stated they were $30,000; next it was said they would amount to $75,000 and now it is estimated the amounts may aggregate $100,000. At first only one man was involved in the difficulty. Now there are many—so many that it is estimated it may amount to a conspiracy."

Mr. Clark, of Montana, stirred up the Senatorial menagerie by his clever scheme of resigning his seat in the Senate and being immediately appointed to the vacancy by the Lieutenant-Governor, who was acting Governor, and the roaring is still going on, It is doubtful whether Mr. Clark will be seated.

The Senate Interoceanic Canal Committee declined to assume the responsibility of holding up the Nicaragua Canal bill, and favorably reported it to the Senate. Boss Hanna makes no secrete of his intention to prevent its being passed, if possible.

Senator Hale is not an admirer of Imperialism, although he has not said much in public againit the McKinley imperial policy. This week he made the following remarks in the Senate: "The history of colonial possessions, from the days of the Romans to the present time, is a history of robery, peculation, extravagance, wrong doing in high quarters, and corruption broad and large. I do not think the examples of today are going to show that the American people are to be exempt from monstrious evils which always have attended a colonial policy. The jaunty way in which the American people have embarked in the enterprise of the colonial possessions has certainly received a rebuke in what has been seen to happen during the last few months."

Senator Butler, of N. C., denies that he has resigned or has any intention of resigning as Chairman of the Populist National Committee. He said he was elected chairman contrary to his wishes and with the knowledge that he would for the present be unable to give his entire time to the duties of the position, and that it was at his request that Mr. J. H. Edmiston, of Nebraska, had been made Vice-Chariman of the committee.

Mr. J. A. Strouthers, of Toledo, Ohio, who is now in Washington, acknowledges being somewhat puzzled by republican logic. He said: "I was in Michigan last week and the republicans there told me that Pingree had lost his influence because he had appointed officials who had stolen public money and were under arrest; that Pingree's opposition to Senator Mc Millan's re-election would not influence a single legislator, because he was totally discrecited by appointing friends to office, who had proved unworthy of the honor and trust. But here in Washington I am told that McKinley will not suffer to any extent because he appointed a lot of men in Cuba who have apparently stolen everything but the soil of the island. Of course the republicans are trying to say that McKinley had nothing to do with the Cuban appointments—that they were made by subordinates. The people do not know much about such fine distinctions. The President is the government, and as such, made the appointments and must stand for them."

The trick of the republican members of the House Judiciary committee, in making the proposed anti-trust amendment to the Constitution infringe so heavily upon the rights of the States that it would be opposed by every democratic member of the committee, was so transparent that it is surprising that auch astute politicans as the republican members of that committee are should have resorted to it. But the case is desperate. They knew that the people as a whole regard the democratic party as the enemy and the republican party as the friend of trusts, and their object in fixing up this amendment so as to be certain that it would be opposed by democrats was to try to fool the people into the belief that the democrats were opposed to anti-trust legislation. It is becoming more difficult all the time to fool its people, and such tricks as this will not do it.

The experience of C. A. Snow & Co. in obtaining more than 20,000 patents for inventors hos enabled them to helpfully answer many questions relating to the protection of intellectual property. This they have done in a pamphlet treating briefly of United States and foreign patents, with cost of same, and how to procure them; trade marks, designs, caveats, infringements, decisions in leading patents ases, etc., etc.

This pamphlet will be sent free to anyone writing to C. A. Snow & Co., Washington, D. C.

Duluth Herald: Governor Allen's oath at San Juan to support the constitution of the United States is commented upon everywhere as a queer preformance. If the constitution does not extend to Porto Rico, why should he take an oath to support it? More appropriate would have been an oath to support congress or the president.

Minneapolis Democrat: Colonel Webster Davis has furnished the newspapers with a resume written in the third person—of the reasons why he should be nominated for Vice President. The gist of it seems to be that he would catch the Beer vote while McKinley would catch the British vote. Then they can call all action a stand off.

REPUBLICANS apparently are fixing to turn down their veteran office seeker, Capt. Van Sant, once more. Many of them prefer a bigger title, General Clapp. Democrats seem satisfied with the present Gov. Lind. There is nothing like being contented in this world.

CARLETON COLLEGE one of the foremost educational institutions of Minnesota has sent out its announcements for 1900 and 1901. Dr. D. K. Pearsons, of Chicago, has offered on condition that $100,000 be raised by Jan. 1. 1901, to donate to the college $50,000. This will place the finances in good condition.

WHY didn't someone think to put Bede on the delegation to Phildelphia? What fun he would have had making a nominating speech for McKinley. And then in case it became doubtful about Minnesota securing the Vice-Presidency, J. Adam could have orated, winding up with an appeal to the convention to nominate a man from the Zenith City, at the head of the unsalted sea, or, somewhere about, and have suggested that the purest gold, and the shiniest bede was J. Adam.

IN casting about for a proper candidate for Vice President as a running mate for W. J. Bryan several names have been offered. But to all some objection is at once brought out. The least forcible objection seems to be brought against Towne, that is locality. Of what account can such objection be? What weight can it cut with anybody if Towne was born in Michigan, moved to Chicago then to Duluth, and has been to Washington, and all over this country and part of Europe. So long as he is an American and suits the people?

A Republican's Say.

Here is what a republican has to say, When I think of this Hinglish republican administration it puts me in mind of a few musicians that were singing and playing. What they sang is something like this: "A little Hinglish and a little more Hinglish, some more Hinglish and let us have all Hinglish." Now that is what our republican Hinglish administration at Washington is singing; if not singing, saying. They also say this is all Hinglish here, and no Irish, no German, no Dutch or any other nationality except the British need apply.

Well, if Mr. McKinley is nominated he want be elected. A nomination does not make an election sure by any means. But then if McKinley thinks the few Johnny Bulls and British sympathizers can elect him he will find himself mistaken and instead of becoming president for the second time the probabilities are that he will have to board that little craft that navigates Salt Creek. So Long! Comrade, until next fall and then when you are defeated don't blame republicans or democrats either, but blame yourself and your British sympathizers.

A REPUBLICAN AND FOR THIS REPUBLIC BUT NOT FOR A GREEDY MONARCHY.

MINNEAPOLIS has lost two of its most prominent citizens. Col. John H. Stevens, the first settler of Minneapolis, and Judge John P. Rea, late Commander in Chief of the G. A. R. Both died on Tuesday May 28, 1900.

"CONSISTENCY, thou art a jewe." Republicans say we should uphold the hands of McKinley and the Administration no matter what comes, yet they are hunting over the brush pile to find a stick to beat John Lind with for Governor.

IF the Methodist Episcopal church discipline had been amended as was proposed, removing the bans against dancing and other amusements, perhaps the President's conscience would not trouble him so much about the next inaugural ball.

IF there is an opportunity at the Philadelphia convention Mr. Wheaton, of the Minnesota delegation may insist on the colored voters being represented on the presidential ticket; and offer him self for the second place. In view of the large increase in the population of colored people, in U. S. Territory, how could the g. o. p. resist the offer?

OWING to dry weather and low water, mills along the Mississippi have been obliged to close down on account of scaracity of logs. And lumber merchants are said to be ruuning out of stock with which to supply the trade. If you can get a few boards from Canada to help you build what you need you can contribute the $2. per M. tariff to aid in carrying on the government. The government needs it now, and you may need the lumber.

THE war has been over, in the Philippines ever since early in the spring according to Gen. Otis' reports. But it seems to hang on. From reports of casualties being constantly sent home about as many people are loosing their lives there as at any time since the war begun. Of course, as election time draws on, in the United States, word will be cabled over that Aguinaldo is dead! and the war is over! But, so long as Uncle Sam's soldiers are kept there, and lists of killed and wounded are sent home, it will be hard to make the voters believe that Aguinaldo is deader than he has been on several other reports; or that war is ended more than it was a year before. The people have become disgusted with reeports after reports that war is ended, and are in no mood to accept as true, reports sent out to influence elections, more than those they have read for months. The truth is what they are after now.

Prove It If You Can.

It is now in order to declare with truth that the democratic party is the friend of the trusts —Aitkin Age.

How can the Age make such a declaration? The Age might declare that "the moon is made of green cheese", but it would have a hard time proving it. These are republican times. They tell us; prosperous McKinley times; and yet the trusts seem to be more prosperous than ever before, and more prosperous than anything else.

Too Easy.

Minnesota would be pleased to have Senator Washburn nominated for vice president, but its improbable that such action will be taken. Probably some eastern man will be favored by the administration, and as this campaign appears at present to be McKinley's exclusive property, what as decided on by the President and Senator Hanna (democrats please faint) will probably go.—Anoka Herald.

If the Minnesota Republicans care to be a power in National politics, they shouldn't submit so easily to the money powers, corporations and trusts as to announce beforehand that they had no confidence in themselves. Brace up brethren and fight for your rights in convention. Your too easy.

NEWS from the South African Republics seem rather conflicting. Reports that Oom Paul had been captured, were denied.

THE Envoys of the South African Republic's will have a reception in St. Paul, on June 7. If you want to meet them now is your chance, reduced railroad fares are to be secured.

ANOKA has a mystetious murder case. A man named Wise, his wife and two sons were shot while playing cards at home. They were shot through the window, two guns being used. It seems no sane person could have the heart to to exterminate a family in such a manner. Possibly an investigation of the asylum at that place might unravel the mystery.

NO MAN should be permitted a place as delegate to any convention who is not in harmony with the party which he professes to represent. No self respecting man would insist that he be sent to misrepresent a precinct, or a county, or a state, by the democratic party of Minnesota today. Those who have opposed the democratic party for four years past should be allowed to remain at home. Four years ago Wright county really had but two men on the delegation to the State convention that were workers for Bryan and Bryanism.

Norwood Times: The Gold Democrats in other states are holding conferances and declar that unless the Kansas City convention caters to their views on the money question and gives them some recognition they will put a national ticket of their own in the field as they did in 1896. We say let them do so. They cannot fool the people again and it is very evident that they themselves will hesitate before repeating the folly of four years ago. Bryan and Towne are alright and the safest to tie to just now. Endorse them and go ahead to victory

The First Big Gun.

The really first big gun of the presidential campaign of 1900 has been fired At Sioux Falls, last week, W. J. Bryan, of Nebraska, was nominated for president and Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, was nominated for vice president by the populist party of the United States. In all probability the same men will be nominated at Kansas City on July Fourth by the democratic National Convention.—St. Peter Herald.

PIETY IN BASKET FACTORY.

Religious Fervor of Employes Compels a Total Suspension of Work.

Owing to the results of a revival held at Sharpstown, Md., at the Methodist church a large basket factory had to close down recently. Soon after eight o'clock the other morning about 30 young women employed in the factory became so affected with religious fervor that they began to sing, pray and shout.

The men at work in another department were attracted to the scene. The proprietor of the factory, who is a Methodist, was called. He made no effort to control the girls, but told them to shout and rejoice and he would pay them as much for this as for working.

News of the unexpected demonstration spread, and so many persons visited the factory that the work was brought to a standstill. Probably 500 persons visited the factory, and, without stopping for food or rest, the services were continued until late in the afternoon, when the people went to their homes exhausted. Several conversions were reported.

SEARCHLIGHT FIRE ENGINE.

An Addition to the New York Fire Service Which Costs More Than a First-Class Pumping Engine.

Fire Commissioner Scannel, of New York, has closed a contract with a fire engine manufacturing company for the purchase of the Croker searchlight fire engine. Chief Croker, at whose instance the machine was built, said that it had demonstrated its usefulness in the department and was a success. At a fire in Mercer street the engine did excellent work by lighting up not only the front of the building but the various floors as well. The firemen were thus enabled to locate the fire and strike it from the rear, as well as the front. The contract price of the engine was $5,000. The engine is more expensive than a first-class pumping engine, which costs $4,700.

Lucky for Ladysmith.

The bicycle and the motocycle have done much to deprive horseflesh of its value in many civilized countries. But if the bicycle and the motocycle had driven the horses out of Ladysmith, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, the beleaguered inhabitants would now be short of their daily rations.

ALONG THE WAYS.

The ways are lone, but in the night
God, who hath loved us, whispers "Light!"
The same as when, on that far morn,
Light to a needful world was born.
In all the darkness of the land
Still that Almighty, guiding hand!

Pillars of fire there are to-day
To guide God's wanderers on the way
As truly as they shone of old
To the rare chosen of His fold.
Strengthened by Love we understand
Still an Almighty's guiding Hand!

Where is the night that is so dim
That worlds, conflicting, darken Him?
Is He not there—where Darkness goes,
Bending the rainbow o'er the rose?
The worlds swing sweet at His command,
Swerved by His great, Almighty Hand.

Lean thou, my darling, to my kiss:—
Wherever there is Love God is!
Love in the loneliest ways of life—
Kiss of the mother and the wife,
And clinging of the child at rest
On the forlornest mother's breast!

Lean to my kiss: for God shall make
Sweeter the world for thy love's sake!
Thou hast, from me, in thy young years,
Only the tenderness of tears.
They're all I have to give, but they Shall make a sunshine on thy way.

All Heaven hath sweetly dreamed and smiled,
Dear, in the sweet face of a child;—
A little child, whose accents fall
This-wise: "To love is best of all!"
So shalt thou know, when years are past,
Love leads us unto peace at last!
—F. L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution.

When Charlie Laid Down

By Kennett F. Harris.

"IT WASN'T a month ago," said the brown-faced man at the Transit house, flicking his boot with a little rawhide whip and smiling broadly; "I didn't s'pose a man could get into the yards and not hear of it. You know old man Ketter—Bronson Ketter—don't you?"

"From the Pan-Handle?" asked the man in the corduroy suit.

"Pan-Handle nothin'. He's just over in Indiana—retired last week about two million to the good; you must have seen something about it in the papers. Don't you read a paper ever?"

"Name sounds sort of familiar. I may have seen something about him, but I disremember it just now. What about him, anyway? How did he get the best of Charlie?"

"Oh, well," said the brown-faced man in a tone of slight disgust, "if you don't know Ketter you can't appreciate it. I'd thought you'd have maybe heard of the biggest stock-raiser in the state, though. Bronson P. Ketter!"

"No," said the man in the corduroy suit, "I can't just call him to mind."

"Pshaw! Well, anyway, the old man came up here som'er's about a month ago to buy a bunch of stockers and feeders. He made up his mind that he could save the buyer's commission just about as well as not, and he wasn't far out at that. Why, of course you know Ketter. You heard of him selling that Hereford bull for $7,500?"

"No, I haven't got him placed yet. Maybe I know him, though."

"Sure thing you know him; he breeds more Herefords than any one man in the United States, and there ain't a better judge of live stock nowheres. I used to think I was a tal'rable good guesser on weight until I met up with him. I generally figured I could come within a quarter of a pound of how much a steer would scale, but old man Ketter 'll give it to you in ounces. Yes, he skinned Charlie a plenty.

"He came down to the yards one morning looking about as innocent as ever you see a man look in your life, and rubbering around with his mouth half open, like he was making his first visit. Charlie said he seen him when he first came in, looking at the red-plush mounted horns as if he'd got a right smart notion to buy a pair to hang up in the sittin'-room. That done as much as anything prob'ly to throw Charlie off.

"After awhile he drifts around to the pens where Charlie and Parker Stebbs and Gore Hennessey was holding their stockers and feeders—quite a bunch of them—and he looked over at the cattle sort of as if he wanted the boys to think that he was dead on to his job. Charlie says it was a peach of a bluff that he made. He had a straw in one corner of his mouth, and when he chewed down on that and pulled his chin whiskers and cocked his old gray eye at the stock he looked so all-fired knowing that any judge of human nature would have swore up and down he didn't know a darned thing.

"Charlie walks up to him. 'Fine day,' he says.

"'It might be wusser'n it is,' says the old man. 'How they sellin'?'

"'Higher'n a cat's back,' says Charlie. 'Was you thinking of buyin'? I'll let 'em down a few notches if you want to do business. It's a daisy bunch.'

"The old man pulled a plug of tobacco about as long as your arm out of his pocket and bit off a chew. Then he says, kind of drawling and squeaky—you know how the old man talks—oh, I forgot, though, you said you didn't know him; well, anyway, he says: 'They ain't so bla-a-me poor, take 'em all round, an' I don't know but what I might buy a few if you don't open your mouth too wide when you tell me the price. I can't afford to pay no fancy price, though?'

"'How many do you want to buy?' says Charlie.

"The old man scratches his chin kind of thoughtfully. Then he takes another look at the bunch.

"'I don't know,' he says, after awhile. 'Mebbe two hundred, if the price is right.'

"'I'll make the price right,' says Charlie, winking at Hennessey. 'Come in and take a good look at 'em first.'

"There was a mixed lot in the pen, and mighty few averages among them. They was mostly good or bad. The old man looked 'em over, and while he was looking at the cattle Charlie was looking at him, taking particular notice of what seemed to strike his fancy. According to Charlie's idea the old man was showing poor judgment. He'd pick out some consumptive Wisconsin Knothead and shift his straw around in his mouth and he'd say: 'There's a purty fair lookin' critter. I bet if I put him on grass he'd run up to 900 in three months afore he got a kernel of corn.'

"'Good 90-day stock,' says Charlie, and he winks at Parker Stebbs behind the old man's back.

"'There's another likely critter,' says the old man, poking at a runty Canadian.

"'Small boned and well bred; them's the kind to put on flesh,' says Charlie. 'You've got a good eye for points.'

"The old man looked as if he was trying hard not to look tickled, and moved around in the bunch, Charlie at his elbow, with his eye on him. Once in awhile the old man would crack up a good animal and speak disapprovingly of it—there wasn't anything raw nor coarse about his work. He couldn't have bunkoed your Uncle Charlie if there had been. When he got through inspecting he picked up a chip and sat down in the corner of the pen and began to whittle at it with his jack-knife. 'What'll you take for the pick of the bunch?' he says.

"'See here,' says Charlie; 'I haven't got time to sit down and whittle and talk trade with you. If we do business we've got to do it in a hurry. I'll make it an inducement to you, too. I'll let you take 200 of your pick for $4.80.'

"The old man got up and dusted off his pants. 'It's a go,' he says, 'and now we'll do business. Get in your man to cut 'em out, and my friend'll get in the alley to hold 'em. All set?'

"Then he turned and began his pick.

"Charlie stood it for the first five or six, and then he began to squirm a little. When the old man had got five or six more on top of them, and all the flower of the herd, he took out his handkerchief. The old man wasn't going about it like a new beginner. He didn't stop and take a front view and a back view and squint over and under every animal, like he did at first. He just moved about quick and tapped one after another with the little pecled willow he had in his hand, without seeming to look what he was doing. But every blamed one he touched or pointed at was the best in sight. Gore told me he never seen such a pretty bit of selection all the years he'd been in the yards.

"But by the time the old man had got 25 in the alley Charlie squealed. 'Stop a minute,' he says; 'I've got a proposition to make.'

"'What is it?' asked the old man.

"'I'll pay you three dollars a head for all up to the 200 you don't pick.

"HE HAD A STRAW IN ONE CORNER OF HIS MOUTH."

I'll make it an even 600 if you're willing to call the deal off,' says Charlie. 'You're a dickens of a poor judge of cattle, you are.'

"'I thought you said I had a good eye for points awhile ago,' says the old man. 'I b'lieve you thought you was lying both times. No; I propose to make more than $600 on that bunch. Let's hurry up and get this business done.'

"He went on with his pick and Charlie braced himself up against the side of the pen and chewed his finger nails and listened to what Parker Stebbs and Gore Hennessey had to say. They had a-plenty to say, too.

"Finally the old man got through, and you ought to have seen the aggregation of tail-enders he left. It would have made you sob, Hennessey says.

"Parker told me that Charlie stood for a minute or two chewing on his nails after the old man got through. Then he pointed over to one of the refuse and says, kind of bitter: 'I should think you'd have taken him along anyway. You was admiring him awhile ago.'

"'I'm sort of fickle,' says the old man. 'It's good 90-day stock, though—according to your tell, Mr. Walker.'

"'How did you know my name, and what's yours?' asked Charlie, kind of surprised.

"'Oh, I've knowed you by sight any time this ten years,' says the old man. 'My name's Henry J. Fowler.' Right there was where Charlie laid down and had his fit."

"Was it Henry J. Fowler?" asked the man in the corduroy coat.

"Certainly it was. Haven't I been telling you?"

"You said Bronson P. Ketter. Of course I know Fowler, but you kept asking me if I knew Bronson P. Ketter."

"Well, that's one on me," said the brown-faced man. "Bronson Ketter! Oh, pshaw! Why, I don't know as I'd have remembered Bron Ketter myself if anybody else had spoken of him! Well, well!"—Chicago Daily Record.

Hon. Charles A Towne may not receive the nomination of the Democratic party for the vice Presidency this year, but if he lives we shall not be surprised to see the party elect him to the Presidency in the near future. Mr Towne is a Democrat, and one of the foremost citizens of the nation. National Watchman.

Minneapolis democrat: It is quite a joke to read the protest of the Republican papers against the paper trust. That organization isn't any worse and isn't any more favorable by the tariff than any other trusts, but it hits the Republican papers and consequently they are demanding that Congress shall reveal the duties on paper. It certainly does make a difference whose ox is gored.

Double Dealing Out.

The nomination of Bryan and Towne sets at rest all hope of the gold Democrats keeping the Nebraska and bimetalism out of the field, and we can congratulate ourselves that the Populist party did not wait for the uncertainty of the double dealing apparent for months among Democratic national leaders. It might have been politic to leave the second place vacant, but so far as Minnesota silverites are concerned we see no cause for complaint. —Norwood Times.

The New York World,

Thrice-a-week Edition.

As Good to You as a Daily and You get it at the Price of a Weekly.

It furnishes more at the price than any other newspaper published in America. Its news service covers all the globe and is equaled by that of few dalies. Its reports from the Boer war have not been excelled in thoroughness and promptness, and with the presidential campaign now in progress it will be invaluable. Its political news is absolutly impartial. This fact makes it of especial value to you at this time.

If you want to watch every move of the great political campaign take the Thrice-a-week World. If you want to keep an eye on the Trusts—and they need watching—take the Thrice-a-week World. If you want to know all foreign developements, take the Thrice-a-week World.

The Thrice-a-week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year. We offer this unequaled newspaper and the BUFFALO GAZETTE together one year for $1.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. 32.

Railroading Patents.

A single firm of Patent Lawyers, C. A. Snow & Co., of Washington, D. C., have in the last year procured 1,630 patents for their clients, many of them for rejected inventions. C. A. Snow & Co. have been accused of railroading patents through the Patent Office, but they insist that this locomotion is better than ox carting them for by the after process the inventor often dies before he gets his patent. 16.

Japan has discovered some very rich gold mines, and forthwith she announces that no foreigners will be permitted to come in and work them.

It is stated that no less than 12,000,000 acres of the Sahara desert have been made fruitful by means of irrigation. Man is never satisfied with what he has and is continually reaching out for more.

The book and printing trades of Germany celebrated the five hundredth anniversary of the birth of Gutenberg by unveiling a monument in Berlin typifying the printing and bookmaking art.

The shear trust, organized two years ago with good financial backing, has given up the ghost, its stockholders losing almost every dollar. It is evident that in this case at least the shearers were among the shorn.

At a flower show recently held in London a flower was exhibited that was said to have been grown from seed found in an Egyptian mummy case known to be 2,000 years old. The flower is much like our modern sweet pea.

An Omaha man has set himself the task of writing a woman's Bible. After he has finished he will of course get up a children's Bible, and then possibly an old folks' Bible. He might just as well cater to all while he is about it.

This great world of ours has many wonders we have never heard of. The Gersoppa falls, on the Sharavatti river, in South Kenara, India, has just been explored and found to be higher and more magnificent than Niagara. The water makes a clear drop of 830 feet over the Gersoppa falls.

It is stated that the increase in the number of bicycles turned out by the American factories this year will be ten per cent. as compared with last year. There are some 50 manufacturers of bicycles in the country and the aggregate output last year was 1,000,000 wheels. The statistics further show that there are now 6,000,000 bicycles in use in America.

Following is a list of the states which by action of their legislatures have approved election of senators by the people: Nevada, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, North Carolina, Montana, Arkansas, Idaho, California, Colorado, Florida, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon and Pennsylvania.

When Francis Douce, a famous antiquary, died in London in 1834 he bequeathed a box to the British museum, stipulating that it must not be opened until the year 1900. At a meeting of the trustees of the institution recently the sealed box was solemnly opened and found to contain nothing but a lot of old rubbish and a note from Douce saying that in his opinion "it is foolish to leave anything to persons of the average intelligence of the British museum trustees."

The Johnson shell, about which there is so much official secrecy that is printed in every paper in the country has, it is said, a cap at its nose filled with some soft substance that coats the armor plate and prevents the projectile from glancing. All force is expended at the point of contact and it goes through the plate like a mite through an old cheese. The man who wears an old stove lid over his manly bosom has no more show than the army dude with the starched shirt front.

It is the unexpected that happens, especially when a boy is in the neighborhood. Claude McAllister, of Brighton, N. J., in casting about for some way of astonishing the natives, hit upon the plan of filling his mouth with gasoline and touching off the stream with a match as he blew it between his lips. He thought it would look as if he were breathing fire, but the explosion that nearly blew his head off taught him that there was a mistake in calculations. In the hospital he is probably hatching another scheme—else he wouldn't be a boy.

Rapid growth of the copper industry in the United States and the large proportion which this country supplies of the world's copper is shown by a German publication entitled "A Century of Copper." It shows that the United States has during the years 1891-1900 produced more than one-half of the copper of the world, while in the preceding decade it supplied about one-third of the world's production and in the decade 1871-1880 the portion supplied by the United States was only about one-sixth of the total, says the Scientific American.

The rising young poet in an eastern town had recited several of his latest efforts to the fair young girl by his side and, as rising poets usually do, he paused for comment. "Truly," said the maiden, in her sweet manner, "you are the best specimen of homarus Americanus I have ever seen." The rising poet was even more visibly proud than usual until he looked in the back of the dictionary and learned that "homarus Americanus" was the scientific name for "lobster." This is the result of allowing our daughters to read the classics and talk slang, too.

MAY SUE FOR PEACE.

President Kruger Submits Question to His Subjects

Asks Them to Decide Between Surrender and Continuing the War —British Forces Enter the Transvaal.

London, May 28.—President Kruger, according to a special dispatch from Newcastle, has issued a proclamation asking the Transvaal burghers to notify him whether they desire to continue the fight or to sue for peace. President Kruger's proclamation is understood to say that they can quit now with the prospect of retaining their farms, or continue to the bitter end. Rumors are current in Lord Roberts' army that the Boers intend to surrender.

A dispatch from Lourenzo Marques says: Gen. Lucas Meyer says surrender would be at once proposed by the Boers but that everybody fears the ignominy of being the one to make the proposal. He declares that he is assured that his men will not stand. President Steyn and Mr. Reitz, the Transvaal state secretary, are strongly opposed to peace, but Mr. Kruger is not so much against it.

While Lord Roberts' 30,000 infantry, 20,000 horse and 150 guns are moving on Johannesburg and Pretoria, through a parched and deserted country, the situation at the Transvaal capital, as it was last Friday, is thus described by an observer who sent his message by private hand to Lourenzo Marques yesterday:

"The situation, both from a military and a political point of view, has become very critical. President Kruger yesterday admitted that for the first time matters are very grave. The Boer determination is to trust everything to a last stand on the Gats rand mountains, to the north of Potchefstroom, where 3,000 Kaffirs are digging trenches. To that point every available man and gun have been sent. The whole of the western border of the Transvaal from end to end is defenseless and Gen. Baden-Powell can march in when he likes. Lord Roberts, on the other hand, will encounter the greatest resistance. The Boer endeavor is to lure the British into appearing to threaten Johannesburg with attack, an excuse thus being given them for the destruction of property. The Transvaal government will not dare destroy the mines and property without an excuse. Much dynamite has been sent down the line, and 160,000 cases lie ready at Zuurfontein, near Johannesburg. Gen. Louis Botha and Gen. Lucas Meyer have pleaded for the preservation of property. Both are large landed proprietors and fear confiscation, but they have not received satisfactory replies from President Kruger."

Enters the Transvaal.

Kroonstad, May 28.—Gen. Hamilton has invaded the Transvaal, having crossed at Wonderfontein drift.

London, May 28.—The war office has received the following from Lord Roberts:

"Vereeniging, Sunday, May 27.—We crossed the Vaal this morning and are now encamped on the north bank. The advance troops, which crossed yesterday, were only just in time to save the coal mines on both this and the other side of the river from being destroyed. Our casualties were four. Baden-Powell reports that the railway between Mafeking and Buluwayo has been restored and that supplies are being brought into Mafeking. He says the Canadian artillery joined Col. Plumer from Beira with incredible rapidity. Lieut. Webber was taken prisoner at Heilbron a few days ago. He went there on telegraph duty. It was not known that our troops had been temporarily withdrawn."

London, May 28.—When Lord Roberts wrote his first dispatch on Transvaal territory yesterday, shortly before two o'clock in the afternoon, he was 51 miles from Johannesburg and 77 from Pretoria. His immensely superior forces had passed the Vaal river, their last great natural obstacle, at three points. The Vaal forms a curve of 80 miles from Parys on the west to Zand drift on the east. The concave of the curve is toward the Free State. Thus Lord Roberts, advancing along the railway, was in a position to strike any part of the crescent by shorter lines than those by which the Boers could reenforce the threatened points. The Boers retreated almost without a show of defense. Gen. French and Gen. Hamilton apparently did not fire a shot. Of Lord Roberts' immediate force, 11 men belonging to the Eighth mounted infantry were the first to ford the river. They came upon a Boer patrol looting Viljoen's drift, and a skirmish lasting ten minutes followed. Two hundred Boers tried feebly to hold the Vereenigning colliery, but they were dislodged.

DUAL TRACK MEET.

Results of the Contest Between Athletes of Universities of Chicago and Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., May 28.—Chicago won from Wisconsin in the dual meet at Camp Randall Saturday morning, taking 71 points to 57 for Wisconsin. Chicago was first in seven events and Wisconsin in nine. The feaure of the meet was the breaking of five Wisconsin records—the pole vault, mile run, half-mile run, broad jump and mile walk. Chicago was first in the 120-yard hurdles, 100-yard dash, mile bicycle, one-third-mile bicycle, show put and hammer throw. Wisconsin took first in the mile run, high jump, discus throw, mile walk, 220-yard dash, pole vault, broad jump, 80-yard run and 220-yard hurdles.

Blow Caused His Death.

A Battle with Outlaws.

Salt Lake City, May 28.—A special from Thompson's Springs, Utah, says that two sheriffs were killed in a battle with outlaws 50 miles east of that place. Posses are now on the way to the scene.

THE ST. LOUIS STRIKE.

End of the Street Railway Trouble Seems as Far Away as Ever A Sunday Riot.

St. Louis, May 28.—This is the twenty-first day of the street railway strike, and the end seems as far away as ever, both the Transit company and its employes standing firm in their respective positions. Not a car on the Transit company's system has been run since the strike began without police protection. In consequence of there not being enough police to guard the 800 or more cars usually operated, less than a quarter of that number has been run by the company over only a part of its 22 divisions and lines. Since the 8th of May, when the strike began, there have been numerous collisions between the police and the strikers and the latter's sympathizers. Hardly a day during that time has passed without somebody being wounded by bullets or injured by flying missiles and police clubs. The list of casualties presents four persons shot and killed, 22 wounded by bullets and 50 or more injured in other ways. Two of the killed were innocent bystanders, a striking motorman and an emergency policeman completing the number. Several of the wounded are in a critical condition and may die.

It is estimated by the strikers that less than 50 of their number—3,325—who struck have returned to work. These, with the street car men imported from other cities, are operating the Transit company's cars. It is asserted that at least 50 of the imported men have joined the strikers. All the points at issue between the company and its striking employes have been agreed to except that of reinstating all the men who went out in their old positions. The company refuses to displace the men they have hired since the strike began, while the strikers decline to sign any agreement that does not give all the old men their places again. Several attempts have been made to bring the employers and employes together, but without success, and thus the matter stands.

As the result of an encounter Sunday night between striking and nonstriking employes of the Transit system three men were shot, one being fatally and the others seriously wounded. As Philip Sullivan, James Sullivan and Patrick O'Connell, strikers, were passing through Lafayette park they were approached from the rear and fired upon by three men said to be in the company's employ. One of the bullets passed through Philip Sullivan's right lung, giving him a mortal wound. James Sullivan received a ball in the left cheek and O'Connell was shot through the right leg. Accounts of the affair differ, some bystanders claiming that it was a deliberate attempt at assassination on the part of the company's new employes, while others aver that it was nothing more or less than a pitched battle between the two factions. A riot call was at once sounded, but the three unknown men had made good their escape by the time of the police arrival on the scene.

BIG MINE AFIRE.

Disaster in the Calumet and Hecla—Many Men Overcome by Gas —One Is Dead.

Houghton, Mich., May 28.—Fire broke out at the twentieth level in No 2 shaft in the Hecla branch of the Calumet & Hecla mine at seven o'clock Sunday evening. The shaft was promptly closed down, all the men escaping, and a force of men was sent down in No. 3 shaft adjoining to putty up the doors to prevent the fire from spreading. One consisting of 12 men was almost overcome with the gas from the burning timber and started for the ladders in order to escape. One man, Will McRae, fell behind and had to be abandoned. The men barely crawled to the surface, where the entire medical staff of the Calumet & Hecla mine had been called to their assistance with oxygen apparatus. After a rescue party had gone down twice after the missing man he was brought up from the ninth level, where he was found hanging on a ladder. Efforts at restoration failed. Five others of the party, Ben Saunders, John Haun, Richard Martin, Richard Richards and Simon Russell, are now in the hospital. Russell is in a precarious condition. The men are leaving other parts of the mine because of gas.

[The Calumet and Hecla mine is on the Kewanee peninsula in northern Michigan, and was discovered in 1365, it is said, by a pig rooting about in some old leaves in a hole. This was the first clew to the lost copper mines told of in the legends of the Indians. The development was slow at first, but was continuous, and in the course of time the magnitude of the deposits became known. Over $55,000,000 has been paid in dividends since then and the plant as it stands now, while the company is capitalized for only $2,500,000, is considered to be worth $60,000,000. To bring the mines up to a paying stage of development $1,200,000 was spent. The company owns mines, stamps, mills, smelters, railroads, and, in fact, several towns with a population of not less than 30,000 people dependent on the mines for their living. The mine company property covers hundreds of acres and the shafts in some parts are the deepest in the world. Prof. Agassiz made tests in the Calumet and Hecla pits for ascertaining by comparison the heat of the interior of the earth and the rate at which it increased or diminished. The last big fire in these mines was in 1884, and for a long period parts of the working were abandoned until the fire could be got under control.]

No New Cases of Plague.

San Francisco, May 28.—Dr. O'Brien secretary of the board of health, stated to the press that no new cases of plague had been reported to the board of health, and that he knew nothing of the case reported to the authorities in Washington by Dr. Kinyoun, the federal quarantine officer at · is port.

Mrs. Gladstone Very Ill.

London, May 28.—The illness of Mrs. Gladstone is now reported to be more serious. Her strength is gradually failing, and the members of the family have been summoned to Hawarden.

Big Campaign Contribution.

New York, May 28.—James J. Coogan, president of the borough of Manhattan and a leader in Tammany Hall, has contributed $100,000 to the democratic national committee with the stipulation that the gift be rescinded if William J. Bryan is not renominated.

Memorial Day Observed.

Lexington, Va., May 28.—Confederate Memorial day was observed here Saturday. The resting places of Gen. R. E. Lee and Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson were beautifully decorated. Appropriate services, both civic and military were rendered.

WHOLESALE MURDER

Whole Family Shot Down in Their Home Near Anoka, Minn.

Assassins Fire Through the Window While the Family of William Wise Were Quietly Passing the Evening Hour. No Clue.

Anoka, Minn., May 28.—In a small farmhouse, five miles northeast from Anoka, in Gow township, there occurred on Sunday night one of the most shocking tragedies in the history of Minnesota. The persons above named are lying in the farmhouse without care or attention, save that which is volunteered by neighbors. They are the victims of assault by persons who appear to have left not the slightest clue to their identity.

Who did the deed, or why it was done, none in Anoka can guess, and the whole affair is shrouded in the deepest mystery.

Sunday night William Wise, his sons William and Joseph and Mrs. Wise were in the kitchen playing cards. They had been there for some time, when the two daughters, who were in the front room, heard a step on the porch. They ran into the kitchen and told their parents. Mr. Wise said there was no one there, and the girls went back into the front room. They had hardly seated themselves when shots rang out and the house was turned into a shamble. A shotgun and a 44-caliber Winchester rifle were the weapons used.

Shot Down Without Mercy.

Again and again the shots rang out, and each time there was a shriek or a groan from some one of the family who was hit. All was confusion around the house, and nobody thought of looking for the assailants until it was too late.

On hearing the shots the first impulse of the daughters, Martha and Eliza, was to rush to a safe place between the two rooms. While the shot and bullets rained in the kitchen the girls stood there and watched. First their little brother Willie, then their father fell, crying in their agony. The room became filled with smoke, which, when cleared away, disclosed a sickening sight.

Little Willie Wise, aged 7 years, lay on the floor dead. His death was instantaneous. The bullet struck him under the right shoulder blade and tore up through his cheek.

Mrs. Wise was sitting with her back towards the window through which the shots were fired. Hearing the first shot, she partially turned around and was struck with a Winchester bullet in the abdomen. She fell towards the floor, seizing the table to support herself. On her right sat Mr. Wise. At the first shot he let his head fall on the table, and the bullets struck him in the neck and the left side of his face. Joseph was sitting opposite his mother, and was not hit by the first discharge. He began running around the room until struck by a bullet.

The firing lasted but a few seconds. The shotgun was a double gun and loaded with buckshot. The assassin crept to the window, where the center light of glass was broken. There was a wire mosquito netting across the hole, and there are two large holes in the netting to show where the shot went through. The two holes are within an inch of each other, there being only a few wires between them. Underneath the holes made by the buckshot are five bullet holes, made by a forty-four caliber rifle. The bullet holes are almost directly under the buckshot and so close to them that two men could not have fired at the same time. Both barrels of the shotgun were evidently discharged at the same time.

Looking at the window, it appears as if one man did the shooting, using the shotgun first and the rifle afterwards.

There is another window directly opposite the one shot through. The glass is perforated with bullet holes, and the wall to the left is riddled with buckshot. Thirty-two pellets have been taken out of the wall. There were fully ten shots fired from the rifle, for Sheriff Merrill picked up ten exploded shells and one that had not been used. There were no shells from the shotgun.

A Scene of Horror.

The scene that greeted Harry Lapham and Swan Floreen when they arrived on the scene was one of horror. The wounded had been lying where they fell over fifteen minutes and the room was spattered with blood. One-half the table was a red pool, showing where the life had ebbed from the father as he lay with his face in his arms.

The mother was lying in the doorway. The blood had made a little pool on the floor. On each side the wainscoting showed the prints of bloody hands, where Mrs. Wise had tried to help herself during the absence of her daughters. Joseph threshed around the floor after being hit and left his blood everywhere. When Lapham and Floreen arrived they set about to do what they could for the stricken family.

It is believed that Ireland was the first place in western Europe the greyhound was established and the dog was a great favorite with early British monarchs. He did not take his name because he was gray, but, according to one authority, because the prefix "gre" is synonymous with gradus or degree and among dogs then he took first place.

The first church in Boston, a thatched log structure, was erected in 1632 on State street, just south of the old statehouse, on the site of Brazer's building.

SPELLING ENGLISH WORDS.

Great men are usually poor spellers.

Few of the great writers have been good spellers.

Scott, Byron, Tennyson and Dickens were wretched spellers.

The only scraps of writing of Shakespeare's in existence are two signatures, and they are spelled differently.

The man who can spell perfectly is at sea when he tries to define words and the man with a great flow of language and the power to get the best out of words is apt to be careless about orthography.

It is said Browning was often in doubt as to the spelling of a word and had to write it down in order to see if it looked right before he was sure. Many ordinary people are addicted to this little trick, and it is needless to say that the eye instead of memory is responsible for our knowledge of the correct spelling of many puzzling words in our complex language.

If women thought there was something curious in the sky they would find a ladder to get up and see what there was.

Number "Sixteen."

In his history of New York, one of the classics of American authorships, Diedrick Knickerbocker (Washington Irving) wrote lovingly, yet with unctuous sarcasm, of the beauties and traditions of his loved "Nieu Netherlands," the peaceful valley of the Hudson from Albany to Manhattan, the many legends with which the entire region abounds—notably that of Rip Van Winkle and his long sleep—and of the ancient names and families whose descendants are still a power in that locality. So far-reaching were the effects of the "History" that in time the name "Knickerbocker" became the popular one for the patron saint of New York City, he usually being represented as a benignant old German of ample girth, clutching firmly the long stemmed clay pipe which Irving immortalized and gazing over his beloved City.

Recognizing the vein of sentiment in the American people long ago a train service was inaugurated to New York from St. Louis to which Father Knickerbocker lent his name and through the efforts of the line which introduced the service the "Knickerbocker Special" has become as familiar to the average traveled American as to the residents of his own City. Leaving St. Louis at noon, the traveler is borne swiftly and safely to Father Knickerbocker's abode, traversing by daylight those scenes with which he was so familiar, arriving at New York the next day in time for a leisurely preparation for evening.

So popular has the service proven that the Big Four has started a new train as a companion, it leaving St. Louis 8:00 A. M., receiving all Western and Southwestern connections and arriving in New York at 2:55 the next day. This train is known as the New York and Boston Limited, but the wayfarer who travels much will call it Number Sixteen in emulation of his railroad brethren and inquire if "she" is on time. A month's business has demonstrated that it is a success. The Big Four's motto is "Comfort in travel," and the train amply lives up to the motto, as a trip on it will prove to those who desire every convenience in travel. A letter to the General Office of the Big Four at Cincinnati about any of their trains will always receive a prompt and courteous reply.

Particular About His Shoes.

A western couple who were on a visit to New York for the first time put up at the Waldorf-Astoria during their stay in this city, and what was left of their first day in New York they largely devoted to viewing the decorations of the hotel. The myrtle room, the Astor gallery and the great ballroom were viewed by them, and the magnificence of the appointments and oppulent decorations left them breathless. They said little, however, in comment, but that awe was one of the feelings that what they had witnessed gave rise to was evidenced by the husband, who, upon retiring for the night, when he was asked by his faithful spouse, if, according to his usual custom, he was not going to put his shoes outside to be blackened, emphatically replied: "Not much. If I did they'd gild them."—N. Y. Tribune.

Mixed Emotions.

To illustrate the feeling of Ireland toward the predominant partner, an actor who has lately been touring tells the story of an old waiter in a Dublin hotel. "When are you going to get home rule in Ireland, John?" was the question. "See ye here, sorr," said the old man, "the only way we'll get home rule for ould Ireland will be if France—an' Russia—an' Germany—an' Austria—an' maybe Italy—if they would all join together to give those blayguards of English a rare good hiding. That's the only way we'll get home rule, annyway." Then, as he looked cautiously around, a twinkle of cunning and a smile of courtesy were added to the expression. "And the whole lot of 'em shoved together couldn't do it," he said. "Oh—it's the grand navy we've got!"—London Chronicle.

The Vicious, in Boston.

"Yes," replied the Boston parent, "a boy soon acquires vicious habits if he is suffered to mingle with street boys. Once I thought otherwise, and permitted our Emerson to choose his playmates as chance should throw them in his way. It wasn't a week, sir, until that boy, in spite of his hereditary tendencies and the careful home training he had received, was asking me hypothetical questions that simply reeked with casuistry!"—Puck.

How Much You Eat

Is not the question, but, how much you digest, because food does good only when it is digested and assimilated, taken up by the blood and made into muscle, nerve, bone and tissue. Hood's Sarsaparilla restores to the stomach its powers of digestion. Then appetite is natural and healthy. Then dyspepsia is gone, and strength, elasticity and endurance return.

Stomach Trouble—"My mother had a very bad stomach trouble. She weighed only 111 pounds. After taking four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla she weighed 136 pounds. She took it again after the grip and one bottle got her up." Miss Otie McCoy, 528 Lafayette Ave., Lebanon, Ind.

The Question of Dessert

Is easily and simply solved with a package of Burnham's Hasty Jellycon. It is only necessary to dissolve a package of it in boiling water and set away to cool. The result is a delightfully pure jelly, and an ideal dessert. The flavors are orange, lemon, strawberry, raspberry, peach, wild cherry and the unflavored "calfsfoot" for making wine and coffee jellies. All grocers sell it.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

For the Soldier.

The troops who leave Walker soon for the frigid climate of Alaska will be well supplied with reading matter for some time to come. Miss Gratia Countryman, secretary of the state library commission, has sent them a large box filled with books and the latest magazines which were purchased with what was left of the soldiers' fund contributed to the Woman's Council Library Committee during the time the state troops were encamped at Chickamauga.

The demand for reading matter among the boys in blue is very great, and Lieutenant Barrows, of the Thirteenth regulars, now in service in the Philippines, has written friends in Minneapolis to the effect that the troops there are very anxious to be supplied with something to read.

Companies Pay.

Because of the policy of refusing to grant licenses to companies which failed to comply with the Somerville law, the state is enriched by $11,175. While other classes of corporations have refused to file articles with the secretary of state and pay the required fee, insurance companies, with two exceptions, have qualified. The two in question are expected to come in under the law in a short time.

In a list prepared Commissioner O'Shaughnessy figures that 220 companies have been given licenses and paid the fee asked. Had all corporations, exclusive of insurance companies, been compelled to comply with the law, the state, it is estimated, would now have an additional revenue of about $15,000.

Seized the Body.

A party of Finns direct from the old country arrived at Duluth on their way to Ely. The men are miners. Ten days ago on shipboard off the Nova Scotian coast a child was born to one of the families. On the train coming to Duluth the baby died.

The parents were determined to take the little body with them to Ely and placed it in a basket covered with wraps. But the pitiful appearance of the mother and her constantly fondling and care of the basket aroused interest on the part of local authorities and the body was taken from her and buried. There was quite a scene when the authorities took the body from the mother, who could speak no English.

Expect a Good Time.

Previous announcements have scarcely done justice to the great carnival and exposition that is to be given by the St. Paul Lodge of Elks, No. 59, June 18 to 30. It develops that the carnival will be the most elaborate thing of the kind ever attempted in the west. Ten blocks of one of St. Paul's streets will be given up to it, entrances in the form of magnificent arches of staff opening at either end into a scene of bewildering beauty. All sorts of booths will display every kind of wares, bands will discourse sweet music and a great midway, rivaling that of the world's fair, will furnish entertainment for all tastes.

BARRED FROM AMERICA.

Two Irishmen of Notoriety Land in New York—Inquiry Board Orders Their Exclusion.

New York, May 28.—James Fitzharris, alias "Skin the Goat," and Joseph Mullett, the Irish invincibles who were recently released from prison in Ireland, where they were sentenced for complicity in the Phoenix park murders in 1882, were on Sunday excluded by the board of special inquiry at the immigration station and ordered deported. The exclusion was made under the interpretation of the law which forbids anyone being admitted to this country who has been adjudged guilty of a "felony, infamous crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude."

The two men were recently pardoned by Earl Cadogan, lord lieutenant of Ireland, from a sentence of life imprisonment, and reached this city among the steerage passengers on the Lucania Saturday last. After a conference with Commissioner Fitchie, the men were ordered back to Ellis island to await the action of the board of special inquiry. This board was composed of William Weihe, chairman; H. H. Moller, James A. Toner and Maj. Charles S. Sensey. The two men were taken before the board on Ellis island Sunday morning. The inquisition was secret.

After the meeting of the board it was learned that Fitzharris was the first of the two to be examined by the members. He admitted he had served nearly 17 years in prison. After being asked the usual questions as to his age, nativity and residence, Fitzharris was asked of what crime he had been convicted, and answered: "Treason." He was then questioned as to this charge, and he told the board that he had been arrested about nine months after the famous Phoenix park murders, in company with 23 others. These 23 were accused of having been accessories after the fact, while Fitzharris was charged with having been an accessory before the fact. Three months later he was brought to trial, with others of the accused. Five of them were sentenced to be hanged, and Fitzharris was sentenced to penal servitude for life.

While telling his story to the board Fitzharris declared that at the time of his trial he was offered £10,000 by the English government if he would turn informer against the other members of the band. This he refused to do, and of his life sentence he served about 17 years in the Mount Joy, Chatham, Doawnpatrick and Marybone prisons. Eight months ago he was pardoned. Fitzharris said that he and Mullett had about $25 between them when they reached this port. He asserted that while he was on British soil he was compelled to report to the police every month as to his doings and whereabouts. "I came to this country," he added, "because I want a chance to rest and recuperate. I wanted to stay here about three months, and then go back to my family."

Mullett indignantly refused to answer any of the questions put to him by the board. He declared he was not being accorded proper treatment by the government. His examinations lasted only a short time, as he would not respond to questions. The men were then sent to the "excluded pen." The case will probably be appealed to the authorities at Washington, and if not, Fitzharris and Mullett will leave this port on Saturday next on the Lucania.

IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Minor Engagements Are Reported—Charge Against Gen. Funston Unsustained.

Manila, May 28.—Scouting, small engagements and the capture of arms and prisoners continue daily in northern Luzon. Last week's operations by the Ninth, Twelfth, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth and Thirty-sixth regiments resulted in the killing of 46 of the enemy, the taking of 180 prisoners and the capture of 300 rifles and a quantity of ammunition.

Peace reigns and no trouble is expected in Manila, although the city is crowded with people from the provinces who are leaving the unprotected hamlets in order to avoid the conscription which the insurgent leaders are enforcing, as well as robbery and outrages at the hands of roving insurgents and bandits.

The investigation of the charge against Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston of having summarily executed two natives in the province of Zambales has resulted in a discontinuance of the proceedings. It developed the fact that Gen. Funston caught the natives in the act of murdering bound Maccabebe scouts, his action, in view of the circumstances, being regarded as justifiable.

Is 81 Years Old.

Boston, May 28.—In the midst of flowers sent in generous quantities by friends from all over the country, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, one of the foremost women of the country, received her friends Sunday, on the eighty-first anniversary of her birth. Messages of congratulation also poured in. Mrs. Howe is in excellent health.

Commits Suicide.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 28.—Prof. Robert Wiziarde, a young author and composer who came to St. Joseph several months ago from Kansas City, committed suicide in his studio here by cutting the arteries in his wrists with a razor. He left no note to explain why he committed the deed.

HOW CITIES HANDLE GARBAGE.

Interesting Report from American Consuls on Methods Employed Abroad.

Some time ago the agricultural department became interested in the study of the disposal of garbage, sewage, etc., in foreign cities, and solicited the aid of the state department in obtaining information. The department, says the St. Louis Republic, directed the consular officers of the United States to forward all information obtainable. Among the first to respond was the consul at Marseilles. To a Frenchman's mind there was something very like in our words "garbage" and "cabbage," for the one to whom the consul applied gayly responded:

"Garbage is one of the finest dishes of the place. Well cooked and nicely prepared, as they do it in this country, it is something very exquisite."

Writing from Santiago de Cuba, Consul Hyatt draws a lively picture of the unique way of disposing of matters in that place. He writes that "dead cattle, horses, mules and large dogs are hauled to the suburbs and dumped by the roadside the same as garbage. All other matter is thrown into the streets or on the neighbor's roofs, to be devoured by buzzards. Before throwing a dead cat or dog into the street it is customary to tie a cord to the tail of the animal; this insures having it hauled away from the door, as the children will play horse by dragging it around the streets, and seldom deliver it again to the owners."

An uncanny tale comes from Consul Fowler that makes the reader feel creepy. He says:

"The cleanest cities in China are Hang-Chow and Ning-Pox. In the center of these two cities I have myself seen dogs eating bodies of babies; the rotting corpses of cholera cases, snakes slowly winding in and out; many dogs, slime, dead cats; in fact, the most horrible filth on one side, while across the way the glitter of gold, pomp and luxury; such are the principles of a Chinese street. The garbage collector is the beggar or the starving dog."

Consul Ragsdale writes from Tien Tsin that "all animal food is comparatively costly and the mass of the people are poor. The methods are from house-to-house collection. The work is done by private enterprise and the material deposited on vacant lots and in front of houses where the owners do not employ the collector. Tin cans are much prized by the natives and are a regular article of commerce. When beyond use as a bucket they are flattened out and made into anything from a candlestick to a bathtub—the latter being used only for foreigners. Broken glass is reheated and made into lamps and curios, snuff bottles, etc. All of this material is collected by private enterprise and the sorting is done in any place most convenient to the collector. Household waste waters are thrown into the empty pools at the side of the streets and eventually this water is used for street sprinkling. The streets and the passers-by are sprinkled by means of long-handled ladles.

"The street refuse collections are made by men and boys with a basket and a small long-handled ladle or shovel. The basket hangs on the back from the left shoulder and great skill is shown by some collectors in scooping up everything and throwing it into the basket without loss. This material is taken to some bright, sunny and convenient locality, mixed with two parts of street dust and made into cakes, the size of an orange. These cakes are sundried and sold as fertilizers. The most convenient place for a foreigner to study the details of these methods is the stone bridge on Legation street. It is only a few hundred yards from the two foreign hotels and the French, German, Japanese, English, Russian and American legations. The bridge, being thus centrally located with a wind-swept stone floor exposed to the sun, possesses all of the requirements of a first-class fertilizer dryer. It is in daily use. The sewage system of Peking is certainly a combined system. Everything combines in the streets. No filters are used. The supply of street sweepings exceeds the demand by about three inches in depth."

Honestly Opposed to Progress.

The Chinese have no doubt begun to realize the fact that foreigners are determined to exploit their country, and also that they are too weak successfully to resist this action, and they are therefore reduced to putting obstructions in everybody's way. In doing this most of them are doing their country a service, and if they cannot keep out foreign civilization they should at least delay its entry as long as possible.

Yours truly, D. M. WEIMER.

So well pleased with twine he got last year that he will order again this year

CHARLES CITY, IOWA, April 2, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.,
Gentlemen: I write to find out what you can sell Standard Twine this season. Send me samples and prices. The twine I received from you last year was all O. K., and I have concluded to order twine from you again this year. WM. BOEKEMEIER.

Was well pleased with last year's twine and wants it again this year

PATTONVILLE, TEXAS.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: What will you put binder twine at this year? I purchased from you last year, and it gave perfect satisfaction, so I will make another deal with you if you are right in prices. I have found your goods to be what you recommend them.
Yours truly, H. H. ABELS.

Wants samples and prices, as he liked what he used last year

SMITHTON, WIS., April 9, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: I bought binding twine of you last year, and was well pleased with it, so I would like to have you send me a sample of your twine, and also the prices of it.
Yours respectfully, OTTO DRAEGER.

Gave him satisfaction and he wants our twine again this year

OKLAHOMA, O. T., April 2, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: Please quote me prices, as soon as they are established, on your Blue Label binder twine, as I used it last year and it gave good satisfaction.
Yours truly, M. E. FRISS.

Says, considering quality and price, it has no equal

LENA, IOWA, Jan. 10, 1899.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: I have used Blue Label Binder Twine for the past two years, and it has been entirely satisfactory. Considering quality and price it has no equal.
Yours truly, R. CAMMACK.

Has used our twine for past three seasons, always found it good, and cheaper in price than others offered

HEDRICK, IOWA, March 26, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen: Please send me samples and prices of your binder twine as soon as ready. I have been using your twine for the last three seasons, and find it satisfactory and considerable cheaper than our dealers here ask for same. I sent you a large order last year for myself and neighbors, and hope to send you a still larger order this spring as soon as I receive samples and prices. Wishing you every success, I remain,
Yours respectfully, JOHN H. SHORT.

Binder Twine

Will be scarce this year! Order it at once!

It has been predicted that there will be a serious shortage of twine this year, owing to the scarcity of hemp, largely due to the war in the Philippines.

More than 25,000 farmers purchased their binder twine of us last year, and we had less than twenty-five complaints all told. No other brand of twine can show such a record.

Our Blue Label Binder Twine is the best in the world. The average breaking strength of our twine is 80 pounds and we guarantee every pound to give satisfaction or we'll refund your money.

Our 1900 Blue Label Twine

Is put up in 50-lb. flat bales, each bale containing ten 5-lb. balls. We do not break bales.

PRICES

Standard 485 to 525 feet to the pound, in 50-lb. flat bales, on board cars Chicago or Minneapolis, per lb. 11c

Sisal Pure white Sisal, 485 to 515 feet to the pound, in 50-lb. flat bales, on board cars Chicago or Minneapolis, per lb. 11c

Manila Averaging from 580 to 615 feet to the pound, in 50-lb. flat bales, on board cars Chicago or Minneapolis, per lb. 13¼c

Our prices are net cash with order; no discounts to anyone for any quantity.

All orders must be sent to us at Chicago. We will be glad to quote freight rates to any point upon application. We have the twine in our warehouses at Minneapolis, and all twine shipped to points in Minnesota, North or South Dakota will be shipped from MINNEAPOLIS the day after the order is received at Chicago.

Says he doesn't care for samples as he knows from experience that the twine is good

LEWISVILLE, TEX., April 7, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago.
Dear Sirs: Please send me your prices on binder twine, as I will need about 300 pounds. Give me your best prices, please. I don't care for any samples, as I know the twine is good. Yours truly, E. F. ROBB.

Used our twine for three years and saved money by doing so

VALLEY SPRINGS, S. D., April 4, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co.
Please quote binder twine prices. Have used twine from you for three years, and saved good money by it.
Yours truly, W. J. KYLE.

Twine was all right and prices lower than he could obtain elsewhere

VERMONTVILLE, MICH., March 25, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: How about binder twine for this year? It was all right last year, and cheaper than we could have bought it here, although some predicted it would be no good. Yours truly, JOHN McCARTY.

Has used our twine for several years and always found it good

BRISTOW, IOWA, March 30, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: Please send me prices on binding twine. I have used your twine for several years past and find it all right. Yours very respectfully, J. W. PIPER.

Says our Blue Label Binder Twine was the best he ever used

HELENA, MINN., March 23, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: Please send me samples and prices of your twine. I ordered my twine from you last year, and it gave me the best satisfaction. It was the best twine I ever had. Yours truly, JOHN M. DEUTSCH.

Bought Binder Twine from us last year and found it O. K.

DAWN, OHIO, March 29, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: Please send prices on binder twine for this season, as I found the twine bought of you last season to be all O. K. Yours truly, C. L. BYARD.

Used it last year, was well pleased with it and wants more

WEBSTER CITY, IOWA, March 28, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: Will you please send me samples and prices on binder twine. We used the Blue Label Standard last year, and were well pleased with it.
Yours truly, C. E. McCONNELL.

Liked what he got last year and wants more

RED WING, MINN.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.,
Dear Sirs: What is the price for twine this year. I bought some of you last year, and liked it first rate. Please let me know the price.
Respectfully, OSCAR ANDERSON.

Don't care for samples as he knows twine is all right and wants it

MATTOON, ILL., March 10, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.,
Dear Sirs: Please send prices of your binder twine on or about June 1. You needn't send samples. I used your twine for the last few years and find it O. K.
Yours truly, WM. H. TEBUREN.

Likes twine and intends getting in his order early

GRANGEVILLE, IDAHO, Mar. 24, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.,
Dear Sirs: Please send me samples of your binder twine, also prices. Was well pleased with twine last year. Want to get order in early this year.
Yours respectfully, GEO. S. SCHMADEKA.

As good as the best, and much cheaper in price than that offered by local dealers

THOR, IOWA, Nov. 4, 1899.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen: Your Blue Label Binder Twine is all you claim for it. It is as good as the best binder twine I ever used. It was cheaper by 4 cents per pound than any other twine sold here, and it gave entire satisfaction both in price and quality. I was a little afraid of your twine before, but will hereafter recommend it to anyone.
Yours truly, A. C. HOLM.

He and his neighbors were well pleased with our Binder Twine

MONITOR, W. VA., April 10, 1900.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen: Will you kindly give me quotations for this season on binder twine? I ordered of you last year for myself and quite a number of my neighbors, and it gave entire satisfaction. Respectfully yours,
J. M. WINDELL.

Tried Blue Label Twine with different binders and always found it satisfactory

DAYTON, IOWA, Nov. 6, 1899.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: We are greatly satisfied with the Blue Label Binder Twine, and our opinion is that the Blue Label Twine is the best twine used by us for binding grain with the Champion Binder, and also one of our neighbors used some of the Blue Label Twine that we furnished him, and expresses his satisfaction, his binder being the McCormick.
Respectfully, BERGMAN BROS.

BUFFALO GAZETTE

DELANO, FRIDAY, June 1, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—The Eagle Printing Company has a new crossing.

—Mr Litkin has reshingled his Bridge street tennement.

—Dar Welker has become proprietor of a horse. He says it is none of your western scrubs either. There is no brand on him.

—Base Ball grounds have been secured for the season. Properly managed base ball is good healthy exercise and great sport.

—Rev. A. F. Thompson preached last Sunday a Memorial sermon at the M. E. Church, about a dozen old soldiers were present.

—C. G. Roosen has had his boat "Lotta" calked, painted and put in first class condition for summer use. J. S. Kerr was the calker.

—The eclipse of the sun Monday morning early, was plainly to be seen. Here it was about a sixth, and smoked glass was in demand, though the eclipse could be seen without glass.

—Friday's rain was appreciated by the farmers and people generally. But Charley Bronkow says it cost him a fine cow, which was in the pasture in front of his residence and was struck by lightning.

—The Village Council, on Saturday night, opened sealed bids for the village sprinkler. The highest was found to be the bid of E. S. Redmond, $71. The sprinkler was sold to him. Other bidders were McRoberts and Bock. Unloading coal from Rockford Station was let to William McRoberts, for 60 cts per ton.

—It would be cheaper for the village to clean up the alleys and keep them clean than to pay the fire company for turning out on account of fire in manure and rubbish piles where ashes, cigars or children with matches happen to set a flame to going. And some citizens houses barns or other property might be saved by the change.

—Robert E. Lee, and Adam Clark Sturman, of South Franklin, have completed a telephone system between their respective residences. The line is said to be after the most modern plan, instruments up to date. They can sit at home and talk religion or argue politics in comparative safety. It is expected that as soon as they have become sufficiently proficient in manipulating electricity that the lines will be extended and some more "sparks" taken on.

—The school board of this city has decided to grant certificates of graduation to all scholars who may pass a satisfactory examination at the completion of the 8th grade; or the completion of the common school studies. This will enable those who do not desire to take the scientific or high school course an opportunity to graduate without taking it. Of course an opportunity will be afforded all those who so desire, to continue on and complete the full course as has been the past custom and practice. We think this a wise move on the part of the board.—Litchfield News Ledger.

—Dr. Chance, a member of the 13th Minnesota Regiment, will be our next hospital physician. The doctor comes well recommended, and while in the Philippines campaign he gained an enviable reputation for personal heroism in rescuing his patients from the field of battle in the very teeath of the enemy. We extend to the Doctor a hearty welcome and earnestly hope that he will meet with the same measure of success in rescuing his patients from the jaws of death as he did from the enemy while amid the strife and carnage of battle.—Prison Mirror.

That's Jenner.

—President Burnes authorizes us to say to the patrons of the Delano school that notwithstanding the Eagle's slurs. He as President of the Board on May 5, at a regular meeting of the Board put the motion to adjourn, and that it was only to adjourn, and not to a stated time of a week later. And further that on Monday following the clandestine meeting he called at the Secretary's house and found that his memory and the minutes kept by Mr. J. E. Borsch, Secretary pro tem agreed. And that in regard to consulting "a lot of dishonest cranks" or others, that when he came to Delano he was of lawful age, freeborn, and that he votes according to justice between God and man, and feels sorry that the Old Bird Screeches at him.

—The Eagle says of President Burnes "for he dares not even sign a teacher's contract until he has consulted Dr. Catlin." This the President says is not so. But there is one thing sure, it would not be very safe for him to sign them on the advice of Mr Gutzwiller one of the members of the board, who, it appears believes in doing business through an agency, and who did considerable blowing about having seen a certain teacher's "diploma" which turned out to be a "certificate" only. If Mr. Gutzwiller doesn't know the difference, or hasn't time to learn whether a paper is a "diploma" or not he shouldnt blame Burnes if he did consult people supposed to kuow, Burnes had found out that that was no "diploma", before Dr. Catlin saw it. But what has that got to do with holding a surreptitious meeting?

—John Hillstrom and Mr. Fisher, at Maple Plain lost their residences by fire. Hillstrom lived in the Cleveland hotel.

—Notwithstanding water froze in pails in the yard while plums were in blossom many trees are well filled with plums.

—On account of examinations for Saturday the closing exercises of the High School will be held at the City Hall Monday.

—Some Delanoites attended Memiorial exercises at neighboring villages, there being no general opservation of the day at home.

—Some farmers are going through their cornfields this week and replanting many hills. Cut worms are unusually bad in gardens about town and probably they eat off the corn.

—A Democratic primary election will be held at the City Hall, between the hours of 7 and 9 p. m., Saturday, June 9, to elect three delegates to represent Delano at the County convention.

—Farmers are feeding their cows hay; some are turning the cattle into the hay meadows, and saving last year's hay stacks for next winter. The weather is unusually dry for the time of year and hay is expected to be a poor crop.

—The village authorities have succeeded in getting portions of the alleys cleaned up nicely. Alleys are for travel as much as are the streets, and should be kept clear of manure, slops, wood, wagons, buggies and other obstructions as well as the streets.

—The sprinkler was sold by the Village Council to E. S. Redmond. He sold it to William McRoberts, who in turn traded it to T. M. Shaw for his draying outfit. So now T M. Shaw is street sprinkler, William McRoberts is drayman, and E. S. Redmond liveryman and undertaker

County Cullings.

The Masonic cemetery, at Buffalo, is one of the nicest in the county.

Howard Lake is moving toward one of the finest school houses in the county Good for Howard.

Small pox is prevalent in the west part of the county. Strict Quarantine and thorough fumigation will best rid the county of the dread desease.

The Waverly editor who we learn is a member of the Board of Health there, seems to favor quarantine more than he did a few weeks back in his life.

The path-master for a couple of miles this side of Buffalo surely don't read the GAZETTE, or he would not allow that big rock to remain on the bridge, to stop up a hole in the plank. If a few more teams strike it and drive it through the bridge he will have to supply a larger one, or run the chances of having the town sued for damage and himself for dereliction of duty. If anybody knows him they should call his attention to the need of a plank or two on the bridge a couple of miles or so east of Buffalo.

The blank notices for the calls of primary elections have been sent out throughout the county. They must be filled out and posted six days, at least, before the premary is to be held which has been fixed at Saturday, June 9, between the hours of 7 and 9 p. m. Be sure and hold your primaries and elect responsible delegates to vote your views at Buffalo, on the 14th of June. This is your only real chance to say what kind of a platform and candidates for President and Vice President you want. Don't miss the primary Saturday evening, June 9.

If the proper officers don't put in an appearance to hold a primary any good democratic reformer can call to order and by viva voice a chairman, secretary and two judges of election can be chosen and sworn in, and then the delegates elected by ballot. Let every precinct in Wright county express its preference for president and platform by sending delegates to Buffalo on the 14th of June. If no primary is held in your precinct, drive over and see the committee on credentials at Buffalo on the 14th and see if you can't have things righted. Keep your eyes and ears open and be on hand.

Pioneer Press: If the anti-canteen bill introduced in the house becomes a law, the members of congress who are fond of "cold tea" will be compelled to bring it in a bottle.

Waverly Tribune: It has been nearly thirty years since any President has been re-elected while he was in the White House. The Presidency would seem to be a disadvantage to a candidate.

Minneapolis Times: The Philadelphia Times says that Judge Lochren's opinion accompanying his decision in the Porto Rican case, is not a judicial deliverance, but a political argument. That is about the size of it.

Saint Cloud Times: When it was announced that Congressman Morris had voted to impose a tariff upon Porto Rico, the Princeton Union announced that it would not support for re-election any Congressman wao had voted for that bill.

We shall see.

Minneota Mascot: The Pioneer Press says: "The Lord will be with Messrs. Davis, Nelson and Lowry when they attend the Republican National Convention." The republicans are fortunate in having a Lord of their own, otherwise those gentlemen might have to go unattended.

Ida Grove, (Iowa), Pioneer:—Press dispatches from South Africa say the Boer English war is about over, but under the same head will be found several accounts of emgagements, in two thirds of which the Boers generally get away after inflicting a severe loss on the Britishins.

Personal.

Ed Farnham had business at Buffalo Monday.

Dr. Catlin drove to the County Seat on business, Tuesday.

William Gent, of Rockford, was a Delano visitor Monday.

Geo Spate, lately from the pineries, visited Delano friends this week.

Will Jacobs, of Rockford, was a business visitor to Delano Monday.

Mr. Cummings, of Minneapolis, was a business visitor to Delano Monday.

Alex Farnham, of Rockford, visited his relative Ed. of this place, Tuesday.

Miss Mabel Hobart, came up from Minneapolis Memorial Day with flowers.

Mrs. Archie Young, of Ashland, Wis., arrived in Delano, yesterday for a visit.

H. A. Gilmer left for a trip to Howard Lake, Winsted and other parts of the country yesterday.

J. Soederstrom, of Cokato, visited the grave of his child in the Swedish cemetary at Delano Tuesday.

Machinist Guptil, of Rockford, went to Waverly Monday. He is bound that his implements come to the front.

Mrs. F A. Barth and family of Watertown visited a few days at Schaffer's. George took them home Sunday evening.

Tom Lanway has returned from Bayfield, Wis Billie Stoteren, Who has been in Wis. for some time came with him.

John Cunningham and family and Miss Mary Catlin drove over to John Mara's Sunday. Mr. Mara is od the sick list.

Mrs. Martin, of Minneapolis, came up Saturday morning to visit her brother Eb Brandon who met her at the train.

Henry Jinks, R. R. Superintendent came down from the west, left his car here and attended Mr. Sam Hessler's funeral at Rockford Tuesday.

George R. Blackwell and a son of State Treasurer Koerner who is a relative of Georgs', with a fine team on the way to Litchfield stopped Sunday night in Delano.

Mrs. George W. Bolton came home from Minneapolis, Decoration Day. She said every little town along was celebrating Maple Plain in great shape and she was ashalmed of Delano.

Senatar Hale's Startling Accusation.

With a record of nineteen years' service as a republican Senator, Mr. Hale, of Maine, can afford to treat with disdain, as he did in the Senate yesterday, the suggestion that he is not a sound Republican because he will not endorse Mr. McKinley's colonial policy and defend the scandals that have grown out of it. Coming from a Senator of his record and standing, Mr. Hale's accusation that there is a well defined movement to break the pledged faith of the nation and permanently deny independence to Cuba is startling. "There are," says Mr. Hale, "very powerful influences in this country, largely located in New York City; largely speculative and connected with money-making enterprises: that are determined we never shall give up Cuba."—Thrice-a-Week World.

South Franklin Town Items.

Weather dry and hot. Rain badly needed. Crops are looking fairly well considering the long dry spell. Meadows are drying up, will not make half crop, unless we get some heavy rains very soon. Corn about all planted, and coming up well, Pastures are drying up, and some people are feeding hay. Lattest improvement in our part is a telephone. A. C. Sturman and R. E. Sturman have about completed a short line for home use.

At The County Seat.

Tuesday at the County Seat didn't seem to be a very lively time. The most stiring was ladies and others carrying flowers to the cemetery for Memorial Day. About the Court House, a few were in from a distance paying taxes. Some of them taking advantage of the half payment arrangement. Politics dont seem to boil so vigorously as one might think. The chauldron is evidently on, though; and some have already been scalded sufficintly. Others seem only to have got, so far, but a poor scald and the hair is pulling terribly. Republicans are just a little overconfident, most of them, of the success of their customary trades and tarffics, while the genuine reform democrats are getting worked up with the situation and hope, with the big anti imperialists vote to swing the county into line for true American doctrines, and reform that is reform for the people, and not, alone for corporations.

Auditor Swanberg is haulting between two opinions. He don't know just whether to become casheer of a new state bank at Buffalo, or to stick to politics. But he says he hasn't yet announced that he want be a candidate for Sheriff. A. P. Ritchie's boom for Superintendent is doing well. Some of the wary claim that a democrat may be allowed to win the office of Clerk of Court, and that Charley Vorse is booked for defeat in convention. Attorneys Cutting and Spath are talked of as candidates for Judge of Probate and County attorney. Jim Madigan also has friends. The recent announcement by the St. Paul Dispatch that Michael Doran wanted to be a delegate to the Kansas City convention seems likely to bring out to the primaries every reform democrat that hears of it. In that way it may be beneficial. But they will be very careful who they vote for for delegates. The Democratic County Committee has aroused from its lethargy, and just before the expiration of their terms of office have held a meeting and set the ball in motion. Dr. Shannon has been made Secretary and Chairman McKnight has tendered his resignation. A new committee is to be selected in June. Druggist Cady is putting up a hansome drug Store on the lot north of his mother's residence. Landlord Shattar now sports the handsomest, brand new buss in the county. It is a beauty.

Republican County Convention and Primary Election.

A Republican County Convention for the County of Wright, will be held at the Court House in the village of Buffalo, in said county, on Tuesday, June 21st, A. D. 1900, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing 18 delegates to represent the county of Wright at the State convention, for the State of Minnesota to be held at the city of St. Paul, on the 28th day of June, A. FIRE-FLIES.

Out against the dusky pines,
In the shade
Of the hazel growth that lines
Yonder glade,
At the great door of the wood,
Open wide,
Where night, with its murky brood,
Loves to hide—
Where the shadow, dense and damp,
Darkest seems—
There the firefly's fitful lamp
Brightest gleams.

Jewels of the summer eve,
Golden spangles—
Ever forming fugitive
Starry tangles—
Ever restless, ever veering
In their flight,
Flashing now, and disappearing
In the night—
Flitting, flashing, here and there,
In a maze,
Till the quiet evening air
Seems ablaze.

Fancy! flitting down the mazes
Of life's dream,
Light for me its dark phases
With your gleam!
Like the fireflies, come and go,
Flashing bright,
Till the dusk is all aglow
With your light;
Brighten with your airy spark
Irksome duty,
Till the pathway that was dark
Glows with beauty!

—Julia E. Goodwin, in Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Democracy.

Webster defines democracy:

1. Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and directly exercised by the people.

2. Government by popular representation; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but is indirectly exercised through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed; a constitutional representative government; a republic.

3. Collectively the people, reas the source of government.

4. The principles and policy of the Democratic party, so called (U. S.).

Are you a Democrat? If not, why not?

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 25, 1900.

There has been lying as well as stealing in connection with the Cuban affairs. First Assistant Postmaster General Perry Heath has repeatedly and publicly declared that he had nothing whatsoever to do with the appointment of Neely, the head of the looting conspiracy, and now Mr. Rathbone, the suspended Director of Posts in Cuba, asserts that he appointed Neely on Perry Heath's recommendation. There must be documentary evidence that will show which of these men have lied, and it ought to be produced, and doubtless will be if Senator Bacon's resolution for a Congresional investigation goes through.

The Boer peace envoys, who have been snubbed officially and jollied personally by the administration, are preparing to visit a number of large western cities for the purpose of trying to arouse a public sentiment that will compel the administration to do something to bring the war in South Africa to a close before England succeeds in wiping the two little Republics off the map Republicans defend Mr. McKinley's treatment of the envoys, when they have to, but mighty few of them commend it.

The big payers of war taxes are to be bled by Boss Hanna. That was made certain when the republican managers of the House decided that the Ways and Means committee should be given authority to sit during the recess for the purpose of fixing up a bill for the reduction of war taxes. In order to catch as many of the tax payers as possible, the committee will not begin its settings until a few weeks before election. Boss Hanna's programme is to allow all of the heavy war tax payers to believe that if they contribute liberally enough to the Republican campaign fund their interests will be favored in the bill, but he will take good care that not a single item in the bill shall be decided upon until after the election. It is a good scheme of its kind, but it is a very bad and disgusting kind, but no worse than others manipulated by the same man in 1896.

It being apparent that the Senate committee on Privileges and Elections had no idea of reporting the resolution for a Constitutional amendment, providing for dirrect election of U. S. Senators, Senator Pettigrew has offered a resolution to discharge the committee from further consideration of the resolution and have it reported and placed on the Calendar. The Senate will not pass this resolution until compelled by public sentiment to do so, although the large majority for it in the House should have convinced Senatros of the state of public sentiment on the question.

The Senate has adopted a resolution calling upon the Secretary of War for information as to the condition in the Philippines-press news of the week showed that there was neither peace nor American control outside the places garrisoned offered by Senator Allen: but if the information is not more definite than that furnished by the same department about Cuba, in response to Senate resolutions, it will not carry much enlightenment for any body.

Senator Bacon has offered an ammendment to his resolution for a Congressional investigation to the Cuban stealing by republican officials, which promises to reach enormous porportions, authorizing the committee to sit during recess at such places, either in this country or in Cuba, as the committee may deem necessary or important and to send for persons and papers. The republicans are "between the devil and the deap sea" on this investigation. They are afraid to vote for it and afraid to defy public sentiment by refusing to do so.

Senator Spooner who is one of the Senators who started out by vigorously opposing permnent retention of the Philippines, even going so far as to say that he would not have voted for the ratification of the Paris treaty of peace had he supposed that it would lead to the permnent ownership of the Philippines by the U. S., and afterwards had his mind changed for him by the administration, made a set speech, occupying a portion of two days this week, in favor of his bill giving Mr. McKinley autocratic power in the Philippines, which is now before the Senate, and which was used as a club to defeat Senator Morgan's resolution to take up the Nicaragua Canal bill. The solid republican vote against taking up the latter will not be allowed to be forgotten during the campaign. It showed up the hypocrisy of the republicans who pretend to favor that bill. It could have been passed in an hour had the republican Senators supported Senator Morgan's motion, but Hanna ordered them to vote down the motion and they obeyed orders. The peoples orders will be issued next November.

And now a newspaper man—Mr. W. R. Hearst, proprietor of the New York Journal and the San Francisco Examiner, and the newly chosen president of the National Association of democrat clubs-is enjoying a boom for the democratic Vice Presidential nomination. Bryan and Hearst wouldn't sound bad.

Mr. P. J. Daily, of New York,. an official of the Knights of Labor, who now in Washington, said: "I have always voted the republican ticket, but I think the democrats will win this year." That sort of talk is getting quite common.

The New York World,

Thrice-a-week Edition.

As Good to You as a Daily and You get it at the Price of a W'k'y.

It furnishes more at the price than any other newspaper published in America. Its news service covers all the globe and is equaled by that of few dailies. Its reports from the Boer war have not been excelled in thoroughness and promptness, and with the presidential campaign now in progress it will be invaluable. Its political news is absolutly impartial. This fact makes it of especial value to you at this time.

If you want to watch every move of the great political campaign take the Thrice-a-week World. If you want to keep an eye on the Trusts—and they need watching—take the Thrice-a-week World. If you want to know all foreign developements, take the Thrice-a-week World.

The Thrice-a-week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year. We offer this unequaled newspaper and the BUFFALO GAZETTE together one year for $1.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. 32.

Railroading Patents.

A single firm of Patent Lawyers, C. A. Snow & Co., of Washington, D. C., have in the last year procured 1,690 patents for their clients, many of them for rejected inventions. C. A. Snow & Co. have been accused of railroading patents through the Patent Office, but they insist that this locomotion is better than ox carting them for by the latter process the inventor often dies before he gets his patent. 16,

VIRGINIA, Minn., burned yesterday. Loss $500,000. Two thousand people homeless.

THE English army has occupied Pretoria, the capital of Transvaal. The Boers had gone and taken their cannon with them.

THE Methodist's general conference gave the McKinley canteen decission some hard licks. Will the preachers all go home and preach and pray and work and vote for McKinley to continue just the same?

AGUINALDO, according to late papers, has come to life once more. He was reported shot, recently, and either killed or badly wounded, but since then it has been concluded that possibly he is wounded in the sholder, but nothing certain seems to be known concerning him.

THE street car strike in St. Louis has been on for a month, 3,235 employes of the St. Louis Transit company struck to secure recognition of their union and an adjustment of other difficulties. The company is supplanting the men as fast as possible with others, and claims now to have places for not more than 1000 old men on the road. The strike don't seem to be settling very fast.

SHOULD McKinley be re-elected would he attend the grand inaugural ball as an example to the people of the world that the President of the United States must cater to such things, rather than to obey the discipline of the church to which he belongs? and this after having attended one ball, and then having the decision of the general M. E. conferance expressed that they would stand by the rules, rather than the President. We think Mr. McKinley will hardly have an apportunity of demonstrating to the people just what he would do in case he were chosen again.

SEVERAL papers are arguing in favor of big rewards being offered for the arrest of the Anoka murderers. One editor goes so far as to say that in case the rewards were big enough undoubtedly many arrests would soon be made, and among them the right party! That's just the objection to big rewards. The inducements are so great that unprincipled men could be got to swear out warrants and give evidence sufficiant to condem some innocent helpless, perhaps half witted individual, for sake of money. Such justice is a poor kind. If we were arresting people for such a crime, for the sake of obtaining money we would want to include in the crowd of complainments the editor who favors wholesale arrests hoping to catch the right one. A man's character in this country is his chief stock in trade, and ought not to be subject to mars by being arrested for crimes he knows nothing of. Officers are paid to ferret out crimes and when they seek to ruin a man by arresting him falsely they should be made to provide for his temporal needs the balance of his life.

CHINA has now become the point of interest on the globe. Vessels have been sent there by the leading nations of the world to "look after their interests". The United States is asked to take the lead in intervention.

NEW YORK delegates to the Kansas City conventian have been chosen and instructed for W. J. Bryan. Every day makes it clearer that W. J. Bryan will be democratic nominee for President with little if any opposition.

Diamonds Held.

By wire from Chicago June 2.

The United States government yesterday took formal possession of the 14 diamond rings recently seized for non payment of customs duty at San Francisco.

The rings were brought over from Manila by Private Emil Pepke, of a Dakota regiment.

He contested the seizure on the ground that no duty could be collected on goods brought into the United States from an island under the same government.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Our constitution prohibits the laying on of taxes on goods from one part of the United States to another, so of course it has been decided by the custom authorities that Manila is not a part of the United States. Since we captured it and purchased it both, from the Spanish, what part of the Philippines is? And if the Philippines don't belong to the United States and our constitution don't cover them, why are our soldiers being kept out there by a lot of greedy politicians and imperialists? No war has been declared against those islands, and if they don't come under our own rulings, why should we be chasing them around? or allowing our soldiers killed by them?

Appreciated His Kindness.

President McKinley's beer expansion is bearing fruit. Recently Adolph Busch, of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company, called upon the President and on his return announced his conversion to the expansion idea. And now Frank Jones the big brewer of New Hampshire, follows him into the republican party and is quickly honored with election as one of the four delegates at large to the national republican convention. —Backbone.

Unworthy Citizens.

A large porportion of British-American citizens, and they number seventy thousand in this state alone, have heretofore affiliated with the democrats because of their tariff policy. Since the democrats have taken such a pronounced anti-English attitude, the Boer meetings being used as a means to stir up anti-English sentiment, the British-Americans of the country are rapidly severing democratic affiliations, and that it will cost that party a heavy loss in the next campaign is inevitable. - Morris Sun.

According to this version British-Americans are more loyal to England than to their adopted country. The Free Press prefers to believe otherwise. Any naturalized citizen favoring a policy here because of its supposed benefit to his native country is unworthy of citizenship in this republic, and while there may be exceptions as indicated in the above clipping it is fairly safe to say that no class of people takes that position as a nationality. Besides no nationality narrow enough to adopt this course could hope to succeed because others would effectually resent it as soon as the object became clear.—St. Peter Free Press.

Democracy.

Webster defines democracy:

1. Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and directly exercised by the people.

2. Government by popular representation; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but is indirectly exercised through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed; a constitutional representative government; a republic.

3. Collectively the people, regarded as the source of govern ment.

4. The principles and policy of the Democratic party, so called (U. S.).

Are you a democrat? If not, why not?

Political Pointers.

Harrison and Cleveland favored the civil service law because those claiming an office had to prove ability. Not so McKinley. He needed as co-workers or his shifting imperialistic policy body servants who for reward or plunder followed strictly his winding tract. He got these recommended from Hanna and others who upheld unconditionally his hands. Let us follow the track.

He issued that famous proclamation that forcible aggression was a crime he was the great liberator. Then he bought for twenty million dollars from Spain nine million human beings like a herd of cattle to civilize them with powder and shot in English style. He left with that act our position of self rule against oppression and joined the oppressors, but McKinley was the great civilizer and promotor of our industries, though industrial progress rests not on bloody oppression but on prices and quality of the productions. This imperialistic praise of the English style of civilizing shows us the future. England robbed India of an enormous amount of silver and gold, pearls and diamonds, needs now from three to four soldiers to protect the lives of each English speculator and official there; so the American tax payer has to pay war taxes ad infinitum and send his children for destruction to Asia to protect the speculators and officials; that is if he vindicates the imperialistic rule. The result of this policy is now that we kill fairly civilized christians because they want independence under our supremacy and that we grant the same to the ruler of the Turks because our president finds it inopportune to start before election another war. It is the common rule of imperialism to call those who object, traitors, but that Congress is forced to bend under the will of the ruler is imperialism with a vengeance. It was the general opinion affirmed by the ruler that the products of Porto Rico as a natural consequence of annexation should come in duty free. A large majority of Congress would have granted that. Mark Hanna protests against it. Some large contributors to the campaign fund feel hurt by that measure. And the government finds a majority in Congress for a duty on products of that small island. Instead of free exports they gave the islanders a subsidy out of the taxpayers pocket.

The servants of imperialism are promoted to office for the astute and many times dirty work they did to doctor the people's vote. They will as a rule not be strictly honest. They might be fairly so, if imperialism was solidly established, but it might be overthrown at the next election. What then? They will be turned adrift. They club together, mainly in the colonial service, to steal the funds as they did in the Cuban post office. The control was lax and if found out, their knowledge of the dirty campaign work will procure leniency. They were found out to the detriment of the government. Their robberies are enormous. The government investigates and will surely find some black sheep to punish who can not tell many tales.

O. M.

Backbond: Speaking of Grigg's decision, the Washington Sentinel, the liquor dealers' organ, says, "Attorney General Griggs has adopted an EVASION SUBMITTED BY THE ATTORNEYS OF THE LIQUOR DEALERS." This is the opinion which President McKinley says shall stand.

Duluth Herald: Minnesota ranks as the first state in the Union in the production of wheat, with the Dakotas and Ohio next. The figures in bushels for the leading ten states representing the wheat crop for 1899, are as follows: Minnesota, 68,023,681; South Dakota, 51,758,640; Ohio, 39,988,000; North Dakota, 37,728,044; California, 33,743,999; Indiana, 25,861,175; Oregon, 21,949,126; Washington, 21,719,394; Nebraska, 20,791,777.

St Peter Herald: The shabby treatment accorded the Boer envoys to this country cannot fail to cause a blush of shame to every true American citizen who loves liberty and is not a slave to a political party. In the light of recent events one can but feel that the words of Patrick Henry were idle and meaningless. Liberty is no longer a thing to love. For fear of offending royalty we cannot send out a ray of hope or give a national expression of sympathy to a people who are making a struggle for independence as grand and inspiring as the struggle of America in 1776. We have been borne again and now our national idea is commerce, our greed for money is greater than our sense of national honor. We must have the friendship of the greatest creditor nation of the world. The heart grows sick at the sight of public men bowed down in their worship of the golden calf. It is no longer a question of right or justice but whether we can afford it; whether it will injury our foreign trade; contract or commerce. Webster moved a nation with his impassioned plea for struggling Greece. Today the same plea for the Boers would call forth scathing denunciations and provoke jeers and ridicule. These are golden days but not the days of chivalry.

SINGLE TALENT OF SOPER

It Gave Pleasant Dreams to the Life Insurance Solicitors.

"WHENEVER I hear a young man complain of not having the right kind of a chance in life," said the general life insurance agent, "I think of old Soper, and his one talent, and what he made of it. Never heard of old Soper? Well, he's been dead these 15 years, but he gave pleasant dreams to one whole generation of struggling life insurance solicitors.

"It was shortly after I had gone to work as a solicitor for the Fraternity Life, nearly 18 years ago, that I met him first. One day an elderly, well-dressed man came into the office and asked if he could get a few facts about the Fraternity's policies. I got him into a retired corner and proceeded to fill him up. He was a very intelligent man, with a clear head for figures, and he made notes from time to time with a heavy gold pocket pencil in a morocco-covered notebook.

"When I had told him all I knew, he thanked me and said: 'You seem to have an excellent policy and I may wish to talk with you further if you will kindly let me have your card.'

"I did so and suggested an early interview, and after a moment's reflection he named what was in those days the top-notch hotel in New York, and said I might look him up in the smoking-room that evening between six and seven.

"I showed up in the hotel smoking-room at five minutes past six, and about half-past he strolled in with an evening paper. I got him into an easy-chair and went to work. I thought I talked well and he certainly seemed deeply impressed. Finally when the psychological moment seemed to have arrived I said:

"'Now, Mr. Soper,'—he had given me his card at the office—'I want to write you for $10,000 at once.'

"'Ten thousand dollars,' he repeated. There was that in his tone that told me on the instant that the sum I had named seemed insignificant.

"'Or better still, $25,000,' I said as soon as I caught my breath

"'What is your insurance limit?' he asked.

"'Fifty thousand,' I gasped.

"He nodded quietly, and seemed lost for a time in meditation. Then suddenly he arose.

"'Your policy has features which attract me,' he said—with a kindly smile. 'Indeed, the Influential's is the only one that seems to compare with it. I am to see the Influential agent tonight, and if I do not conclude with him I shall wish to have a further talk with you. Just now I must ask you to excuse me as it is my dinner time.'

"'Oh Lord!' I said to myself, 'there's just my luck. I could have the thing nailed in five minutes more, and now that other agent, who's probably an old hand, will practically take that $50,000 commission out of my pocket.' I made a lightning calculation of how much money I had with me, $25, by an accident, and summoning all my nerve asked the old chap to dine with me. He consented graciously, and it looked as though I had my opportunity by the hair.

"I won't bother you with the details of that dinner. After we'd finished soup—Blue Points and soup had always seemed to me a simple manner—I retired from the role of host in confusion, and asked him to take charge, which he did. I had started the wine with a modest hock. He ordered a claret, Lafite, of a vintage, he said, he could recommend, which cost more than champagne, and followed it up with a Montrachet at six dollars a quart. And at the end he introduced me to his favorite brand of cigars, a fat thing he called a Celestiale, that smoked like a dream of Araby the Blest, and for which I subsequently gave up 50 cents apiece.

"When I wandered home that night my pocketbook was lighter by $24.75, but what did that amount to? He was going to drop me a line when to come round and finish the thing up—and $50,000 was the amount he was thinking of.

"But, somehow, although I saw him half a dozen times during the next two weeks, I hadn't quite landed him; although every time I left him it seemed as though everything was over except drawing my commission. He lunched with me three times during those two weeks and dined with me again. I had to borrow the money, but it was no time to look at a dollar or two. And then, sure enough, I got him over to Delmonico's to luncheon, one day, and did land him—for $50,000—and got him around for his examination that same afternoon.

"Two hours later I saw our medical examiner. He looked sympathetic.

"'Sorry,' he said. 'Bright's disease.'

"'Oh, look here,' I replied, 'are you sure?'

"'Sure as death,' he said. 'Not very far advanced, but the analysis is plain as day. Absolutely worthless risk.'

"I wrote Soper a note the next day. But, though it was the only decent thing to do, it was several weeks before I got up courage to go round and see him. Finally one night I did hunt him up, but I didn't say my little speech. I found him in the main dining-room at dinner. One Perkins, an agent of the Influential, was doing the honors. There were all sorts of things on the table, solid and liquid. Also an assortment of insurance tables. Perkins was talking earnestly, and Mr. Soper seemed deeply impressed. I retired quietly, pondering as I went.

"A couple of weeks later I ran across Perkins. I mentioned seeing him at dinner, and asked him casually if he had come into a fortune. Then Perkins told me a harrowing hard-luck story, how he had happened on to this solid, elderly party who was evidently a millionaire, how he had worked at him for three weeks, spent $58.45 in lunches and dinners, finally written him for $50,000—no less—and had him thrown down on his medical examination.

"I offered Perkins my sympathy, and after that tried to forget the Soper episode, until one day young Peasley, our newest solicitor, took me aside. Peasley had been acting peculiarly. Ordinarily he was one of those not unattractive youths who share their hopes and fears with such of their acquaintances as can be got to listen. But lately he had affected a portentous demeanor that had puzzled, the rest of the office.

"Peasley swore me to secrecy, and wanted to borrow $50. Fifty cents was considered a substantial accommodation in the office in those days. Peasley noticed my distress and made a clean breast of the matter.

"'Old man,' he said, quivering with suppressed excitement, 'if I can raise $50 I've got a chance of making a year's salary before Saturday.'

"It appeared that he'd picked up an elderly gentleman, who was evidently a millionaire, and who had practically decided to have Peasley write him for no less than $50,000. But, of course, such a deal as that required time and tact. For instance, on several occasions Peasley had taken him to luncheon or dinner. Of course, you couldn't ask a millionaire out to any quick lunch, and Peasley had been able to raise about $45 so far.

"When Peasley paused for breath I advised his withdrawing from the transaction where it stood.

"'Why, what's the matter with it?' asked Peasley, bristling.

"'First, your elderly friend's got Bright's disease,' I said; 'second, I believe he's a nice, smooth gormandizing old fake.'

"Peasley got up and regarded me sternly. He thought it was funny that I could identify his man on such a meager description, and suggested turning over to me the fake's address after he had withdrawn from the case.

"A fortnight later he came around and apologized handsomely. He mentioned our manager and the police, but I discouraged the idea.

"'If this story gets out now,' I told him, 'we'll be gray-headed before we hear the last of it. Let's keep quiet and give Soper a chance.'

"We kept quiet, and Soper improved his chance beautifully. During the next six months he went through our office like an epidemic. He was an artist. We got so we could spot a new victim by his symptoms—arrogance and mystery, and an urgent need of ready money. And after each man had passed through the ordeal we brought him into our secret conclave and waited for the next.

"Then we made outside investigations, and found that nine-tenths of the life insurance offices in New York were being favored the same way, and the rest were coming into line at the rate of two or three a month. The various medical examiners got so they waived with any formal examination when Soper was brought in. Of course they might have given the whole snap away, but I learned afterward that he won their sympathy at an early period. And as for the insurance solicitors themselves, it got to be a point of honor in every office in New York to keep quiet and give newcomers the benefit of the experience.

"Then, suddenly, Soper dropped out of view and it was a year before anyone heard of him again. But one day I happened through his old haunt in the smoking room of the top-notch hotel and found him. He was dreadfully changed and sick looking. I shook hands with him, but he didn't know me. So I introduced myself and got a heart-to-heart talk out of him.

"He had been a bookkeeper somewhere downtown, on an extremely meager salary, and up to the time he was 50 his life had been spent between a dingy office and a shabby boarding house. Then one day an energetic young insurance solicitor had got him interested in a small life policy for the benefit of his sister's children out in Wisconsin. The young man had taken him to dinner at a cheap French restaurant—and the young man's company had rejected him on the ground of incipient Bright's disease. But that modest French dinner had been a bright spot in his career, and it set him thinking. And as a result for nearly three years that lonely life was gladdened by the best table luxuries that the best restaurants in New York could provide.

"And it may seem strange, but a few months later, when poor old Soper went before his final Examiner, an enormous wreath of immortelles, the gift of some 60 odd New York life insurance solicitors, lay as a tribute on his coffin."—N. Y. Sun.

Several foreign powers, United States included, have landed marines in China to protect their interests and citizens against the boxers, a Chinese revolutionary organization which is causing much trouble there at present.

Congress adjourned yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The last bill passed and signed by the president was the naval appropriation bill. The members of the House and the occupants of the galleries joined in singing national patriotic songs before adjournment.

Latest reports say that war between Russia and Japan is very probable in the near future, as an outgrowth of the Chinese question and an old grudge Japan has against Russia because of the latter's interferance at the close of the Chinese Japanese war, which robbed Japan of the fruits of her victories.

Duluth Herald: The Detroit Free Press says it will not support Mr. Bryan if the silver plank be retained in the democratic platform. The Free Press suported Mr. McKinley in 1896, so that its decision involves no loss of strength for Mr. Bryan. It is also worth remembering that the Free Press is chiefly noted as a humorous paper.

Waseca Herald: Each day's news but adds to the developments of the rascality of McKinley's appointees in Cuba. And why should any one be surprised when it is known that Rathbone, the Director General, is no less a personage than the author of "blocks of five" who carried Indiana for the Republicans a few years ago. It appears that his total salary and "perquisites" for the year, in Cuba, amount to $124,863 00. And he is only one of the rascals appointed by the McKinley administration, in that unfortunate island.

The United States government has just given up the search for two Pacific islands which it has possessed—on the map—for 60 years. However, there are others!

When thought becomes rampant it breaks forth into speech and becomes eloquence. When lack of thought becomes burdensome it finds voice and is twaddle.

Twenty-one war correspondents have been killed or have died of disease during the war in South Africa. The mortality among the newspaper men is proportionately greater than in any of the army corps.

Champion Jeffries, a dispatch says, has purchased the John Y. McKane summer home at Sheepshead Bay, a veritable mansion with 22 rooms, for $25,000. Prize fighting seems to be equal to a gold mine if a man wins.

There is nothing quite so valuable as a man's sight. A Philadelphia jury has awarded William F. Waters a verdict of $47,000 for the loss of his sight in an explosion of acid at the works of the Atlantic Refining company.

A New York dealer has received the first consignment of lumber ever shipped from Manila to the United States. The shipment was a cargo of mahogany logs to be used in the manufacture of pianos.

Six ships landed 5,500 immigrants in New York the other day, the largest number ever arriving at once at an American seaport. The incident shows the size of modern ships as well as the strong current of newcomers to the United States.

Three dynamiters, charged with attempting to blow up the Welland canal, have been sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor, a Canadian jury passing on the case. Canada is evidently a good place for dynamiters to keep as far away from as they possibly can.

A New York wheelman by the name of Brown—name sounds familiar—finished a 2,000-mile wheel race against time, he having wheeled off that distance in a little less than nine days, or at a rate of more than 200 miles per day. The most interesting fact about Brown is that three years ago he was declared a consumptive. Did the wheel restore his health?

Strange as it may seem, the birthplace of Admiral Farragut is not known. A few days ago the chamber of commerce of Knoxville, Tenn., named a committee to ascertain the real birthplace of the old hero, and it submitted two reports, part of the committee stating that Farragut was born at Lowe's Ferry and the rest maintaining that his birthplace was Campbell's Station.

The locomotive engineer who ran the first railway train in this country, on the trip made between Albany and Schenectady on May 27, 1829, is living in New York city, at the age of 93 years. His name is Wood Benson, and his health is still good. Seventy-one years have passed since he pulled out with the historic train, among whose passengers were Gen. Scott, Thurlow Weed and Commodore Vanderbilt.

Despite the fact that the Parisian exposition authorities some time ago professed to believe that the American athletic teams were making this country ridiculous by refusing to take part in the athletic games and sports if the latter were conducted on Sundays, they have yielded their point and the contests will be held on Saturdays. Even Paris is beginning to recognize that ridicule is not the fatal weapon with Americans, where principle is concerned, that it seems to be with some Parisians

Dispatches from London have mentioned the sudden appearance and enormous sales of pictures, buttons and little flags in connection with the recent popular demonstrations, and now British commercial pride is shocked to learn that they were imported from this country. The largest London dealer says Birmingham manufacturers could not furnish them at all, and in no other country were they manufactured as neatly and cheaply as in the United States. Thus America leads in small things as in great.

Francis Bicknell Carpenter, the portrait painter, who died in New York recently, aged 70 years, had among his sitters Presidents Fillmore, Lincoln, Tyler and Pierce, William H. Seward, Charles Sumner, George William Curtis, James Russell Lowell, Henry Ward Beecher, Horace Greeley, Schuyler Colfax and John C. Fremont. In 1864 he painted a large historical picture representing President Lincoln signing the emancipation proclamation, and it now hangs on the staircase of the house of representatives. The latter attracts the eyes of millions.

The election of Rev. Dr. David H. Moore as one of the new bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church makes the remarkable coincidence of four bishops of that church natives of one county and three of the same town, viz.: Athens, O. The first of the four, Rev. Edward R. Ames, was born near Athens in 1806 and elected bishop in 1852, serving till his death in 1879. Rev. Charles C. McCabe, born in Athens in 1836, was elected bishop in 1896. Rev. Earl Cranston, born in Athens in 1840, was elected bishop in 1896. Dr. Moore, born in Athens in 1838.

A man can go without food, water and light for a long time when he has to. Advices from the orient tell of four miners being entombed in Japan in the big Matsuyasu colliery. The men were without food for 12 days, had only water enough to moisten their lips four or five times a day, and their light lasted but two days, and yet it is stated that when they were finally rescued they were in comparatively good condition. It is an experiment that few would want to try, and we are willing to take their word for what happens to a man under such circumstances.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Record of First Session of the Fifty-Sixth Legislature.

Many Laws Covering Vexed Questions Have Been Passed—Our New Possessions Have Received Much Attention.

Washington, June 4.—The record of the first session of the Fifty-sixth congress is now practically closed, and it is possible to survey the important work it has accomplished during the last six months. It has been a busy congress—the busiest, according to veteran officials, in many years. In some respects the work has been less exciting than that of the preceding congress, which covered the dramatic period when war was declared against Spain, and also the period of reconstruction and treaty-making with Spain following the successful close of the war. But in work actually accomplished and started toward accomplishment the record of the present congress stands well in comparison with the most energetic congresses.

Our new territorial possessions have received much attention, and while there has been no definite action as to the Philippines or Cuba, a form of government and a means of raising revenue has been provided for Porto Rico, and a comprehensive territorial form of government has been given to Hawaii. The financial act has made important changes in the laws relating to the parity of metals, the bonded indebtedness, national banks and the security of the treasury by a gold reserve. The Nicaraguan canal bill has passed the house and is on the calendar of the senate ready for attention when congress reconvenes. The anti-trust bill is similarly advanced. The anti-trust constitutional amendment has a defeat recorded against it. The Pacific cable measure has passed the senate and is awaiting final action in the house.

Some Unpleasant Features.

The exclusion of Brigham H. Roberts from a seat in the house because of his polygamous status, the refusal of the senate to admit Mr. Quay on the appointment of the governor of Pennsylvania, and the sensational charges, investigation and devlopments in the senate in the case of Mr. Clark, of Montana, have added some exciting personal phases to the session. Investigations have been prolific, including the inquiry into the Coeur d'Alene mining riots in Idaho, the various inquiries on polygamy growing out of the Roberts case, and more recently the senate investigation of the postal and other irregularities in Cuba.

Appropriations.

The total of appropriations cannot yet be stated with exactness, and five bills are pending, but it is approximately $700,0000,000 for the session.

Treaties Acted Upon.

The senate in executive session has been occupied to a considerable extent with important treaties. Of these the treaties with Great Britain and Germany closing the tripartite government in Samoa and awarding to the United States the island of Tutulla, with its valuable harbor of Pago-Pago, has been ratified, while the commercial reciporcity treaties with France and British West Indian islands and the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, concerning the interoceanic canal, go over without action.

The Financial Act.

Of the legislation actually accomplished and now on the statute books, the financial act is regarded as the chief achievement of the year. The noteworthy feature of the debate on this measure in the house was that party lines were broken to some extent, a number of democratic members from the eastern and New England states joining with the majority in passing it.

Pensions.

The general pension laws have been materially changed by the present congress, largely as a result of the efforts of the Grand Army of the Republic, which secured the passage of a bill amending the law of June 27, 1890, so as to permit the "aggregating" of disabilities, and changing the provision as to widows so that a widow may receive pension when she is "without means of support other than her daily labor, and has an actual net income not exceeding $250," etc.

"Free Homes" Act.

The "free homes" act has at last become law. It provides for the patenting of homesteads on the public lands acquired from the Indians on the payment of the usual fee and no other or further charges. This opens to free homestead entry many millons of acres of public lands in the west, heretofore sold at stated figures per acre.

Other Legislation.

Other measures which have passed one house or the other, but are still pending, include those for the election of senators by the people; authorizing the president to appoint a commission to study commercial conditions in China and Japan; for increasing the efficiency of the army by making service in the staff corps temporary; extending the eight-hour law; increasing the annual allowance to the militia of the country from $400,000 to $1,000,000.

MRS. JOHN SHERMAN DEAD.

The Venerable Lady Fails to Rally from the Stroke of Paralysis Suffered Sunday.

Mansfield, O., June 5.—Mrs. Sherman, wife of former Secretary of State John Sherman, died a few minutes past midnight this morning. She suffered a stroke of paralysis Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman returned to Mansfield from Washington a week ago Friday, expecting to spend the summer quietly at their cozy little home here. Mrs. Cecelia Sherman was born here in 1829. Her father, the late Judge James Stewart, was at that time a lawyer with a limited practice. Her mother died while she was a baby. December 31, 1848, she married Mr. Sherman, then a rising young lawyer of the city. No children were born to them, but they adopted several daughters.

Train Ditched.

Lima, O., June 4.—Sunday afternoon about three o'clock as an east-bound freight train on the Lake Erie & Western road was running at full speed about 18 miles this side of Sandusky City the tires came off one of the driving wheels, ditching the engine and piling about 20 cars on top of it. Fireman Enoch Bowsher and Head Brakeman J. W. Purtell, who happened to be in the engine, were crushed to death and Engineer Harry Bell had a leg broken and was seriously hurt internally.

The Clark Case.

Washington, June 1.—The senate committee on privileges and elections has reached an agreement with the friends of Senator Clark, of Montana, to allow the senator's case to rest where it is, with the understanding that no further steps shall be taken to have either Mr. Clark's or Mr. Maginnis' credentials referred to the committee, and that no further notice shall be taken on the resolution of the committee concerning Senator Clark's original election.

Estimate of Chicago's Population.

Chicago, June 4.—School census enumeration so far tabulated indicates an increase in Chicago's population of 166,642 over 1898, or a present total of 2,018,230. This is a little under the government census estimate, which was 2,020.000, and 17,000 more than the directory estimate of 2,001,000.

WAR ON WOMEN.

St. Louis Mob Maltreats a Young Lady for Riding on a Street Car—Clothing Torn Off.

St. Louis, June 4.—Christine Thiere, 18 years old, Sunday was set upon by a crowd of about 2,000 men simply because she had ridden on a car of the St. Louis Transit company. She was on the way to spend the day with her mother. She is a servant. The distance was too far to walk and get back to her employer's by night. She took a street car. When she alighted at Ninth street and Geyer avenue at five p. m. from a Cherokee car she was approached by a young man who called her a "scab." Others joined in the chorus. There was a hissing and hooting which grew into a perfect storm as the mob closed in about her. A young man tore off her jacket and another her hat. She was struck by the fists of men and bruised about the face and body. A pocket book which she carried in her hand was snatched away and the money taken.

The young woman begged piteously for mercy and a big fist struck her in the mouth. She pleaded that she was a working girl, but this had no effect to stem the blows. Piece by piece her clothing was torn away until she was nude. She fled from the howling mob of men and finally ran to a house on the corner. She appealed for admittance, but the people were afraid the mob would tear down the house, and refused her admittance. She went to the place next door, but no one came. She reached an alley and ran down it, followed by the hooting men. There was a little window leading into a cellar. She broke the glass and jumped in and cowered in a corner in the darkness. Finally her persecutors went away. Then she called for help and received it, finally being taken to her employer's in Dalmar boulevard.

At 1916 South Twelfth street another incident of the same kind occurred. Stella Broderick got off a car only to be assailed and hooted by a mob. Her jacket was torn from her by men. She ran down an alley and into the home of Mrs. Folke, and the mob surrounded the house and began throwing stones through the windows. Mrs. Folke got a big revolver and opened fire on the mob from her front window and the men scattered.

THE TRADE SITUATION.

Report of R. G. Dun on the Condition of the Country—Failures of the Week.

New York, June 2.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: "While returns of failures in May by branches of business cannot be given until next week, it can be stated that not over six months in more than six years have shown as large defaulted liabilities as May will show, owing to the failure of a firm principally engaged in cotton brokerage. The reported liabilities of this one firm exceed those of all firms failing in every month but one last year, and in every month but three in 1898. Manufacturing failures in four weeks of May were only $2,486,543, and trading failures $4,720,201, while failures in brokerage and 'other commercial' lines amounted to $13,928,822.

"The rapid progress of events in Africa, with prospect that the war will soon end and the gold supply from that region will be resumed, has naturally affected both money and security markets on both sides of the ocean. Needs of foreign borrowing may be much reduced, and hindrance to foreign investments here in large measure removed. But the demands upon American machine works and other supplies are likely to be materially increased whenever the restoration of industries in South Africa begins.

"The most conspicuous feature of domestic news is the steady progress toward a lower level of prices for the chief materials of industry. The decline in pig iron continues, gray forge reaching $18.50 at Pittsburgh, No. 1 local coke $22 at Chicago, No. 1 anthracite and Bessemer $22 at Philadelphia, and Lehigh No. 1 $21 here. Only small changes have appeared during the week in prices of finished products, but these are toward lower figures. Orders for boots and shoes have been reduced much more than shipments, because many works had orders which are not yet exhausted. The shipments in May have been smaller than in any other year since 1892. They were larger by 17.4 per cent. in 1896, by 22.8 per cent. in 1895, and by 27.7 per cent. last year.

"Failures for the week have been 160 in the United States, against 145 last year, and 21 in Canada, against 14 last year."

FILIPINO LOSSES.

Gen MacArthur Sends Statistics of the Killed, Wounded and Captured During the War.

Washington, June 5.—Secretary Root made answer to the senate resolution inquiring as to the number of Filipinos killed and wounded and the number of prisoners taken since the insurrection began. Having no detailed information on the subject, the secretary cabled the inquiry to Gen. MacArthur, commanding at Manila, and received the following response, which was submitted to congress:

"Manila, June 4, 1900.—Adjutant General, Washington: With reference to your telegram of 22d ultimo, Filipinos, killed, 10,780; wounded, 2,104; captured and surrendered, 10,424; number prisoners in our possession, about 2,000. No systematic record of Filipino casualties at these headquarters. Foregoing compiled from large number of reports made immediately after engagements is as close an approximation as is now possible, owing to wide distribution of troops. More accurate report would take weeks to prepare. Number reported killed probably in excess of accurate figures, number reported wounded probably much less, as Filipinos managed to remove most of their wounded from field, and comparatively few fell into our hands. Officers of high rank and dangerous and suspicious men have been retained as prisoners, most other men discharged on field as soon as disarmed. Purpose to release all but very few prisoners at early date.

"MACARTHUR."

Three Killed by Lightning.

St. Clair, Mich., June 1.—Capt. Arlie Morrison, Frank Campbell and William Medlar were killed by lightning. The three men were at work in the cabin of a new boat. The lightning struck the mast, splintering it and passing down into the cabin. Morrison and Medlar were killed instantly; Campbell died half an hour later.

Loss Is Very Heavy.

Houghton, Mich., June 4.—The temperature in the burning shaft of the Calumet and Heckla mine indicates that the fire, if not decreasing, is certainly not gaining. The mine is at present sending about 3,000 tons of rock daily to the stamp mills, instead of 6,000, and accordingly is losing about $100,000 a week.

Two Girls Perish.

Belleville, Ill., June 2.—The residence and saloon of John Williams, at Dewey Station, three miles west of Belleville, was burned at three o'clock Friday morning, and Williams' two daughters, aged five and six years, respectively, were suffocated.

AGUINALDO REPORTED KILLED

Rebel Chieftain's Death Announced—Body Removed by His Followers.

Vigan, Luzon, June 2, via Manila, June 4. — Maj. March, with his detachment of the Thirty-third regiment, overtook what is believed to have been Aguinaldo's party on May 19 at La Gat, about 100 miles northeast of Vigan. The Americans killed or wounded an officer, supposed to be Aguinaldo, whose body was removed by his followers. Aguinaldo had 100 men, Maj. March 125. The American commander reached Laboagan, where Aguinaldo had made his headquarters since March 6, on May 7. Aguinaldo had fled seven hours before, leaving all the beaten trails and traveling through the forest along the beds of streams. Toward evening, May 19, Maj. March struck Aguinaldo's outpost about a mile outside of La Gat, killing four Filipinos and capturing two. From the latter he learned that Aguinaldo had camped there for the night. Although exhausted and half starved, Maj. March's men entered La Gat on the run. They saw the insurgents scattering into the bushes or over the plateau.

A thousand yards beyond the town, on the mountain side, the figures of 25 Filipinos, dressed in white, with their leader on a gray horse, were silhouetted against the sunset. The Americans fired a volley and saw the officer drop from his horse. His followers fled, carrying the body. The Americans, on reaching the spot, caught the horse, which was richly saddled. Blood from a badly wounded man was on the animal and on the ground. The saddle bags contained Aguinaldo's diary and some private papers, including proclamations. One of these was addressed: "To the civilized nations." It protested against the American occupation of the Philippines. There was also found copies of Senator Beveridge's speech, translated into Spanish and entitled "The death knell of the Filipino people."

The officer shot was either Aguinaldo or his adjutant, and as the horse was richly caparisoned it is a fair presumption that it was Aguinaldo.

ROBBERS CREATE HAVOC.

Wreck and Rob a Savings Bank at Sheldahl, Iowa—Escape with $1,600.

Des Moines, Ia., June 2.—The savings bank at Sheldahl, 20 miles north from here, was blown up by four robbers at night, who secured $1,600 and escaped, after holding 50 or more citizens at bay with rifles.

Shortly after midnight a terrific explosion shook the town and immediately the inhabitants turned out to learn the cause. A glance up the main street showed the building of the savings bank to be in ruins and the timbers burning. Fifty citizens rushed to the scene, to be met by the gleaming barrels of two rifles in the hands of two strangers, who ordered the citizens to halt. As the ruins burned brighter two other strangers were descried looting the wrecked safe. The crowd of citizens had brought no weapons, and the two robbers on guard threatened death to the man who moved from his tracks, so the helpless denizens of Sheldahl were compelled to witness the robbery of their savings without lifting a hand in remonstrance.

When the two robbers who were looting the safe decided they had secured all the money available, they joined their two confederates and with leveled rifles the four marauders lined up the band of citizens who stood with hands held high as ordered until the four robbers had backed away into the darkness and fled. The bank building is a total wreck, the loss being estimated at $3,000, and added to this is the $1,600 secured by the robbers. No trace of the robbers has been discovered.

EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE.

It Wipes Out a Wisconsin Family Consisting of Six Persons—Four Killed in Ohio.

Milwaukee, June 1. — A Sentinel special from Brillion, Wis., says six persons were killed by an explosion of dynamite in the home of William Broehm, at Forest Junction, about eight miles from Brillion, at an early hour Thursday. The dead are: William Broehm, Mrs. William Broehm, three children of Mr. and Mrs. Broehm, ages ranging from two to seven years; H. Stevens, a brother of Mrs. Broehm.

The cause of the explosion is not known. The supposition is that about 12 pounds of the deadly explosive was too near the stove, and became overheated and exploded. No one was left to tell how the accident occurred, as every occupant of the house was killed.

Marietta, O., June 1.—At Whipple, just east of this city, Thursday evening, in shooting a well on the Kelly farm, there was a premature explosion of 50 quarts of nitro glycerin. Four men were killed, four fatally injured and three badly hurt.

Warrant for Taylor.

Frankfort, Ky., June 1.—Circuit Clerk Ford received an order from Judge Cantrill Thursday morning directing him to issue a bench warrant for the arrest of Former Gov. W. S. Taylor. The warrant is based on the indictment charging Mr. Taylor with being accessory to the assassination of William Goebel. The warrant was issued and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff John Suter, who is acting in the absence of the regular sheriff.

Wisconsin Bank Robbed.

Milwaukee, June 4.—An Evening Wisconsin special from New Lisbon, Wis., says: The Bank of New Lisbon, owned by W. H. H. Cash, was burglarized at an early hour and several thousand dollars in cash taken. The whole front of the safe was blown out with nitroglycerin and the front of the building was partially wrecked. The explosion was terrific. There is no clew to the perpetrators.

Five Killed.

Hamilton, O., June 4. — The engine of a fast freight on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Indianapolis railroad jumped the track west of this city Sunday. Eleven cars loaded with stock were wrecked. Timothy Mahoney, David Starkey and Ambrose Smith, trainmen, and two unknown boys who were stealing a ride were killed. The loss will be about $5,000.

The State of Washington

Is known as the Evergreen State because of its vast forests. Outside of the limited areas of BIG TREES in California, there are no such forests of pine, fir, hemlock, spruce, cedar, etc., as are found here. The trees are long and straight, and the massive timbers and fine shingles made from them are shipped all over the world.

Washington Fruit is a product of great value. Its flavor and color are unsurpassed. East of the Cascade mountains, the climate is dry and warm, and irrigation is necessary. This makes the farmer independent of rain. West of the mountains irrigation is unnecessary and the rainfall is ample for all purposes. Canneries and fruit drying establishments can be operated profitably in this state. Grain, hops and alfalfa are very profitable crops, and beet sugar is rapidly making headway.

Washington is a coming empire. Brains are in demand in all professions, and labor is wanted and is paid remunerative prices. Fuel, coal as well as wood, is abundant and cheap. Schools and churches abound, the state is well supplied with railways.

Varied altitudes and climates render this country a desirable place of residence, and all can be suited.

Gin Sling for Gin-ger.

Some Americans not over familiar with French, while in Paris not long ago, entered a confectioner's shop and asked in English for some ginger. What they wanted was the candied variety, of course, common enough in confectionery shops in New York. But at the first syllable of the word the Paris shopmen looked at each other in amazement and then at the women asking for it. After some parley it was made known to the Americans that though the ginger was not in stock it would be sent for—evidently a most unusual procedure, judging from the gestures and exclamations and significant glances upon the part of all connected with the establishment. The Americans waited and waited; still the ginger was not forthcoming. They were just about to depart when what they were waiting for arrived. It was served in liqueur glasses with crushed ice, and it was gin.—N. Y. Evening Sun.

PROUDER THAN EVER

WERE GRIZZLED VETERANS THIS YEAR THAT THEY STOOD FOR LIBERTY IN '61.

And Stauncher Are the People, Day by Day, For Liberty For All Men, and More and More Do They Condemn "Criminal Aggression"—While Liberty Dies in South Africa People of the North Star State Give Welcome to the Boer Appealing Envoys—Coming State Convention—Next Fourth of July—Mr. Towne's Candidacy — Lessons of the Hour—Other State and National Political Points of a Busy Week.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, June 4, 1900.

"And Freedom shrieked when Kosciusko fell."

Before this shall have reached all its readers of the week, Minnesota, ever brave and true to liberty and to every appeal for human freedom, will have given in her reception to the Boer commissioners her sentiments on the subject of destruction of republics, and the stifling of the desire for self government wherever it may be throughout the world. Coming immediately upon the heels of Memorial day, with its lessons of all that was suffered for the cause of country and political freedom, the public mind and heart were the more responsive, if possible, to the questions involved. Indeed, it required no close scrutiny of all connected with observance of Memorial day to find proofs of some deeply moving power in the general public mind. This was seen in numerous directions—in the sentiments of numerous short addresses in the public schools, in selections of music, in the public addresses, and especially in the disappearance, in great degree, of that flip-flap sentiment about "duty" and "Americanization" of the world by the bullets and bayonets of conquest. Indeed, in at least one instance, that of the general address in Minneapolis, there was distinct and pertinent political allusion in the denunciation of trusts and combinations as destructive of individuality. Coming from a thick and thin Republican partisan, though a clergyman, the incident was certainly significant.

Nor does it lessen the interest that while the Boer envoys are making their appeals their beloved country is apparently in the death throes of English subjugation, as also seem the Filipinos, under American conquest. It but heightens the interest, and deepens our sympathy, at the same time that it intensifies condemnation of our un-American administration in its own wrongdoing.

By the way, the week has brought to light explanation of the Republican holdoff attitude on the Boer question. It seems that the Republicans are relying on English sympathizers to make good the losses they admit they will have among anti-imperialists, on both Philippine and Boer questions. In fact it leaks out that at the recent meeting of the state committee a report was made that there are 80,000 English born citizens, whose votes they expect to get to offset such losses from other foreign born citizens and from other Americans. It is a missing calculation.

The week brought serious losses to Twin City citizenship in the death of several old residents, including Colonel John H. Stevens, the first settler of Minneapolis, and John P. Rea, the well known jurist and veteran soldier.

All official recalcitrants look alike to Public Examiner Pope, and so his subordinates feel just as much at home with the Democratic "gone wrong" treasurer of Winona as with the Republican of any other county.

It is well to record that Senator Teller's resolution of sympathy with the Boers was buried in the committee on foreign relations on motion of Senator Davis of Minnesota. But never mind, it has been passed in every nook and corner of the land a thousand times over, by liberty loving Americans.

A very pretty little game is being played by Minneapolis Republicans, endeavoring to create opposition to the renomination of Mayor Gray. But everybody is on. It is a complete waste of the raw material.

Reports of the Lincoln movement continue to be immensely favorable. Chairman Corser has completed all arrangements for the national convention, and 1,600 to 2,000 delegates are expected. The movement is reaching out to great numbers of independents who will drop McKinley and stand for Bryan. This is especially true of the anti-imperialists and the anti-trusters.

There is scarcely any diminution of the flood of good things being said both in and out of the state for Hon. C. A. Towne in connection with the vice presidential nomination. At home it is but a repetition of what we all know him to be, and away from home it is the best that can be said for such well beloved son.

Nor does all this enthusiam and admiration endanger that wise action that all feel must be taken in the final determination, towit, that, so far as the state Democratic convention is concerned, its warm endorsement of Mr. Towne, in whatever form it may be put, shall nevertheless submit such final determination to the wisdom of the national convention. The warmest friends of Mr. Towne advise this course.

There is every indication of large and exceedingly enthusiastic convention that will select the Minnesota representation on the 20th inst. There is likewise prospect of the largest delegation to Kansas City that has ever gone to a national convention from this state. At least a trainload may be expected and possibly two. Duluth expects a carload. It is hoped to announce all particulars by another week. The Democrats and Lincoln Republicans expect to join teams, with features appropriate to the situation, with enthusiasm and harmony.

We notice in some of the state press references to the "fight" said to be "on" for "instructions for Towne" by the state Democratic convention. All of our friends cannot be too strongly reassured that there is nothing of the kind on foot, since there is no proposition, even by the warmest of Towne advocates, for "instructions" that would bind Minnesota to any action conflicting with the wisest determination at Kansas City. The matter is covered elsewhere in this letter, but the fact should be emphasized that no friend of Mr. Towne expects or desires any action here which will interfere with such calm, final decision at Kansas City, as will undoubtedly result.

Speaking of national conventions, that at Philadelphia is expected to be opened by prayer by a Philadelphia preacher who prayed for the first Republican convention, that of 1856. What a list of political sins the reverend gentleman will have before him for his petition for forgiveness.

At this writing congress is on the point of adjourning, and it will be a good riddance of bad rubbish.

Speaking of what has not been accomplished under Republican administration, our carrying trade is nearly wiped from the seas. Of 2,626 vessels through the Suez canal in the past year by the four great nations, the United States, Great Britain, Germany and France, 2,000 flew the British, 378 the German and 223 the French flag. Our ships numbered but 25, most all of them troop transports to and from the Philippines.

Republican policy takes money out of the carrying trade, and puts it into gigantic trusts and combinations.

In a Twin City Methodist prayer meeting Thursday evening last the "deliverance of our good brother, the president," was devoutly referred to in a long-winded prayer, reference being made to the fact that the general conference suppressed the condemnation of McKinley in the canteen episode. Of course that "good brother" would not read it if offered him, but we should like to have some one show him the arraignment made by William Lloyd Garrison, son of the abolitionist, in which he presents the proofs not only of army drinking at the canteens, but the horrors existing in Manila, not only of drink but of licentiousness, both flourishing where the president as commander-in-chief has abso ute power to suppress or regulate. Mr. Garrison got his facts from personal, unimpeachable sources. It is a story to shock the whole world. Of 1,300 men in a certain regiment, 480 were registered for venereal diseases. On arrival of our troops lewd women numbered perhaps 20. They flocked there in droves immediately on relaxation of the Spanish regulation when we took control, 300 prostitutes of all Asiatic races coming by one steamer. The multiplied houses were patrolled and protected by American soldiers and still are, as is the saloon, along with the now unrestricted canteen system. Chaplain Wells is quoted as saying that "whisky and bad women bring more death than bullets or other causes in the Philippines."

And this is the accompaniment of the "imperial" policy of colonization that finds commendations from the clergy and pleas for "blessings" in the prayers of the supposedly "faithful." We earnestly commend the Philippine arraignment to such as lead in "expansion" meetings, or who stigmatize those who do not feel like approving, as "copperheads" and "traitors," "keeping up a fire in the rear."

What labor may expect, as fruition of "door opening" for admission of Coolie labor, is shown in the iron regions above Duluth, where Japs are taking the place of former laborers. Install the trusts safely by McKinley's re-election, and before the next four years pass Japs, Chinese, Filipinos and Asiatic what-nots will be doing all the work at starvation wages. In the language of Hanna, "We know our business.

"Two years ago," said a traveling man, "I papered my three rooms at a cost of $7.35. The same thing has just cost me $14."

"Am I earning more?" he asked in response to a question. "Well, I guess not. I was laid off by my trusted company over a year ago and am doing whatever I can strike, and little enough of that. Men that were kept on the road get $100 a month, against $125 to $200 then. You see it requires no talent or ability to sell goods for the trusts as you are simply a messenger to go around and inform them of the latest order issued. Any man can call and take orders when all the terms in a line of trade are alike.

"And I'll tell you this. I voted for McKinley in '96, but I'm going to vote for Bryan this year because he represents return to the old-time system of trade and of government."

Here and there all over the country are patriotic men desiring a way within their means to assist the people's cause. To such we commend the suggestion of The National Watchman, that they send that grand paper to lists of friends that may be reached to vote with us, for the rest of the campaign, forwarding the amount they feel like contributing. It will do great good. G. S. C

Realized the Situation.

The colored regulars in the Philippines are as quick at repartee as they are prompt to obey orders. Artillery is becoming all the time a more important branch of the military service. In a sense war is already almost as much of a shell game as is diplomacy.—Detroit Journal.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Crushed by a Boulder.

Early in the morning a huge boulder rushed down the precipitous incline and crashed through the roof of the house occupied by John Dorgan, St. Paul. James Dorgan, 15 years of age, was fatally injured and John Dorgan, Jr., was seriously hurt. Three other boys sleeping in the room into which the rock crashed escaped with slight injuries.

The accident took place before the family had arisen. The house is a two-story brick structure, built close to the bluff at the foot of the Hall street shops. A crew of laborers in the employ of Contractor Thomas Linnan were at work above grading and preparing to boulevard the street. The steep incline is sixty feet in height. The boulder slipped from its place and crashed down the slope.

Annual Encampment.

The adjutant general announced the dates for the annual encampment of the state militia. The first regiment under Colonel Reeve will go into camp at Lake City, July 9, and remain until the 19th. This will be the first reunion of the members since leaving San Francisco.

The Second regiment under Colonel Joseph Bobleter will enjoy its outing from June 21 to July 1. Instead of going into camp, the Third will probably substitute a practice march of sixty miles, from Milaca, through the Indian reservation and pine woods to Brainerd. If not taken, the Third will encamp July 19 and remain until July 29. The artillery consisting of Battery A and B will go into camp on the same dates.

A Pioneer Dead.

Colonel John H. Stevens generally known as the pioneer citizen of Minneapolis, died at his residence at Tenth street and Sixth avenue south, May 28.

The death of Colonel Stevens removes one of the best known figures of Minneapolis. Colonel Stevens was looked upon as the "father of Minneapolis." His old house, the first built on the west side of the river, near the site of the Union depot—now located in Minnehaha park—was the rendezvous of the early settlers. Here it was that the meetings preliminary to the organization of Hennepin county were held. Here also were held religious services.

A Dry Month.

The month that ended at midnight, May 31, was the second dryest in the history of Minnesota. The precipitation in Minneapolis amounted to but .43 of an inch, and the northern counties of the state had very little more rain. The dryest May on record was in 1861, when the precipitation amounted to .06 of an inch. This was in the days before the weather bureau was established in either Minneapolis or St. Paul, and what observations were taken were made by individuals. The person who recorded the rainfall of May, 1861, was a man of unusual intelligence, and it is safe to believe that his observations are trustworthy.

Bank Robbed.

The Bank of Dover, at Dover, in Olmsted county, was entered, the vault and safe blown open and $4,500 in cash, of which $800 was in silver, secured. Though there were dwellings only a few feet away, no one seems to have heard the sound of the explosions, and the burglary was not discovered until Cashier E. E. Rank went to open the bank in the morning. The burglars had by that time made good their escape. The bank carried indemnity insurance up to $4,500.

Dog Took a Bite.

Stanislaus T. Rosenthal, a mason, whose home is in Minneapolis, attempted to assault his wife with a butcher knife while drunk. The wife found a protector in the person of a bull dog belonging to the family, which took her part, attacking Rosenthal and painfully wounding one of his legs. Officer Henry Brudigan placed Rosenthal under arrest on a charge of drunkenness and a physician was summoned and dressed the wounds.

News in Brief.

The store of Onstad, Jacobson and Woodbury's saloon, at Ada, was consumed by fire. Onstad and Jacobson's stock was about $3,000; insurance $2,500.

Judge Lochren has decided that the owners of the steamer Peerless, which sank in Duluth harbor after a collision with the barge Stewart, has no action in a claim for damages, against the owners of the tugs which were towing the two boats. The plaintiff sued for $21,000, as the cost of the steamer.

Special postal service has been established at Owanka, Murray county, and William G. Humason appointed postmaster.

Minneapolis has a big frog supply. According to dealers in this branch of trade the receipts are fully 50 per cent in excess of what they were a year ago. The average weekly receipts now are about 20,000 frog legs in addition to the large quantity of live frogs shipped for use as fish bait.

A. L. Morris, of Bagley, on the Fosston branch, went to Kansas City last week and returned with a shipment of 100 Angora goats, which he turned out on his farm at Bagley. They are valued at from $5 to $25 per head, the lower figure being for kids.

If the newest survey is followed the Fargo, Duluth and Northwestern railroad will not go through Moorhead, but will pass south of the city about two miles.

The three-year-old son of J. A. Gilbert, of St. Paul, set fire to a vacant house and was nearly burned to death.

At Crookston, W. S. Bryson was held to the United States grand jury on the charge of sending an obsene letter through the mails. The letter in question was found on Goodrie, the young man arrested recently for robbing the Grafton postoffice.

The Winona Wagon Company sent a special train of eighteen cars, containing 425 wagons to Texas.

J. F. Turkson and John Ebert were drowned in Lake Minnetonka.

Electricity in Capsules.

This new compound, which is made from cheap chemicals, is put up in capsule form and when added to a certain quantity of water will furnish electricity enough to light a house, drive an automobile or even a railroad train. But this is nothing compared to the strengthening power contained in a bottle of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It cures indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, liver and kidney troubles and fills the system with the vigor of health.

A Resourceful Phrase.

A kind-hearted clergyman was lately compelled to dismiss a clever gardener, who used to purloin his fruit and vegetables. For the sake of his wife and family he gave him a character and this is how he worded it: "I hereby certify that A. B. has been my gardener for over two years, and that during that time he got more out of my garden than any man I ever employed."—Collier's Weekly.

Lewis and Clark.

A mighty team were these two. Truly their works live after them.

It is nearly 100 years since they started on that great exploration fathered by Thos. Jefferson, up the Missouri and down the Columbia rivers, crossing the mountains between, and the results of it and the deep interest in it still lives.

Their first winter—1804-5—was spent among the Mandan Indians; the winter of 1805-6 they passed near the mouth of the Columbia river among the Clatsop Indians. They crossed the Rocky mountains at five different places and traveled sometimes in canoes, sometimes on horseback, sometimes afoot, and covered about 10,000 miles in all.

Their adventures proved truth to be as strange as fiction; their discoveries were of the greatest importance.

Wonderland 1900 just issued by the Northern Pacific Railway Co. is largely devoted to Lewis and Clark's exploration, and is the only popular and reliable narrative of that expedition recently published.

The writer visited the important places on the explorers' route and photographs were taken for specially illustrating the article.

The book will be sent to any address upon receipt of six cents in stamps, by Chas. S. Fee, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

His Position.

"Like him?" snorted the Old Codger, referring to a neighbor whom he did not in any wise appreciate. "I have no more use for him than a man with dyed whiskers has for another man with dyed whiskers! That's how I feel toward Henry J. Swank—confound him!"—Puck.

Free Government Lands.

There are still thousands of acres of government lands in the states of Washington and Oregon, also prairie and timber lands near railroad or water communication that can be bought for $5.00 per acre and upwards. Finest climate in the United States. No failure of crops. If you wish to raise grain or the finest stock on earth, you will find locations in these two states where you can do this to perfection. Take your choice. I have no lands for sale, but if you want information where it is best to locate, call on me when in St. Paul, or write me at cor. Third and Rosabel Sts., St. Paul, Minn. R. E. Clara Kopp Wrote for Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Tells what it did for Her.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have seen so many letters from ladies who were cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies that I thought I would ask your advice in regard to my condition.

I have been doctoring for four years and have taken different patent medicines, but received very little benefit. I am troubled with backache, in fact my whole body aches, stomach feels sore, by spells get short of breath and am very nervous. Menstruation is very irregular with severe bearing down pains, cramps and backache. I hope to hear from you at once."—CLARA KOPP, Rockport, Ind., Sept. 27, 1898.

"I think it is my duty to write a letter to you in regard to what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I wrote you some time ago, describing my symptoms and asking your advice, which you very kindly gave. I am now healthy and cannot begin to praise your remedy enough. I would say to all suffering women, 'Take Mrs. Pinkham's advice, for a woman best understands a woman's sufferings, and Mrs. Pinkham, from her vast experience in treating female ills, can give you advice that you can get from no other source.'"—CLARA KOPP, Rockport, Ind., April 13, 1899.

GAVE SOME POKER ADVICE.

How Comedian Daly "Laid Down" to His Tailor by Telephone.

There probably have been times when Dan Daly was a few cents ahead in a quiet game of draw, but nobody in the alley seems to be able to locate them. His hands never yet have become calloused dragging celluloid buttons across a green cloth. He has got so used to quietly "laying down" that any other turn of affairs, his friends are afraid, would bring about heart failure.

The other day his tailor called him up by telephone, says the Chicago Chronicle.

"Hello," says the tailor.

"Hello," says the telephone girl, soft and mellow. "Number, please."

"Umpteen hundred and 'steen," says the tailor.

"Well, hello," says Daly.

"Is Mr. Daly there?" asks the tailor.

"Yes. This is he?"

"Oh, is that you, Mr. Daly? I didn't recognize your voice."

"Yes, Yes."

"Keep away there, central! Hello there! Hello, there! Hello, Mr. Daly!"

"Well, well, what is it?" says Daly.

"This is Mr. Taylor," says the tailor.

"Well, what do you want?"

"Hello! Is that Mr. Daly?" shrieks the tailor.

"Yes, yes, yes. What are you trying to do?"

"I've got two pairs of trousers here—" begins the tailor.

"Speak louder," says Daly.

"I've got—" begins the tailor again.

"You're too near the 'phone," says Daly. Then the tailor roars:

"I've got two pairs—"

"They're good," says Daly, and he rings off.

Very Embarrassing.

When the new minister, a handsome and unmarried man, made his first pastoral call at the Fosdicks' he took little Anna up in his arms and tried to kiss her. But the child refused to be kissed. She struggled loose and ran off into the next room, where her mother was putting a few finishing touches to her adornment before going into the parlor to greet the clergyman.

"Mamma," the little girl whispered, "the man in the parlor wanted me to kiss him."

"Well," replied mamma, "why didn't you let him? I would if I were you."

Thereupon little Anna ran back into the parlor and the minister asked:

"Well, little lady, won't you kiss me now?"

"No, I won't," replied Anna, promptly, "but mamma says she will."—Harper's Bazar.

Peruna as a Nerve and Catarrh Tonic the Talk of the World.

Hon. W. V. Sullivan, U. S. Senator from Mississippi.

Hon. W. V. Sullivan, United States Senator from Mississippi, in a letter recently written to Dr. Hartman from Oxford, Miss., says the following:

"For some time I have been a sufferer from catarrh in its most incipient stage, so much so that I became alarmed as to my general health. But, hearing of Pe-ru-na as a good remedy, I gave it a fair trial and soon began to improve. Its effects were distinctly beneficial, removing the annoying symptoms, and was particularly good as a tonic.

"I take pleasure in recommending your great national catarrh cure, Pe-ru-na, as the best I have ever tried."

"W. V. Sullivan."

New Binding Twine, 9 7/8c Lb.

AT 11 7-8 CENTS. The only reason that we could possibly obtain this twine was that a party needed spot cash. We had no expectation of being able to get any twine at anything like this price, for if you will just think of it a minute, IT IS 1-8 OF A CENT LESS THAN OUR FARMER FRIENDS PAID TO THE PENITENTIARY PEOPLE A FEW WEEKS AGO. We always believe, when we get a bargain, in dividing it with our friends and customers, feeling that when they know that we are always willing to treat them right and give them the benefit of our one basis on which we do business, namely large sales and small profits, that they will appreciate it, and in the end we will make more by favoring them with something of this kind than we would by charging them the regular market value. Consequently we divide this profit with you and will simply say that when this twine is out you can rest assured that we will try to make you as low prices as possible, but, nevertheless, we would suggest that you get your order in at once for any part that you may want of this lot. We will be able to ship by May 30th, as the twine reaches us by fast freight. The above telegram was received May 22. Send for agricultural implement catalogue.

We received the following telegram from our buyer which explains itself: "Purchased three hundred and seventy-five thousand (375,000) pounds New Standard Binding Twine. Price enables us to sell at nine seven-eighths (9⅞). Twine will arrive promptly. I congratulate you." This new binding twine will be placed on sale by us May 25th, and will be sold by us until this lot is gone at 9⅞ cents for Standard and 11⅛ cents for Manila Mixed. In ordering this twine ORDER AS No. 57 NEW STANDARD TWINE AT 9 7-8 CENTS AND No. 77 MANILA MIXED

DELANO, FRIDAY, June 8, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—An ice cream lawn social was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Lindsley, for the Episcopal church.

—The Public School libarary is to be open to pupils and patrons of the school for the drawing of books every Saturday afternoon dnring the summer.

—A wedding dance was held at the City Hall last Tuesday evening, celebrating the happy union of Mr. Joe Dean and Miss Anna Eppler. A good time was had.

—There will be a temperance lecture at School House Hall, Maple Plain, Friday night, preceeded by a song service commencing at 8 p. m., by Rev J. R. Whitworth.

—Ed and Oscar Bork formerly of Delano now of Meadow Lawn, near Pine City lost their mill by fire recently. No insurance. They run a log, lath and shingle mill, and intend building again as work is waiting for them.

—I. Gutzwiller a member of the school board is trying to lay the running of the school board onto Dr. Catlin, who is not a member of the board. We are not surprised that he wants to get out of the responsibility of some of the running. Its no credit to anybody.

—The exercises, last Monday, in the City Hall, were well carried out, and reflect a great deal of credit upon the teachers of the Delano Public School. This was the celebration of the event of six pupils leaving the eighth grade and being fully qualified to join the High School next term.

—High School Comencement exercises will begin next Sunday evening with an address at the City Hall by the Rev Mr. Savs. On Monday evening following there will be an address and the graduating exercises of the High School. Special music has been prepared for both evenings.

—Last Sunday night there was a fine rain North of Delano, in the vicinity of Rockford Station. It extended this way as far as Sherry's farm. Water was standing in the road in puddles Monday afternoon, on the road to the station from Sherry's, but this side of there the roads were dusty and the crops suffering for moisture.

—The scholars of the Delano High School gave a reception to the graduating class last Wednesday evening in the City Hall. The Hall was tastily decorated with rugs, bunting and flowers, and everything done to make the occasion an enjoyable one. Ice-cream and cake were served as refreshments. Everybody had a good time.

—A long special train to the Red River Valley loaded with thrashers and engines, manufactured by the Minneapolis Threshing Machine Co., passed through town Tuesday morning, decorated out in fine style with flags, pennants and banners. Comment was rife that unless present prospects changed there would be little need of them this fall.

—Last night about 9 o'clock D. O'Connor, a switch painter for the G. N. R. R. was held up by two unknown men near the second switch and relieved of a watchchain, some small change and a band ring with the initials D. O. in all amounting to about $15. A revolver was shoved in his face by a man about five ft nine in, slender with a black square cut coat the other was a fair sized man.

—The road's about the village are more or less in rough condition just at present, owing to the annual spring working. Some good improvements have been made in several places where it was badly needed and there are yet a good many places that could stand a considerable amount of work, either by filling in, grading down, or fixing stretches of sandy road. Good roads to any village draws a good share of the trade.

—The premises of Tiff Hittsman were quarantined on Sunday on account of an eruption on his eight months old grand child, who with its brother and mother are visiting at his house. The child was not much sick but the eruption was near enough like small pox to call for quarantine until further investigation. The Secretary of the State Board of Health was notified and Dr. F. Leavitt, of St. Paul, an expert in that line, was sent up Monday evening, to look into the matter. He promptly pronounced the case one of chicken pox, much to the relief of the family and many anxious neighbors. Nothing like being on the safe side. It is far better to quarantine until a case is decided to be chickenpox, than to treat a case as chickenpox until deaths occur and then be obliged to call it small pox, as has occured in our state. Especially when the country and cities are so full of cases as now, it is well to be extremely cautious. Fortunately most of the school children were vaccinated recently; so that in case of epidemic they would be expected to have varioloid if anything. It would be far safer if the rest of the community were vaccinated before the disease does make its appearance in our town. It seems like a poor thing to do to wait until some of the family comes down with smallpox to have all the rest of the family vaccinated and with sore arms, perhaps unable to help those who are sick and need help.

—Saturday, June 9, is Delano Fair Day.

—River street merchants are decorating their fronts by paint of different colors.

—Erick Erickson is, we understand, ploughing up his barley and planting sodder corn, on account of the dry weather.

—Be at the primaary election in your precinct to be held between 7 and 9 p. m. on Saturday, June 9, and vote for democratic reform delefiates to the county convention,

—John Kornek, road boss in Independence had a crew of men grading and leveling up the roads in the district last week. It is said that some of them look like race tracks.

—Road graders have been used to good advantage about the country this dry season. Properly managed they do fine work. Charley Sell was seen driving one out of town a few days ago.

—T. M. Shaw sprinkles the streets and keeps the dust down well. The late hot, dry days he has thrown water on the sidewalks, helping to cool the atmosphere a little; a kindness much appreciated.

—We are informed that Mrs Andrew Williams, South of Delano while away from home Decoration Day "entertained Angels" unawares, at her expense, and had the dishes to wash when she got home.

—Leo Topel meet with a painful accident on Wednesday afternoon while working with a team on the road. A log rolled against a fence rail which caught him about the ankle and injur the joint sufficient to lay him up for awhile.

—The Sweedish, Christian Mission held a series of meetings at the Sweedish church in Delano, Tuesday, this weekconducted by Rev. August Bryndleson; other ministers present were A. N. Alnfeldt and Aug. Sgolberg, Minneapolis; A. N. Osterholm, Willmar and John Fossberg, traveling missionary of Delano. A string band under the direction of Ole Oleson, harpist; Emily Johnson, Sophia Nergeberg, Mary Themberg and Ester Bryndleson, of Buffalo. The meetings were well attended and well enjoyed.

—The wedding of Mr. A. F. Johnson and Miss Anna Bockman was celebrated in Buffalo, at high noon, on Tuesday, June 5, 1900, at the residence of the groom's brother and sister. Mr. and Mrs. A Malm Miss Johnson acted as maid of honor, and Mr. John Nashlund was best man; Rev. Bryndelson performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends. The rooms were prettily decorated with American beauty roses and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left the following day for New Paynesville, Minn., where they will make their future home.

The marriage of Miss Carrie Nichols of Waltham, Mass. and Edward W. Carlock of New Paynesville Minn. took place at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. A. L. Mealey, of Delano, at high noon, Thursday, June 7. The decorations were simple but very pretty in green and yellow; the color scheme being carried out in the dining room in decorations in yellow roses and maiden hair ferns. The bride wore white organdie trimmed in lace with flowers. She comes from far off New England and is one of the brightest and best of her daughters. Mr. Carlock is cashier in the New Paynesville bank.

The service was read by Rev. A. F Thompson in the presence of immediate friends and relatives after which all repaired to the dining room where the wedding dinner, most elegant and appetizing was served.

Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carlock, of New Paynesville, Mr. and Mrs. Carlock and Miss Fannie Gibs of Minneapolis, Miss Mabel Young and Mrs. A. F. Thompson, of Delano.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlock will be at home to their friends in New Paynesville after July 1st.

Judge Giddings has been holding a term of court at Buffalo, this week.

A series of meetings will be held at Buffalo, Friday June 15 at 8:00 p. m. over Sunday at the Swedish tabernacle.

Try to be at the Democratic county convention on Thursday, June 14, at Buffalo, if you are a democrat reformer in belief.

Sunday night tramps broke the seal on a box car on the north side of the depot and removed two boxes of shoes, several boxes of crackers and half of a cheese. Tramps are getting very bold and every village on this line of rail road has had its turn but it appears the worse lot has come to us.—Howard Herald.

From the Howard Lake Herald we learn that J. S. Silas and S. F. Meyers, were taken into custody and are now in the hands of constables Eppler and May, awaitiug further proceedings.

Howard Lake has had another excitement. On Tuesday, at about 3 a. m. burglars were seen trying to get into the hardware store of Wilbur Smith, near the depot. Mr. S. with gun in hand sallied out to correl them in the store, one burglar had remained outside in the shaddoow, and called on Mr, Smith to go back into the house and fired, hiting Mr. S. in the region of the hip. Mr. S. returned the fire and was taken into the house by his wife who was present. Fire bells were rung and the people turned out and the trail taken towards Hutchinson. It is claimed two men, "a tall one and a short one" as usual were seen at about 4 a. m. four miles from Howard Lake toward Hutchinson. Telephones were set to work and fire bells at Hutchenson were rung and a small army started out to meet the burglars.

Maple Plain.

We have been looking for showers of blessings for soma time in the way of a good rain. Pastures are drying up, feed for cattle is getting short, and the flow of milk is growing less; growing crops and garden truck is suffering for want of rain. But in reading the good book we find it says there shall be seed time and harvest.

James Personett is now taking the people's census (not senses), it is rather a perplexing job, Moses numbered the people while journing in the wilderness and could tell just how many fighting men he had, so the United States is in keeping with oriental times.

Memorial day was well observed at Maple Plain last Wednesday with appropriate exercises. By decorating soldier's graves at Lewis cemetery. Picnic, dinner and speaking in Coxe's grove. Prof. Dobbins was orator of the day.

On Wednesday afternoon just after the exercises at Coxe's Grove, fire was discovered in the barn in the rear of Hilstrom's Hotel. The barn and out buildings, also a dwelling house belonging to H. F. Fisher, occupied by C. F. Ditty's family were all burned to the ground. There was insurance on the hotel but Fisher carried no insurance. This should remind the people of Maple Plain that they should have a public well, for fire purposes.

Last Thursday night while E. A. Conover was wraped in Morpheus the God of dreams, some sneak thief entered his store by a rear window, but unfortunately for the thief he touched off the alarm, and Conover and his clerk came out armed like Ky. Mountaineers and the fellow took fright and made his escape through the window where he got in. Conover's clerk fired one shot at him, but no trace of blood could be found, so he made well his escape.

Mrs. Dr. E. A. Wright of Colfax, Wis., attended memorial at Maple Plain last Wednesday.

Mrs. Margaret Moor has built a new house on Creamery avenue near the creamery.

Mrs. Julia Stringer, of Minneapolis, also Dr. Peterson, attended memorial at Maple Plain last Wednesday.

It is believed that republican prosperity has reached its upward flight and should the crop prove a failure it will add largely to the hard times that is bound to come upon us. While many people claim we have had prosperity since the Inaguration of Mark Hanna and Billy McKinley, it has been worked too hard. The coffers could not stand the drainage. Too many side shows to patronize. Excursions are daily going somewhere, and this gives money to corporations, and a 100 other things that are needless to the people only to take their money, is on the move every day. People should economize, and save something for a rany day. FARMER.

Montrose Mentionings.

Everybody is wishing for rain. Pastures are all burned up, and cattle are suffering.

J. M. Belden returned home from Princeton Monday evening, where he has been for the past two weeks looking after a creamery.

Mr. Thornquist has moved his family into the Stephens residence, lately vacated by Kendal Clark.

An Ice Cream Social will be given by the ladies of the M. E. Church, next Saturday evening, at the residence of Mr. W. Porter, for the benefit of the pastor.

Miss Laura Thedorson, of Delano, is visiting friends in town.

J. K Clark has moved his family to Carver, Minn., where he has been engaged to teach the coming year.

Mrs. Clara Wright returned home from Watertown, Sunday, where she has been visiting friends.

Tom Loche, a Polander, living two miles south of town was kicked in the head by a horse, Sunday evening, fracturing his skull. Dr. Howkins, of Montrose, and Dr Chilton, of Howard Lake performed an operation on him Monday afternoon, at this writing he seems to be easier, but there is little hope for his recovery.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1, 1900.

The republican bluff at anti trust legislation is being carried to the extent of devoting three days of the time of the House to speaking and voting on the anti trust resolution reported by the votes of the republican members of the House Judicary Committee, and the bill amending the Sherman anti-trust law. The democratic caucus decided to oppose the resolution, unless it was amended so as to strike out the encroachment upon States' rights, and to offer as a substitute the Littlefield bill. If republicans had been sincere in the desire to enact anti-trust legislation, they would not have waited until the closing days of the session, when it is impossible for the legislation to get acted upon by the Senate. It was held back purposely to prevent action by the Senate. The object being to supply stump speakers with arguments to use with anti trust voters, while the big leaders will pat the trust magnates on the back and assure them that the action of the House was for campaign use only and has no chance of going through the Senate. These points have been brought out by the democrats of the House and they will be kept before the people by democratic editors and speakers.

Representative Richardson of Tenn., offered the following resolutions in the House democratic caucus and it was adopted: "Whereas, there is known to be a large and growing surplus in the Treasury, over and above the necessities of the government arising from the taxes levied and collected under the war tax act of 1898: therefore, Resolved, That we favor the reduction of the taxes provided for in said act we do not think that the present session of Congress should adjourn until said taxes shall have been repealed as to certain articles and reduced as to others, until there is a total reduction in the aggregate of at least 50 per centum. We pledge ourselves at all times to support any measure or measures providing for such reduction" Before the campaign is over the republican managers will be sorry that they allowed Congress to adjourn without reducing war taxation.

Orders of court are issued to be obeyed, not ignored. Justice Barnard, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, has impressed that fact upon the mind of Mr. E. G. Siggers by fining him $100 and costs, for contempt of court, in failing to obey an order of the court prohibiting his representing himself in any way as successor to, or being connected in any manner with the patent law firm of C. A. Snow & Co., of Washington, D. C.

Two democrats-Lindsley, of Ky., and Pettus, of Ala.-voted with thirty-eight republicans to kill Senator Teller's resolution of sympathy for the Boers by refering it to the committee on Foreign relations. Included in the 26 Senators who voted against thus killing the resolution were four republicans-Chandler, of N. H.; Hale, of Me; Hoar, of Mass.; and Mason, of Ill.-and three who are classed as silver republicans, populists, or independents-Heitfeld, of Idaho; Pettigrew, of S. Dak., and Teller, of Col.

Hon. Martin Maginnis, one of the claimants to a seat in the Senate, has been granted the privilege of the floor of the Senate. Mr Clark, the other claimant is entitled to that privilege as an ex-Senator.

In slapping public sentiment in the face by reporting against the election of U. S. Senators by direct vote, which was recently endorsed by more than two thirds of the House, the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections sought to let the Senate down easy by accompanying that report with another in favor of the Hoar bill for amending the present law so that after the failure to elect a Senator in six ballots, a plurality vote of a legislature shall elect a Senator. The Hoar bill is merely a compromise. Public sentiment demands the election of Senators by direct vote and the demand will sooner or later, have to be met.

The Washington Post flatly charges Postmaster General Smith with hindering investigation into scandalous charges concerning the administration of the Washington city postoffice. Verily, things are getting warm in adminiatration circles, and more than ice and electric fans are needed to lower the official temperature.

Word has been passed among republican Senators to let everything else go and get the last appropriation bills out of the way in order that adjournment may take place on the 6th inst., as provided by the resolution adopted by the House. The Philippine bill is dead for all time and the Nicaragua Canal bill is dead for this season, and there is to be no reduction of war taxes.

The Senate committee on Relations with Cuba began its investigation of the wholesale stealing over there, under the Bacon resolution, which was forced down the throats of the republicans by the democrats, by calling for information from the departments, War, Navy and Post Office, as to receipts and expenditurers in Cuba under the jurisdiction of each. The democratic members of the committee will see that no whitewashing is done.

The New York World,

Thrice-a-week Edition.

As Good to You as a Daily and You get it at the Price of a Weekly.

It furnishes more at the price than any other newspaper published in America. Its news service covers all the globe and is equaled by that of few dailies. Its reports from the Boer war have not been excelled in thoroughness and promptness, and with the presidential campaign now in progress it will be invaluable. Its political news is absolutly impartial. This fact makes it of especial value to you at this time.

If you want to watch every move of the great political campaign take the Thrice-a-week World. If you want to keep an eye on the Trusts—and they need watching—take the Thrice-a-week World. If you want to know all foreign developements, take the Thrice-a-week World.

The Thrice-a-week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year. We offer this unequaled newspaper and the BUFFALO GAZETTE together one year for $1.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. 32.

Railroading Patents.

A single firm of Patent Lawyers, C. A. Snow & Co., of Washington, D. C., have in the last year procured 1,620 patents for their clients, many of them for rejected inventions. C. A. Snow & Co. have been accused of railroading patents through the Patent Office, but they insist that this locomotion is better than ox carting them for by the latter process the inventor often dies before he gets his patent. 16,

IT is claimed by finances that opening up China to the markets of the world will increase the demand for silver, and tend to put the white metal on a par with the yellow.

THE war in the east seems to be extending. Quite a formidable fleet of U. S. boats are billed for Chinese waters. It would seem as if Uncle Sam had enough to attend to in America without mixing up with the European powers in the orient.

There is one more republic that John Bull would like to wipe out, if he knew how to go about it—the United States of America—St. Cloud Times.

Somehow the people have neglected to welcome Gen. Otis as a conquering hero: evidently they are not proud of his Philipine record.—St. Cloud Times.

Rockford.

Mr. W. R Gillis, of Anoka, has been at work here, during the past week, surveyand village and setting sub-tantial posts at the corners of all blocks in the village according to the original surveying plot by Gorham P. Gould and B F. Miller. Mr. Gillis is the R. R Surveyor and assisted in locating and surveying the R. R both East and West during two or three years and understands the business he says that he has resurveyed and corrected and made new survey in twenty cities and villages during the past thirty years and has never found one place where everything, streets, grounds, bridges, culverts and buildings, were so nearly correct and in the right place according to the recorded plot of the village So the chronic kickers who have kept the village in a turmoil during the past two years are whitewashed, euchered, played out and have nothing to stand on, the citizens who have stuck by the original Gould survey for 44 years ought to be satisfied and are in some cases more than satisfied, as the matter is settled for all time; A. A. Farnham is painting the Advent church this week, S Thompson's meat market was painted last week, and Charles Gould had all of his buildings painted. The work of improvement goes on the Iron Bridge will be painted next week.

D. R Thompson is putting in concrete walks about his residence this week others will follow; Charley Gould is the pioneer in this work in the village.

On Monday afternoon a force of men and teams went into Burt's Grove and made many improvements and a large clearing out for the Fourth of July. The finance committee for the 4th have something over 100 dollars on hand for expenses. The Hanover Band will furnish music at a cost of $91 00 and expenses paid at Rockford.

The Rockford creamery took in about 13000 lbs of milk on Monday and turned out 700 lbs of butter. The frequent showers makes all crops look better than they did a week ago, but, with the most favorable weather there will not be more than half a crop, and with wheat and rye much loss.

Quite a number of Old Settlers, will go to Buffalo on Saturday the 16th to take part in the annual reunion.

The right to keep restaurant and other refreshment stand, and manage games and ammusement at the grove on the Fourth was sold at auction on Monday evening to O. C. Robert for $45. Mr. D. B. Johnson of Minneapolis, will be the Orator on the Fourth.

Rev. B. Q. Kelly, formerly of Rockford has been visiting his daughters' families, Messers Fuller, Ewing and Tierney, during the past two weeks, started for his present home at Madelia this Wednesday morning with his wife.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8, 1900.

The democrats could not make the republican majority in Congress remain in session and transact the business which they were elected to transact; but they could, and did, thoroughly expose the hypocrisy of the republican treatement of such important matters as the Nicaragua Canal bill, the trust question and the reduction of war taxes before the reduction of war taxes before adjournment, and they did more. In the debate on the armor plate clause of the navy appropriation bill, the democratic Senators made their fight on the armor trusts so hot that Senators Hanna and Elkins actually championed that trust on the floor of the Senate, thus furnishing conclusive proof that the administration and the republicans in Congress were favorable to trusts in general, and to that trust especially. Instead of openly voting to pay the armor trust the price it demands for armor plate, the republican majority "whipped the devil around the stump" by authorising the Secretary of the Navy to purchase the armor that will be needed during the coming fiscal year, if he can do so at what he considers a "reasonable" price; otherwise to establish a government armor plant. It is dollars to broomstraws that the Secretary of the Navy will consider the trust price for armor "reasonable" and that he will not use the authority confered upon him, to establish a government plant and break the grasping monopoly. If Boss Hanna had not been certain of that he would not have allowed the authority to be given him. Anyway, it was cowardly for the majority in Congress to shift the responsibility for favoring this trust from themselves to Secretary Long.

A fight between the Coast Survey, a civil bureau, and the Hydrographic bureau of the Navy Department, over an appropriation in the Navy bill lengthened the session one day.

Senator Pettigrew stirred up the republicans by delving into the political history. He charged, on the authority of Mr. Cramp himself, that Mr. Cramp contributed $400,000 to the republican campaign fund of 1892, with the express understanding that he was to be repaid with profitable contracts to build ships. When Senator Carter, who was chairman of the Republican National Committee which handled the campaign funds of that year, denied that any such agreement had been made with Mr Cramp mind you, not that Mr. Cramp had contributed the money—Mr. Pettigrew stated that he had a conversation with Senator Carter, repeating to him what Mr. Cramp had said, and that Carter had replied laughingly, "I guess, we did hit the old man pretty hard." Mr. Pettigrew also gave Boss Hanna a few swipes that even his thick hide could not keep from hurting, reading extracts from the memorial presented to the Senate charging Hanna with having bribed his way into the Senate, dweling with emphasis upon the charge that Representive Dick, now Secretary of the Republican National Committee, and Major Rathbone, recently anspended as director of bribery. Mr. Pettigrew added as his own comment: "We see now in what school this man Rathbone was educated." Mr. Hanna's reply consisted largely of calling Mr. Petigrew a traitor to the republican party, which was not very convincing.

Representative Cummings, of N. Y., roused the democrats denying that he had ever said that he favored anti-trust Constitutuional amendment or believed one to be necessary, unless the Supreme Court should hold that Congressional legislation against trust was unconstitutional, and adding that the republican party has shown in this Congress that it does not wish to destroy trusts, by supporting a proposition to give the National Banks control of the currency, and thus create a paper money trust.

The Senate by a vote of 43 to 23 carried out the republican programme of hanging up the anti-trust bill passed by the House, by referring to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Senate by vote of 33 to 33 rejected the nomination of ex Congressman Bynum, of Ind., to be Gen. Appraiser at the port of New York, an $8,000 position, which the law says shall be filled by a democrat, and which was given to Mr. Bynum as a reward for work done for Mr. McKinley in '96. Mr. Bynum called himself a gold democrat, but the democrat Senators contended that he was not a democrat and there were enough republicans who agreed with them to defeat the nomination.

Senator Pettigrew said of the two labor bills passed by the House recently, and the language is equally applicable to the bill ordered favorably reported by the House Judicary Committee, limiting the word "conspiracy" and the use of restraining orders and injunctions in labor troubles: "Were these bills passed by the other House with the intention that they should become laws? Oh, no, Mr. President, they seem to have been passed by the other House for the purpose of holding them over labor during the coming summer, with the promise that their political course and conduct shall affect the legislation on these subjects next winter.

The Senate Committee on the Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, of which Senator Foraker is Chairman, was provided with a free trip to Porto Rico, at public expense, by a resolution adopted by the senate. The alleged purpose of the junket is to investigate existing conditions.

Maple Plain.

Can't say we are much on the improve; socially, religiousls or politically. We are just keeping in touch with the outside world, and that's all. Our crop prospects at this writing are not very flattering, yet we have hope. Last Saturday afternoon about 7 o'clock we had a nice gentle shower accompanied by heavy thunder and sharp lightning. It freshened things up a little and will help out some but we are in need of much more. The pastures are drying up for want of rain. Garden truck with the farmers will be short.

James Peterson, a Minneapolis attorney, was in our town one day last week settling up the Jacob Bryant case.

J. Barrett, of our town, is building a new house on his farm, on the Minneapolis and Watertown road.

Mrs. H. F. Fisher is almost laid up with a sprained wrist.

The best news we have heard of late is that Congress has adjourned. The country can dispense with their service and loose nothing. No doubt they are anxious to get home so as to prepare for the coming campaign.

The campaign political sheets of administration fame are beginning to blow their horns, and soon the assembly will be called at Philadelphia to again put in nomination Bill McKinley and Marcus Alonzo Hanna. Mark Hanna is the modern Nebuchadnezzar. This long named king of ancient times once made an image of gold, giant in size, and of great stature, and the king sent out an edict that at the toot of the horn all the people were to fall down and worship this golden image. Most of them did, but three or four refused and they were cast into the lion's den. Now Mark Hanna and company have been making a golden image and they have set it up all over the country for the people to worship, but some have refused to bow the knee to Baal. Just what the outcome will be is hard to tell, but we have a few who will stand by their honest convictions.

This king Nebuchadnezzar, was a very wicked king, and he did not last long. So I fear that coal and gold will be the ruin of Marcus Alonzo. The political foragers will now soon be on the stump seeking whom they may devour. It is hoped that the people will inform themselves in regard to politics and the condition of the country and not depend upon some dude of a politician for an opinion who, if the polish were taken off, there would not be so much as the hide left.

The United States senate, a few days before adjournment, passed a bill appropriating $1,000,000 to arm and equip the state militia. What does this mean is all of our public domain to be turned into a parade ground and every cross a military post? Is any body expecting trouble? We are building large vessels for our navy, and increasing our army by enlistment, for what? To carry on a war of subjugation and conquest. The Filipinos have inagurated a guerilla warfare and can keep it up for 100 years, and all this talk about the Philippine war being over is crooked talk. Some say the democrats are to blame for the continuation of this war. That's another. If there had been fewer lies and more truth told it is very doubtful if there had been any war. Mark Hanna and his like wanted a little more gold to put a cupola on the image.

Does the farmer and the poor man who works by the day for a living think that the single gold standard means a golden cupola on their heads, If they do they will find themselves left, and that without a farthing. Fellows like Mark Hanna may have a brain like a Jackass, only for one thing and they use it for only one purpose, to benefit themselves. God did not make this earth and the fullness thereof for just a few, but for all mankind.

Now Abe Lincoln said but a short time before his death, what he feared would come to pass in this country, and it is coming true. "Capital would be centralized in this country; trusts and combinations would be formed, etc." Has this not come to pass? Some say you are a chronic kicker. No,—this country belongs to the people, and not to trusts and corporations, and the people have an inherent right in the land of their birth and adoption.

FARMER.

RAIN.

There is nothing that sounds better,
When I lie in bed at night,
Than to hear the rain a-pelting
When I know the farm is right;
Than to hear the lukewarm splashes
That would fairly sprout a stone,
And I get up in the morning
Just to see how things have grown.

I don't go much for thunderstorms,
They're apt to lodge the grain,
My taste is for the steady,
Pouring, downright, all-day rain
That spoils the small potatoes,
Because it makes them grow
Till they nudge and say: "Roll over"
And bulge out of the row.

I own I like to idle
When I do it for a shower
That earns more in a second
Than I can in an hour;
For it's good to sit and listen
To the seeds a-pushing through
And besides, there's always chorine
For the hired man to do.

Jobson's Spring Tonic

LAST spring, when the crocuses and hyacinths were beginning to pop, Mr. Jobson harked back to the days of his youth in proposing a method of treating Mrs. Jobson's annual attack of spring fever, which caused her to feel languid, heavy and depressed.

"It's the state of your blood that causes that 'dopy' feeling," said Mr. Jobson. "Your blood's too thick. What you want is something to thin your blood. 'Member how the mothers of young ones 20 or 30 years ago used to make the shavers take a tablespoonful of sulphur and molasses for their blood every morning before breakfast as regularly as the spring came 'round?"

"Yes, I remember," said Mrs. Jobson, with a shudder.

"Well, that's what you want—sulphur and molasses," said Mr. Jobson, in his usual cock-sure manner. "I tell you what, those old-fashioned remedies were all right; and if the know-it-all folks of the present generation would only revert to what they call the 'old-fashioned' methods of their fathers and mothers in the prevention and treatment of disease there'd be a blamed sight less sickness in the world, and a lot o' these doctor people would be driving drays for a living. What you want, Mrs. Jobson, what you absolutely require, and what I'm going to see that you take for this lassitude, attributable to over-thick blood, is sulphur and molasses, in tablespoonful doses, every morning before breakfast for a month or so. When you get through with that treatment you won't recognize yourself."

"That is probably true; I'll be so covered with boils," said Mrs. Jobson.

"Boils!" exclaimed Mr. Jobson. "Well, what better luck could you possibly have, I beg to inquire, than to get a lot of boils—the more the better? If the sulphur and molasses treatment caused the appearance of the boils, wouldn't that be a dead-certain indication that you were in need of the treatment? Boils, Mrs. Jobson? Don't you know that every boil we have is worth a crisp, new ten-dollar note; and cheap at the price? Boils? You've heard that old adage about their being 'better out than in?' I know what's good for you, Mrs. Jobson, and I don't know how you'd possibly make out if I didn't happen to be constantly on the lookout in caring for your health. I'll get a couple of pounds of sulphur on my way up from the office this afternoon, and during the day you can get a big jug of molasses—none o' these fancy sirup concoctions, remember, but regular old-time molasses—and we'll mix the medicine up to-night, and you can begin taking it to-morrow morning."

"Why aren't you going to take it, too?" inquired Mrs. Jobson, in a tone of surprise.

"Me take it?" said Mr. Jobson. "What for? What do I want with it? I'm feeling as skittish as a yearling colt just turned loose in a field of red clover. I don't need any spring medicine. If I did I'd take sulphur and molasses three times a day and enjoy it. Fact is, I feel rather sore over the fact that I don't need it. I like it. When I was a boy I used to get up early on spring mornings, so's to be the first in line when my mother was ready to dish us youngsters out our matutinal doses of sulphur and molasses. I've got the right thing, Mrs. Jobson, and you'll come to me and thank me for suggesting it to you about a month from now, when you'll be feeling so good that you'll want to go out on the front sidewalk and jump the skipping rope with the little girls and play jacks and bean bag with 'em."

Notwithstanding all of which Mrs. Jobson didn't look particularly cheerful over the sulphur and molasses prospect. She well remembered how, as a little girl, she had often been tempted to run away from home and become a great opera singer or something because her old-fashioned mother mercilessly forced her and her brothers and sisters to gulp down every morning during the first month or so of spring a heaping tablespoonful of the sticky, gritty, sour-tasting sulphur and molasses concoction. She recalled how it had always put her teeth on edge and the aftermath of boils.

But when Mr. Jobson brought home a big package of sulphur that afternoon she had the jug of molasses ready and she lodged no protest. Mr. Jobson mixed the mess himself in a big crockery pitcher. He saw to it that she swallowed a big tablespoonful of the awful stuff the next morning before breakfast and every morning thereafter at the same hour for a couple of weeks. He only permitted the treatment to cease when a large and very painful boil appeared on Mrs. Jobson's neck.

"Now that the medicine's had its effect," said Mr. Jobson, with a triumphant expression, when she told him about the boil, "you can drop the treatment. It's just as I told you. The appearance of the boil clearly indicates that you needed sulphur and molasses the worst way, and if you were able to view the matter from a proper standpoint you wouldn't take a new, crisp ten-dollar bill for that boil, or twice the amount, for that matter."

The boil caused Mrs. Jobson great misery, and she had finally to call in a physician to attend to it.

A few weeks ago Mr. Jobson began to complain to Mrs. Jobson of feeling "dopy" and "all gone" and "dog tired" and as having that "weary, not-fit-to-live" feeling.

"I know what you want," said Mrs. Jobson, with a twinkle in her eye. "It's sulphur and molasses."

"Who, me?" said Mr. Jobson, for the moment forgetting his advocacy of that sovereign remedy last year. "Not much do I. I wouldn't take a dose of that derned stuff—er—well, it's all right, of course"—Mr. Jobson had suddenly remembered the stand he had taken for sulphur and molasses the preceding spring—"but it isn't what I need. My blood's all right. I'm overworked, that's all, slaving and toiling to keep this establishment together. Anyhow, sulphur and molasses is not adapted to the needs of men. It's a woman's remedy. Nope, I guess I'll drop by the doctor this evening on the way up and have him look me over.

Mr. Jobson did call upon his doctor, who told him that he was all right, and only suffering from a mild attack of laziness, due to the balmy spring zephyrs.

Last Sunday morning Mr. Jobson began to feel of a red lump on the back of his neck. He didn't say anything about it, but he kept feeling of it all day. He got home from the office early on Monday afternoon, and he couldn't move his head a quarter of an inch to one side or the other.

"Why, what on earth is the matter?" said Mrs. Jobson, alarmed, when he entered the house with a long face and a heavy tread.

"Oh, nothing," said Mr. Jobson, "except that I've got a triple-screw, quadruple-expansion carbuncle or tumor on the back of my neck—that's all."

"Let me see," said Mrs. Jobson, and she looked at the back of his neck.

"Why, it's only a little, ordinary boil," she said.

"Is, hey!" growled Mr. Jobson. "Well, if it's only a little, ordinary boil it's doing the thumpingest business for a little, ordinary boil that you ever heard of!"

"WHY, IT'S ONLY A LITTLE ORDINARY BOIL."

"Why, it's not half as big as the one I had last year," said Mrs. Jobson.

"Think so?" growled Mr. Jobson. "Perhaps it isn't big enough to suit you? Perhaps you'd like to have it as big as a coffee cup!

"But," said Mrs. Jobson, unable to keep the twinkle out of her eye, "boils are such good things, you know! Aren't they 'better out than in?' Now, if you were able to view the matter from a proper standpoint, you wouldn't take a new, crisp ten-dollar note for that boil, and—"

Mr. Jobson turned his whole body around so that he could gaze at Mrs. Jobson sternly.

"Now, I know I was right in my surmise," said he, hoarsely. "I hesitated before permitting myself to believe it, but the manifest delight with which you view my suffering compels me to the belief that you are responsible for my misery. It is difficult to conceive, Mrs. Jobson, that you could be guilty of so mean a revenge, but I haven't a particle of doubt in life that you've been feeding me a double tablespoonful of sulphur and molasses in my coffee every morning for the past three weeks."—Washington Star.

The Deacon's Remains.

My companion pointed with his whip across the fields to a house.

"Deacon Andrews lives there," said he. "The deacon's wife got pretty near scared to death last fall. She thought he'd been killed. I'll tell you how it was. He started to drive into the village one day and got down a few houses along the road and found one of the peighbors killing his hog.

"What are ye going to do with the insides?" the deacon asked.

"'Nothin' much,' said the neighbor.

"'Give 'em to me, will ye?'

"'Jest as soon ye'd have 'em as not.'

"'I'll call for 'em when I come back,' said the deacon.

"'Ye needn't bother to do that,' answered the neighbor. 'I'll send the man right up with 'em to your house. He can go jest as well as not.'

"So the man dumped the whole aggregation into his big oilcloth apron and started for the deacon's house. He kicked at the door with his foot, holding his apron hunched up before him. The deacon's wife came to the door.

"'Here's the deacon's—' he commenced, and as he talked he lowered the apron so that she could look at its contents.

"She let one howl. 'I allus said that horse would get away and smash him up'—then she fainted on the kitchen floor."—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

Democracy.

Webster defines democracy:

1. Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and directly exercised by the people.

2. Government by popular representation; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but is indirectly exercised through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed; a constitutional representative government; a republic.

3. Collectively the people, regarded as the source of government.

4. The principles and policy of the Democratic party, so called (U. S.).

Are you a democrat? If not, why not?

A balloon house is being built at Fort Myer, near Washington, and extensive experiments are to be made by the government looking toward the use of the balloon in warfare.

According to a decision of the Kentucky court of appeals, if one annoys a dog while the animal is eating, and gets bitten as a consequence, the victim is guilty of contributory negligence and cannot recover damages.

Some notion of the coming deluge of books on the South African war may be had from the fact that an American publisher now in London was within a week of his arrival offered the American rights in 25 war books.

According to Mr. Wu Tung Fang, the Chinese minister, the proper name of the organization referred to as "Boxers" is Yee Ho Chuan, which, in the vocabulary of the Middle Kingdom, means "righteousness, harmony and fists."

A Providence paper remarks that a French-Canadian Rhode Islander awoke the other morning to find that he was the father of his forty-first child. It seems queer that a man with that prospect in view would care to wake up at all.

Kansas is ready to accept almost any kind of a story about the freaks of cyclones, but there is a deep and dangerous murmur arising from all parts of the state over that account of a wind in Hodgeman county which blew the lower story out of a barn, leaving the upper story with ten tons of hay suspended in the atmosphere.

A scientific paper calls attention to the fact that despite the general knowledge of the deadly power of electric currents and their well-known use in executing criminals, there is no record of a deliberate suicide by this means. The idea of being jerked off of the earth in the fraction of a second is not pleasant even to one who has decided that life is a failure.

A dispatch from Montgomery, Ala., tells of the bodies of 12 Italian laborers being found dead in the woods near there. They were part of a gang of laborers employed in building a new railroad, and were killed by eating poisoned meat. The cook in the contractors' camp noticed that things were being stolen from his kitchen, so he poisoned some meat and left it where it could be easily reached. The Italians ate the meat, and not one of them lived to tell the tale.

Fifty-four hundred pure-blooded American Indians are still living within the limits of the state of New York. They occupy reservations within the state amounting in all to 86,000 acres of land. Most of the Indians dress like white men and a majority of them are cultivating large and profitable farms. Four of the reservations are governed by chiefs in the regular Indian fashion, but the other two have a government modeled closely after that of the United States.

Postal cards are now being used for the purpose of foretelling the weather. They are manufactured in Italy, and are known as barometric postal cards. On the back of each is a small figure holding an umbrella. When the weather is going to be fine the umbrella is blue, when the outlook is doubtful it is violet, and when there is going to be rain it is rose colored. These changes of color are produced by means of cobalt, which an ingenious Italian inventor has thought well to utilize for this purpose.

Iconoclasts are continuing their work, the latest vandal in the field of history asserting that Phil Sheridan's famous ride had nothing to do with the victory at Winchester—that the union troops had turned the tide of battle and the confederates were in retreat when the general arrived. It will be difficult to destroy the confidence of the American schoolboy in Sheridan's ride, despite the iconoclast's frantic efforts, nor will the story of that day be changed as long as men live who fought with "Little Phil" and were in the battles of the Shenandoah.

The significant feature of the large immigration of farmers in the older states to the wheat regions of Minnesota and North Dakota is that the large estates and acreage of farms, of which so much was said a few years ago, have been cut up and sold to actual farmers in tracts of 320 acres. Some of these large farms contained from 15,000 to 20,000 acres. The inference is that the smaller scale of farming brings the most economic results. With the late machinery, farming requires the careful watching and personal supervision of the owner.

Certain foreign papers are attacking the American exhibit of corn foods at the Paris exposition on the ground that "maize," as they call it, is unhealthy. It was discovered in Italy that those who have used corn as food contracted a loathsome disease. It turns out on investigation that the corn which produced such dire results in Italy was sent thither for seed and had been stored where it became damp and moldy, unfit either for seed or food. Poor Italy has thousands of half-nourished people to whom corn food would be a godsend.

STORMS CAUSE RUIN.

Great Damage by Wind and Rain at Points in Indiana and Kansas.

Lafayette, Ind., June 8.—A fearful storm of wind and rain struck this vicinity Thursday, lasting for two hours. The damage to streets will amount to several thousand dollars. The Wabash, Big Four and Lake Erie roads suffered great damage west and south of the city by washouts of track, bridges and culverts. It is estimated the loss to the above roads will reach $10,000 or $15,000. South of the city the damage to farms is heavy, growing crops being literally driven into the ground, while thousands of acres are covered with water. No estimate of the loss in the county can be given at this hour.

Galena, Kan., June 8.—The Crown Point milling plant in Empire, was badly damaged by wind and lightning. Many elevators and smokestacks of crushing mills were blown down. The storm also struck Miami, I. T., 20 miles southwest, wrecking a livery stable. Thomas Skinner was blown against a tree with such force as to cause death within a short time.

Wichita, Kan., June 8.—The westbound St. Louis & San Francisco passenger train from St. Louis was wrecked about three o'clock Thursday morning two miles west of Oswego by a wind storm. The entire train was twisted loose from the engine and lifted from the track. Two express cars full of fruit were thrown about 20 feet and dropped on one side. Two tramps riding on the trucks were injured. The Pullman chair cars were thrown across the track.

WOMEN IN CONVENTION.

Meeting of Federation of Women's Clubs at Milwaukee—Mrs. Lowe Reelected President.

Milwaukee, June 8.—After one of the most spirited sessions ever held by the General Federation of Women's clubs the long discussed question of reorganization was defeated Thursday by a vote of 498 to 298. So lively was the discussion that at times there were a score of women on the floor demanding recognition.

After the reorganization session Mrs. Ellen Henrotin, of Chicago, the honorary president of the general federation, appeared for the first time before the convention to present a memorial to Mrs. Edward Longstreth. She was given an ovation, Mrs. Lowe herself leading with the Chautauqua salute. Then came the industrial session with Mrs. Corinne S. Brown, of Chicago, as chairman. The session was followed by a series of 11 elaborate receptions in as many Milwaukee homes.

Milwaukee, June 9.—Friday's session of the club women's convention was marked by the election of officers. The ticket, as made out by the nominating committee, went through with little contest, the result being as follows: President, Mrs. Rebecca Lowe, of Georgia; first vice president, Mrs. Charles Dennison, of New York; second vice president, Miss Margaret J. Evans, of Minnesota; recording secretary, Mrs. Emma Fox, of Michigan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Kendrick, of Pennsylvania; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Van Vechten, of Iowa; auditor, Mrs. George H. Noyes, of Wisconsin.

TOWN SUFFERS BY FIRE.

One Hundred and Twenty-Five Buildings in Village of Virginia, Minn., Burned—Loss, $500,000.

Duluth, Minn., June 8.—The entire business and most of the residence section of the town of Virginia, on the Mesaba iron range, was wiped out of existence Thursday about the noon hour, and it only took 60 minutes to do it. In that time fully 125 buildings were reduced to ashes. The flames broke out at the Moon & Kerr mill, on the shore of Silver lake, southwest of the town. The plant consists of a number of large buildings, beside the mill, and it was among these that the fire started. The main business section of the city is about five blocks from the mill, and over this intervening territory the flames spread fiercely, carried directly to the business buildings by the fierce southwest wind that was blowing. Within one hour it had carried everything between the mill and the railroad station, eight blocks away.

There is not a business house, hotel or store standing in Virginia. The residence portion of the town was only partially burned. The schoolhouse is untouched, as are also most of the churches. The loss is estimated at least $500,000.

Killed by an Explosion.

Glouster, O., June 9.—Two hundred miners were imprisoned at seven o'clock a. m. Friday by an explosion of gas in mine No. 2, and as many more were about to enter the mine for work. It was thought at first that the loss of life would be very large, but the work of the rescuers was carried on so energetically and successfully that all were rescued and saved by Friday night, except three. Evan Joseph, John McClelland and Aaron Swanson were killed, and their bodies have not been recovered, as the mine is still on fire.

Americans Ambushed.

Manila, June 8.—Capt. Frank F. Crenshaw with 40 men of the Twenty-eighth infantry, while scouting near Taal, was led into an ambush by a guide. Capt. Crenshaw was badly wounded in the head and one private was wounded. The ambushers were scattered, leaving ten men dead and three wounded on the field.

Capt. Flint, while scouting five miles east of Biacnabato, Bulacan province, had a slight brush with the enemy. Flint and two privates were wounded.

Temperance Congress Opens.

London, June 12.—The temperance congress was opened under the presidency of Mr. Thomas Wallace Russell, M. P. Delegates from all parts of the world were present. J. L. Bailey, of Philadelphia, was elected one of the vice presidents. He read a paper on "The United States and South America," by Rev. J. B. Dunn.

College Gymnasium Burned.

Champaign, Ill., June 11.—Fire destroyed the men's gymnasium and wood working shop at the University of Illinois. The building was the first erected on the college campus and had long been a landmark. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is estimated at $10,000

A DREADFUL CRIME.

Hired Man Slays Five Members of a Family and Wounds Three Others, One Fatally.

Moosemin, Assiniboia, June 12.—A sheriff's posse which had returned here from Welwyn, a village 12 miles to the north, brings details of the slaughtering of Postmaster Alex McArthur and four other members of his family and the fatal wounding of another, also the serious wounding of two others, by John Morrison, McArthur's hired man.

DEAD—Alex McArthur, father; Mrs. Alex McArthur, mother; Dempsey McArthur, aged 12; Charles McArthur, aged eight; Russell McArthur, aged four.

WOUNDED—Mamie McArthur, aged six; Henry McArthur, aged two; Baby McArthur, aged three weeks, fatally.

Miss McArthur, who was spared by the murderer, is the only one able to give anything resembling a coherent account of the tragedy. She says that Morrison came to her room, and, awakening her from her sleep, said that he had killed all the family but little Russell and herself, and that he would kill Russell, but spare her. He then grasped Russell, who was in bed with her, and butchered him with an ax. Morrison then rushed from the house, saying that he was going to shoot himself. The girl, frenzied by the horrible sight of the murder of her little brother, staggered into the other rooms of the house to find that Morrison had killed four other members of the family with the ax. Three others were wounded and left for dead.

With some difficulty she reached a neighbor's house and told the story. Men turned out and set out on the trail of the murderer. He was found during the evening bleeding from a wound in the chest, which he said he had inflicted with a gun after leaving the McArthur house.

There appears to be an utter absence of motive for the act of Morrison, who was considered a quiet, well-behaved fellow. He is 27 years old and was born in Glasgow, and came to this country about eight years ago. The only logical theory is a temporary attack of murderous insanity. He will probably recover from his wound.

A SEVERE DEFEAT.

Engagement in Which Boers Kill, Wound or Capture All But Six of a British Battalion.

London, June 12.—Lieut. Gen. Sir Frederick Forestier-Walker, in command of the lines of communication in South Africa, reports that in the disaster to the British troops, June 7, at Roodeval, where the Boers cut Lord Roberts' line of communications, the Fourth battalion of the Derbyshire regiment were all killed, wounded or made prisoners, except six enlisted men. Two officers and 15 men were killed and five officers and 72 men were wounded, many of them severely.

The Boers returned the wounded to the British. The officers killed were Lieut. Col. Baird-Douglas and Lieut. Hawley.

A dispatch from Gen. Forestier-Walker says Gen. Methuen was fighting within ten miles of Heilbron June 6, as follows:

"Cape Town, June 10.—Kelly-Kenny reports from Bloemfontein this morning that Methuen, with the greater part of his division, was fighting early in the morning of June 8, ten miles south of Heilbron, where Colville was reported to be with the Highland brigade. Methuen left Lindley June 5, with ample supplies for himself and Colville, leaving Paget to hold Lindley with a sufficient force and supplies.

"Kelly-Kenny has ordered Knox to press in the enemy's outpost, believing the enemy's strength to be exaggerated.

"All is quiet and there is no anxiety as regards the district to the south. Communications north of Kroonstad have been cut since June 6."

London, June 12.—A Reuter dispatch from Maseru says: Fifteen hundred Boers surrendered to Gen. Brabant today in the Ficksburg district.

An official Boer telegram asserts that the British have been defeated with considerable loss at Donkerspoort, in the southern extremity of the Free State or Orange River Colony, ten miles from Norval's Pont. It was thought that this district had been cleared of Boers and rebels long ago. The Boers still cling to Laing's nek; but Gen. Buller's forces are still working far around in that direction.

Van Wyck Under Fire.

New York, June 11.—Mayor Van Wyck Saturday, in sworn testimony before Justice Gaynor, of the supreme court of Brooklyn, confessed, under examination by lawyers in the proceedings begun under the "anti-Tweed" provision of the charter, that he now owns 4,200 shares of the stock of the American Ice company, known as the ice trust, and that a large amount of the stock was still unpaid for. He declared he had been advised to buy ice stock by C. W. Morse, president of the company, and his intimate friend John F. Carroll, deputy leader of Tammany Hall. When Messrs. Morse and Carroll were put on the stand later they flatly contradicted this statement, saying they had never advised the mayor. He admitted that he had been receiving ten per cent. dividends on his 4,200 shares of stock, although he still owes $150,000 for them.

Ex-Governor Kills a Negro.

Montgomery, Ala., June 11.—Ex-Gov. W. C. Oates shot and killed a negro on his premises in this city Saturday after the man had killed his colored cook in her room in the servants' quarters. It was afterwards learned that the negro man's name was Ed Parker, a drayman, who, it is said, has killed a man before. There will be no charges made against Gov. Oates, as he was entirely justifiable in what he did.

Crops Destroyed.

Guthrie, O. T., June 9.—A terrific wind, hail and electrical storm visited this section Friday morning. Thousands of acres of wheat were ruined by hail and wind, much corn and cotton riddled and many orchards stripped of all fruit. In one township northwest of here many farmers lost all their crops, and the damage will aggregate many thousands of dollars.

Murdered at a Picnic.

Springfield, O., June 11.—John Beck, of this city, while with a picnic party at Clifton, this county, was murdered by Robert Mendenhal, a farmer, who became incensed over the upsetting of a crock of cream by the picnickers.

FIRE ON STRIKERS.

Four Are Killed in an Encounter with the Sheriff's Posse—List of the Victims.

St. Louis, June 11.—Sunday was one of the most eventful and bloody since the great strike on the St. Louis transit began more than a month ago. There were numerous encounters between strikers and other riotous individuals and the constituted authorities, resulting in four deaths and the wounding of five or more persons, mostly strikers. One of the latter will die. The dead are:

C. Edward Thomas, striking conductor on the Choteau avenue line, shot in breast by a deputy sheriff, died on his way to the hospital.

George Rine, striking motorman on Delmar avenue line, shot in abdomen by a deputy sheriff, died at city hospital.

Fred Boehm, aged citizen, shot and instantly killed while standing in his front yard, by a deputy sheriff.

Ed. Burkhart, striking conductor on Delmar avenue line, shot in the head, lived until nearly midnight.

Wounded—Oscar Marvin, conductor on the Lee avenue line, shot in right hand and arm; serious.

August Smith, shot in right arm and breast; not serious.

Charles Ludwig, shot in hand; not serious.

The most serious trouble broke out between six and seven o'clock in front of the six-story store building on Washington avenue, between Broadway and Sixth streets, occupied by the sheriff's posse comitatus as a barracks and headquarters. Several hundred striking street car men had gone to East St. Louis earlier in the day to attend a picnic given for their benefit at Wolff's grove. Toward evening they began returning home singly, in groups of two or three, and others in companies of a hundred or more. No serious trouble occurred until one of these companies, composed of nearly 150 street car men in uniform and headed by a drum corps, came west on Washington avenue.

Just as they were passing the barracks, a car of the Park avenue division was going west. A number of the men broke from the line and rushed for the car with the intention, it is said, of boarding it and taking a ride. Another statement was made that it was the intention of the strikers to assault the motorman and conductor whose car was without the usual police guard. However that may be, the trouble started here. A brick was thrown through the car window and a shot was fired by somebody not known.

At the first intimation of trouble members of the sheriff's posse swarmed from the building and surrounded the crowd of strikers about the car, calling upon them to disperse. Other shots were fired and then some of the deputies turned loose their repeating shotguns, loaded with buckshot. As far as can be learned only four of the men in the strikers' ranks were hit. Not a deputy was wounded even.

ORDERED TO CHINA.

Force of 100 Marines Sent from Manila to Reenforce Admiral Kempff.

Washington, June 12.—The navy department has received the following cablegram from Admiral Kempff:

"Tong Ku, June 11—Secretary of Navy: In case all communication with Peking is cut will not be able to go alone; if other nations go will join to relieve Americans, pending instructions. Situation serious. Battalion of marines from Manila has been urgently requested. Answer.

"KEMPFF."

Upon receipt of the above Secretary Long sent the following cablegram to Admiral Remey at Manila:

"Navy Department, June 11.—Remey, Manila: Send by Solace immediately with all dispatch to Kempff 100 marines, arranging if practicable that after landing Solace shall continue homeward voyage, as previously ordered.

"LONG."

Tien-Tsin, June 12.—The captain in charge of the British defenses here commandeered a third special train yesterday and a fourth to-day for the transport of 213 Russians and two guns and 62 French marines, with stores and one gun for the British. The international forces are near Lang-Fong, 40 miles from Peking, but it is doubtful if they reach the capital before to-day.

Washington, June 12.—The Chinese crisis continues to be an absorbing topic at the foreign embassies and legations in Washington, but the prevailing sentiment is that it will be confined to mob outbreaks, and will not eventuate in a territorial dismemberment involving the various powers.

London, June 11.—The Peking correspondent of the Times, telegraphing Sunday, says: The American mission buildings at Tung-Chau, 12 miles from Peking, which were abandoned by the missionaries, have been looted and burned by the Chinese soldiery who were sent to protect them. Within three days 75 native Christians, well-known men, who had been trained for years by American missionaries, have been massacred near Tung-Chau. Many of them were burned alive.

BETTER DAY COMING.

All Signs Point to Another Period of Great Activity in Commercial Lines.

New York, June 9.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "The adjournment of congress after a successful session, the progress toward peace in South Africa, and the rapid adjustment of prices here to a more natural level all tend to bring nearer the day of greater activity. But that progress has not been rapid, and the yielding of prices affects many as a reaction, cutting off part of the profits supposed to have been secured. The impression grows, also, that no extensive changes in business are now probable until after the presidential election, and the possibility of trouble in China has at least as definite an influence on American affairs as any change in South Africa. The unsettled condition of labor controversies, moreover, operates strongly for the time to limit expansion of domestic business. Yet the volume of business is so large that a few months of waiting could not excite any apprehension. Failures for the week have been 206 in the United States, against 159 last year, and 19 in Canada, against 10 last year."

Both Drowned.

Louisville, Ky., June 12.—Miss Lily McAtee and Sherman Morris, of Louisville, each 17 years old, were drowned in the Ohio river Monday, at Fern Grove, 15 miles above this city. They were attending a big picnic and with another couple took a boat ride. While the couples were trying to exchange seats in the boat Miss McAtee fell overboard. Morris, who attempted to save her, seized her by one foot, but Miss McAtee pulled him down with her, and both were drowned.

TOO LITTLE DEBATE.

Senator Green's Opinion of the Services Held in an Episcopal Church.

Senator Benton, of Missouri, one of the most conspicuous figures of the century in either house of congress, had a formidable antagoinst in Senator James Stephen Green. Congressman Hitt, according to the Chicago Chronicle, relates this anecdote of the two gladiators:

"Senator Green was not only a man of splendid genius, but of charming manner. He boarded at the National hotel, where he was popular with men and women. The latter found out that the senator was not much of a churchgoer and insisted that he should mend his ways in that regard. One Sunday he was late for dinner. The women asked him why.

"'I have been attending divine worship,' replied the senator gravely.

"'To what church did you go, senator?' asked a woman.

"'I don't know,' answered the courtly Missourian. 'I walked up the avenue, turned up Fourth street and entered a church on the left-hand side.' This was an Episcopal church.

"'How did you like the services?' asked another woman.

"'It appeared to me,' answered the senator, 'that there was too much reading of the journal and too little debate.'"

AN UNEXPECTED RESULT.

It Was the Mother and Not the Daughter Who Accepted His Compliments.

"Say," said the man with a worried look, "do you remember giving me a lot of advice on how to conduct my own love affairs about two months ago?"

"Yes," replied the man with the wise expression, relates the Baltimore American.

"Told me if I wanted to win the girl I should make love to her mother?"

"Uh—huh."

"Said if I could get the old lady on my side all I had to do was to toddle around with a ring and say: 'When?' to the girl."

The wise man nodded.

"Said for me to compliment the mother on her youthful appearance," continued the worried man, "and give her a jolly about how sad I was that the young ladies of the present were not to be compared with those of the past?"

"Yes. Yes. You won the girl, I suppose?"

"Yes, I did—not. The old lady has sued her husband for divorce and me for breach of promise."

The State of Washington

Is known as the Evergreen State because of its vast forests. Outside of the limited areas of BIG TREES in California, there are no such forests of pine, fir, hemlock, spruce, cedar, etc., as are found here. The trees are long and straight, and the massive timbers and fine shingles made from them are shipped all over the world.

Washington Fruit is a product of great value. Its flavor and color are unsurpassed. East of the Cascade mountains, the climate is dry and warm, and irrigation is necessary. This makes the farmer independent of rain. West of the mountains irrigation is unnecessary and the rainfall is ample for all purposes. Canneries and fruit drying establishments can be operated profitably in this state. Grain, hops and alfalfa are very profitable crops, and beet sugar is rapidly making headway.

Washington is a coming empire. Brains are in demand in all professions, and labor is wanted and is paid remunerative prices. Fuel, coal as well as wood, is abundant and cheap. Schools and churches abound, the state is well supplied with railways.

Varied altitudes and climates render this country a desirable place of residence, and all can be suited.

Too Anxious.

It was at a wedding, and as the soon-to-be wedded couple walked down the aisle of the little church embarrassment was plainly written on the face of both; but when, in response to the question by the minister if either of them knew of any reason why they should not lawfully be joined together, there came boldly forth from each the answer "I do," the evident embarrassment on their part was changed to one of real on the part of the clergyman.—Harper's Monthly.

INDICATIONS OF A BIG ATTENDANCE FROM THE NORTH STAR STATE.

Two Train Loads in Prospect—Outline of Plans—The Democratic Headquarters Train and Another of Lincoln Republicans—Political Gleanings of the Week. The Boer Reception — Truth About Oregon's Election—Twin City and State Points and Pointers — The Weekly Roundup far the Reform Press.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, June 11, 1900.

Previous declarations that there is to be a large attendance from Minnesota at the Democratic national convention, as well as the Silver or Lincoln Republican gathering, same time and place, have been more than confirmed to this point by events of the past week. It looks now like the largest delegations, official and of citizens, that has ever gone from the state to a national convention of any party. The following is an outline of the arrangements:

Commencing with the Democratic delegation, the state central committee will run a headquarters special train to carry the delegation which, delegates and alternates, will number 36, and all Democrats of the state or others who may desire to attend the convention, with the official party. The train will be made up of sleepers, tourist and other coaches, and will carry band, etc., and be appropriately decorated, and will be run and managed for the convenience and comfort of the party, going, coming and while there. The sleepers and coaches will be used at Kansas City, so that there will be no necessity for securing hotel there, except for meals. The train will be located within easy distance of the convention hall. All of which accommodation will be at the lowest possible cost, one price for the round trip to include all, which price and all particulars will be announced duly by circulars by committeemen and through the city and local press. The train will run special, leaving the Twin Cities probably early in the afternoon of July 3, and arriving at Kansas City early in the following forenoon.

All arrangements for this train are in charge of the following committee, appointed by State Chairman L. A. Rosing: J. A. O'Shaughnessey, chairman, T. R. Kane, secretary, and O. A. Robertson, E. W. Murphy and Geo. S. Canfield.

The Silver Republican train comprises like arrangements as to sleepers, tourist cars and coaches, and will have a chair car, and with band, other music and decorations galore will, it is safe to say, maintain the Silver Republican record for political "hustling." E. S. Corser, Minneapolis, has full charge of train and arrangements, under authority of the Silver Republican state central committee. The train will also run special, leaving and arriving in daylight, and will be located in Kansas City so as to be used for sleeping purposes, which is covered in the trip rate. All particulars will also be duly given out by Mr. Corser, who should be addressed New York Life building, Minneapolis. Mr. Corser and committee pledge 200 by their train.

Minnesota headquarters for both Democrats and Lincoln Republicans have been secured at the Coates House.

Speaking of the conventions, the programme of the Lincolns is in part prepared. Its membership, being a mass convention, is expected to be upwards of 1,500. Senator Teller will be either temporary or permanent chairman, and the prayer will be offered by Rev. Dr. Horace Bigelow of Cincinnati, and Dr. Howard S. Taylor of Chicago will furnish an original poem.

The coming week will bring many details of the Democratic convention, now under consideration.

Our friends everywhere should remember the Democratic county and state conventions, the former called for each county on June 14, the latter June 20 at Minneapolis. The railroads have made a one fare round trip rate for the state convention.

Congress has closed without passing the anti-oleo bill so much desired by the dairy interests, but it did not fail to provide for the armor plate and other army and navy steals.

St. Paul fully sustained Minnesota's patriotism and Americanism in her management of the state's welcome to the Boer commissioners. Despite the fact that the railways refused rates, there was a goodly representation from the interior, and the Twin Cities turned out an immense audience at the St. Paul evening meeting, which was all that could have been expected as to enthusiasm and spirit. The Transvaalers took with them only the most pleasant recollections of the North Star state. And they were also satisfied that their cause and their distressed country have the sympathy of a great majority of the people of this state. It is safe to say that if it were made a matter of vote, the Boers would be endorsed by at least 80 or 90 per cent.

In the face of the almost unanimous sympathy of the masses it is surprising to many that the would-be leaders of the state Republicans have so persistently withheld any encouragement of the struggling South Africans. The real reason is however apparent. These leaders know that sympathy with the Boers is sympathy with the Filipinos, and they fear the inevitable application.

And again has Candidate Van Sant turned his back on the Boers and on those who do sympathize with them. He was invited to be present at the state reception, as he has been invited on each separate important occasion of the kind during several months past. He was invited to Minneapolis, to the St. Paul pro-Boer meeting, to the one at his home, Winona, etc., all of which he either ignored or gave a trivial, trumped-up excuse. He has not by his course strengthened himself with our liberty-loving citizens, especially those of foreign birth, who know what it is to stand up for country, and who have live sympathies with any people struggling for home and liberty. These will remember Candidate Van Sant.

What's all this worry about the Boxers in China; is not John Goodnow at Shanghai?

Oregon election reports well illustrate the garbled information of the G. O. P. and so-called "independent" press. Democrats were "skinned," or the opposition "staggered" according to each respectively, the "independent" party dependent, rather exceeding its co-patriots in zeal and such election "lesson."

Now the fact is that neither class of paper had such information, by "freight" or otherwise. It was only a "guess" by the ass ociated press, based on fragmentary returns "claiming" 6,000 to 7,000 Republican majority, congressmen 2,000 to 3,000, and the legislature "Republican."

Now, Oregon has never been anything but Republican bat once since 1872, and that was in '92, when fusion carried by 811. The average Republican majority for the last five presidential elections has been near 7,000, and was 15,000 in 1894. In the election of 1898, corresponding to this (for state officers and congressmen) it was 10,774, the two congressmen having above 2,000 and 6,000 respectively, while the legislature was 20 Republican majority in the senate, and 26 in the house, 46 on joint ballot. Besides there was a full complement of Republican state officers.

The latest reports are that the state has gone Republican by about the usual figure, except that the legislature is largely reduced. Considering the sheen and gloss of "expansion" in this coast state, and all that the national and state machinery, with supposedly copious showers of Hanna money could do, there is certainly very little Republican encouragement in Oregon.

Our farmers who have been marketing their wheat for the entire year to this point at barely 50 cents will have noted that the price of silver has for some time ruled at 60 and better, chasing close up to the market price of wheat. How few of them now doubt but that if silver rose to par, wheat would stand close to the dollar mark? Silver would rise by free coinage. Is the silver question then so dead, considering the interests of our producers?

Well does the party in the door (50-cent wheat), as the cartoon shows it, say to the party within, getting himself up for the G. O. P. campaign, "Peek-a-boo, papa, you can't lose me."

The way departmental business is done under the Lind administration is well shown in the adjutant general's department in cases of Spanish war claims by state volunteers. These numbered 500, covering every variety of case, under circumstances with which all soldiers are familiar. They were all acted on by Adjutant General Lambert and filed at Washington May 2. The adjutant general presented them in person, and with such care and accuracy that before the month closed he received notification of the settlement of all with the exception of less than 30 referred back for various unimportant details. Such cases often drag for years, causing no end of annoyance and often loss. General Lambert receives many commendations for his success in the matter.

The local event of the week politically has been the inauguration of "Honest Bob" Smith as mayor of St. Paul, the result of the handsome victory by the united reform forces of the Capital City. Twin City people feel better. St. Paulites have felt most keenly the bad name of their fair city under Republican mismanagement, and look forward to substantial improvement all round.

And Mayor Smith's retirement admits ex-Governor A. R. McGill to his place as postmaster. Governor McGill is so fair a man politically, that his personal recognition, even by an administration which he is believed to hold in no great respect, is highly gratifying to many. Of course this is not an "evening up" of the ex-governor's old score with his party, but he can see what has happened to his predecessor, and gauge the thing up as a stepping stone, and take courage.

Says the Minneapolis Times:

"If Mr. Bryan were president and the Democratic party in power, tomorrow, they would do nothing practical to aid the cause of the Afrikanders. They would not because they could not, without involving this country in a war with Great Britain—an inconceivable price to pay."

If Mr. Bryan and his party had been in power there would have been action at a time when action could safely have been taken, which would have saved these two South African republics. Bryan and his administration would not have been engaged in the same kind of a war that Great Britain has been conducting, to-wit, one against the Filipino republic. That is the meat in the coacoanut. If the United States had been doing right in the Philippines, in Cuba, and in Porto Rico, she could well have said something as to what England should do in South Africa. England would never have entered on the South African job, without first making sure that the McKinley administration would keep hands off. Bryan as president could have saved the Boers, and there would have been no war with England either. And neue know this better than those who now point out that it is "too late." G. S. C.

Stumped the School Visitor.

A visitor at a Columbia, Mo., school the other day asked one of the lower grade class this question: "What is the axis of the earth?" "An imaginary line passing from one pole to the other, on which the earth revolves," proudly answered a pupil. "Yes," said the examiner, well pleased, "and could you hang a bonnet on it?" "Yes, sir." "Indeed! And what kind of a bonnet?" "An imaginary bonnet, sir." The visitor asked no more questions.—Chicago Chronicle.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

University Matters.

At the recent meeting of the regents of the University, Professor Nachtrieb was granted $4,700 to carry on the work of the biological survey of the state, upon which he has been engaged during the past few summers. Professor McMillan was also granted $4,000 for the completion of the botanical survey of the state, and for securing specimens of plants for his laboratory.

Havan S. Cole was appointed military instructor of the cadet corps for the coming year. Mr. Cole is a retired officer of the regular army and will undoubtedly add much to the efficacy of the daily drill of the cadets.

Dr. Harry Williams was made director of athletics, and thus given a place on the faculty.

Professor Appleby, who has heretofore held the title of professor of metallurgy, was made dean of the school of mines. Dr. McVey, who has been an instructor in the department of economics, was given the title of professor of private economics. Dr. White, of the medical college, was made professor of pathology and bacteriology.

Minnesota Crop and Weather Bulletin.

There were local rains on several days and in nearly all parts of the state, but they were heavy enough to be beneficial only in the southwest, and in southeastern counties along the Iowa boundary; in other parts of the state the drouth remains practically unbroken. Early spring wheat and oats are resisting the dry conditions remarkably well on heavy soils, though stooling is stopped, but on sandy soils they are turning yellow; the late sown grains are uneven and generally poor. Winter wheat has begun to head. Opinions as to the effect of the drouth on wheat differ widely; some believe that good rains at an early date will bring a good crop, while a few think that the damage already is so great that under no conditions will many fields recover sufficiently to be worth cutting. The rye crop is very poor.

A Degenerate.

Caught in the act of setting fire to a barn, Rander Abrahamson, aged 20, was arrested at Duluth by detectives. Not only was he caught in the act, but in the presence of a large number of people at police headquarters, he confessed to starting fourteen incendiary fires in the last three weeks, including a fire in a barn in which one man and five horses were burned to death.

The incendiary, who has endangered property worth $500,000, is a youthful degenerate that simply enjoyed seeing the blaze and watching the fire department make runs. He was arraigned, charged with arson in the second degree. His mother was brought into jail charged with drunkenness as he was being arraigned.

The Midway.

The Midway at the St. Paul carnival, to be given by the Elks from June 18th to 30th, will furnish a series of most attractive exhibitions. The streets of Cairo will will always be a novelty to an American audience. They will be a special attraction to children, as an opportunity will be offered for riding elephants, camels and burros. This will suit both old and young, and the children will flock by the thousands to the streets of Cairo.

COMES TO A CLOSE.

First Session of the Fifty-Sixth Congress Adjourns—Much Work Accomplished.

Washington, June 8.—In marked contrast with the exciting incidents attending the bitter struggles of the closing hours of the session, Speaker Henderson laid down his gavel at five o'clock Thursday afternoon at the conclusion of one of the most picturesque scenes which has ever occurred in the hall of representatives. Party passion and personal rancor, which have brought the house to the brink of actual riot several times during the preceding 48 hours, gave way in the closing half hour to good fellowship which found vent in a patriotic outburst that stirred the crowded galleries to the highest pitch of entrusiasm.

The principal feature of the closing day in the house was the reversal of its action Wednesday night in turning down the conferees on the naval bill by yielding to the item relating to ocean surveys.

Washington, June 8.—For the senate Thursday was a day of waiting. The naval appropriation bill—the stumbling block to final adjournment—could not be agreed to by the conferees of the two houses, and the disagreement was reported to the senate early in the day.

At three o'clock, after several recesses had been taken, it became known to the senate that the house had concurred in the senate amendments remaining in controversy, and soon afterwards the house resolution providing for final adjournment was passed, an amendment fixing the hour at five o'clock, June 7.

The concluding hour of the session was purely a social session. No business beyond the adoption of the customary resolution of thanks to the chair (Senator Frye) was accomplished. In acknowledgment of the compliment Senator Frye delivered a brief and graceful speech, which was received with cordial applause throughout the chamber.

The conclusion of the work of the senate was quiet and perfunctory, attended by no exciting scenes such as are often incident to the close of a session, and when the gavel fell finally expressions of relief and gladness were heard from all senators.

Washington, June 8.—A complete summary of the work of congress, up to date, as compared with the four preceding congresses, appeared as a special feature of the house of representatives calendar, compiled by Tally Clerk Wakefield, of the official staff of the house. It covers both the senate and house, and gives the following data: Number of days in session, 137; bills introduced, 12,152; total passed, 1,215; public acts, 283; private acts, 932; extent of congressional record, 7,081 pages.

The bulk of this business far exceeds the work of first sessions of the four preceding congresses, and in much shorter time. The shortest of these preceding first sessions was 175 days, as against 137 days this session. The greatest number of bills at these longer sessions has been 10,639, as against 12,152, and the highest total of acts heretofore, 723, as against 1,215 at present. The magnitude of the work is said to be unprecedented.

Washington, June 8.—A carefully prepared statement on the appropriations of the session has been made by Senator Allison, chairman of the senate committee on appropriations, and Chairman Cannon, of the house committee on appropriations, in accordance with custom. The statement says: "The appropriations made by the first session of the Fifty-sixth congress amount to $709,729,476. This sum includes $131,247,155 estimated to be on account of or incident to the late war with Spain, and deducting it the remaining amount, $578,482,321, represents the ordinary appropriations made for the support of the government during this session."

GOV. SHAW HURT.

Iowa's Chief Executive Receives Injuries in a Railway Disaster —Engineer Killed.

Des Moines, Ia., June 12.—About nine o'clock Monday evening as the regular passenger train on the Chicago & Northwestern was pulling out for Ames it came into collision about three blocks from the station with a special passenger train that was coming in. Engineer Thomas Smith was killed, but the other enginemen jumped and were not hurt. Both engines were demolished, but the rest of the trains remained on the track and were not injured. None of the passengers was seriously hurt beyond a shaking up. Gov. Shaw was on the outgoing train bound for Chicago and Philadelphia, and received a cut on the temple and a bruised arm, but was able to go home, and when seen by a reporter had retired and will be able to resume his journey today. Mrs. B. F. Jones, of Ames, was also slightly hurt.

Battleships Sail.

Philadelphia, June 8.—The battleships Indiana and Massachusetts sailed from the League Island navy yard at 5:30 Thursday evening for Hampton Roads, where they will join the North Atlantic squadron under Admiral Farquhar for a cruise and practice drill. In less than 48 hours, under emergency orders, the two warships were made ready for service.

Shively for Vice President.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 8.—A matured movement in favor of B. F. Shively, of South Bend, for vice president was started here immediately following the state convention. The movement is independent of Mr. Shively's expressed disapproval. Allen W. Clark, of the national committee, who is close to Shively, says he believes Mr. Shively would accept.

Several Drowned.

Tacoma, Wash., June 9.—Two bridegrooms were drowned on Lake Bennett. They were Will Hilliker, of Helena, and Clayton Schock, of Seattle. They left Barbe in a canoe and were capsized. An unknown party of three men and two women were drowned in Windy Arm by the sinking of a barge overturned in a gale.

Father and Son Drowned.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 9.—While fishing from a boat in the Ohio river near Economy, W. H. Breitenstein, aged 45, and his son George, aged 11 years, were drowned Thursday. It is believed the son fell overboard and the father attempting to rescue him became entangled in the fishing tackle, rendering his efforts futile. The bodies were recovered.

Revolution in Water Travel.

Experiments have proven that vessels, fitted with propellers which imitate the fish's fin, develop a remarkable propelling power. It will cause a revolution in water travel. Men gradually learn that Nature's ways are best. One cause of the remarkable success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters springs from the fact that it is a harmless, natural medicine, made of Nature's most strengthening herbs. It is a sure cure for constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness or weak kidneys.

Sambo and the Freshman.

An American writer tells a good story of his college days. It relates to a negro gardener, a jolly fellow, with whom the boys used to have considerable sport. Sometimes he would floor them with his repartee.

One day in spring Sambo had been burning the college green in order to get rid of the old withered grass. A freshman came along, and, thinking to have some fun, shouted:

"Say, there, Sambo, you ought not to burn that stuff."

"Why?" inquired Sambo.

"Because," replied the freshman, "it'll make that grass as black as you are."

"Well, massa," retorted Sambo, "dat's all right. Yes, dat's all right. Never you fear; dat 'ere grass'll come up and be as green as you are!"—London Answers.

Lewis and Clark.

A mighty team were these two. Truly their works live after them.

It is nearly 100 years since they started on that great exploration fathered by Thos. Jefferson, up the Missouri and down the Columbia rivers, crossing the mountains between, and the results of it and the deep interest in it still lives.

Their first winter—1804-5—was spent among the Mandan Indians; the winter of 1805-6 they passed near the mouth of the Columbia river among the Clatsop Indians. They crossed the Rocky mountains at five different places and traveled sometimes in canoes, sometimes on horseback, sometimes afoot, and covered about 10,000 miles in all.

Their adventures proved truth to be as strange as fiction; their discoveries were of the greatest importance.

Wonderland 1900 just issued by the Northern Pacific Railway Co. is largely devoted to Lewis and Clark's exploration, and is the only popular and reliable narrative of that expedition recently published.

The writer visited the important places on the explorers' route and photographs were taken for specially illustrating the article.

The book will be sent to any address upon receipt of six cents in stamps, by Chas. S. Fee, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

BILE BLOAT

Puffs under the eyes; red nose; pimple-blotched, greasy face don't mean hard drinking always as much as it shows that there is BILE IN THE BLOOD. It is true, drinking and over-eating overloads the stomach, but failure to assist nature in regularly disposing of the partially digested lumps of food that are dumped into the bowels and allowed to rot there, is what causes all the trouble. CASCARETS will help nature help you, and will keep the system from filling with poisons, will clean out the sores that tell of the system's rottenness. Bloated by bile the figure becomes unshapely, the breath foul, eyes and skin yellow; in fact the whole body kind of fills up with filth. Every time you neglect to help nature you lay the foundation for just such troubles. CASCARETS will carry the poisons out of the system and will regulate you naturally and easily and without gripe or pain. Start to-night—one tablet—keep it up for a week and help the liver clean up the bowels, and you will feel right, your blood will be rich, face look clean, eyes bright. Get a 10c box of CASCARETS, take as directed. If you are not cured or satisfied you get your money back. Bile bloat is quickly and permanently

BUFFALO GAZETTE

DELANO, FRIDAY, June 15, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Read D. R. Farnham's "Midnight Ride" in this week's GAZETTE. It is an exciting piece of history of war times.

—Tom Wolfenden purchased the few remaining broncoes of Borsch and Breushauber, and took them over to the Watertown fair Saturday.

--Joseph Nestroy has learned to make hammocks and fly nets for horses etc. He had some well made and good looking nets on sale this week.

—There will be a free lecture Sunday night at 8:30 in the City Hall. Subject "the Afro-American Church customs and habits in the South."

J. R. WHITWORTH, of Virginia.

—Services in the M. E. church, next Sunday, at 11 a. m. Children's Day exercises in the evening at 7:30. Reheaisal at 2 P. M., Saturday, at the church.

--Rockford is preparing to outdo themselves this year in the Fourtth of July celebration. Everyone who was at Rockford iwo years ago know what kind of a celebration they will have, to do this.

--Base ball enthusiasts have been putting in all spare time on their base ball grounds on North River street the past week and have put them in fine shape. Delano can now boast of as good a diamond as there is in the county.

—Town of Franklin delegates to Buffalo were elected; William Sturman, Jr., Herman Otto, F. F. Chancellor, William Ziebarth and Joseph Bauman. Only two attended the convention. Those at the convention do the business.

—At the village caucus Alva Catlin was elected chairman and John Lohmiller and Henry J. Bock are the other members of the committee. M. A. O'Hair, H. J. Bock, and Frank Schaffer were elected delegates to the county convention.

—Last Saturday evening Mr. Ray Borrill entertained a number of his young gentleman friends at his home the occasion being in honor of his seventeenth birthday. A pleasant evening was passed in music and games. Ice cream and cake were served as refreshments.

--The Baccalaureate address by Rev. Savs, at the City Hall, Sunday evening was interesting and instructive. Some of the listeners think Rev. Savs would be a good man to put on the Board of Education. Rev. Hixon opened the exercises with scripture reading and by prayer.

—A couple of light rains this week have worked wonders in the the looks of the fields about town. Farmers however say that the wheat crop is about beyond redemption and that at best, there will be no more than half a crop. If so it means high prices for wheat next winter.

--A couple of young men were riding their wheeles yesterday, and stopped by the post office to get the mail, but they were a little early, as the mail was not yet distributed so they left their wheels stand by the side of the Post Office on second street, then going down town; upon their return, they came to some rapid conclusions, as their wheels had mysteriously disapeared, and the anxiety of the young men became very great, and they searched the town high and low, but at two oclock the wheels were located in a parlor and under the care of two young lady friends who took pity on the wheels and took them in out of the street and weather.

--The commencement exercises for the graduating class of the Delano High School, were held in the City Hall last Monday evening, and were carring out in a manner entirely creditable to the institution.

The graduating class consisted of Miss May Mowatt and Mr. Frank Gabrielson. Miss Mowatt read an interesting selection entitled "Whitman's Ride", and Mr. Gabrielson read an essay "Treating American Tradition and Literature. The Speaker of the evening was Mr. Andrew Nelson, of Minneapolis, who gave an interesting and instructive address upon "Training for Citizenship", music by a lagre choir of good singers, and several solos by Dr. N. H. King of Minneapolis, helped make the occasion entertaining and a success. The diplomas were presented by Mr. Nelson, who made a short and appropriate speech, telling of the value of an education and the hard work required to obtain one; that the diplomas were visible manifestation of a great deal of hard and earnest work and that "there is no royal road to an education". After the presentation a great many beautiful roses, carnations, and presents were carried up onto the stage to the two graduates, by two little girls, Miss Clara Gott and Laura Lindsley. The graduates were congratulated upon the happy conclusion of their High School work by a large number of friends.

George Borrill and Earnest Marr will be the librarians of the Public School library which is to be open every Saturday morning to patons and pupils of the district. Books can be drawn for two weeks at a time.

John Angier reports having yesterday dined on new potatoes dug from his own garden. The planting was made about 45 days ago. This is pretty fast time. The potatoes were from the size of hens eggs down.- Litchfield Independent.

Democratic Convention.

On Thursday at 11:20 a. m., in Dudley's Hall, at Buffalo, Dr. E. A. Shannon, secretary of the county committee called the convention to order. A good attendance of delegates for the time of year was on hand, and quite a few visitors.

J. F. McDonnell nominated Dr. Shannon for temporary chairman and he was elected.

James E. Madigan was elected secretary.

After considerable discussion, committees on credentials, permanent organizations and resolutions were appointed by the chair, and an adjournment till 1 p. m. taken.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Committee report on credentials read and accepted.

Committee report on permanent organization read and accepted; making the temporary the permanent organization.

Committe report on resolutions read and accepted. An amendment offered by F. W. Schmidt, also read and accepted.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

We, the democrats of Wright county in convention assembled, re affirm our loyal support to the Chicago national platform of 1896, and we heartily welcome the coming renomination of W. J. Bryan, our next president, the greatest living exponent of the vital principles of democracy.

We are unalterably opposed to the republican doctrine of Imperialism and Colonialism. We protest against the forcible acquisition of distant territory. We protest against the doctrine that might makes right, because we believe it to be subversive of just government and Republican institutions.

We believe that every nation has the inherent right to be free and independent; that sovereignty over the Philippine Islands can neither be bought nor sold.

We believe that it is an act of criminal aggression to slaughter thousands of innocent natives—many of whom are non-combatants—as a punishment for holding the very principles to which we owe our national existance.

We protest against the attempt to subjugate to our rule an alien population as much entitled as ourselves to the God-given right of freedom.

We protest against the continuance of war taxes in a time of peace and we demand the abolition of internal revenue duties, voted in the first place to carry on our war with Spain and never repealed.

In the words of President McKinley "Our plain duty is to abolish all customs tariffs between the United States and Porto Rico and give her products free access to our markets". In creating an artificial barrier and taxing the products of Porto Rico, the republican party has legislated in the interest of protected industries and trusts. In the interest of trusts and monopolies it is establishing a territorial or colonial system outside the constitution of the United States. It is doing so in defiance of that plain duty which common sense, patriotism and statesmanship alike demand.

We protest against the rapacity of trusts and combines, the direct outgrowth of Republican protective laws:—We protest against the increasing power of monopolies which by the corrupt use of money defeat the will of the people at elections:—We protest against the extortionate charges of combines and trusts which sell their products from 25 to 50 per cent higher in the American market than in the foreign countries to which they are exported;—We protest against the continuance of a system which exacts from the American farmer 50 per cent more than the actual value of the material he purchases, while agricultural products have to compete in the world's markets.

We take this, the first opportunity afforded us, of expressing our warm approval of the honest and businesslike administration of Gov. Lind. In its freedom from official scandals;—in its fearless opposition to corporate greed;—in its summary dealings with insolvent banks and defaulting county treasurer; in its progressive action in educational affairs;—in its fixed determination that the farmer's wheat shall not be graded down by a system of one sided inspection;—in its refusal to accept the dictation of trusts;—we maintain that Gov. Lind's administration is a vast improvement on every previous administration in this state. And in the coming campaign we call upon every public spirited citizen, regardless of past party affiliations, to support the entire democratic state, legislative and county tickets, so that Gov. Lind in his next administration may be enabled to carry out those reforms upon the success of which the prosperity of the great commonwealth of Minnesota so largely depends.

JAMES F. MCDONNELL.
CHAS. MCCLATCHIE.
LEVI COCHRAN.
H. TANNER.

Whereas, Chas. A. Towne, the renowned leader and exponenent of reformed democracy of this, the sixth Congressional district, has been honored by a branch of the reform party with the nomination for the vice presidency of the United States.

Be it resolved, That we, the representatives of the democrats of Wright county, in convention assembled, do hereby pledge our fealty to our old standard bearer and instruct our state delegates to support for delegates to the national democratic convention only men who favor the nomination of Bryan and Towne.

DELEGATES ELECTED.

Seventeen delegates to the state convention were elected; three from each commissioner district and two at large:

1st. Dist. James E. Madigan, J. M. Baxter, J. C. Rausseau.

2nd Dist. A. C. Riggs, J. A. Reems, Dr. E. A. Shannon.

3rd Dist. William Ziebarth, Charles Bugbee, M. A. O'Hair.

4th Dist. T. F. Kelly, T. M. Dygert, H. Tanner.

5th Dist. A. P. Ritchie, A. Neuman, Fred Glassing.

At large, J. F. McDonnell, J. C. Nugent.

For county representative on the State Central Committee the name of J. F. Donnell was recommended.

As delegate to Kansas City the name of J. C. Nugent was recommended.

For chairman of the county committee, Dr. E. A. Shannon,

THE MIDNIGHT RIDE.

Reminiscences of Pioneer Life in Minnesota, No. 1, by the Old Settler.

On the 20th day of August in 1862, Wright county was but sparsely settled, more particularly in the South and Western portion. On the prairie lands in the East and North the first settlement was made in 1856; but in the timber the settlement was slow. The work of laying out and opening roads and building bridges through the heavy timber was considerable; but along the southern boundry the Crow river and the west line adjoining Meeker county many settlers had taken claims and began to make improvements in 1862. The only village in this part of the county at this time was Rockford, situated just below the forks of the Crow river; a good water power, saw mill and grist or flour mill, two stores, blacksmith shop, hotel, and post office, the only bridge over the Crow and the main road from the county to Minneapolis, distance 25 miles made Rockford quite an important point. Farmers came here to get their corn and wheat ground; the new settler came for lumber to build his cabin and to replenish his stock of groceries and clothing for himself and family.

The Sioux Indian who had owned and occupied this part of the state for a long time then removed to their reservation on the head waters of the Minnesota river at and about Yellow Medicine in 1854, but for a number of years large hunting parties camped at various points in the Big Woods and slaughtered large numbers of deer and other game until the white settlers through the delegates at Washington made suchearnest protest that the Department of the Interior gave orders to have the Indians kept on the reservation, and after 1860 there was no more hunting parties and we saw no Indians. On the date first named the state newspaper had horrible accounts of the Indian massacre up the Minnesota river at Yellow Medicine and other places, 800 or perhaps 1,000 white settlers slaughtered; 5,000 indians on the war path; New Ulm, St. Peter, Mankato, and Fort Ridgely in peril. But the worst Indian murder near was that in the adjoining county of Meeker. At Acton, on Sunday, the 18th two families were murdered by the Sioux. That was coming pretty near home and the stories immediately started that the Big Woods was full of Indians making a clean sweep, killing and destroying everything. This of course caused a frightful Indian panic. Everybody was crazy to get away without any thought of saving property, only to save their lives, and they all went. Within fourty eight hours there was not one solitary settler in the west townships.

In the morning of the 20th the frightened, wild settlers from the West began to go through the village for Minneapolis and St. Paul, some for Fort Snelling, and some for down the Mississippi. They would not try to live any longer in this God forsaken Indian cursed state. They went pell mell over the bridge and away towards Minneapolis. Men, women, children hurrying, swearing, scolding, crying, a perfect Babel; mostly with ox teams. There were very few horses in the county. Whole families with some furniture, household goods, cows, calves, pigs, and sheep; many of them could not stop to talk or hardly speak, only to say the Indians were close behind them slaughtering, burning, and destroying everything. Of course such a scamper and such stories created quite a panic in the village, and it was hard work for a few cool heads to hold the villagers from joining in the stampede. During the forenoon many of the neighboring farmers came into the village to enquire what we were going to do, whether run or stick. About noon a meeting for consultation was held. About one hundred attended and it was voted to stick, and defend ourselves and build a fort. A committee of five was appointed to select a site for the fort and a building committee was appointed, and one man was elected as Commander in Chief to have the general management of affairs. A committee of ten was appointed to stay on and about the bridge and stop all persons as far as possible from going out of the county, not by force but by persuasion. The logs and lumber in the mill yard were placed in the hands of the building committee by the proprietors. The committee, with at least 150 willing, earnest workers with many teams went to work. The committee on the bridges had succeeded better than anticipated. The exodus had nearly ceased before night. The villagers were very liberal. Every house and almost every room in the village was full. About a hundred teams and families and about three hundred persons had concluded to cast their lot with the villagers, and about three hundred of neighboring farmers and their families had moved into the village. The settlers from the West found better lodging and more good things to eat by the liberality of the villagers than they had had for the past three years, as it is well known that the years of 1859, 1860 and 1861 were years of deprivation, hard times and no money with the Pioneers of Minnesota. Just before night the question of arms and ammunition came up. A committee was appointed to investigate. They reported many shot guns, a large number of rifles, but very little powder or lead on account of the two or three years of hard times and no money. Many of the settlers had run short of ammunition and as it happened the stores had a very small stock of powder on hand and no lead, then the weak kneed ones gave way and the cry went up you have got us into a fine trap, a fort with no arms or ammunition, nothing to defend ourselves with. We shall start for Minneapolis. Then someone suggested that the state had arms and powder and lead and fixed ammunition that under the circumstances we could probably get if the proper representation was made to the governor. Yes but it will take two or three days to go to St. Paul and get the guns it will be too late; the Indians will be here; we have nothing to fight with and shall all be killed.

Mr. G. D. George then one of our prominent citizens said we might find a volunteer who would go to St. Paul tonight and get back with the guns, or at least with the powder and lead in 24 hours if he was a hustler. Someone acquainted with Gov. Ramsey would succeed best and could tell him just how matters are up here in the woods. I would go willingly but cannot ride horseback that distance and live and that is the only way to go. Now who will enlist for the not very pleasant journey of 35 miles over the roughest road imaginable a large part of the way a ride in the dark. No one answered. Just then he looked around and said "F. you have some acquaintance with the governor, can you go? You can have Kitty, my mare. You know what she is as you have used her going to Monticello." "It is now after sunset; is your horse ready to go, if so will you bring her down to the bridge?" "Yes, when will you be ready? In about ten minutes." The little brown mare was there at that time and we were off. She was an easy going, light traveller. The first two miles the roads were very good and as it was not yet dark we made good time, but the farmers were all gone; not a light to be seen or a dog to bark. So it was for more than twenty miles, or to very near Minneapolis. After the first two miles it was thick timber, pole bridges, stumps, roots, and mud holes and very dark. We had to go slow and careful, and as it was very still, every leaf stirring, every slight move of squirrel or night bird spoke of Indians. When we came to a piece of good road we went flying, but for the first twelve miles we had to go slow, then we began to pass teams, nearly all ox teams, from out the cross roads on the North from Corcoran and on the South from about Lake Independence. It seemed like company for awhile as we passed them until the idea arose that some of the frightened men might shoot me for an Indian as I came up with them on horseback in the dark. Then I had much rather be alone when there was a decent piece of road. We made good time before we reached Crystal Lake. We stopped for a minute on the prairie and listened. It was then 10:30. Behind us on the Rockford road the continual rumble of wagons was heard, away South on the Watertown road the sound of wagon wheels seemed to extend for miles; North on the Osslo road there was a continual rumble and roar of wheels. When we got to Crystal Lake the Osseo road seemed full of teams, mostly horse teams, all in a hurry and hustle, loaded with household goods and whole families. Some we passed and learned from them that they were going to Fort Snelling, and they all seemed to believe that the Indians were close behind them. When about one mile from Minneapolis one of the teams on the road undertook to run by everybody. The driver was shouting and whooping, get out of my way. The road at that time had not been worked; it was narrow and crooked, with small hills or pitches up and down. When the wild running team got near going by everythig with a rush I said I guess not and let Kitty go up hill and down; we went like the wind. At the top of a small stony hill I looked back and the fellow was still running his horses so I lit out again but the first thing I knew I found myself rolling over and over at the foot of the hill, mouth and eyes full of dirt, my hat gone, and I did not know for a minute what had happened. I was brushing off the dust and looking for my hat when the fellow who was running his horses stopped on the top of the hill and said: "Hello there are you hurt?" The answer was "No, not much." "Is your horse dead?" "I don't know where she is." "Well look up this way." She was about the middle of the hill all curled up and looked as if she was dead. He had stopped his team and come down to where the mare lay and I met him there. "Yes," he said, "I guess she has gone up, but where is her head;" and taking hold of the bridle he gave it a yank. Her head came out and she was on her feet in an instant. "Take her out of the road" he said; "must be going" and away he went with several other teams. I looked around half dazed, found my hat out in the bushes, brushed off more dust, examined the mare's legs and found them all right, fixed the saddle and bridle and looked over the city. Away in the East over the city there was something that looked like fire. I watched it for a few minutes, then the moon came to view, red as blood, then the whole thing came back to me. I looked at my watch; it was 11:35. I was on Kitty's back and away we went, but she did not run down hill again. The first street from Basset's creek to Bridge Square was full of teams, oxen, horses, cows and sheep, men women and children; some of the men swearing, the women scolding, the children crying, a perfect pandemonium. Bridge Square was full of people and teams; the stores and hotels and dwellings were lighted up it did not look much like midnight. We did not stop to answer questions, but got through the crowd and over the suspension bridge and away East for St. Paul, and as the roads were good we made good time. When we came to St. Anthony hill and looked over the city it seemed to be aliye with business. Two steamboats were just starting up the Mississippi loaded with soldiers and war material to relieve New Ulm and Fort Ridgley. We went down Third street to the bridge, then up Wabasha street to the capital. The streets were full of people and teams. Stores, hotels, and dwellings all lighted up; the state house seemed to be full with lights at all of the windows. I went up to the governor's room; it was then 2 o'clock a. m. The young man at the door said "no you will have to wait until morning. There are more than fifty waiting to see the governor, but I will take in your name and see what can be done. If you have any news from the Indians perhaps he will see you first. Have you any important news?" "Yes." He returned in a minute and said, "Come in." "Well" said the governor "I am glad to see you. I wanted to hear from Wright county. How are the settlers? Are they afraid of Indians?" I told him in a few words just how matters stood on account of the Indian murder at Acton, in an adjoining county; the settlers in the Big Woods were frightened out of their wits and were on a stampede, all going a clean sweep, and told him of the stand made at Rockford. "That is right" said the governor, "Hold them if you can. If they come down here not many will ever go back and your county will lose many good citizens and good farmers. What can we do to help you?" "Well we are building a fort but have not many guns or much ammunition. What we want from the state is about 100 guns and fixed ammunition, or powder and lead." "Well" said the governor, "we will see what can be done," and calling to an adjutant on the other side of the room, said, "How many guns have you in the armory? "Not more than fifty Springfields. They were nearly all sent to St. Peter and New Ulm an hour ago. There are two hundred Belgian muskets in good shape. They have been examined and packed today, or rather yesterday; the Springfields are promised to Glencoe this morning". "Well" said the governor, "let Mr. F. have 50 Belgians, 50 lbs of powder and 200 lbs of lead with caps and bullet moulds and send them by team to Minneapolis immediately. Now F., sign this application and receipt and get to Rockford as soon as possible and hold the runaway settlers if you can; not by force but by persuasion". Everything went in a hurry. The governor had not much time for each when more than 50 were waiting. The team was at the armory in a few minutes and loaded. It was half past two o'clock. The draymav said, "I will be at the American House, Minneapolis, before sunrise". So Kitty and I started for home, not so much on a rush as we came into the City. We did not have occasion to run down any more hills. We passed the drayman on the way and went to the stable at the American House and Kit had her feed and drink which had almost been forgotten. Then to look up a team to go to Rockford. One man would not go for $25; another wanted at least ten soldiers; another wanted at least a full Co. of 100. But at last a man was found who had been up to Rockford. He was not scared at Indians; did not believe there was an Indian this side of Fort Ridgely. Suppose that he was about right. He would go for ten dollars. We went to the American. The St. Paul man was there and the load was changed and in a few minutes we were headed for home. It was a lonely road; hardly a person and no teams in the twenty five miles; the settlers all gone, the hay and grain in the fields laying as it fell from the mower or the reaper two days before; the cattle running at large, the houses all closed and silent, not a living person to be seen; the two hotels closed, no show for dinner or horse feeding, so we were not delayed. Arrived at Rockford about 2 o'clock p. m., then there was a little bit of a jubilee. Everything was changed. There was no more fear of Indians. The guns and ammunition were distributed; a sort of a military company was formed, guards stationed about the village; no one even thought of running to Minneapolis and the very large company very soon felt at home and safe and seemed to be very comfortable.

So much for the midnight ride. We had traveled 75 miles in about twenty hours, had got what we went after and felt all right and satisfied although eating and sleeping had been forgotten. Confidence and courage were restored at once with the arrival of the guns, powder, and lead. No one thought or talked of leaving. In very few days settlers began to go out to look after their crops and stock, first in companies, then by twos, then alone, always well armed. In a short time the families went to their homes and the Indian scare was over for that year.

By the stand made at Rockford it may be supposed that many enterprising farmers and useful citizens were saved and kept in Wright county, partly by the work done by the midnight ride. As Governor Ramsey said if the frightened settlers are allowed to run from the county, many of them will never get back again. Some of them did return but found their cattle straved or stolen, the crops destroyed, their houses in some cases broken open and robbed; they became discourged and left the county.

MR. FACING EVERYWHICHWAY.

(From the Portland Oregonian, a leading Republican newspaper of the Pacific Slope.)

We've been huntin' you, McKinley, but we don't know where you air;
When we clap our fingers on you, why we find you never there.
When we hunted through the tariff, in the place you'd ought to be,
Why, you wasn't found there nowhere, least as far as we could see.
In this Porto Rico thingumbob we thought we'd find you sure;
When we got there you'd been trekking, like the smooth and wily Boer;
So we asked the gold supporters if they thought we'd find you there,
And they said they guessed so, some place, but they didn't just know where.
Alger said he hadn't seen you, and he shed a bitter tear
When he said you'd gone and left him like a sinking ship last year.
When we visited Mark Hanna, who was busy conatin' pelf,
Why, he said he couldn't tell us, fer he didn't know hisself.
So we've just ken' on a huntin' till we're nearly petered out,
And although we thought we had you, now we find yous still in doubt.
If these lines should ever reach you, and you'd write us where you be,
You'd confer a good-sized favor on your friends, the G. O. P.
—Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer.

ENOUGH delegates have already been instucted to vote for W. J. Bryan at the Kansas City convention to assure his nomination by more than the two thirds needed.

MIKE DOWLING has got home from the Philippines and is reported as having said that "the majority of the natives are frendly towards the Americans". We think they always were, and can see no earthly excuse for shooting them down at their homes.

IT is claimed that leaders of the Filipinos, 30 of them prisoners, released for the purpose, have offered a plan for peace, and that General Arthur McArthur has accepted it. But General Aguinaldo had not yet been heard from. If the Filipinos get what they want, independence, there is little probability but what the war in the Philippines will stop. People in this country are growing weary of that war.

A NEGRO political party has been organized in Philadelphia. We see no reason why negroes should support men for office simply because they belong to their race any more than Irishmen, Germans, Swedes, or other nationalities should do the same thing. Booker T. Washington, the leading negro of the country, says he don't favor the move. He believes negroes should acquire knowledge and property as a solution of their difficulties. There seems today to be two great parties in this country; one laboring to get all the wealth, and the other to keep them from grabbing it all. One wants to rule the world, no matter how; the other prefers liberty at home and abroad. Negroes having had bondage long enough can clearly see on which side they belong. Irish, Germans, Swedes, and others have had enough of militaryism and know how to vote. Native citizens of the United States have been born in a country that has been made free by their forefathers, and they desire to retain to themselves and their children the greatest of all boons, freedom.

The hottest campaign of all is hastening on. Subscribe for a Democratic newspaper, the Buffalo Gazette, $1.00 per year.

BRYAN AND TOWNE bids fair to be the Democratic ticket for 1900. The main objection offered is location. Everrbody admits that C. A. Towne is capable and deserving, and in full accord with Bryan, but! they say he lives too near Bryan's home! This is an awfully lame excuse. Even the republicans can do better than that. They couldn't well, under existing circumstances, get rid of McKinley, and Rosevelt was by odds their best candidate for vice-President; so they put up Mckinley of Ohio and Rosevelt of New York, whose homes are much nearer together than are the homes of Bryan and Towne. The President and Vice-President should be the two men who represent the principles we so dearly love, of equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

Governor Lind is a popular man today. Every act of his administration has been performed after careful consideration of its effect on the people. He has done all in his power and the power of his office to make himself agreeable. Therefore, the republicans must know that they have a political fight on their hands even harder than two years ago. There is however union in the republican party this year and John Lind cannot possibly be elected except by republican votes and if every republican stands by his party there will be a sweeping victory this fall. Let every man do his duty. Willmar Argus.

Republicans are a part of the people in Minnesota, and when a man performs "every act" of the duties of a high office like that of governor "after careful consideration of its effect on the people", he is just the kind of man the people want. For forty years the Israelites wandered in the wilderness. For forty years republicans in Minnesota allowed themselves to be led or drove to continuing in office the republican administration of affairs believing that the state would be dishonored by the election of any other. But nearly two years ago John Lind was elected, and now even rabid republicans are forced to "point with pride" to his administration, and republicans, true republicans are a proud people, and they like something like that to be proud of. As for Bro. Wharton's statement that "there is however union in the republican party this year" we think he has not taken into consideration our district, the Sixth congressional district of Minnesota. Why, it will be one of the hardest things in the world to arrange for Senators Nelson and Davis to talk in our district at all. Some fellow is bound to want to know about their votes on the Porto Rico tariff question, and our representative in Congress who has been in Charley Towne's old shoes so long that he actually thinks he ought to be better authority than most anybody else, will be expected to have already posted his constituency as to the necessity of raising funds there to pay the "running" or "staying" expenses of governing the people. Possibly matters may be adjusted by allowing the people to come to hear the Senators in their front yards, and those who desire to become more enlightened to make a pilgrimage to Duluth to hear Page Morris, a la McKinley.

Democratic Convention.

The Democratic State Convention for electing delegates to attend the Democratic National Convention to be held at Kansas City, July 4, which was held at the Exposition building, Minneapolis on Wednesday, was a large and enthusiastic gathering of democrats from all over the state. Speeches were made by L. A. Rosing, T. T. Hudson, T. R. Kane, Mayor Gray, Mr. McGhee, Gov. Lind and others. The resolutions denouncing Republican misrule, and endorsing the Chicago platform and the candidacy of Bryan and Towne for President and Vice-President. The delegation to Kansas City are instructed to use every honorable means to aid in bringing about the nomination of Bryan and Towne. Delegates were elected as follows:

DELEGATES AT LARGE—
P. B. Winston, Hennepin.
L. A. Rosing, Goodhue.
T. D. O'Brien, Ramsey.
Charles O. Baldwin, St. Louis.

ALTERNATES AT LARGE—
George F. Porter, Henepin.

The Road to Prosperity.

Let me introduce today an imperialist, who, in following the advice of Senator Foraker, "to be in the business for all he could get out of it" manipulated so cute that the law can not touch him.

Robert B. Porter, a shining light of imperialism, was appointed by our ruler as a revisor of tariff rates in Cuba at a salary of $20 per day. Our government is very lenient as to extra expenses of their servants, because such leniency increases the patriotism of the eampaign orators and because these Cubans have to pay the bills anyhow if they want to be independent; and if they can not,—well they have to stay under the benevolent rule and under the extortions of the trusts. In due consideration of this, Mr. Porter charged, besides his salary of $20 per day, $500 per month extra expenses, which brought his salary for four months tariff revision fully to $4,000. It pays well to be an imperialist with pull and audacity; but this sum did not make of Mr. Porter a rich man.

The main alteration which Mr. Porter proposed in these rates was a reduction from 40 to 10 per cent import duty on railroad equipments, which reduction was of course accepted by the administration.

If the American taxpayer was not benefitted by this tariff reduction, the Van Horn Syndicate in New Jersey was; because these people with a nominal capital of five and a half million dollars, contract, build and run railroads mainly in Cuba. It is natural that such a business was by the tariff reduction put on the top of the ladder, and that they made in consideration of this, the former tax revisor a member of the firm. As such he is now trying in Europe to sell the watered shares of the syndicate, at par. That is the way how an astute man with a wide conscience gets rich without coming in contact with the law. And if the imperialists of New Jersey do not send Robert Porter as Senator to Washington they are blind as bats.

That these Cubans ventilate the question, who is preferable the Spanish robber or the American pickpocket, proves only what an ungrateful, uncivilized lot they are. O. M.

Don't Like Trusts.

New Jersey, "the Mother of Trusts," is indebted to her offspring for a comfortable income. She expects to receive from them during the next fiscal year more than $1,100,000 But this sum is little enough to pay for the odium she receives from her sister states for sending such a brood of monsters into the business world. It would go but a small way toward paying for the damage inflicted on the general public by these creatures of Jersey law.—Sherburne County Times.

Bandolero of Los Alamos

By William A. Taaffe.

PANCHO PARCO leaned lazily against his gate on the outskirts of the southern California town, and looked down the road. It was a beautiful Sunday morning in May. Pancho was an old man, but there was nothing in his appearance indicative of his age except his bristling gray mustache, the deep lines in his brown face, and the dull, bloodshot black eyes which must once have been as fierce as those of an Indian. With his arms resting on the gate, Pancho rolled himself a huge yellow-papered cigarette, which he proceeded to enjoy. Suddenly he pulled the brim of his big white sombrero further down over his face as he descried a man walking toward him on the path beside the road. The newcomer was a young man and Pancho's opposite in every particular.

"Como esta, senor?"

"Good morning, Pancho. Has Senorita Helena gone to church?"

"No, senor. Pretty soon she come. You go with her?"

"If she'll allow me."

"Oh, she glad to take you to church—glad to take anyone. She is good. She want to make poor Pancho go, but he no go any more."

"Did you hear of the hold-up on the Santa Maria road, Pancho?" asked the American, casually.

At once it seemed that the sombrero cast a darker shadow over Pancho's face, while his eyes narrowed into slits: "Si, I hear of him. They make big fuss 'bout little thing. It was different, senor, in early days before—" His inborn politeness gave him pause.

"Before the gringos came?" supplemented the other, laughingly.

"Si, senor, before the gringos came. I born here, senor, feefty—seexty—seventy years ago. My father had un rancho grande near here. Every one know el Rancho Parco. No banks those days, senor. We keep all the money in the casa de rancho—what you call house. Plenty of bandoleros then, you bet. You not know a bandolero. You meet him in the mountains; he take all you got; the next day you meet him in town and shake his hand, but you not know him."

"Well, Pancho, it's pretty hard to identify him these days," watching him closely.

"Oh, I don' know, eef you smart. What your beesiness, senor"

The question was asked with much apparent indifference, but George Howard was not deceived. Suspecting, he saw himself suspected. "Real estate," he replied, promptly; "I'm down here looking up the purchase of some land."

"So?" said Pancho. "And will you buy him or—take him? Americanos get all the land all the time. Long time ago you come here, senor, you would come to me to get the land. I own all. Now all gone, and Pancho not got five centavos. Pancho has lost his greep. Sometimes I geef away the land. You see where all those houses up street stand? One day Pancho see a big black horse—the horse do for his new saddle and silver spurs. I geef thousand acres for him. Those houses on the ground I geef away. The rest"—with a sudden and comprehensive sweep of his hand—"Pancho r-robbed of! You hear me, senor? I say—r-robbed! And now they make big fuss 'bout a poor bandolero!"

"Father is pitching into the Americans as usual, I suppose?" said a girlish voice behind them.

Both turned to look upon Helena Parco, dark, bright-eyed, with the rose and the olive blended in her cheek.

"To hear my father talk," she went on, blithely, "one would think he was a foreigner, while he is an American himself."

"Si," broke in Pancho, "un Americano, but not—"

"A gringo," interpolated Howard.

"Well, it is foolish of you, dear old father, to talk so. In a cosmopolitan country such as ours—" and then, as she realized that her language was unintelligible to one of her hearers, at least—"but Mr. Howard, I must go to church. The mission bells are ringing already, and I am the organist. I will be glad if you will go with me. Like the Salvation Army lassie, I want everyone to come to our hall."

Making himself another cigarette, Pancho strolled idly into the town. He joined several groups of Spanish-Americans standing on the sidewalk in their Sunday clothes, nodding familiarly to the store-keepers in front of the shops, and finally brought up before a crowd of men and boys who had surrounded and were listening to Sam Smith's description of the recent hold-up. Sam was the stage driver.

"I threw out the box all right enough," Sam was saying, with great unction, "but it was my old fake box. The right one was on behind, tied up in a roll of blankets. The fellow was just about the build of Pancho there—"

Pancho passed on as if he had not heard, but a knowing smile of satisfaction played about his ilps.

The delightfully monotonous summer days of blue sky and yellow sun came and departed before the town was again awakened from its languorous sleep of satisfied tranquillity. In the vicinity of Los Alamos Sam Smith was held up once more. The lone highwayman compelled the doughty and shrewd Samuel to descend from his seat and produce the express box from a roll of blankets. This being accomplished, the luckless passengers were lined up on one side of the road and the man with the gunny-sack over his head and a Winchester in his hand relieved them of their valuables in turn.

The following day the broken express box and a piece of the gunny-sack were found in the bushes near the scene of the robbery. Pancho was suspected on Sam's report, and his house searched. There the rest of the gunny-sack was found. Pancho had already taken to the hills, and a large reward was offered for his capture.

Sympathy, sincere and universal, went out to the old man's daughter, but with the blow a change came over her. Every glance of pity was met by a look of suppressed indignation and scorn, for pity implied belief in her father's guilt. In her eye a new fire kindled—a fire that burned in Pancho's eyes when he was young. Except her own, no roof knew her now but that of the mission. But all this was only the brave exterior. In a little while it was known she was ill. Within two months she was dead. The wise doctors gave the cause as quick consumption.

Two days afterward two men moved cautiously down the slope of the cone-shaped mountain, at the foot of which stood the mission. Both were armed, and both crept crouchingly from bowlder to bowlder and from bush to bush, as if they feared detection. As they did so the bells of the mission began to toll. The sweet-toned sound from the little bronze bells—cast in old Spain—came up the mountain, and the two men stopped and looked down at a funeral procession passing slowly along the country road to the graveyard, a short distance away. For one of them that funeral was a magnet. Following the hearse came a wagon in which sat a number of young girls clothed in white, and behind it many buggies, wagons and a motley description of vehicles, filled with people.

The man in the rear gazed intently at the moving spectacle for a time, and then his eyes wandered searchingly over the mountain slope. Suddenly he stood erect and brought his gun to his shoulder; for the first time he had discovered the other man, leaning against a slanting rock, not 20 feet away.

"Hands up, quick!" he shouted, "or I'll fire."

"Carajo!" burst from Pancho's lips, as he made a movement to seize his gun.

"Don't! I'll kill you."

Slowly Pancho's hands went up. Howard advanced to disarm him. It was Pancho's turn: "You no come!" he cried. "Dios! You not take me alive."

Howard stopped. The two looked at each other steadily. The mission bells still tolled, and the funeral procession wended its way along the country road.

"You must go with me, Pancho. I'm sorry, but I must do my duty."

"I say I no go!" cried Pancho, his eyes blazing with excitement. "You think a Parco go to jail?"

"HANDS UP, QUICK!" HE SHOUTED.

"It'll be all right, Pancho, old man. If you're not guilty you can easily prove it."

"Geelty? You mean I no hold up stage? You want me say that? I no say it. I did hold him up, but I not geelty. How is it when the gringos take all Pancho got? The gringos geelty, eh? What you say? Pancho no bandolero. Pancho only take a leetle of what is take from him. But no use talk. Everyone say Pancho geelty. I no care. Nina mia, dead. You see down there? They take Helena to the grave. I no want leef. I no 'fraid death. When they put Helena mia in the grave, Pancho die too. You watch, senor—you see."

The procession was entering the graveyard.

"But I won't allow you to kill yourself."

"You not allow?" Pancho laughed derisively. "But you make meestake. Pancho no keel himself. Helena mia say that is wrong—say es malo. I not do what Helena mia say not do. You keel me, senor."

"I kill you!"

"Si, senor, you keel me, or—I keel you. I got right to do that."

"But, Pancho, Pancho," Howard almost screamed, as he saw in the other's face the sudden resolve and the plan to effect it, "you must not make me do it. No, you will not, Pancho. Think of Helena. Helena would not want you to do that. She would want you to live and be a Parco." As he pleaded for the other man's life, he became fearful of his own nerves.

Pancho had turned his face in the direction of the little cemetery and the people standing around the open grave. Even at that distance his eyes were fixed upon the coffin which was being gradually lowered. To him came the cadence of the last notes of the bell. Suddenly he wheeled about and his hands dropped from the rock above his head upon which they had been resting. "Now!" he cried, as he made a motion to seize his gun.

The mission bells were still, but the shot from Howard's gun reverberated through the hills.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Duluth Herald: Judge Taft, chairman of the Philippine commission, according to a Manila report, is in favor of a "conciliatory policy." Gen. Mac Arthur is supposed to be pursuing an aggressively hostile policy. Just how the two are to work well together is not apparent to the uninitiated.

Cards on the Cars.

"Cards are not played as much on the cars as they used to be," said the commercial traveler. "A few years ago it was a common sight to see three or four games, whist, euchre, poker or seven up, going on in a car, and wherever four or five drummers were gathered together there was sure to be a lively game of draw in progress. Suburban trains were turned into whist clubs, and morning and night the commuters were engaged in a rubber.

"But all this has been changed. Nowadays it is the hardest thing in the world to get up a game of any kind in a train. Ask a stranger if he would like to take a hand at whist or euchre, and he will freeze you with a suspicious look. And, what is worse, he is entirely justified in his suspicions.

"In the last ten years the railroads of this country have been the harvest for gamblers, bunko men and short card experts. They have worked the field to the limit, from New York to California and from Vermont to Florida. They have worked all kinds of flimflam games, until now it is almost impossible for a man to flash a deck of cards in the smoking compartment of a Pullman without the atmosphere growing a dozen degrees colder. A man who has been bitten once doesn't care to have the experience repeated."—Rochester Post Express.-Buffalo Journal.

Democracy.

Webster defines democracy:

1. Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and directly exercised by the people.

2. Government by popular representation; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but is indirectly exercised through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed; a constitutional representative government; a republic.

3. Collectively the people, regarded as the source of government.

4. The principles and policy of the Democratic party, so called (U. S.).

Another record has been broken at Coatsville, Pa., by the American mechanic. He turned out a giant pair of shears that cut in two a slab of iron four feet wide and two feet thick at one stroke.

Oleomargarine, according to the data sent to congress is 32 per cent. lard, and contains less than one per cent. of genuine butter. Despite this fact 83,000,000 pounds of the imitation butter were sold in America last year.

Some Russian scientists now make the announcement that seeds through which a current of electricity has been passed will germinate much more rapidly. Nothing seems to move fast enough for the man of the present day.

The postmaster general has amended the postal regulations so as to permit the sender of a registered letter to recall it after it has been dispatched. This will be a great convenience to women who want to add another postscript.

The increase in bicycle manufacture for the current year will be about ten per cent. over last year. There are some 50 manufacturers in the United States and the total output for 1899 could hardly have been less than 1,000,000 wheels, making the total number in the country about 6,000,000.

Japan has now about 150 daily papers, besides nearly 600 other periodicals, where a little more than 20 years ago there was not a single regular daily publication to which the name of newspaper could be properly applied. It was only about 1874 that printing from regular metallic types became common in Japan.

Speakers at the charities conference declare with great unanimity that lack of employment is responsible for most of the distress among the laboring classes. The statement seems reasonable. It will be conceded without argument, moreover, that lack of food causes starvation and that lack of breath is responsible for great mortality.

A woman in Chicago had her 11-year-old son arrested for stealing $13 from her. A mother, who should have taught him the right way to live; who, above all others, is responsible if he has forsaken the straight and narrow path at so early an age, turns her own boy over to the police, and thus advertises her disgrace and failure! Such action is almost past comprehension.

California has about completed the big task of gathering her orange crop. The crop is unusually large and it is estimated at 14,500 car loads, compared with 9,000 car loads last year. The value of the crop this year is estimated at $4,600,000. The Los Angeles Express says that there is $44,000,000 capital invested in the orange-growing industry in that state, and that the business is a prosperous one.

The erection by the state of Maryland of a monument on the battlefield of Antietam to commemorate the valor of the union and confederate soldiers alike has a precedent in the monument which the people of Canada some years ago erected in the public garden at Quebec to the memory of Wolfe and Montcalm, enemies in the strife on the Plains of Abraham which destroyed the power of France in the new world.

The Pei-Ho river empties into the Gulf of Pe-Chi-Li, which is guarded by the great Russian fortifications at Port Arthur. The river is 300 miles long. The province of Shang Tung, south of the gulf has a population of 36,000,000, while the province of Chi-Li, in which is located Peking and Tien-Tsin, has 35,000,000 people. The two provinces have as many people as the whole of the United States, and yet there are 17 other provinces just as densely inhabited.

Rear Admiral Louis Kempff, who is commanding the American naval forces now in China and is occupying a position of great prominence in the world's news, has been in active service for 39 years. He was appointed to the naval academy from Illinois in 1857, and served the navy most efficiently during the civil war. He was made a captain nine years ago, commanded the receiving ship Independence during the Spanish-American war, and was made a rear-admiral last year.

New Jersey has a "state board of children's guardians," which has just made arrangements to take all of the pauper children out of the almshouses in the state and provide them with homes or boarding places. This action is the result of years of discussion and agitation, and is in conformity with a law passed by the last legislature. There are some 225 pauper children in the poorhouses, but the board reports that great success has been attained and homes have been found for nearly all of them. Every state should have such a law.

It looks as if an Illinois postmaster has a good case. His wife, he says, has a way of getting after him with a bowie knife, but his petition to have her enjoined is not based upon personal grounds. For himself he does not care, but he feels that the sanctity of Uncle Sam's post office is violated. He cannot sort the mail properly and expeditiously while he is dodging a woman with a knife. Possibly, if the matter were explained to her, arrangement might be made by which she would agree not to indulge in her bowie-knife exercises during office hours.

The aging of timber, which formerly required long storage, is now completed by electricity in a few hours. The timber is piled on a lead frame in a wooden vat, is nearly immersed in a chemical preparation and covered over by vessels of water having porous bottoms of felt and linen. The positive pole of the dynamo is connected to the lead frame and the negative pole to the water vessels. On the passage of the current the sap is driven to one end of the wood and expelled and the chemical liquid enters the pores. After drying the wood is ready for use.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Flames destroyed the city hall at Bogota, Colombia, and 36 persons lost their lives.

Mrs. Catherine Glynne Gladstone, widow of William E. Gladstone, the noted English statesman, died at Hawarden castle, London, aged 88 years.

Advices from China are distinctly confused, but the general trend indicates that the gravity of the situation has in no way diminished. The Boxers have killed, up to the present, 1,764 Chinese Christians.

The most important and last Filipino leader in Tarlac and Pangasenan, Gen. Macabulos, surrendered with eight officers and 124 men to the Americans.

Advices have been received in London of Boer activity in the Orange River colony under the leadership of Steyn. The surrender of Klerksdorp gives the English a strategic position of importance. Gen. Botha continues his retreat to the eastward, keeping the British at a distance.

At the Paris exposition seven American artists have received awards.

It is thought by Lord Roberts that the end of the war is near and is reducing his forces, the natal volunteers having been sent home. President Steyn says that the Orange Free State still exists. The Boer capital has been moved to Atkmaar.

During a week's scouting in the Philippines 60 Filipinos were killed, 200 were captured, and 300 rifles, with 23,000 rounds of ammunition, were surrendered. Three Americans were killed.

LATER NEWS.

A typhoon delayed the embarking of troops at Manila for China.

Russia has demanded 50,000,000 taels indemnity for the damage done to Chinese railroads in which Russians are interested.

The navy department has been informed by Admiral Kempff that the Taku forts fired on the foreign ships and after a brief engagement surrendered. Shanghai is to the front again with the statement that the Taku forts have been occupied by the international troops. According to a Chifu special the seventeen forts opened fire upon the warships, whereupon the fleet replied in kind and silenced the Chinese guns, and the international forces subsequently landed and seized the forts.

The Russian troops arrived outside of Peking and immediately began attacking the city, employing numerous artillery. The force apparently arrived in the nick of time, for the Chinese assert that the attack upon the legations had been successfully renewed.

The elevator in the Hotel Walton, Philadelphia, fell seven stories and injured five of the passengers and the elevator boy. The two most seriously hurt were J. G. Pringey, a delegate from Oklahoma, and Brenton F. Hall, a delegate from Belding, Mich.

Secretary of State Hay has been notified by the Russian embassy that 4,000 troops have been dispatched from Port Arthur to Taku.

Clarence Mayer, who was recently extradited from the United States, charged with forgery, has been convicted and sentenced to eight years' imprisonment at Havana.

Admiral Schley telegraphed from Montevideo that his squadron has been released from quarantine at that point.

There were two shooting affray's at St. Louis as a result of the strike. Peter Bonfi was wounded in the foot.

DEFIES THE WORLD.

Chinese Forts at Taku Fire on International Fleet.

Former Are Subdued and Occupied—Four Hundred Chinese Reported Killed—Casualties on the Other Side.

London, June 19.—Hostilities have begun in earnest in China by the battle between the Chinese forts and the allied fleet at Taku. In the battle 20 Europeans are reported to have been killed and 57 wounded. A Russian gunboat was blown up. The British gunboat Algerine and the German warship Itlis were badly damaged, two British merchant vessels sunk, two forts blown up, the rest captured at the point of the bayonet by landing parties, and several hundred Chinese soldiers killed.

China Defies the World.

No formal declaration of war has as yet been issued, but there now seems little doubt that China has decided to defy the world. Two important reports were contained in yesterday's dispatches, the taking of the Taku forts and the forced return of Admiral Seymour's mixed relief force to Tien-Tsin. Both are fully confirmed, but as yet nothing is definitely known of the fate of the German minister, Baron von Ketteler, at Peking, nor what has really happened at the foreign legations in the Chinese capital, though late advices from Japanese sources declare that all the legation buildings in Peking have been captured by the Chinese.

The unofficial narratives, coming by way of Shanghai, vary widely and bear internal evidence of supplementing the main facts with guess work. One dispatch says that the Yorktown participated in the bombardment. Another asserts that American marines formed part of the storming force of 2,000. A dispatch from Chefoo, dated Monday afternoon, says:

"The forts on both sides of Taku are now occupied. The Chinese opened fire unexpectedly. The casualties to the mixed force were as follows:

"Killed—British, 1; German, 3; Russian, 1, and French, 1. Wounded—British, 4; German, 7; Russian, 45, and French, 1.

"Chinese torpedo boats were seized."

Forts Open Fire.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing Monday, says:

"The forts began firing in observance to orders from Peking, conveyed in a personal edict of the empress dowager, by advice of Kang Yi, president of the ministry of war. Several warships were struck by shells from the 12-inch guns of the forts.

"Four hundred Chinese are reported to have been killed. The Chinese, when retreating, fell into the hands of the Russian land force."

The Daily News has the following from Chefoo:

"Two of the forts were blown up. The 32 warships at Taku aggregated 200,000 tons and carried more than 300 guns."

Powers Acting Promptly.

The powers are taking prompt action. Four thousand German troops have been ordered to China; 10,000 French troops are waiting to embark at Saigon, capital of French Cochin China, and from 3,000 to 5,000 more Russians have been ordered from Port Arthur to Taku. This reenforcement, says the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, is announced in the St. Petersburg Gazette, the government pointing out that Russia is sending so many troops solely for the sake of peace and humanity.

Hundreds Massacred.

The Peking correspondent of the Times, in a dispatch dated June 14, via Tien-Tsin, June 15, says:

"A serious anti-foreign outbreak took place last night, when some of the finest buildings in the eastern part of the city were burned and hundreds of native Christians and servants employed by foreigners were massacred within two miles of the imperial palace. It was an anxious night for all foreigners, who were collected under the protection of the foreign guards. The Boxers burned the Roman Catholic East cathedral, the large buildings of the London mission and the American board of missions, and also the buildings in the eastern part of the city occupied by the foreign employes of the maritime customs."

Will Go to China.

Manila, June 18.—The Ninth regiment has been ordered to Manila, whence it will proceed to China.

Under Sealed Orders.

Manila, June 18.—The gunboat Concord, with marines aboard, has sailed under sealed orders, supposedly for China. The British cruiser Buena Ventura has sailed for Hong-Kong with troops and stores for Hong-Kong and Tien-Tsin.

Celebrate "Otis Day."

Rochester, N. Y., June 16.—"Otis day" was a memorable occasion for Rochester and the people of western New York, who joined in extending a welcome back to his old home of the man who for two years ruled the Philippine islands. There were at least 100,000 strangers in the city, most of whom came by rail. Gen. Joseph Wheeler reached the city about noon, and was given an enthusiastic reception at the railway station. The celebration began with the firing of a major general's salute at sunrise, and reached its climax in the parade which took place in the afternoon.

Bryan's Nomination Assured.

Chicago, June 15.—By the action of the democratic state conventions in California, Missouri, Kentucky, Georgia and Vermont Thursday, Hon. W. J. Bryan is assured of the nomination for president on the democratic ticket. The instructions given delegates by those five states carry Mr. Bryan's vote, it is believed, considerably over the two-thirds necessary to nominate him.

Killed His Father.

Cincinnati, June 19.—Herman Haarmeyer came home drunk here last Saturday midnight, knocked his wife and daughter down and was beating them when his 18-year-old son jumped from bed to help them. The father was getting the best of his son when the boy ran for his pstol and shot his father twice. The father died Monday night, and the son was held for murder.

Sheep Suffer.

Vancouver, B. C., June 16.—Australian advices by the steamer Warrimoo say that as a result of the long dry season there has been a tremendous destruction of sheep, 20,000 perishing in a single season. Ruin is staring the unfortunate settlers in the face and they have been feeding their few surviving sheep on the leaves of trees.

IN TRADE CIRCLES.

Outward Appearance the Situation Is Worse Than the Real Facts Warrant.

New York, June 16.—Bradstreet's says: "Measured by recent records and recollections of business activity, the present between-seasons dullness seems specially marked and the reactionary movement of prices makes trade look worse than it really is. Judged by such indicators as railroad tariffs and the statistics of foreign trade, the volume of business doing is considerably larger than a year ago, when it will be recalled trade was cheerfully active. It is true bank clearings are considerably smaller than last year's clearings, undoubtedly included much of a speculative character, this year almost wholly absent, and yet, outside of the metropolis, bank clearings are heavier this year than last.

"Lower prices for iron and steel have not met expectataions of causing a reduction in output, and the latest furnace report indicates an actually larger output and increased stock, though this latter feature apparently has been magnified because supplies of high-grade pig iron are still scarce, particularly so at the south. On the other hand, low grades are in plentiful supply, with little demand."

R. G. Dun & Co., in their Weekly Review of Trade, say: "A season of declining prices is never wholly agreeable to business men whose stocks on hand are losing part of their value. Yet there are times when return to the highest prosperity in business is not possible except through readjustment of prices. The highest prosperity the country had ever reached, prior to the panic, was in 1892, with prices averaging not quite 75 per cent. of their average in 1860. After great depression for several years the highest point reached with last year's recovery was 80 per cent., in March, but the gradual yielding has already returned the general average of prices to a shade less than 75 per cent., practically where it was with the highest prosperity in 1892.

"Failures for the first week of June were in amount $2,118,810, of which $1,092,870 were in manufacturing and $833,236 in trading concerns. Failures for the week have been 162 in the United States, against 136 last year, and 21 in Canada, against 18 last year."

TO WAGE A BITTER WAR.

Organized Labor to Espouse St. Louis Strikers' Cause—Long Struggle Promised.

St. Louis, June 18. — The long-drawn out controversy between the St. Louis Transit company and its striking employes has now simmered down into a struggle between capital and labor along the lines of a boycott. The submitting of the question of the reinstatement of the former employes of the company to arbitration has been the bone of contention in the recent negotiations for a settlement of the strike, but, like all former contentions, it has resulted in nothing, the railway officials demanding an unconditional surrender on the part of the men.

As a result of the company's action President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, has declared that he will do all in his power to bring the influence of the whole body of organized labor in America to bear upon the local situation in an effort to win the strike for the union. Mr. Gompers urges the strikers to be law-abiding, but advises them to make the operation of the cars as expensive as possible by refusing to patronize them. The boycott to be declared, strike leaders say, will apply not only to the St. Louis Transit company, but to every person, every business man, every association, and, in fact, any corporation or individual favoring it in any way.

EIGHT PERISHED.

Fire in a Tenement House in New York Causes Death of an Entire Family.

New York, June 15.—Fire in a tenement house at 34 Jackson street at three o'clock this (Friday) morning caused the death of eight people. The dead are: Daniel Miller, Daniel Marrion, Mrs. Daniel Marrion, Mamie Marrion, aged 18; Albert Marrion, aged 15; another son, aged 13; Elsie Marrion, aged four; Antoinette Marrion, aged eight months. The Marrions were all of one family. The fire broke out on the first floor of the five-story tenement. The first body found was that of Daniel Miller, who lived in the rear tenement, who jumped from a window to the ground and was killed.

Destroyed by Fire.

Des Moines, Ia., June 18.—Sunday morning at four o'clock the large auditorium used for convention hall and only constructed a year ago, at a cost of $50,000, was destroyed by fire. The insurance amounts to $25,000. It was occupied by the commercial exchange and the T. W. P. Chase Amusement company, the latter holding a lease and conducting a vaudeville show. All seats, effects and scenery were lost, amounting to $5,000, making the total loss, as now estimated, $40,000.

Insurgents Win.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 18.—The Royal Mail steamer Don, Capt. Davis, which arrived here Sunday from Colon, Colombia, brings news of an important battle fought on Friday last about ten miles outside of Panama. According to this information, the insurgent forces were victorious, and some 200 of the government troops were killed. It is inferred that Panama may already be in possession of the rebels.

Not a Candidate.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 19.—In a statement to the News Benjamin F. Shiveley, of South Bend, stated positively that he was not a candidate for vice president on the democratic ticket. Mr. Shiveley recently refused to accept the gubernatorial nomination, and John W. Keene was chosen. Mr. Shiveley expressed the opinion that Eliot Danforth, of New York, would be on the ticket with W. J. Bryan.

Gen. Wheeler's Command.

Washington, June 19.—By direction of the president, Gen. Joseph Wheeler has been assigned to the command of the department of the lakes, with headquarters at Chicago. He relieves Brig. Gen. James F. Wade, who has held that command temporarily in conjunction with his regular command, the department of Dakota.

Again at Work.

Joliet, Ill., June 19.—Two of the three rod mills of the Illinois Steel company here resumed work Monday after a shutdown of several weeks. Between 500 and 600 men were given employment, all departments of the steel mills are now running except the converter and one rod mill. Two thousand men are employed.

RETIRE FROM LAINGS NEK.

Boers Forced to Evacuate a Strong Position by Buller—Klerksdorp Surrenders.

London, June 15.—The war office issues the following report from Lord Roberts, under date of Pretoria, June 13, afternoon:

"The enemy evacuated their strong position during the night and have retired to the eastward. Buller's force and mine have afforded each other mutual assistance. Our occupation of Pretoria caused numbers of Boers to withdraw from Laings Nek, and Buller's advance to Volksrust' made them feel their rear would be shortly endangered."

London, June 16.—The war office issues the following dispatch from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, Residency, June 14.—Klerksdorp surrendered on June 9 to an armed party sent on by Hunter.

"A messenger from Klerksdorp reports that Cronje, who commanded there, determined to surrender as soon as he knew for certain that Pretoria was in our possession. His example has been copied by many in the neighborhood. The courthouse is now said to be full of arms."

By the peaceful occupation of Klerksdorp, announced by Lord Roberts, the British have gained a strategic position of some importance, as the town is not only the terminus of another railroad to Johannesburg, but it is within easy reach of the Kroonstad-Vierfontein railroad.

The Cronje who surrendered the place is a son of the famous Gen. Cronje, now a prisoner at St. Helena. The son was prominent during the seige of Mafeking.

London, June 18.—There are some indications that Lord Roberts considers the war's end in South Africa not far distant. One of these is the fact that the Natal volunteers, who had seen hard service, were dismissed to their homes by Sir Redvers Buller Saturday.

Mr. Steyn, in consequence of Lord Roberts' annexation of the Free State by proclamation, has issued a counter proclamation declaring that the Free State still exists, is independent and does not acknowledge the authority of Great Britain.

London, June 19.—Lord Roberts, according to a Boer dispatch from Machadodorp, sent a message to Commandant Gen. Louis Botha on June 13, suggesting disarmament and complimenting the bravery of the burghers. It was pointed out that the surrender would be without dishonor to the burghers and would prevent much suffering. Gen. Botha asked for a six days' armistice in order to confer and consider. Lord Roberts consented to five days. Finally Gen. Botha declined to accept the proposal, and hostilities were renewed.

The Boer commandoes are retiring on Middleburg, followed by the British cavalry and artillery, occasionally shells reaching the rear guards. The Boers are destroying the bridges and burning the veldt behind them, carrying off provisions and cattle and leaving the country barren.

IN THE PHILIPPINES.

American Soldiers Victorious Over Filipinos in Two Recent Engagements.

Manila, June 18.—The United States forces had two engagements of importance last week. The troops under Gen. Funston and Gen. Grant organized an advance, with parts of five regiments and two guns against 500 rebels in a mountain stronghold east of Biacnabata, where it was supposed Capt. Roberts, of the Thirty-fifth regiment, who was captured last month at San Miguel de Mayumo, was held captive. The Americans operated under many difficulties and over an exceedingly rough country, but the rebels retreated, only a few resisting, and the stronghold was occupied and burned. As the result of last week's scouting 60 Filipinos were killed, 200 were captured, and 300 rifles, with 23,000 rounds of ammunition, were surrendered. Three Americans were killed.

National Educational Association.

Wniona, Minn., June 16. — The National Educational association will hold its annual meeting at Charleston, S. C., July 7-13. Satisfactory rates have been secured on all lines running to that point. A complete programme has been arranged for the general sessions of the association, as well as for those of the various department conventions, and the general and increasing interest shown promises a large attendance and a successful convention. Oscar T. Corson, of Columbus, O., is president of the association, Irwin Shepard, Winona, secretary.

Some Census Figures.

Chicago, June 16.—Estimates made for the Tribune indicate that the census will snow a population of 78,964,742, an increase of 26 per cent.; value of manufactured products, $12,698,403,060, a gain of 36 per cent.; and farm lands, $17,865,200,831, a gain of 35 per cent. School census superintendent estimates Chicago's population at 1,986,500. The school census shows 253,000 Chicago children in public and 88,000 in private and parochial schools.

Iowa G. A. R.

Davenport, Ia., June 15.—The annual state encampment, G. A. R., which closed here Thursday, was the largest ever held in the state. Over 3,000 badges were given out to visitors. Resolutions were adopted demanding full, prompt and generous enforcement of the pension laws. The Women's Relief corps elected Mrs. Christine Snyder, of Creston, president. The Sons of Veterans elected as commander Guy R. Carson, of Des Moines.

Temperance Congress Closes.

London, June 16.—The World's Temperance congress came to a close with a reception tendered the delegates at the Mansion house Friday evening by the lord mayor, Mr. A. J. Newton. The American delegates have undoubtedly impressed the United Kingdom delegates with the progress of the temperance cause in the United States, which has been the subject of many congratulations from the British members of the congress.

Head Blown Off.

Canal Dover, O., June 19. — Philip Spritzenbach, a farmer living near here, set a trap with a heavily-loaded shotgun to catch the robbers who had been visiting his chicken house. Monday morning the body of Elmer Eckert, aged 30 years, of this city, was found at the coop with his head blown off.

No Remedy Equals Peruna, So the Women All Say.

Miss Susan Wymar.

Miss Susan Wymar, teacher in the Richmond school, Chicago, Ill., writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman regarding Pe-ru-na. She says: "Only those who have suffered as I have, can know what a blessing it is to be able to find relief in Pe-ru-na. This has been my experience. A friend in need is a friend indeed, and every bottle of Pe-ru-na I ever bought proved a good friend to me."—Susan Wymar.

Mrs. Margaretha Dauben, 1214 North Superior St., Racine City, Wis., writes: "I feel so well and good and happy now that pen cannot describe it. Pe-ru-na is everything to me. I have taken several bottles of Pe-ru-na for female complaint. I am in the change of life and it does me good." Pe-ru-na has no equal in all of the irregularities and emergencies peculiar to women caused by pelvic catarrh.

For Shooters and Fishermen.

The new 1900 edition of "Shooting and Fishing Along the Line of the Great Northern Railway" is without an equal amongst books of this class. It is handsomely bound in colored covers, of new and attractive design. It is printed on fine plate paper, in two colors, is beautifully illustrated with photographs reproduced in half-tone, and is in all respects a magnificent specimen of the printer's art.

Complete information is given about all sorts and conditions of sport, from lion and grizzly bear to "cotton-tails," and including every fish that swims in the many lakes and rivers of the wide Northwestern states.

All the little details of lakes, boats, bait, distances, etc., have been carefully compiled by practical sportsmen, and will be found a great convenience to anyone planning a trip. A new map of Minnesota in three colors is bound into each book.

The hunter or fisherman who is the fortunate possesser of this encyclopedia of sport in the Northwest needs no further guide to tell him where to go a-fishing or shooting. By mail for two cents from F. I. Whitney, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

His Honor's Joke.

Sam Bedford relates a good joke that occurred at Calhoon this week in Judge Owen's court. A case was on trial, and the judge was being worried by a young man who kept moving about in the rear of the courtroom, lifting chairs and looking under benches.

"Young man," Judge Owen called, "you are making a great deal of unnecessary noise. What are you about?"

"Your honor," replied the man, "I have lost my overcoat and am trying to find it."

"Well," said the judge, "people often lose whole suits in here without making all that disturbance."—Owensboro Inquirer.

Must Respect Tradition.

Constance, the beautiful maiden, struggles desperately in the water.

"Save me!" she shrieks.

Harold, the brave youth, standing upon the shore, throws aside his coat.

"Are you sinking for the third time?" he asks.

"Oh, dear! I forgot to count! How stupid of me!" Constance cries, in much confusion.

Harold is as brave as a lion, truly, but he will scarcely risk violating what is perhaps the most cherished convention of romance.—Stray Stories.

The Parson's Revenge.

It had been the custom of an Atchison man all his life to time his preacher at church, and when the preacher had talked 30 minutes the Atchison man thought it long enough and got up and walked out. He died recently, and the preacher took advantage of the fact that the knocker of his sermons couldn't get away, and preached a funeral sermon lasting an hour and 15 minutes.—Atchison Globe.

ARE THE INTERESTS OF THE PEOPLE ADVANCED BY THE ADMINISTRATION OF GOVERNOR LIND.

The New Ulm Coal Rate Case Sustained by the Supreme Court, as Was Expected. "And There's More to Follow"—The Week's Roundup of State and National Politics—The County Democratic and the State Conventions—Every Indication of Enthusiastic and Harmonious Outcome—Now for Kansas City and Next for Victory.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, June 18, 1900.

Step by step administration of state government in the interests of all the people of the state goes on at the hands of Governor Lind and those entrusted to state duties under him, of which the state supreme court decision, sustaining the railroad and warehouse commission, in their action known as the New Ulm coal rate case is the latest incident. This letter recently quoted Governor Lind as entirely confident that the state, in that case, would be sustained, and the decision fully confirms his view.

This case, in brief, was the result of efforts to obtain a fair and equitable rate for hard coal for the people of the southwestern part of the state, where for years and years exorbitant rates have been enforced by the railroad companies. Action originated in the city of Governor Lind's home, New Ulm, on complaint to the railroad and warehouse commission by the Commercial union of that city against the prevailing rate of $2.50 per ton, Duluth to New Ulm. The roads being cited to a hearing, such were held Nov. 3 and Dec. 14, 1898. On Jan. 19, 1899, very soon after Governor Lind's inauguration, the commission made an order reducing the rate to $1.95 for New Ulm, and other points in proportion, on a fixed schedule of places and distances, a very material average reduction, which rates being all that the companies could charge in the aggregate from Duluth to the said points, was known as the "joint rate" that the roads could divide between themselves. The companies interested made every possible legal defense on a test case by the Minneapolis and St. Louis road and were defeated, first in the Ramsey county district court, and now in the state supreme court. The latter finds clearly and unmistakably for the people, sustaining the commission. The company announces that it will still further contest, however, which means the slow length of the United States supreme court, possibly, before the people will come into the actual benefits of the efforts made in their behalf.

The railroad and warehouse commission is about all the machinery possessed by the state for protection of the small interests which the people in the past have not voted away in franchises. The people are, therefore, more interested in its administration than in almost any other department. That they are pleased with the present board is conceded on all sides.

There was opportunity last week for only the merest mention of the state's "No," uttered by the railway commission, against the proposed consolidation of the Northern Pacific and the St. Paul and Duluth railroads, which Wall street and railroad and business men had accepted as accomplished fact until the state stepped in. The state holds that those roads are competing lines in the sense that brings them under the same inhibition that was successfully maintained against the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, and has taken the firm stand that the consolidation shall not be carried out except it be shown that the state is wrong. At the moment the game is blocked, and the Northern Pacific and the Wall street interests concerned are looking around for some way out.

And speaking further of the commission, it has ordered stations maintained at Wylie, on the Great Northern's St. Hilaire branch, and Crow Wing, on the Northern Pacific. A commission that commishes is what the people have now.

The state Democratic convention to select the Minnesota representation for Kansas City, will have been held before this letter reaches all its thousands of readers. There is every indication of that enthusiasm and harmony which is marking like conventions in other states all over the Union. Such certainly have been reports of the county conventions of last week, and certainly it is true of the Ramsey and Hennepin county action. Harmony and enthusiasm have great big capital letters this year with the Democrats and those co-operating with them.

Let all of our friends bear in mind that nobody should stay away from Kansas City who can possibly go, and the opportunity, as to trains and low rates, was never equalled. You can go with either the official Democratic train or with the Silver or Lincoln Republicans. The full particulars are widely published and are obtainable from either Secretary T. R. Kane, St. Paul, for the Democratic, or of E. S. Corser, Minneapolis, for the other. The best way to do is to remit to either, immediately, the advertised cost, thus making sure of accommodations, and that you will go. The round trip transportation cost is $13.55 by chair car, $16.55 by tourist sleepers, or $19.55 by Pullman sleepers, the sleepers in both cases, being also used for beds at Kansas City during the stay, without extra cost. Band of music with each train.

Speaking of Kansas City, state after state joins the procession for Mr. Bryan's unanimous nomination. There are also from all parts of the country kindly expressions toward Mr. Towne. Where are we going to do better in the whole situation? is what the Democracy is asking itself.

Mr. Towne certainly has reason to be pleased with the endorsements given him by the Minnesota county conventions.

Speaking of those who are at Philadelphia booming Washburn for vice president, it is safe to say that their pockets are not stuffed full with the Washburn anti-trust and pro-Boer pamphlets. Watch the trusters and the English administrationists do up the able man from Minnesota.

These jabs at Methodist Brother McKinley are almost more than even a "Napoleon" can endure. And they do charge him with insulting Miss Frances Williard, "treated her with less respect than he would a ward heeler," is the open charge made by the temperance vice presidential candidate.

Ex-Senator Gil Pierce is showing the G. O. P. "What to Eat," vice presidentially, and is for Washburn. The outlook is that while the senatorial vegetables may "wash," they will also "burn," and the trusts "throw them out."

Speaking of the vice presidential ticket, a Chicago Times-Herald correspondent looking for Republican campaign slogans, wants something discovered that will compare with the cry, "Polk and Dallas," which was made to stand for "pork in the stomach, and dollars in the pocket." Well, what's the matter with taking on Bliss of New York, and then it would be McKinley and Bliss for the trusts.

At this writing Mr. Bryan and Mr. Towne are rusticating where the wicked (politicians) cease from troubling, and where the weary are at rest.

The following are the figures of McKinley prosperity as applied in the St Louis strike to date:

Strike (commenced May 8) has lasted (days)	36
Number persons killed	18
Number wounded by bullets	65
Number otherwise injured	90
Estimated business loss, per day	$100,000
Business loss, 36 days	$3,600,000
Loss of strikers in wages	$275,000
Cost of armed posse comitatus	$325,000
Number in posse comitatus	1,500
Number police on duty (regulars)	1,000
Number special police	500
Total number armed men	3,000
Men on strike	4,000

And gold was not going abroad to any amount this season. The total shipments have already exceeded $20,000,000, the government $100,000,000 of gold being now depleted to close to $70,000,000, and more going to the tune of $3,500,000 to $5,000,000 weekly.

Indiana as an asylum for Republican political murderers is a success. The shielding of Kentucky Taylor ought to make the state certain for the Democrats, and such are our advices.

And speaking of the Philippines, how different a situation we would be in had we told the Filipinos to go ahead with their independence, under our protection, we taking as they would have been glad to have us do, whatever we wanted for station. In the new Chinese situation we would have had ships or men at hand, whereas few or no men can safely be taken from the Philippines. But, best of all, we should have done right.

To date all that the goppite press has been able to say for the remissness of the Republican secretary of state as to foreign corporations not paying their taxes is that some 60 companies have been found in Governor Lind's list that are not liable. Well, that leaves some 200 or more of the delinquents. What is this Republican official going to do as to those?

The repudiated St. Paul Republican city administration died harder than any one supposed. Comptroller McCardy has barely skinned in, by the means of "recount," often so disreputable, especially when election machinery is under careful guard of the other fellow, and the old chief of police, and other heads of department, refuse to surrender except as they are thrown out. Meanwhile Mayor Smith is pursuing the even tenor of his "good old Democratic ways," greatly to the satisfaction of the people.

The date now set for that great flood of Northwestern prosperity was after the farmers' spring work was over. Now it is after harvest, and a little later it will be after the election. Selah.

Speaking of business, the much vaunted Russian loan which was to have been floated in the United States, has floated out of sight, the Wall street statement being that it was absurd to expect the loan to be placed here, when "even United States bonds are not in active demand."

Now that McKinley and Otis have swapped praises, let the Philippine war go on. But it is rather a dampener on imperialism, that Otis praises the Filipinos so highly. That they learn English with surprising rapidity, and are eager for schools, illy agrees with the estimates of McKinley himself, of their dense ignorance, their lacking in patriotic inspiration, and that they are not qualified to be more than an abject people.

An important development of the week is the attitude assumed by the local Silver or Lincoln Republicans of Minneapolis, who through an authorized committee announce that they join the Democratic organization in fact, as they have in reality acted during the past four years. This will strengthen the Democratic organization materially, and it is well known that many Republicans are leaving their party on other issues than silver coinage, and will go to the Democrats.

Something Practical.

Many a young girl makes the mistake of thinking that because she would die for a man she really loves him. In this restless, throbbing age it is necessary for her to ask herself in all seriousness: "Would I take in washing for him?"—Detroit Journal.

An Ironic Condolence.

"When a man becomes suddenly rich it not infrequently follows that he becomes as suddenly oblivious to his old friends. Thus, a Persian having obtained a lucrative position at court, a friend of his came shortly afterward to congratulate him thereon. The new courtier asked him: "Who are you and why do you come here?" The other coolly replied: "Do you not know me, then? I am your old friend, and am come to condole with you, having heard that you had lately lost your sight."—San Francisco Wave.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Minnesota Crop and Weather Bulletin.

Dry weather generally continued until the 9th, when there were light to heavy local rains in the central and southern portions of the state, and light and more scattered showers in the northern portion; the heaviest rains occurred in southeastern counties. The drouth effect had been generally intensified up to the 9th, and opinions differ as to the condition and the prospects, but some wheat is heading out very low; on ridges and dry ground it is practically a failure; in some places wheat is being plowed under and the ground seeded to millet. The rye crop is very poor. Barley is beginning to head very irregularly, and is short.

Bold Robbery.

The offices of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company in St. Paul were entered by two hold-up artists, and while the employes were compelled to hold up their hands, the men with the revolvers emptied the cash drawer, and $82.60 was taken.

Cashier Berreau was also searched and the thieves took $2.50 from him.

The robbers immediately ran out of the building and down the railroad tracks. They were pursued and one of them, giving his name as George Balfour, was captured. The other was captured by a policeman near the union depot and was arrested while attempting to drive off with a cab.

Distribution of Proceeds.

In reply to an inquiry from one of the county attorneys, Assistant Attorney-General Somerby rendered an opinion on the distribution of the proceeds of the forfeited tax sale. The proceeds, he says, are to be distributed pro rata to the several funds for which taxes are levied, and the state receives its proportionate share of the proceeds, and no more. In some quarters the opinion appeared to prevail that the state's claim is settled in full before the county comes in for a share. Both the attorney general and the state auditor, however, agree that the law is very clear.

Minnesota Butter at Paris.

Samples of butter from six Minnesota creameries will compete for awards at the Paris exposition.

Three firms have already made shipments, and these are H. T. Sendergard, Litchfield; Samuel Haugdahl, New Sweden; A. H. Jorgensen, Albert Lea. Some of the samples will contain the product made from "commercial culture," that is lactic acid bacteria. So far as known, Denmark is the only other country in which high grade butter is artificially produced with bacteria.

Federation of Labor.

The State Federation of Labor held its annual convention at Red Wing with large attendance. The following officers were elected:

President, M. E. Neary, Minneapolis; first vice president, Miss Leonora Michaelson, Minneapolis; second vice president, A. I. Mundahl, Red Wing; secretary and treasurer, W. E. McEwan, Duluth. Federation council: E. B. Lott, J. L. Gieske, H. W. Goetzinger, J. Klaus, J. B. Morrison, all of St. Paul. The next convention will be held at Maukato.

Five Men Killed.

A terrible accident occurred at the Hale mine, three miles from Biwabik, in which five men were instantly killed by an explosion of dynamite. The dead are: P. Stark, W. Hattai, L. Chalvert, P. Hanson, C. Marok.

A charge of dynamite had been set and the fuse lit in one of the drifts. When the usual alarm was given to enable laborers to reach places of safety the five men rushed directly into the drift where the charge was planted and met their death.

NO ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

A Party from the Back Country Who Was Rather Hard to Please.

He had driven from a backwoods hamlet to the station, and, after making an inquiry of the conductor, boarded the train for Philadelphia, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

When well on the way he stopped the bluecoated official and asked, in all seriousness:

"I'm sorter hungry. Will ye tell me jest where the eatin' car is?"

"There is none on this train," was the answer. "It's short run does not require it."

"Huh!" grunted the questioner. "W'ich of yer keers is the one that ye jest loll around in an' turn and twist yer cheer any way ye plase? Don't imagine that because I've never went railroadin' afore I don't know all about these things."

"You probably mean the Pullman. We haven't any attached."

"Well, bu'stin' squashes! W'ere's yer cigar stand, so's I kin be buyin' a weed an' lightin' up?"

"We don't have such a thing, man."

"An' ye've no place fer me ter git my shoes shined, ter be sure?"

"No, sir."

"'Course I'd be crazy ter think yer might have a barber lad aboard?"

"We haven't any."

The rural gentleman subjected the conductor to a menacing scrutiny from head to foot and back again. Then he drawled out in an angry, disappointed tone of voice:

"Well, sufferin' corn meal! I thought ye said this wuz an accommodation train!"

LITTLE, BUT OH, MY!

How a Low-Sized Lawyer Impressed a Timid Servant with His Importance.

The following story is attributed to Senator Vest, says the Chicago Tribune:

"Before the war there was a lawyer in Independence, Mo., who was the counterpart in appearance of the pictures of Pickwick. He was as fussy in his manner as a hen with a brood of ducks. One day he nearly broke in the door of a residence by his vigorous use of the knocker. The disturbance was answered by a darky, who was frightened out of his boots as he opened the door. 'Where's your master?' thundered the lawyer, and before the darky could answer the lawyer repeated his question. Then the darky replied that he was not in.

"'I suppose not,' thundered the lawyer again. 'Well, mind you, now, mind you, when he comes you tell him I want to see him—want to see him at once. Understand? Tell him J. Brown Hovey, attorney at law, wants to see him at once, at once.'

"With that Mr. Hovey turned and disappeared in a flutter. When the master came he asked his servant if anyone had called. The darky was still in his fright, and with his teeth chattering he replied:

"'Yes, sah, dar was a leetle, funny-looking mane come, an' he said dat I was to tell you dat Brown J. Hovey, de eternal Lord, want ter see you right away.'"

Appearances Not Deceptive.

The office boy, with his legs curled round those of the chair, was tilted back in the corner gloating over "The Midnight Murder, or The Milkman's Mystery," when a visitor entered. The boy had heard his step in the passage, and was calmly expecting him when the door opened.

"Is the guv'nor in?" asked the visitor.

The boy looked at him with an almost contemptuous expression, and was slow to reply.

"I said," snapped the visitor, "is the guv'nor in?"

"That's a pretty question to be asking me, ain't it? Don't you know he ain't?"

"How should I know?" inquired the astonished caller.

"By lookin' at me. Do you think I'd be tucked up here reading this book if the old man was in? Well, I would say not—hardly. Come in again to-morrow."

And the boy once more plunged into the amazing adventures of the mysterious milkman.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Typewriter Invention.

A Statistician has proved that the invention of the typewriter has given employment to 500,000 people, but he fails to state how many cases of weak stomachs and dyspepsia it has induced. All people of sedentary occupation need Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It helps nature to bear the strain which ensues from confinement and it is a wonderful medicine. No one realizes that more keenly than the man or woman who has been cured of stomach trouble by its use.

Supreme Court Sustains the Foot-Ease Trade-Mark.

Justice Laughlin, in Supreme Court, Buffalo, has ordered a permanent injunction, with costs, and a full accounting of sales, to issue against Paul B. Hudson, the manufacturer of the foot powder called "Dr. Clark's Foot Powder," and also against a retail dealer of Brooklyn, restraining them from making or selling the Dr. Clark's Foot Powder, which is declared, in the decision of the Court, an imitation and infringement of "Foot-Ease," the powder to shake into your shoes for tired, aching feet, now so largely advertised and sold all over the country. Allen S. Olmsted, of Le Roy, N. Y., is the owner of the trade-mark "Foot-Ease," and he is the first individual who ever advertised a foot powder extensively over the country. He will send a sample Free to anyone who writes him for it. The decision in this case upholds his trade-mark and renders all parties liable who fraudulently attempt to profit by the extensive "Foot-Ease" advertising, in placing upon the market a spurious and similar appearing preparation, labled and put up in envelopes and boxes like Foot-Ease. Similar suits will be brought against others who are now infringing on the Foot-Ease trade-mark and common law rights.

DELANO, FRIDAY, June 22, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—L. E. Bartlet is putting up a new mill on the site of the old one recently burned.

—Quite a number of Delanoites attended the S. of V. encampment at Howard, this week.

—Rain is still looked for but hol's off remarkably well. Farmers complain that hay will be short.

—Last Tuesday's freight train had on board a large iron bridge, taking up nine or ten cars, bound for some point west.

—M. W. A. memorial services will be held at Maple Plain in the Presbyterian church, on Sunday, June 24, at 10:30 a. m. by Rev. J. R. Whitworth.

—Some new sidewalk was put down in front of the business places of John Conzet and W. D. Albietz last week, that tends to improve the appearance of that part of River street.

--A number of young folks helped Miss Molly Maxfield celebrate her sixteenth birthday, at her home, last Friday evening. Music and the usual games helped to pass a pleasant evening.

—Old settlers day at Buffalo was observed by some of our citizens, driving over. They report such a crowd that they couldn't even get near enough the court house to learn who the speakers were.

—A democratic caucus will be held at the City Hall, Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock sharp, for the purpose of appointing a county committeeman for this precinct.

A. G. CATLIN, Chairman.

—Rev. J. R. Whitworth, of Virginia, lectured Sunday evening in the City Hall on "the Afro-American church customs and habits in the South." He is a fluent and pleasant speaker, and gave some interesting facts.

—Owing to the dry weather, Wm. M. Leggitt, of the Experiment Station, St. Anthony Park, Minn. has concluded it would be the proper thing for farmers who fear they will be short of hay to put in a good crop of fodder corn. Write him for printed advice and instructions.

—Judge Giddings, the Eagle says, will be in Delano soon to naturalize voters. Let all who have not become citizens be prepared to do so on the occasion of the judges visit. Unless you have had your papers ninety days you will not be allowed to vote in November. Hurry up and get them

—M. E. Backenstross and J. M. Charles, of Harrisburg, Penn., wrode through Delano on their way to Seattle Wash. These young men have been on the road for five weeks and registered a mileage of 1665. They expect to be at their destination on the 15th of August and do not contemplate a return this season as yet.

Amending Ordinance Relating to Water.

The Village council of Delano do ordain as follows:

That article one (I) of regulations of water of the Village of Delano, section eleven (11) be amended so as to read as follows: Water for fountains and sprinkling yards, gardens, streets, and sidewalks, shall be used only from the fifteenth day of April to the first day of November and between the hours of 6 a. m. and 9 a. m. and between the hours of 5 p. m. and 9 p. m. If allowed at other hours it will be shut off without notice Hose larger than three quarters of a inch will not be permitted. In no case shall it be used without a nozzle or sprinkler and the nozzle shall not exceed one quarter inch in diameter.

All ordinances and parts thereof inconsistant with the provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed

This ordinance to take effect and be in force on and after July first, A. D. 1900.

attest

JOHN LOHMILLER, Pres. L. M. MAXFIELD, Recorder.

Amending Ordinance Relating to Village Fire Department.

The Village council of Delano do ordain as follows:

That ordinance No. 35 relating to the Village Fire Department, Section twelve (12) be amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 12. The fire department created by and under this ordinance shall be known as a paid service department and each member thereof shall receive for the faithful performance of his duties the following fees to-wit.

For assisting in conveying any fire apparatus to and from a fire, the sum of 25 cents.

For assisting two hours or less at a fire, the sum of 50 cents.

For assisting at a fire for each additional hour or part thereof after the second hour the sum of 25 cents.

The chief engineer shall in addition to the above named fees receive the sum of fifteen dollars per year, said sum to be paid quarterly.

After each fire there shall be paid the sum of two dollars for putting away hose and drying the same, provided said hose was used at the fire call, all of said fees and salaries to be paid out of the general fund of the village.

All ordinances and parts thereof inconsistent with provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed.

This ordinanace shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

attest

JOHN LOHMILLER, Pres. L. M. MAXFIELD, Recorder.

County Cullings.

The Buffalo Journal says, of the late Republican County convention: "As usual the birthright of the county was sold for a mess of pottage which can no' be delivered."

The County Commissioners advertise for bids, tobe opened July 10, for painting the Rockford and Hanover bridges. If you wish to bid write the County Auditor at Buffalo for specifications.

It is hardly fair for the Journal to put the Delano delegates to the Republican convention under the head of Cokato, and then to put Buckley next the Swedes. Is the Journal trying to Harmonize them?

Several of the Republican papers are well supplied with Probate Notices. We were told a few days ago a scheme was on foot to get $7.50 apiece for them. The democratic papers should have a few of them and we think they would be willing to print them for $5. anyway. It looks a little partisan for the Judge of Probate to give them all to republican papers. Or do democrats never die?

At the Republican county convention held yesterday, resolutions were passed as follows:

The Republicans of Wright county in convention assembled reaffirm our loyalty to the principles and policy of the Republican party, and express our admiration and approval of the statesmanlike and patriotic administration of William McKinley, under which the country has been rescued from a continuous period of business and financial depression, and which has safely guided us through the difficulties of the late war with Spain.

We heartily endorse the principles of the Republican party as enumerated in the platform adopted at Philadelphia convention, and we pledge our hearty and enthusiastic support to the nominees of that convention.

Delegates were elected as follows:

G. P. Boutwell, A. W. Nary, Thomas Hudek, A. H. Bertram, E. S. Oakley, A. J. Wood, F. H. Johnson, C. J. Buckley, O. H. Burnes, E. C. Bowman, W. S. Wright, Jacob Ruge, A. T. Larson, E. Y. Chilton, Fred Swanberg, G. C. Carpenter, W. D. McDonald, L. McGrew.

Among Wright county's visitors to the state convention were S. A. Gordon, John Kennedy, F. W. Schmidt and Dr. Catlin.

For once the full delegation from Wright county attended the state democratic convention last Wednesday. Some of them wore Bryan and Towne caps.

The Delano Eagle has considerable to sayabout the democratic resolutions passed at the county convention last week. Read them in last week's GAZETTE. They speak for themselves. You don't need the Eagle's help or the assistance of anyone to learn that they tell the truth. The Eagle complains that "we point with pride", etc., etc., is missing from the preamble." If the Eagle is proud of the present administration she should "point with pride" to some of the items. Is she proud of the holding of Cuba for two years, and the frauds perpetrated there by government officials? Is she proud of the "benevolent assimilation" of the Philippines? Is she proud of the "trusts" contributions to campaign funds? Is she proud of the army "canteen"? Is she proud of the shooting down of Chinese at home? Is she proud of the policy of allowing England to dictate to us as to whether we shall mine our silver and use it for money, or seek gold in her Alaskan possessions? Is she proud of the cold shoulder shown the Boer envoys who come here as did Kossuth to solicit American sympathy from a liberty loving people? Is she proud of a war tax kept up when we are told we are at peace? Is she proud of the export and import duty between Porto Rico and this country in direct opposition to the provisions of the constitution of our free and independent country? Is she proud of the bargain made with the Sultan of Sulu, allowing him a pension on which to keep his harem and the existance of slavery there? Is she proud that the war for humanity has been turned into one of extermination? Is she proud of the promises made and the faith broken? Is she proud of having invited the oppressed of every nation to our shores only to impress into the army (as it looks possible now) their sons to go to distant lands in search of gold, extension of commerce? If the Eagle is proud of these things let her say so. If she is not, let her be honest and say that, and not be casting slurs upon people who have ideas of their own.

L. M. MAXFIELD.

Why so Many Young Men Fail.

"One trouble with many young men who start out in business is they try to do too many things at once," says Hetty Green. "The result is that they don't know as much as they ought to about any one thing, and they naturally fail. The trouble with young men who work on salaries is that they're always afraid of doing more than they are paid for. They don't enter into their work with the right spirit. To get on and be appreciated a young man must do more than he's paid to do. When he does something that his employer has not thought of, he shows that he is valuable. Men are always willing to pay good salaries to people who will think of things for them. The man who only carries out the thoughts and ideas of another is nothing more than a mere tool. Men who can be relied upon are always in demand. The scarcest thing in the world today is a thoroughly reliable man."—Buffalo Journal.

Maple Plain.

LOS ANGELES, June 3rd, 1900.

J. H. McGary, Esq.

Dear friend: Your valued favor of long since, come to hand in due time. Many thanks for your kindly recollections of our early life in Minnesota. In looking back over these long, trying years, with all the pleasures and vicissitudes that have rolled over us from time to time, if properly written would make quite a book. When I look back to the time when we first met in Minnesota as fully developed boys physically speaking, we greeted one another with that pure, unalloyed friendship and with souls so full of warmth for each other, that I feel to say that we were more like brothers than acquaintances. I really can not express in fitting language that kind feeling that I entertained toward and for others. How sadly we all felt when one of our number was called away; and how many have joined the great hosts. And the few of us that are left begin to look around and feel like counting them. We were boys then; we are old fellows now, and even those that were our first born we see silver threads mixed through their hair, and they begin to tell of events when they were boys.

Seemingly we grow old far too fast. I had some talk with my weakly feeble brother, and he remarked that he ought to feel satisfied for the many years that he was spared. He said he felt when first taken down nearly thirty years ago, that then he felt that if his life could be spared five years he would feel grateful.

If it is agreeable to you I would like you would write an obituary notice, in the GAZETTE, and mail me a copy.

MAPLE PLAIN, Minn., June 19, 1900.

BUFEALO GAZETTE,

The above letter I received several days ago from my old time friend, I. A. Christlieb, one of the early settlers of Minnesota, but now of Los Angeles, Cal., asking me if I would write an an obituary of his brother. Hon B. F. Christlieb, who died at his place in Los Angeles, April 15, 1900. To me this is no enviable task, for I am pained and grieved to write the obituary of as noble and kind hearted a man as was B. F. Christlieb.

For thirty years Mr. Christlieb was afflicted with that dreadful disease, consumption, but he bore it all with patience and fortitude. He was one of the early settlers of the state of Minnesota, and during his sojourn here held many important and responsible positions, He was leading merchant and post master at Long Lake for a good many years; was a member of the state Legislature, a position he filled with credit to himself and his constituents; was surveyor and did much important work in that line in Western Hennepin and Wright county.

Some three or four years ago Mr. Christlieb sold out his business at Long Lake, the care and anxiety of a business life proving too much for his weakened constitution. Thinking the climate of California would be congenial to one afflicted as he was, went there to the land of flowers and sunshine for his health. He made his home while there with his brother, I. A. Christlieb, and died there as above stated. So ends the life of a true hearted and noble man. He is gone from earth but his kind deeds will never be forgotten.

Mr. Editor, in conclusion would beg leave to add something of my own to the above. Mr. Christlieb was a personal friend of mine; had known him for 35 years, and no community could boast of a man who was more honest and truer to his fellow man. In him was the make up of all the qualities that fitted a man for a nobler and a higher life.

Peace to his ashes until the trump of God shall sound, and then with all the saints, may he receive a crown of rejoicing that faideth not away.

J. H. McGARY.

BUFFALO GAZETTE,

Democratic, $1.00 a year. Read it during the hottest campaign our country has ever known. Don't read only one side and become warked, like a Water Elm board laid out in the sun to dry. Be well balanced.

Duluth Herald: It has been estimated that Great Britain put 250,000 troops in South Africa and the Boers armed 50,000 soldiers for the defense. The British arm lost 50,000 men and the Boers 12,000. The money cost of the war has been $400,000,000 by Great Britain and $1,000,000 by the Transvaal.

Oregon Agriculturist: The farmers of the wheat growing districts of the Pacific Northwest are facing a very serious problem as to getting sufficient help for the harvest season. It will be almost impossible to get enough hands to do the work and the wages which will have to be paid will be out of all proportion to the price of wheat.

Norwood Times: God help Bryan with Dave Hill, Richard Croker and other gold bugs of New York leading his forces for the people in this campaign. If elected he can not carry out the great principles of reform with such lieutenants at the head of Democracy. The control must remain with the silyerites if anything is to be accomplished. There is little difference between Hill and Hanna.

Litchfield Independent: The Delano Eagle and Willmar Argus are both getting their editorial thoughts ready made, emanating from Room 1, 700 14th st N. W., Washington, D. C. It gets wearisome to run across the identical selfsame editorials word for word in one paper after another. Think your own thinks, brothers, and don't depend on that notorious political corruptionest Charles Dick, of Akron, Ohio.

ROCKFORD.

The old settlers meeting at Buffalo on the 16th was well attended. The largest delegations present were from Monticello and Rockford. Most all parts of the county were well represented. The court room was full to overflowing and as many outside. The Buffalo band furnished excellent music for which they received a vote of thanks. The singing was not there. The Howard Lake Quartette and the Buffalo and Monticello glee clubs were called for but no one responded. Probably it is a boycott on the old settlers. Next year we shall only depend on Rockford. The speaking, recitations, and readings were all good. The principle speakers were Hon. Henry Kreis, E. H. Farnham and G. W. Florida; recitations were by Mrs. J. E. Madigan, of Maple Lake and Mrs. E. E. Darrow, of Rockford; the reading of the "Midnight Ride" by Miss Fannie Ewing, of Rockford. The old officers of the association were re-elected, except James Sturges was elected vice president and J. M. Powers treasurer.

There were two statements made by the speakers on Wright county that exception can be made to both publicly and personally, as the writer of this is a native of the state of Maine and has been a citizen of the village of Rockford for 44 years. The first was more in the manner of speech and by implication than by direct statements. After spreading himself over the whole state instead of Wright county, he endeavored the nationality of the first settlers, and after naming the several countries of Europe, Asia and Africa and the Isles of the sea, and nearly every state of the Union, he wound up with "and a few even from the state of Maine" as it this was the last place on earth. If the Hon. Gent knows anything about the pioneers of Minnesota he should known that during the years 1848, 1849, 1850 and 1851 nearly one half of the first white settlers, the pioneers were Mainites. The sturdy sons of Maine did come into the new territory and didn't go prowling around for a fat government or territorial office. They went at hard work to develop and improve the new territory; they built the saw mills at Stillwater and opened up the lumber business of the St. Croix valley; they built the saw mills at St. Anthony Falls and opened up the lumber business; they were the pioneer lumbermen on the Rum river and built the saw mills at Anoka. In 1852 nearly one half of the citizens of the then principal business towns of Minnesota were Mainites. The first white settler in Wright county was from Maine. John McDonald took up a claim and moved into Otsego, July 5, 1852, and in at least one half of the Wright county towns the first settler was from Maine. So much for "a very few even from Maine".

One other statement made was that the meanest man in the county lived in Rockford and then went on to state that years ago he was on an electioneering trip or collecting or some other journevings at the public expense and lost a pair of gloves at a store in Rockford. If he knew that it was a Rockford man that stole his gloves why did he not have the man arrested and punished. There were very likely other people from other localities in and about the store. If the statement was made in fun it was simply foolishness, if in earnest it was a libel on the whole community and a direct insult to the large number of Rockford old settlers then in the hall, the largest delegation from any town except Buffalo. It may be that we are the meanest people in the county. We do not pretend to be all saints; but our records for the past forty years will show what we are. We do not trouble the district court with civil or criminal cases; the county commissioners have not been called to pay justice or constable fees; we have no quarrels or fights; never had to commit a regdlar paper; the county never had to pay for advertising delinquent taxes, and never for any cost at court. We generally attend to our own affairs and look out for our glory.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8, 1900.

The republican pretense that there is uncertainty about who will fill the second place on the McKinley ticket is amusing. Boss Hanna and Mr. McKinley have long ago selected the man, but the secret has been well kept, as they wish the delegates to the convention to be deluded into the belief that the nomination is theirs. The platform that will be adopted by the Philadelphia convention has also been written, although the convention will go through the farce of appointing a platform committee to prepare it. The platform was written by Postmaster General Smith, who was chosen for the task because he was a newspaper man, but its authors are Boss Hanna and Mr. McKinley. They dictated it in the rough to Mr. Smith, who polished it up. In fact, the work of the Philadelphia convention could easily be done well inside of three hours, but Hanna promised in return for that $100,000 contribution that the convention should sit three days, and the programme has been arranged on a three day basis, not only to give the Philadelphians a chance to even up but to try to work up a little enthusiasm among the delegates.

Senator Chandler, who has a way of nagging his party and its leaders, when the spirit moves him, has been throwing cold water on the Hanna McKinley crowd by pointing out in a published interview the danger of republican defeat this year. Following are some of Mr. Chandler's reasons: "We will be hurt the most by the charges of extravagance and corruption. The next danger point is the charge that the party is bound in chains by the money power and that its reins are held by millionaires, and the third thing to fear is great losses in the Philippines." He pointed out exactly where defeat might meet the republicans when he said: "Suppose the war news next fall is not good, or that there are labor troubles, or that prosperity is threatened. What then? Illinois, Indiana, and even New York would slip away from us. It is barely possible that we may lose those states even without any succession of untoward events. In that event, we would lose the election." Mr. Chandler is being roundly abused by the party bosses for publicly saying what they have been saying among themselves for weeks.

The Court of Claims has taken the Sampson side of the battle of Santiago with a vengeance. It decided that Sampson commanded the fleet during the battle and that the New York was engaged therein. Under that decision Sampson, who had no more to do with destroying the Spanish fleet than the reader of this, will get $8,335 as his share of prize money, while Schley, the man who commanded the fleet which destroyed the Spanish ships, gets only about $3,000.

A sensational statement was made before the Industrial Commission, now hearing testimony on matters relating to labor, by Mr. M. F. Thompson, Secretary of the Southern Industrial Convention of Huntsville, Ala., and a bitter opponent, of labor unions, who said: "Labor organizations are today the greatest menance to this government that exists inside or outside the pale of our national domain. Their influence for disruption and disorganization of society is far more dangerous to the perpetuation of our government in its purity and power than would be the hostile array on our borders of the armies of the entire world combined. "That is probably the most extreme opinion of its kind ever publicly uttered in this country. It was listened to by some of the labor leaders, who intend to answer it in their testimony before the commission.

Col. George C. Gorham, a life long republican and for years Secretary of the Senate, expresses the opinion that Mr. McKinley would be defeated if every democrat in the U. S. refrained from voting next November. Speaking of the political outlook, he said: "My correspondence is extensive, representative and frequent with all sections of the country, and I believe I am telling you the the truth when I say that if the election were held tomorrow, my old friend, Mr. McKinley, would not carry half a dozen states. Let's see. Yes, he would carry Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont. I feel certain he would get those states. Maine, though would be doubtful. Now, if anybody can tell me what other states Mr. McKinley is sure to carry I will be very much obliged. I have given the complete list of safe republican states at this moment, and I don't know but that some of these I have placed in the McKinley column will turn up missing in November. I have been watching national campaigns for a good many years and if the democrats can't sweep the country this year they would better go out of business and turn the job of fighting the republicans over to somebody else."

The republicans are so much alarmed over the outlook for the Congressional elections that they will maintain campaign committe headquarters in both Washington and Chicago. Duplicating headquarters will do them no good, as they cannot destroy the record made by the republican administration.

Democracy.

Webster defines democracy:

1. Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and directly exercised by the people.

2. Government by popular representation; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but is indirectly exercised through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed; a constitutional representative government; a republic.

3. Collectively the people, regarded as the source of government.

4. The principles and policy of the Democratic party, so called (U. S.).

Are you a democrat? If not, why not?

BRYAN AND TOWNE.

They're shouting all over for Bryan,
Reformers of ever hue,
In East, South and West the same thought is expressed,
There's only one leader in view,
From Maine unto Lower California
The Democrats give him the call;
And anti-expansionists, silver men, Populists,
Bryan's the choice of them all.

They're shouting all over for Bryan;
They know that his star will prevail;
But, while they agree on the head, you can see
They're badly mixed up on the tail.
Remembering Sewall and Watson,
On one point they're perfectly clear,
They want no more tangles and jangles and wrangles
About who shall bring up the rear.

They're shouting all over for Bryan;
But who shall his running mate be?—
'Tis a question perplexing, annoying and vexing,
On which hardly two can agree.
There are various sides to the problem,
And the factors that enter therein
Are knotty and many, but the highest of any
Is this simple point, can he win?

Some think we should go to the navy,
While some this contention deny;
With some folks the cue is to take up the Dewey's,
While others are shouting for Schley.
Some say we should go to the army
And these are for Lee, or for Miles;
But other folks glance, in a manner askance,
On this hero collection with smiles.

Some favor New York, or New England;
Some think we should go to the West;
With others a location's a consideration
Of very small moment, at best.
They ask for a man like our chieftain,
Possessing the courage to fight,
Who'll march in the van for the freedom of man,
Who dares to speak out for the right.

Some advocate Ridpath, or Caldwell:
Some Sulzer or Norton suggest;
While some are for Harrison, some are for Pattison,
Some think that Williams is best;
Some nominate Daniel, or Blackburn
And other like names of renown;
But of all I insist that the choice of the list
Is the matchless and eloquent Towne.

They'd plead till the masses should listen;
They'd plead till the nation should turn
From its idols of gold once again to behold
The altars of liberty burn
They'd challenge the cohorts of Mammon
Till his ranks in defeat should go down—
The gallant young leaders from out of the West,
Our champions, Bryan and Towne.

—Denver News.

ANY Democrat that don't want Bryan and Towne, don't honestly want Bryan and any other Bryan man, for president and vice president.

BRYAN AND TOWNE is the proper ticket for the Democrats to nominate at Kansas City. They will make such a campaign as was never before made in the interests of the people.

WITH Napoleon McKinley and Rough Rider Roosevelt the Republicans have an unfortunate pair to present to the people for their votes at the coming election. There is already too much militaryism to suit most folks.

DR. LEONARD. Missionary secretary of the M. E. church don't believe that the Chinese have murdered our missionaries. He ought to know about as soon as anybody. Why then the necessity of sending boat loads of United States soldier boys to China to kill off the Chinese, and themselves be killed? What is it for? If we wont allow a Chinaman to become an American citizen, what do we want to molest them for? Hadn't we better stay at home and keep peace among ourselves? If it was true when Lincoln said "Our country can't endure half slave and half free" it is still true, and our country can't prosper half voters and half vassals.

WE will doubtless know for sure by this time next week what the democratic presidential ticket will be. Just now it looks like Bryan and Towne.

MAJOR A. G. WILCOX, late editor of The Farmer, in St. Paul, died at his home near Hugo, Minn., Tuesday, June 12. He was also press agent of the State Fair Association. Agriculturists and others will miss a friend.

Two frightful railroad wrecks occurred this week; one in Georgia, by a train running into a washout, 37 people killed. In Wisconsin an excursion train collided with a freight train and six killed. This is getting to be too frequent; such accidents could be avoided generally, When there are rains sufficient to wash out a hundred feet of track it would be safer to have the track examined by a track force, or even by an extra engine ahead than to risk running a full train load of people into the swolen stream. And it would be better when excursion trains are run to have arrangements made so completely that freight trains won't be on the same track at the same place and time. It looks as if something must be done to prevent such avoidable accidents or people will choose slower and safer modes of travel. No one wants to be kept in a stage of suspense for hours or days when rdiing on a train, thinking every moment is apt to be his last by a frightful accident, trough carelessness, neglect, or undue greed for gain of somebody.

Our National Birthday.

On July 4, 1776, the Congress of the United States of America assembled according to previous adjournment, and resolved itself into a committee of the whole, to take into further consideration the Declaration of Independence. After some time the President resumed the chair and the committee report, the now famous Declaration of Independence, was read and agreed to, ordered engrossed, and signed by the fifty six noble representatives of the then thirteen colonies of this country.

This was the deciding point of the destiny of our country. By agreeing to this Declaration of Independence our forefathers abolished tyranny from their country and established a republic, whose institutions and customs have been kept up, and have by us been inherited. Shall we continue to be a republic? Shall we teach our children that "We hold these truths to be self evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." Shall we continue to be a republic?

Let us remember at what a risk these congressmen of the United States affixed their signatures to this Declaration of Independence; how they placed in the balance their property, their lives, that independence might be gained to themselves and their posterity. They risked much, they gained more.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty". Let us be vigilant. Let us guard the sentiments so tersely expressed, so faithfully fought for, so dearly bought, and that has been the beacon light to the oppressed of every nation for nearly a century and a quarter. Let us cherish our blessing. Let us with our voices and our votes seek to perpetuate our republic; to hand it over to our successors on this stage of action as pure as it was when written by Thomas Jefferson and signed by John Hancock and his colleagues in the hour of our birth as a free and independent nation. Let our national birthday be honored and observed while time lasts.

WHEN David B. Hill lectured in the People's church in St. Paul, he remarked in his speech that he would not tell the audience his views on gold and bimetallism, but he hoped that the great gold fields of South Africa would settle the question. A man who was then, or is now afraid to tell the voters where he stands on such questions, has no business on any ticket for president or vice president. The voters of today want men who have principles, and they want the head and the tail of the ticket to agree on the principles.

Oregon Agriculturist: The cost of butter is probably as low in Minnesota as in any state and the summer pasture as good as anywhere, but the most progressive dairymen of that state are talking of the advantage resulting from having a silo to commence feeding from July 1. It requires too much land for a safe supply of pasturage throughout the summer.

Condemn McKinley.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 21.—The Prohibition State Convention tonight adopted resolutions declaring that "the establishment of the army canteen by executive power in violation of law is an outrage against justice, an injury to the public service, and a vicious course to destroy the boys who gallantly offer their lives for the defense of their country."

The President and his Attorney-General are unsparingly condemned.—World.

Denies Reported Cablegram.

DELAWARE, O., June 25. -Dr. Leonard, missionary secretary of the M. E. church, denies that the reported cablegram from Frederick Brown, at Chee Foo contained the alleged murder of American missionaries, the Pykes and Haynes, was received by him. He says:

"I have no reason to believe that any of our missionaries in China have been murdered, and I shall continue to believe that all are alive until I receive positive information to the contrary.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Expensive Imperialism.

If we hold to the rule that it is the first duty of any public officer to handle the peoples money, the taxes, with economy, because all the officers are nothing more than the people's servants, elected for that purpose, we find that the imperialistic rule of McKinley is far more expensive than that of Harrison or Cleveland. The annual expenses of Harrison's administration averaged $331,000,000; those of Cleveland's second term, $360,500,000 and McKinley's 514,250,000. These are the common expenses and they are about $150,000,000 per year higher than those of the former presidents. Divide this $150,000,000 with the number of inhabitants of the United States and you will find that the tax payer paid for each member of his family at least $1.75 annually more taxes, for the honor of being ruled by McKinley. The imperialistic patriot will say: "That is no wonder. McKinley started that glorious war in the Philippines." But the above figures have nothing to do with this war. That runs under extra expenses. It costs $130,000,000 annually, or $1.50 more for every member of the tax payers family. Imperialism and forcible conquest are expensive to the common taxpayer, and gives no returns if he does not stand on the crib.

These figures prove that our administration spends our money more freely than former presidents. Is it a wonder that his servants are full of his praise, full of patriotism and talk about the wave of prosperity, because these $150,000,000 annually jingle in their pockets? It is to be expected that they do their best to be at least four years more in clover. And it is not to be wondered either, that all those who, by the protective tariff rates monopolize the prices of goods, as for example our lumber kings, should furnish plenty of money for the political campaign. So we will see the next elections radiant with fireworks, brass bands, torch light processions and campaign orators to induce the voter to climb in the high protective imperialistic band wagon.

Beware! There is nothing in militaryism, imperialism, and forcible aggression for the common man. And if you vindicate McKinley's policy do not bleat if you are afterwards shorn.

Rode Astride a Big Bear

None Ever Knew Whether Steed or Rider Was Worse Scared.

"DID YOU ever ride a bear?" asked Bill Ellis one night as we sat down at the camp fire after hunting all day.

"No, I suppose not," he continued without waiting for me to reply. "Lots of folk haven't. In fact, I'm the only feller I ever heard of that ever did. All the ridin' is generally the other way. Bear seldom carry outside passengers. But Old Clubfoot packed me one day in great shape. That old sarpent used to range these hills and if there was anything he liked it was lead. He was a regular travelin' lead mine. He was so dangerous I never hankered after his pelt, but one day I nearly ran over him and he came for me, so that there was nothin' to do but shoot. I fed him some lead right in the gizzard and all he done was to gulp as if it was good, and come right on with his mouth wide open for some more. I accommodated him right in the mouth, too, but one of his big white teeth flew into splinters that whizzed up into the air. I had a Sharp's rifle and just as I went to load it again the cartridge stuck in the chamber and I couldn't shut it. Disappointment seemed to make the old cuss only the madder and on he came, bent for a full breakfast.

"I suppose you'd have perspired, as they say in polite talk. I didn't have time to get a pore open, for luck was on my side and I was only a few yards from a live oak. I was young and pretty quick and swung myself in a jiffy onto a big limb. I felt a rip in my pants as I whirled over and, after gettin' well out of reach, I felt there and there was three or four slits six inches long where his claws had just missed by casin'. You may laugh all you please about folks that work with the seat of their pants, but if it hadn't been for the dry goods boxes down at the country store you wouldn't be entertainin' me with your ear to-night.

"I crawled along to the trunk of the tree and began to wonder how I was to get the rifle up. Old Clubfoot was there with his big paws clawin' down bark only two feet from my toes and tryin' to get up. His breath felt like the steam of a locomotive and his eyes would almost have done for a headlight, he was so mad. I had seen mad bear before, when they had a foot caught in a trap, but I never saw such ragin' fury as this old scamp had when he found I was just beyond his reach and the trunk of that tree too straight and smooth for him to climb.

"Just as I began to think of a Sunday school hymn suitable for a saved sinner, I felt a bite. Then there was another and another and somethin' crawlin' up my sleeve and on my neck and up my ankles and more bites by the second, with the smell of ants gettin' mighty powerful. Then you bet I did perspire in no time. Did you ever try an ant bite? How many bites from one of the big red or black ants do you suppose it would take to kill a man? And how long do you suppose it would take? A horse stung by enough bees is dead before any pisen can possibly reach his vitals. A man dropped in bilin' water would be dead before any heat could ever reach his innards. It's the shock to the nerves what does the business, and before the fifth bite was well in my nerves was gettin' terrible shook up. Then I saw the tree was full of 'em and lines of hundreds of big red ants runnin' up the trunk. No use to mash 'em, for a hundred'll come to the funeral of everyone you mash. It wasn't half a minute before some still small voice inside whispered that I would have to get out of that tree, for it was certain the ants would kill me and with more sufferin' probably than I was likely to get at the hands of the bear.

"You'd a been mighty smart and slipped down the tree on the opposite side from the bear, wouldn't you? That shows what you know about bear. You can have 50 feet start and he'll climb your back stairs in just 1¾ seconds. I wasn't that variety of squash. It was over 200 yards to the next tree and that was a low one, where he might claw me down even if I was lucky enough to reach it. A grizzly standin' on his hind legs is mighty high and his durned claws add another foot onto his long arms, and when he stretches them out you've no idea how they reach. All he's got to do is to get one hook into your meat and you're his'n. There was only one thing to do and that was to scare the stuffin' out of him. They're just like wild cattle on a plain. If you run from 'em they'll make a bulge on you sure, but if you run at 'em and wave your coat you stand a show of scarin' 'em off. There was only one thing to do, and that was to ride him, for swearin' at him didn't have no more effect on him than it does on you when you make a rank miss on a first-rate shot at a deer.

"There was no time to lay out any fine plans, for the ants bit worse and worse and came thicker and thicker. So I ran out on a big limb and the bear followed me out there and looked up and showed his big white teeth and seemed to say—ain't you got some more lead to feed me? I'm tired of waitin' so long. I gave him my hat for a change, and as it fell to the ground he dropped his head and began to chaw on it. Before he had a chance to show any disappointment, because a bear's favorite teethin's ring—a man's skull—wasn't inside of it, I just dropped square a-straddle of his back.

"What are you lookin' so queer about? You don't believe it, eh? Well, now, I ain't a-tryin' to make out that I was particularly brave. It was only a stroke of genius. There wasn't any courage about it. It took more bravery to stay with the ants. There was millions of 'em, and I just had to ride out of there. It was the only way to beat the grave. Of course a man must be somethin' of a bareback rider and know how to keep his bearin's—no joke intended—but when you get in such a scrape as that there's nothin' else to do, especially for the bear, for he had ridden so many hunters that I thought a change would be beneficial to his constitution. You might not have been as good a rider as I was and probably would have got off at the first pile of rocks we sailed through. But you'd have mounted him just the same as I did, because you'd 'a' had to.

"Did he snort? Not much. He had no time for that. Did you ever watch a fly sittin' on an arrow when you let go the string? That was about my fix, only I didn't drop off. Fact is, I didn't dare to, for he wasn't scared enough yet. He started fast enough, but when I got a good grip with each hand into his wool, dug my heels into his flanks and hollered 'Git out o' here, you son of a gun!' he shot out like one of these rifle balls you hear tell of that gather speed so fast that when we went under the first tree I didn't have time to unload him and catch onto a limb and swing up again, as I had meant to. That would have been a dandy trick to play him, for if he'd ever taken a notion to come back he'd never 'a' found the tree. A shootin' star might as well try to find the cloud it went through before it busted.

"In about half a second somethin' green whisked past. It wa'n't in my eye, for you never saw nothin' green in that when it come to a question of bear. I'm green on theosophy and a few other fine pints of religion, but not on bear, thank you. It must a been another tree, but I wa'n't very particular about stopping to find out, so on I journeyed. Just as we cleared that, somethin' gray went a-swimmin' around on all sides with a thousand quails a-whizzin', squealin' and dartin' around my head, and the durndest rattle you ever heard. It sounded as if the lightnin' had struck the pantry of the giants and busted all the crockery and turned the fleas loose. It might a been a rock pile we went through, but I wasn't particular enough to get off to look. Just then I saw a couple of brown spots ahead, with somethin' behind that looked like the tail of a coyote, and then two streaks of brown went past us from in front, but they fell behind so fast I couldn't tell, but I rather guess they was coyotes.

"Just then there was another flash of green, and then a regular cloud of it swimmin' around me, an' such a rippin' an' tearin' of clothes an' the awfullest smashin' an' crashin' of brush an' such a scratchin' of my eyes an' scrapin' off of my skin where the clothes had been, an' all at once I come to a dead stop so fast that it turned me upside down. As soon as I could get the blood out of my eyes enough to see, I found myself in one of these great big mountain manzanitas with my heels a lookin' at the sky an' not a durned rag on me but a bit of court plaster I had on back of one ear. I kept still for a second, expectin' a thunderbolt or somethin', but the coast was all clear an' the sun a smilin' as only our dear California sun can smile, with the birds all a singin' praises to their Maker and not an ant or a durned thing in sight to bother anybody. Just then I heard some one holler: 'Get out of here, you son of a gun.' It made me jump up, but it sounded so natural like it set me to thinkin', and durned if it wasn't my own voice—just arrived.

The Minneapolis Tribune.

Among the dailies of Minnesota's Twin Cities, The Minneapolis Tribune is unquestionably entitled to rank as the leading republican paper, for it is the only one that [illegible] party's principles through thick and thin. As a result of its faithfulness, combined with its great enterprise as a newspaper, it enjoys the largest circulation of any in the Northwestern dailies, its average for year ending March 31, 1900, being 50,185.

The Tribune's new service is thoroughly up to date. In addition to the very full service of the Associated Press, it shares with the New York Tribune the special cable war service prepared in London by I. N. Ford, and and its corps of special correspondents, who sent in their news over the wire, embraces the national capital, the metropolis and the entire Northwest. This special service covers North Dakota and South Dakota very thoroughly, in addition to Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Montana and the Pacific Coast. Nothing that is going on in all this region escapes the vigilant eyes of its correspondents.

The Tribune's editorial columns are terse and vigorous, and in addition to treating all political and current questions with great intelligence and logical acumen, bear evidence of unusual literary culture, especially in the Sunday edition. And the Sunday edition of the Tribune, by the way is a news and liteary gem. In its various instructive features, its stories, its illustrations, its correspondence, etc., it is entitled to rank along side of the magazines, its best broad pages, numbering from 32 to 64, containing quite as much matter.

A very taking feature of The Tribune is the cartoon department, presided over by "Doc" Bowman, whose cartoons are so good that they are regularly copied into the leading periodicals of this country and Europe. They illustrate and enliven current events, take off the folies and foibles of statesman, and convey a political or moral lesson with a precision and force that the brightest written article seldom attains.

One reason why the Tribune's cartoons are so popular is because the mechanical work on them is so well executed, and this leads us to speak of The Tribune's art department which is unquestionably one of the best. The Tribune has recently moved into its new building, which is one of the very finest structures devoted solely to the newspaper and printing business, in the country. Its mechanical appliances are first class in every department, but in the seven rooms given up to the art department on the fifth floor, they reach the acme of perfection. We might easily devote a column to a description of the beauties of the new Tribune building. Like the Tribune itself, it is nearly perfect in every feature.

Immigration to the United States is unusually large at the present time. The figures for every month of the current year show an increase over those for the corresponding periods in any previous year with one or two exceptions. The total immigration for the month of May is given as 56,812, and the figure for the present month is sure to be much larger.

The experts estimate that the orange crop of Florida this year will be 1,000,000 boxes, and that the average price received will be two dollars per box. It has not been many months since those same "experts" were telling us that fires were being built in the orange groves of Florida in an effort to save a few of the trees, and that the crop would be an absolute failure.

The Pacific cable will consist of three sections—the first joining Monterey and Honolulu, the second reaching from Hawaii to Guam, and the third stretch making the last long reach to Manila, each of the three sections being over 2,000 miles long. It is a big contract, but the Yankee never yet found anything too big for him to attempt, and he will not be dismayed by this task.

England, according to official reports, has lost something like 34,000 men in the eight months' fighting with the burghers. These losses are enough to sadden England, but Americans who remember the days of the civil war will regard such loss as hardly worthy of attention. There were weeks in Grant's campaign when the union army lost as many men as the whole British casualty list to date; there were battles where more men were killed in a single day than have been slain by the Boer bullets in the whole South African war.

The government has collected the statistics of death by lightning in this country during 1899. The total is 563, the largest number ever before officially reported. Prof. Henry, the compiler, makes these important suggestions: "Persons in a house during a thunderstorm should avoid chimneys and open windows. The middle of the room is probably the safest part. In the open, persons should never seek the shelter of trees. Wire fences and live stock should be avoided. If on horseback, it would be well to dismount and wait until the storm passes."

Having rounded out a useful life of 88 years, Mrs. William E. Gladstone died in Hawarden castle, where she was born. She was the handsome Miss Glynne when she married Mr. Gladstone in 1839, but she never cared to shine in society. Her life work was done in her home as a wife and mother. Not only did she rear a large family of children into useful manhood and womanhood, but for nearly 60 years she stood tenderly by the side of her illustrious husband and helped him in a thousand ways. She was an ideal mother and a devoted wife.

LEADERS ARE NAMED

Republicans in Convention at Philadelphia Finish Their Work.

Ticket Is McKinley and Roosevelt—Both Are Nominated Unanimously—Proceedings of the Last Day.

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, June 22.—The republican national convention assembled for its concluding session Thursday morning. The attendance was the largest of any session.

Called to Order.

At 10:36 Chairman Lodge glanced at his watch and then with three raps of the historic gavel stilled the tumult on the floor while the band ushered in the session with the national anthem, Senator Hanna being one of the first to rise and the entire audience following as the inspiring strains reverberated through the building. As the anthem closed the chairman announced the opening invocation by Archbishop Ryan.

There were no preliminaries. The wrangle expected over the question of reducing the representation in the south was averted by the withdrawal of ex-Senator Quay's proposition. The great hall became quiet as Senator Lodge, standing before 15,000 eager faces, gavel in hand, announced that nominations for president of the United States were in order. The reading clerk advanced to the front of the platform. He was about to call the roll of states for the presentation of candidates. When Alabama was called the state yielded to Ohio.

This was the signal for the recognition of Senator Foraker who was to make the speech nominating Mr. McKinley as the republican candidate for president. Then the cheers began and a wild scene ensued. It was exactly 15 minutes when order was restored and Lodge announced: "The chair recognizes Gov. Roosevelt of New York."

Ovation to Roosevelt.

Again the magic of a name sent the multitude into convulsions of enthusiasm. All eyes were turned toward Roosevelt. He stepped out into the aisle and strode up the platform, looking neither to the right or the left, and then turning and surveying the sea of waving cheering humanity.

There he stood, his face grimly set, without a smile. He made no acknowledgments, no salutations to the plaudits, but like a hero receiving his due, calmly awaited the subsidence of the tumult. At last he raised his hand and at his bidding the demonstration came to an end.

Then Gov. Roosevelt began his speech, speaking in a clear full voice. His sentences were delivered in a manner that denoted a careful study of each word. His argumentative style kept the audience en rapport with him, for he was given the closest attention by the vast audience, in fact very much more attention than had any other speaker.

The closing words of the governor brought another demonstration, and for a minute it seemed that the convention would go mad and then and there make two nominations instead of one.

Senator Thurston, the Demosthenes of the senate; John W. Yerkes, an orator from the Blue Grass state, and Gov. Mount, of Indiana, also seconded McKinley's nomination, but before the latter concluded the convention was impatient for a vote, and several times tried to howl him down.

The Voting Begins.

The restive listeners broke in with many demonstrations and calls of "vote," and Chairman Lodge was kept busy with his gavel trying to maintain sufficient order for the speaker to be heard. As he closed the convention again demanded a vote and the chairman announced that the roll of states would be called for the vote on the nomination for president. At 12:37 the vote began for the presidential candidate.

Some of the states were not content with casting their votes for McKinley, but the chairman announced the vote which the candidate would receive in November. At the call of Hawaii the delegations stood and cheered the announcement of the new possession of its two votes for McKinley.

The tally clerks quickly made the official summary and handed it to the chairman. Mr. Lodge took the paper and advancing to the front of the stage said:

Unanimous on First Ballot.

"The total vote cast is 930. William McKinley has received 930 votes. It is a unanimous vote and the chairman declares that William McKinley is your nominee for the presidency for the term beginning March 4, 1901." Now again pandemonium broke loose in one swelling chorus of enthusiasm for the new candidate. Up went the plumes and standards. Up stood the great audience, men and women, mingling their shouts and their frantic demonstration.

Roosevelt for Vice President.

Mr. Lodge warned the noisy and demonstrative throngs that there was still vital business to be done, and announced that the call of states would proceed for nominations for the vice presidency.

As the name of Alabama was called on the roll of states, for nomination of candidates for vice president, the announcement was made by the chairman of the delegation that Alabama would yield to Iowa to present a candidate.

Chairman Lodge then recognized Col. Lafe Young, one of the Iowa delegates at large, and editor of the Des Moines (Ia.) Capital. Col. Young was in Cuba at the time Roosevelt led his gallant rough riders up San Juan hill, and his reference to the governor's campaign was eloquent and touching.

The demonstration which followed the announcement by Col. Young of Gov. Roosevelt as the candidate of the young men of the country, who represented their desires and their ambitions and embodied their patriotism and Americanism, was not second to that accorded the president's name.

At the conclusion of the call, Chairman Lodge announced that Gov. Roosevelt had received 929 votes, one delegate in the convention not voting. This delegate was Gov. Roosevelt himself, who refrained from voting with the New York delegation. Chairman Lodge's announcement that Gov. Roosevelt had been nominated for vice president evoked a burst of applause that fairly shook the great steel-girdled building to its foundations.

Convention Adjourns.

The serious work of the convention was now practically over, and only a few details remained to be performed. A resolution by Gen. Grosvenor was agreed to for an official print of the convention proceedings and a reprint of the proceedings of four years ago. Another resolution empowered the national committee to fill vacancies on the committee. On motion of Col. Dick, Senator Lodge was placed at the head of the committee to notify the president of his nomination, and Senator Wolcott at the head of the committee to notify the vice presidential nominee.

Resolutions of thanks to Mr. Lodge and to Mr. Wolcott for their able services as presiding officers were unanimously adopted; also thanks to Mayor Ashbridge, of Philadelphia, for the hospitality of the city and to all officials of the convention. This closed the work, and at 2:14, on motion of Sereno Payne, of New York, the republican convention of 1900 adjourned sine die.

Hanna Again Chosen.

The national committee met in the rooms back of the convention hall immediately after the adjournment of the convention. As soon as the committee was assembled Senator Hanna was nominated and reelected chairman for the next four years.

New Silver Certificates.

Washington, June 26.—Five-dollar silver certificates of the new design made their first appearance Monday and took the place of the old fives in all treasury payments from the cash-room. The feature of the new note is a large typical Indian head in the center, with a blue seal and a large letter "V," with the word "Five" also in blue, running in a curved line across it. As an artistic production this note is regarded as equal to any ever issued by the government.

THE BOER WAR.

Roberts' Forces Closing In on the South Africans—Consul Hay to Visit Kruger.

London, June 25.—Dispatches from Lord Roberts say that Buller has occupied Standerton, capturing railway rolling stock. Ian Hamilton took Heidelberg and chased Boers for seven miles. The Boers made a bold dash on Honingspruit and cut Lord Roberts' line of communication. They were driven away and the damage was repaired. British suffered a loss of 37 killed.

London, June 26.—Lord Roberts' six columns are converging apparently so as to close in upon the Free Staters, although decisive results cannot be expected for several days. A number of Boers who were supposed to be within the wide-flung net have broken, or rather stolen, through Gen. Rundle's Ficksburg-Senekal lines.

The Canadians were engaged in the Honingspruit fight last Friday. Gen. De Wet's men first cut off a Canadian outpost of mounted rifles at dawn, two being killed. Lieut. Triglis and four others were wounded, and three were captured. The Free Staters then attacked the camp where were 50 Canadians and two companies of Shropshires, though without much effect, as the men were well entrenched.

The foreign military attaches who were with Lord Roberts are now in Cape Town, en route for Europe. United States Consul Hay, of Pretoria, is going to Machadodorp in the interest of the British prisoners and to see President Kruger.

A CLOUDBURST.

Much Damage Is Caused at Various Points in Indiana by Heavy Rain.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—One of the hardest rainstorms in years swept Indiana Friday morning. The Wabash river is out of its banks and still rising. Much damage has been done. At Wabash the waterworks are broken and the city is without water for use or fire protection. At Treaty, six miles south, a Big Four freight train of 15 cars is wrecked in a washout. The new iron bridge on Upper Treaty creek is gone and not a bridge is left between Treaty and Lafontaine. Two houses were carried away. The Wabash has been rising there at the rate of two feet an hour and is spreading over the flats. Many factories will have to close. At Fort Wayne there was a cloudburst. The water backed over many squares of residences. Electric lines were stopped and barns and debris are backed against the bridges. At Warsaw the big city sewer under construction is filled with drift. Basements are filled with water. At Peru there were four cloudbursts and great damage is done. The government gauge showed a fall of over six inches in ten hours. Throughout the Wabash valley there is much damage by the high water, and as the river is rising still more damage is feared. Crops are overflowed and the corn will suffer, especially as nearly the entire valley is planted, and thousands of acres will have to be replanted.

Mine Disaster.

Champion, Mich., June 25.—Four men lost their lives in a Champion mine explosion Saturday evening. They are: John Floyd, shift boss, married; Noah Lark, ship tender, single; Herman Luma, miner; Otto Parkala, miner. Of five men on the twenty-fifth level near the explosion at the bottom of the shaft, but one escaped by climbing the air hose to pure air. Gases and smoke asphyxiated the victims. The cause of the explosion is not known, but was probably due to sparks from a miner's pipe.

Must Have a License.

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—The supreme court has decided that a farmer cannot sell hard cider without a license, holding that it was intoxicating liquor. The case was that of William B. Hewitt, a mine operator at Chenoa, McLean county, who sold miners hard cider made at his farm in Livingston county, and who pleaded as a defense the provisions of the law which provides that farmers and fruit growers and vine growers can sell products of farm and orchard in all forms, except as spirituous, vinous and malt liquors.

Led Into a Trap.

Manila, June 25.—A detachment of 40 men of the Fortieth regiment, Capt. Thomas Millar commanding, left Tagayan de Misamis, island of Mindanao, scouting, June 13. The morning of June 14 they encountered a strongly ambushed and intrenched force of the eney. The Americans' attempts to charge were frustrated by the Filipinos' pitfalls and traps. The advance line, consequently, was under a heavy fire in front and on its flanks, and fell back on Tagayan. The American loss was nine men killed and two officers and ten men wounded.

A Warm Day.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 26.—Monday was by far the hottest day of the season here, the government thermometer registering 94. The mercury in thermometers on the streets in many places touched the 100 mark, and some of them a little beyond. In northern Minnesota and North Dakota, the heat was greater than in this city. Devil's Lake reports 100 in the shade, Grafton 107 in the shade, Pembina 101. The average throughout Minnesota was about 95 degrees.

Very Low Water.

Dubuque, Ia., June 26.—The present stage of water in the Mississippi is the lowest known for June during the past 25 years. The stage Monday was one foot six inches above low-water mark, and still falling. Should the decline continue navigation will be suspended on the Mississippi within a few weeks.

Brother and Sister Drowned.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., June 26.—Emily and Don McDonell, aged 17 and 15 respectively, children of Hon. A. B. McDonell, president of the Lumberman's national bank, were drowned in Long lake, Chippewa county, Monday. They were bathing and went beyond their depth.

Journalist Dead.

Chicago, June 26.—Martin J. Russell, one of the publishers of the Chicago Chronicle, and for years one of the most brilliant editorial writers in Chicago, and the northwest, died at Mackinac island of Bright's disease.

TIENTSIN OCCUPIED.

Chinese City Captured by Allied Foreign Troops.

Admiral Seymour Reported Captured—Rumor of a Great Battle—More American Troops Ordered to China.

Chefoo, Tuesday, June 26.—Rear Admiral Kempff reports, by a Japanese torpedo boat, that the combined forces entered Tientsin on Saturday, June 25, sustaining small loss. They started on Sunday to relieve the force which left Tientsin on June 10, and which is believed to be surrounded near Peking. According to Japanese reports, Admiral Seymour has been captured, and the ministers have left Peking, guarded by Chinese soldiers. Their whereabouts is unknown.

Great Battle Reported.

Chefoo, June 26.—The New York Journal correspondent cables: "A great battle has taken place. The Chinese army is reported to be victorious. Tang-Shan, Shan-Hei-Kwan and Pei-Ta-Ho have been abandoned by Europeans. The foreign quarters of these towns have been looted. The Chinese fleet is supposed to have been broken up. The admiral is in hiding or a prisoner at Tientsin, it is reported. There is very little hope for Peking. The worst fears are now entertained for Seymour. One rumor says the foreign force was seen on June 22 eight miles southeast of Peking; another says the whole force was annihilated seven miles west of Lang-Fang."

Russians Lose Heavily.

Tsing Tau, June 26.—Eight thousand allied troops have landed at Taku, including 1,200 Germans. A French officer, who has succeeded in getting through from Tientsin to Taku, says that the Russians alone have lost 150 killed and 300 wounded.

Over 4,000 Chinese Killed.

London, June 25.—It was reported from Shanghai Sunday evening that the allied forces had blown up the Taku forts and that every available man had been sent to the relief of Tientsin. Two thousand three hundred Chinese bodies are alleged to have been cremated at Taku and more than 4,000 Chinese are said to have been killed at Tientsin.

Four Americans Killed.

Washington, June 25.—The navy department Sunday afternoon issued the following bulletin:

"A telegram from Admiral Kempff, dated Chefoo, June 24, says: 'In ambuscade near Tientsin, on the 21st, four of Waller's command killed and seven wounded. Names will be furnished as soon as received. Force of 2,000 going to relieve Tientsin to-day. KEMPFF.'"

American Troops for China.

Washington, June 25.—Four thousand five hundred men, under the command of Brig. Gen. R. H. Hall, and a fleet of 16 men-of-war and 500 marines, under the command of Rear Admiral Kempff, will comprise the American force which will protect Americans and their interests in China.

THE DREAD ARMY WORM.

Appears in Immense Numbers Along the Missouri in South Dakota.

Yankton, S. D., June 25.—The dread army worm has appeared on the Missouri sand bars along the river front in this city in such numbers as to cause serious alarm. Twenty or 30 acres of willows have been swept bare and the worms are moving eastward. They invaded J. C. Schott's farm and house and drove the family out. He lost his garden and part of his crops. The worms are from two to three inches long and are said to be the genuine army worm, which sweeps all vegetation clear as it moves.

No One Held Responsible.

St. Louis, June 26.—The coroner's jury, sitting in the inquests on the bodies of Edward Thomas, George Rice and Edward Burkhardt, strikers who were shot and killed on Sunday, June 10, in a riot which took place in front of the barracks of the posse comitatus, at Sixth street and Washington avenue, returned verdicts to the effect that the former was killed by deputies in the discharge of their duties, and that the two latter were killed without justification by parties unknown to the jury. The verdict of homicide in all cases, but no persons were held responsible.

Train Wrecked.

Peoria, Ill., June 23.—A special to the Herald-Transcript says: The Big Four passenger train which left Indianapolis for Peoria Thursday evening at 11 o'clock was wrecked a few miles east of Forster, Ind., at 2:40 Friday morning. The mail car, ladies' coach and sleeper turned over and rolled down an embankment. Four people were injured, among them H. B. Gould and wife, of Peoria, and Charles S. Miller, engineer maintenance of way, Indianapolis. A cloudburst and subsequent heavy rain was the cause of the accident.

A Costly Blaze.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 23.—Fire in one of the principal downtown business blocks Friday caused a loss of $250,000, involving eight buildings containing many office tenants. The aggregate insurance will more than cover this amount. The fire was first discovered in the rear of the Eichbaum company printing establishment, supposedly caused by spontaneous combustion.

Wheat Crop Ruined.

Winnipeg, Man., June 26.—Of 1,800,000 acres under wheat, 1,000,000 acres will never be cut. Rains cannot now change a stunted crop six to eight inches high and a small head into a crop. Best authorities hope for seed and feed, but this is doubtful.

Aged Conductor Dead.

St. Paul, Minn., June 25.—Henry Finehout, aged 81, believed to have been the oldest railroad conductor in the world, died at his home here Sunday. His railroad service extended over a period of 60 years, and he never had an accident.

Kansas Farmers May Combine.

Wichita, Kan., July 25. — Kansas and Oklahoma wheat growers are talking of forming an organization by which they may handle the large crops harvested and get the highest possible price for their output.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Drainage.

Delegates from every county in the upper portion of the Red River Valley congregated at Crookston to attend a meeting of those interested in drainage. The meeting was arranged for at the recent gathering at Grand Forks when the tri-state convention was held, and was intended as auxiliary to the general movement to induce government aid for the reservoir plan of controlling the water, and also had as an object the intention of enlisting state aid in continuing the work of reclaiming the swamp lands that are yet unprovided with an outlet to the natural waterways.

The attendance was fair, considering the brief notice given, 100 delegates being present from various portions of the district sought to be improved. They were in every instance representative men, and took an active interest in the work of the meeting.

The resolutions committee reported recommending the construction of reservoirs at Red Lake and Lake Traverse at the expense of the general government; the opening of that part of the diminished Red Lake reservation in Marshall and Red Lake counties; and asking the legislators from all the valley counties to work to the end that state aid be secured to further the building of canals for drainage and reclaiming the swampy portions of the counties in the Red River Valley. A permanent executive committee was appointed by counties as follows: Wilkin, Ezra G. Valentine; Norman, J. C. Norby; Marshall, Fred Tiedt; Kittson, W. F. Kelso; Roseau, O. Holdahl; Beltrami, C. R. Martin; Big Stone, F. L. Cliff; Clay, Chas. J. Oliver; Red Lake, Henry Norland; Traverse, M. Murphy; Polk, T. A. Hoverstad.

Postponed.

Land sales in Clay, Wilkin and Otter Tail counties set for July 25, 26 and 27, respectively, have been indefinitely postponed by the state auditor. Mr. Dunn believes that because of the uncertain crop conditions a sale at that time would be unprofitable to farmers. Their holdings could not be increased and the profit of the sales would go entirely to the speculators. Heretofore the state land sales have been in the timbered regions, not affected by the crop conditions, but this year the land to be disposed of is on the prairie, and many farmers have been looking forward to the sale as an excellent opportunity for them to enlarge their farms. This would be manifestly impossible at this time of drought and grasshopper scares.

State Normal.

The state normal board met in annual session in St. Paul. Although the session was behind closed doors it developed that a number of warm passages between members of the board occurred. The chief bone of trouble was the election of a president for the St. Cloud normal school. After a hard fight Professor Kleeberger was re-elected. Professor J. F. Millspaugh, Professor Cooper and Professor F. A. Weld, presidents of the three other normals, were re-elected without a dissenting vote.

Still Dancing.

The Indians at Leech Lake, according to the report of Deputy United States Marshals Bunde and Picha, who were in Minneapolis, are still drinking and dancing, and although there is no immediate danger of an uprising, it is feared that it would not take much to make the red man hostile. The Messiah is said to have informed them that his tornado which was to have destroyed all who did not live in tepees several days ago, will not appear until July 4.

Reunion.

Survivors of the old First Minnesota regiment held a reunion at Red Wing. Jens H. Grondahl delivered the address of welcome, to which Frank J. Mead, of the Soldiers' Home, responded. The following officers were elected: President, John Pride, Minneapolis; first vice-president, Newton Brown, Waterville; second vice-president, W. H. Hoyt, St. Paul; secretary, Gus Plummer, Minneapolis; treasurer, M. Marvin, Winona. The next reunion will be held at Waterville.

Extends Its Scope.

The state railroad commission has extended the scope of its inquiry into the reasonableness of existing freight tariffs. Traffic officials of all lines running into the Twin Cities have been so notified, and the effect was the hasty call for a meeting of legal and traffic officials at the general office of the Omaha in St. Paul yesterday. The session lasted some time and adjourned without making known its decision.

That Table.

It was with three raps on the famous Minneapolis South Side high school table that Mark Hanna called the republican national convention to order at Philadelphia. Thus the table, that was made in the manual training department of the Minneapolis schools, did service as the chairman's table at its third national convention. It is in excellent condition.

News in Brief.

Minnesota is included in the list of states which are not allowed to ship cattle to Missouri. Governor Stephens issued a proclamation shutting out the cattle from a number of states because, he says, tuberculosis exist here. It is understood that the edict does not affect the cattle interests of the state, for little is shipped from this state into Missouri.

The colored Methodist churches of Minneapolis and St. Paul have united for the second annual camp meeting, which will be held in Midway from July 1 to August 7.

A warm discussion was provoked at the session of the grand grove of Druids in St. Paul. It was regarding the admission of saloonkeepers and bartenders to membership in the Druids. The contest was won by those favoring admission. It was decided also to continue the bienial sessions.

John Donaher, who has been under arrest on a charge of being implicated in the recent murder of the Wise family, near Anoka, was set at liberty by Sheriff Merrill. He is not the man wanted, and his actions convinced the sheriff that he is not mentally bright. He went directly out of the city, in the direction of St. Cloud.

The Southern Minnesota Picnic Association of the Modern Woodmen of America held their picnic in Mankato, and fully 8,000 people from outside of Mankato participated.

At a recent meeting of the State Medical Board, sixty-four candidates were examined, of whom fifty-four were granted license to practise medicine.

Carl Johanson, 11 years old, accidentally shot and killed his cousin, Frankie Johanson, 9 years old, at Madella. The children took the gun and went down to the river, south of town, and while sliding down a bank in the sand pit the gun was discharged, instantly killing the little fellow.

The jury in the Vig rape case at Crookston returned a verdict of not guilty.

The Northern Pacific conference of Congregational churches held its annual session at Detroit.

The census enumerator of Waite Park failed to make an appearance.

NORTH STAR DEMOCRACY

LINES UP ENTHUSIASTICALLY FOR BRYAN AND TOWNE.

Resolutions and Delegates For the Western Men of the Hour—Now Let the "Effete East" Stop Once and Listen. The Greatest of State Conventions. Marked Difference Between Democratic Enthusiasm and Republican Apathy. And Now For Kansas City, Who's Going?—The Special Train Announcements. Other Political Note—The Great Duluth Freight Strike and Its Deep Significance—State and National Points of the Week.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, June 25, 1900.

By all odds the most imposing, enthusiastic and effective Democratic state convention ever held in the history of the state was that of last week at Minneapolis, announcing the state sentiment on national men and issues, and selecting the state's representation to Kansas City. The convention—with preconvention discussion and speculation and subsequent comment, which has been universal in approval of all the action taken—has almost completely monopolized political interest of the week.

Features of the convention, aside from the large attendance, unbounded enthusiasm and absolute unanimity, may be briefly enumerated, beginning with the address of State Chairman L. A. Rosing, in the course of which, having covered national and state issues and the record of the state administration, he paid well deserved compliments to his associates of the state central committee and the committeemen throughout the state, especially to Hon. T. D. O'Brien, our popular national committeeman, and to Secretary T. R. Kane for his untiring labors. Mr. Rosing concluded with such a reference to Mr. Towne as touched off the pent-up enthusiasm of the convention for our beloved son, and was the keynote of the ringing endorsement of Mr. Towne, brought in by the committee on resolutions.

A distinct feature was Mr. Hudson's address as temporary and permanent chairman, and the ability with which he conducted the convention.

Other features were the speeches of the gentlemen called upon by the convention, including Mayor Gray of Minneapolis, Mr. Kane and Governor Lind. The latter's was probably one of the shortest speeches on record and never-the-less one of the most effective.

Another feature was the unanimity with which the delegation to Kansas City was selected, not a single ballot being required. Like unanimity was shown in action upon the platform adopted. It was significant that the recognition of Mr. Bryan and Mr. Towne was almost synonomous with the Sioux Falls resolutions, while the money plank is almost exactly the same as adopted by the Peoples party at that convention.

And a very significant feature was the enthusiastic response of the convention to every mention of Governor Lind or his administration.

And speaking of the deep interest attending the convention, what a contrast between the Democratic enthusiasm and the Republican lack of it as to the Republican national convention. During the early days of the Philadelphia-Hanna affair, there was no gathering at the bulletin boards in either St. Paul or Minneapolis. And there was no popular greeting in either place to the nominees when announced.

And now the question is, are you going to Kansas City? If not, why not? It is the duty of every son of the state to go who possibly can. Full particulars of the trip are obtainable from either Democratic or Silver Republican headquarters.

Speaking of the convention trains, both will have bands and both will be decorated for Bryan and Towne "to beat the band." "Solid trains through for Bryan and Towne" they will be. The convention train roads, the Chicago Great Western and the Minneapolis and St. Louis, will do their utmost to deserve the honor accorded them in their selection as official roads.

The next and the last state political events prior to the election will be the state nominating conventions for the Democrats and Peoples party, respectively. Both have been called for Sept. 6 and there is every indication of uniting on one ticket.

Speaking of combines, in the line of those covered by the state convention's denunciation of the Hanna-Payne subsidy, there is a situation at Duluth not only distressing to home shipping interests, but of threatening danger to every interest of Minnesota. This is the understood combine in control of lake rates. The matter seems carefully hidden by some at least of the daily press, who give meager reports to events unless they are favorable to the combine. Thus the published reports are that trouble as to rates has again been patched up, whereas the existing peace seems to be that the lion has the lamb inside, instead of running along by its side. The following summary is made by a gentleman in a position to know, almost officially, what is the real situation:

"The present trouble," says this gentleman, "is the culmination of an old scheme. In the shipping season of 1898 it was commonly talked that the small craft was being forced off the lake. There is now a strong combination, of which Rockefeller is at the head, which, while there was a show of competition, forced the rates down so that the small craft couldn't live. Having practically frozen them out, the rates are now so exorbitant that vessels have lain idle, for the reason that shippers couldn't use them and keep from loss. The little ones are now practically out of the carrying business. This will also affect the independent mine owners and lumbermen, who will find that they cannot ship without prohibitive rates, while the firm at the head of the steamship combine practically controls the mining and lumber business, and so can afford to pay heavily out of one hand into the other. The combine now demands a freight rate that is larger than has been known before, and the days for cheap carrying rates on the lakes are over. This state of affairs is vitally interesting and dangerous to shippers tributary to Duluth."

Particulars concerning this situation will be awaited with deep interest, for it may reasonably be expected that this "murder will out." And yet it will be a question, as Hanna would say, of "What are you going to do about it?" For those fellows who are seizing on the great waterway that God has provided and Uncle Sam improved for use of all the people will say, like Hanna, "We know our business."

Speaking of other transportation interests, decreased railway earnings over last year, marked decreases, as well as in bank clearings, are further gold-standard, Mark Hanna prosperity signs for June to this date.

It actually worried the goppite Fairmont News that Adjutant General Lambert turned out in military uniform to welcome the Boers. Why, bless you, nothing more proper, considering the fight the Boers put up against powerful England—a fight, by the way, they would never have had to make had the McKinley administration been truly American.

The American Federation of Labor raises its banner of unionism and will make the test fight under the leadership of President Gompers, taking the St. Louis cases as the foundation. It need be every city in the country will be involved. Since the St. Louis corporations made that distinct issue, by its refusal to arbitrate the question of union rights, no other course is left labor than to make the fight to the bitter end. Already orders against going to cities affected by strikes are out for a dozen or more large places. President Gompers has an army of 2,000,000 in the unions to follow him, and he has the moral support of a large majority of the people of the land.

The New York World gives the list of trusts organized in the last two years of the McKinley administration. It fills two columns of small type, footing hundreds of millions of dollars. They are more in number and amounts than were organized before in all the history of the country. Four more years of it under McKinley promotion, and where would the country be.

The Republican national committee would skin the Southern officeholders alive, they would, for interference with politics, and passed a resolution calling on McKinley to attend to it. Then Hanna quietly asked Payne to put the paper in his pocket, and he did. That's the way they will do with trusts.

The state railroad commission while investigating rate charges in the southwest, have found reason to investigate rates in general in the state, and such a hearing will be commenced June 26, of which all the roads have been given due notice.

Bad omens from the rep Hanna convention are too numerous to mention. But the most distressing, after the ominous "thirteen" of the minute when Foraker spoke Little Mack's name! was Hanna's entanglement with a funeral procession on the way to the convention on the fatal morning.

And they do say that the manufactured cheering of McKinley lasted thirteen minutes. Blaine's in 1884 lasted three times thirteen, and all know what happened to Blaine.

The death's head and crossbones, also, of Kentucky Taylor were conspicuous, not to mention Quay and other dead things. Altogether the goppite outlook is full of forebodings.

And by way of correction of the statement elsewhere of no enthusiastic ratification in the Twin Cities, Minneapolis had one, with 100 Republicans taking a 10-cent, gold-standard lunch, with ice water, which they called "banquit."

And speaking of conditions, gold continues to go abroad, and Uncle Sam's surplus now stands but a trifle above $65,000,000.

Depew called Mr. Bryan a "body-snatcher." He is right. He has the G. O. P. corpse in the vat.

Even our esteemed "independent" Minneapolis Times discusses the "improbability" of confidential or other letters of W. J. Bryan having been "found" in Aguinaldo's captured correspondence. Along about election time it will be natural for a good many things to be "found," in this way However, The Times seems rather to discredit the story!

Thanks to prompt action by Governor Lind and Professor Lugger, state entomologist, fears felt at the appearance of grasshoppers in portions of the Red River valley are diminishing. The governor has increased the state allowance to fight the hoppers, and the late rains in that region have assisted to stop the threatened spread of the pests.

THE REPORT OF A MAN OF EXPERIENCE.

What He Found in Western Canada to Induce Him to Settle.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 20, 1900.

To whom it may concern, especially to those who are desirous of obtaining health and wealth for themselves and families, I wish to state a few facts in regard to the Canadian Northwest, where I went, leaving Sault Ste. Marie on May 2nd, 1899, for the purpose of seeking a better home for my family in the future. I got a special rate ticket for Ft. McLeod, Alberta. Through Manitoba and part of Assiniboia the farmers were busy employed ploughing and seeding. I found the farmers very kind and friendly, willing to talk and assist in giving me the particulars of the country. At McLeod I spent a few days looking over some ranchers' stock, which I was surprised to see looking so well; they were in better condition than any stock I ever saw in Michigan, even those that had been stabled, and most of these had never seen the inside of a shed or received any feed from the hands of man. But as I was looking for mixed farm land I found McLeod no place for me, it is only fit for ranching purposes.

Retracing my way back to Winnipeg, I stopped off at Lethbridge where I found some of the greatest horse-ranches I ever had the pleasure of looking at; it is a fine level country and lots of water and good grazing. At Medicine Hat, which is located in a valley, there were lots of sheep, cattle and horses in the surrounding country and all looking well.

On July 14th I went on to Regina; there I began to see mixed farming lands in abundance and the crops looking remarkably well, and as long as daylight lasted I saw the same all along the line, and on the 15th of July I arrived in Winnipeg, just in time for the Exhibition; there I met with one of the most beautiful pictures of the world's records, for as soon as I entered the grounds my eyes met with all kinds of machinery, all in motion, and the cattle, grain and produce of the country was far beyond my expectation, in fact it was beyond any industrial exhibition or agricultural fair I ever visited, and I have seen a good many.

From Regina to Prince Albert, a distance of 250 miles, it is all good for mixed farming, and well settled, with some thriving little towns. In some places the grain, just coming into head, would take a man to the waist, and the wild fruit along the line was good, rich and in great quantities; from Saskatoon on the south branch of the Saskatchewan river to Prince Albert on the north branch of the same river, is one of the best farming districts without any doubt that ever laid face to the sun, and everything to be found there that is necessary to make life comfortable; all that is required is labor. There is lots of wood, good water and abundant hay land, and the climate is excellent.

Prince Albert is a flourishing little place, situated on the north Saskatchewan river, having a population of about 1,800, with good streets and sidewalks and churches of nearly every denomination, three schoolhouses and another one to be built at once; also a Brewery and Creamery. Here I stayed for about four months, working at my trade of brick-laying, and met with farmers and ranchers with whom I made it my special business to talk in regard to the prospects. I also visited several farmers for some distance out in the country while crops were in full bloom and I may say that I never saw better crops in all my travels than I saw along the valley towards Stoney Creek and Carrot River. In the market garden there is grown currants, both red and black, and as fine a sample of roots and vegetables as ever went on a market. The soil in and around this district cannot be beaten for anything you may wish to grow, and besides the season is long, giving time for everything to mature. The cattle were looking as good as I saw anywhere, good pasture and hay land, and plenty of water wherever you go. The country is dotted all around like islands with timber fit for fuel and building purposes and within a day's walk of lumbering-woods, where lumbering and tie-making is carried on, in winter. Both large and small game is plentiful. There are two good sawmills in this district, with a good supply of all grades of lumber all the year round and also two good brickyards with an excellent quality of brick. There is no scarcity of building material and at a reasonable price. Clothing and living are no higher than I find in Michigan, and furthermore I wish to say that there is a great demand for laboring men all the year round and good wages ranging from $1.75 to $2.00 per day, and from $25.00 to $35.00 per month with board.

I wish to say that I am perfectly satisfied with the country and I intend to return to Prince Albert early in the spring of 1900. Any reasonable man can go there and in from five to ten years make a good and comfortable home for himself and family, and if any person into whose hand this letter should fall, desires more information, please write to me and I will freely give them my best opinion. I am writing this for the benefit of those who may want to make a better home for themselves and families or friends.

Trusting that this statement may be useful to you in the publication of your next pamphlet and be the means of guiding at least some of those who are in search of a home, I remain,

Your humble servant,
(Signed) WILLIAM PAYNE.

ANSWERS FOR THE ANXIOUS.

Some Sapient Suggestions for the Edification of Unenlightened Inquirers.

Glorianna B., of Westport, writes: "I have a young gentleman caller who is always trying to kiss me. How shall I dissuade him?"

You should dissuade him with a hatpin or an ax, Glorianna, but as an all-around anti-kiss argument there is nothing so dissuading and at the same time painless as a large Bermuda onion, says the Baltimore American. You should eat one or two or three before the kissing bug flies around.

"Musician," of Waverly, wants to know how to discover whether or not her piano keys are ivory or celluloid.'

Touch them carefully with a lighted match. If they are celluloid you should then call the fire department.

"Housewife," of Roland Park, asks: "How can I keep roaches out of lard?"

Place the butter near by. They prefer it.

"Lucy F.," of Highlandtown, says: "My hair brush shows a good many falling hairs every day. How can I stop them?"

Soak the brush in glue over night.

"Rube:" It certainly was inhospitable of your friend, whom you were visiting, to refuse to allow you to use his tooth brush. However, we should cultivate a sweetness of disposition which will enable us to overlook such traits in others.

"Worried," of Catonsville: The quickest way to remove indelible ink from a carpet is to pour muriatic acid on the spot. Any carpenter can mend the hole it will make in the floor.

TOO LITTLE DEBATE.

Senator Green's Opinion of the Services Held in an Episcopal Church.

Senator Benton, of Missouri, one of the most conspicuous figures of the century in either house of congress, had a formidable antagoinst in Senator James Stephen Green. Congressman Hitt, according to the Chicago Chronicle, relates this anecdote of the two gladiators:

"Senator Green was not only a man of splendid genius, but of charming manner. He boarded at the National hotel, where he was popular with men and women. The latter found out that the senator was not much of a churchgoer and insisted that he should mend his ways in that regard. One Sunday he was late for dinner. The women asked him why.

"'I have been attending divine worship,' replied the senator, gravely.

"To what church did you go, senator?' asked a woman.

"'I don't know,' answered the courtly Missourian. 'I walked up the avenue, turned up Fourth street and entered a church on the left-hand side.' This was an Episcopal church.

"'How did you like the services?' asked another woman.

"'It appeared to me,' answered the senator, 'that there was too much reading of the journal and too little debate.'"

THE REAL STORY

How Mr. Shakespeare's Poetic License Put a Twist in Julius Caesar.

Col. Julius Caesar, Maj. Brutus and Capt. Marc Anthony were sitting in Sextus Boozem's cafe one evening, discussing affairs of the Sixth ward, when a portly individual dropped a sesterce into the slot machine and strained the outfit to find his weight, relates the Baltimore American. After he had gone Col. Caesar remarked:

"I like these fat guys. They can't get around fast enough to do any assassinating."

"So do I like them," said Brutus. "A fat man is a good fellow to go swimming with."

"Well," said Marc, "I'm interested in a toga factory down here on the Appian Way, and, of course, we would rather sell togas to the fat men than to the skinny ones."

"I like 'em," interrupted Sextus Boozem, who was wiping off the table with the skirt of his toga. "I like 'em, because they hold more than the other kind."

Of course, when Shakespeare dramatized the story he took liberties with it, just as dramatists do to this day.

Lincoln Talk That Didn't Go.

That altruism has no place in end-of-the-century politics was illustrated in the last aldermanic campaign. One night it fell to the lot of William E. O'Neill, the young attorney who was recently honored with the republican nomination for congress in the Third district, to address a meeting of colored citizens in behalf of his friend, William Hale Thompson, who was running for alderman in the Second ward. During the course of his eloquent speech Mr. O'Neill took occasion to remind the brethren of the great debt they owed to the republican party and to its patron saint, the martyred president, who had stricken the shackles from the limbs of their forebears. "Jes' stop right heah, Mistah Speakah," interrupted a man in the front row. "They's no doubt about the gemman bein' a powahful oratah, but I want to tell him this heah Lincoln talk doan' go; it doan' buy no clothes for the missus nor no shoes for de chillun."—Chicago Chronicle.

To Meet the Scenery.

Mr. T. Erribleigh Swell told his stenographer to write a note to a friend of his, asking him to dine "al fresco." The young lady put her Libby novel where she could reach it, and tapped off:

"You are requested to dine with Mr. Albert Fresco at my home to-morrow evening. Yours as ever, T. Erribleigh Swell."

For Shooters and Fishermen.

The new 1900 edition of "Shooting and Fishing Along the Line of the Great Northern Railway" is without an equal amongst books of this class. It is handsomely bound in colored covers, of new and attractive design. It is printed on fine plate paper, in two colors, is beautifully illustrated with photographs reproduced in half-tone, and is in all respects a magnificent specimen of the printer's art.

Complete information is given about all sorts and conditions of sport, from lion and grizzly bear to "cotton-tails," and including every fish that swims in the many lakes and rivers of the wide Northwestern states.

All the little details of lakes, boats, bait, distances, etc., have been carefully compiled by practical sportsmen, and will be found a great convenience to anyone planning a trip. A new map of Minnesota in three colors is bound into each book.

The hunter or fisherman who is the fortunate possesser of this encyclopedia of sport in the Northwest needs no further guide to tell him where to go a-fishing or shooting. By mail for two cents from F. I. Whitney, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

The Foolish Maiden.

"What is love?" asked the Maiden.

The Misanthrope replied:

"Love is the most dangerous form of insanity, teaching its victim to disregard the first law of nature—self-preservation."

"What is love?" asked the Maiden, turning to the Child, which replied:

"Love is that which leads my parents to bring me things home, and the regard I have for them on such occasions."

"What is love?" asked the Maiden once more, this time of another Maiden of many years.

"It is," said she, "an unsatisfied longing for something you cannot get."

TO WOMEN WHO DOUBT.

Every Suffering Woman Should Read this Letter and be Convinced that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Cure Female Weakness.

"I have been troubled with female weakness in its worst form for about ten years. I had leucorrhœa and was so weak that I could not do my housework. I also had failing of the womb and inflammation of the womb and ovaries and at menstrual periods I suffered terribly. At times my back would ache very hard. I could not lift anything or do any heavy work; was not able to stand on my feet. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for doctors but they did me no good. After a time I concluded to try your medicine and I can truly say it does all that you claim for it to do.

Ten bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and seven packages of Sanative Wash have made a new woman of me. I have had no womb trouble since taking the fifth bottle. I weigh more than I have in years; can do all my own housework, sleep well, have a good appetite and now feel that life is worth living. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel that it has saved my life and would not be without it for anything. I am always glad to recommend your medicine to all my sex, for I know if they follow your directions, they will be cured."—MRS. ANNIE THOMPSON, South Hot Springs, Ark.

A DEAD LIVER

He thinks he lives, but he's a dead one. No person is really alive whose liver is dead. During the winter most people spend nearly all their time in warm, stuffy houses or offices or workshops. Many don't get as much exercise as they ought, and everybody knows that people gain weight in winter. As a rule it is not sound weight, but means a lot of flabby fat and useless, rotting matter staying in the body when it ought to have been driven out. But the liver was overburdened, deadened—stopped work. There you are, with a dead liver, and spring is the time for resurrection. Wake up the dead! Get all the filth out of your system, and get ready for the summer's trials with clean, clear blood, body, brain free from bile. Force is dangerous and destructive unless used in a gentle persuasive way, and the right plan is to give new strength to the muscular walls of the bowels, and stir up the liver to new life and work with CASCARETS, the great spring cleaner, disinfectant and bowel tonic. —Star gazers were out evenings this week looking over the eastern horizon for Saturn and his sattelites.

—The rain on Tuesday afternoon was fine and highly appreciated by everybody. More just like it would also be gladly received.

—The raging Crow will, at the rate of the past few years, be known as a thing of the past very soon. Each year finds it dryer and growing up to weeds and grass.

—Several of our gardeners announce that they have had new potatoes so early this season notwithstanding the dry weather. This seems earlier than usual for potatoes.

—Quite a building boom is on in Delano; two new houses on S. Second street, Bartlett's new mill, and an addition to a house near the creamery on the Brooklyn side.

—Street sprinkler Shaw enjoyed a few hours leisure for the first time since he undertook the job, on Tuesday afternoon. He enjoys a good shower as much as anybody.

—C. M. Conzet received a letter from his brother Henry, at Belfour, N. D., which says that that locality is the best in Dakota to hold moisture, or do well without rain.

—Again we begin reading in the papers of prostrations by heat. Minneapolis had three Monday. The mercury has hovered around the 100 degree mark every day this week.

—C. M. Conzet has just ordered a large supply of special sweat pads which he invented, known as "C. M. Conzet Sweat Pad" They are to be here this week or next and are just the thing for horses during harvest.

—South River street has been greatly improved by being widened and graded in front of the Catholic church property. The sidewalk has been taken up for half a block and we learn that at least a part of it is to be cement when re-laid.

—Prof. E. M. Cunningham and Claus Johnson took 119 fish out of Lake Rebeccah, last Monday afternoon, most all croppies, but also caught some pickeral and bass, on sunfish hooks. One pickeral was a seven and a half pounder.

—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Coffin and son, of Minneapolis, returned home Wednesday after a few day's visit with the former's mother in this city. —St. Peter Free Press.

Elmer will be remembered as a member of the GAZETTE force in his younger days.

—Carver's court, at the corner of River street and R. R. Ave. is in almost continuous session these hot days. Cases of all kinds are thoroughly tried before a full bench. Nothing is too intricate or mysterious for discussion. Astronomy is the latest subject and is much more elevating than many others that have had hearings.

—A mad dog scare comes from Greenwood, Hennepin county. It is claimed that a dog went through the country and bit several dogs, all of which have been killed; several pigs, that have since died; and a cow that was severely lacerated over the head and lips. The cow's wounds healed, and so far she seemed as well as ever, but people are living in dread. The health officer concluded to communicate with the secretary of the state board of health concerning the case, and find out what is best to do with the cow.

—Farmers are making hay much more economically than ever before in this section; fence corners and out of the way places are eagerly sought out and every spear gathered in. We predict that hay will be cheaper towards spring than it is now. Everybody will make all he can and save it in good shape. When there is plenty no one is so saving; and this year a good many farmers will cut more than they ever have before, on account of marshes and shallow lakes being dry. There is also a second crop to figure on, which may be as good as usual, as it is not likely the present drouth will continue all summer.

—Wm. M. Liggett, director of the experiment station sends out circular letters headed "Do Not Sacrifice Your Stock Now". He says: "Many farmers, alarmed at the shortage of pasture, as well as oats and hay crops, are already selling their cattle. While the drouth in the Northwest is serious do not overlook the fact that Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and other states have an abundance of food of all kinds, and the farmers in these states will be willing to pay good prices for stockers in the autumn months." He advises the planting of fodder corn, oats and barley mixed, oats alone sown as late as the first week in July, or rape may be grown as late. Write him for advice, and don't get scared and sell short of cows so long as there is any food at all.

—A hack will be run between Delano and Rockford on the Fourth.

—Lebore's team took a spirt this a. m. demolishing the buggy. Nobody hurt.

—Mayor Lohmiller had his potatoes plowed Tuesday, immediately after the shower. He thinks now he may get a crop after all.

—Hay meadows seem to be the most valuable parts of farms in this vicinity this year; that is, where they have good hay on.

—Rev. Savs deserves credit for the earnestness with which he entered into the plan for improving the church property by grading and new sidewalk.

—Several new signs are to be seen on Rail Road Ave., this week. Charley Wiese, Dr. J. C. O'Connor and J. C. McDonald are among those having them hung up.

—A numerously signed petition to the Village Council to extend the water system to S. Second street is ready for presentation to the Council at the next meeting.

—The evening train east on the G. N. has been changed back to the old time near 4 p. m. instead of and hour later. Don't get left if you are going east in the evening.

—Joseph Ludescher, south of town, turned his cattle into his oat field, and when they had finished it, plowed it up. He may raise some fodder corn or millet for winter vet.

—Walter Burrows, of Rockford, hauled hay to Delano this week. He said $6.00 for last year's hay, and some two years old, is a pretty fair price for not very good hay either.

—So many of the boys who played ball last Sunday received injuries of various kinds as to make some of them think some other day than Sunday would be better for base ball playing.

—Quite a supply of wood has been laid in at the power house. It seems our village authorities prefer wood to coal yet. Possibly when the Richmond coal mines in Stearns county get to running full blast we can get coal to better advantage and for cheaper prices.

—The Delano High School library is open every Saturday forenoon to any one in the village who wants to take out books during the summer, and should be made good use of. An evening with some good book is much more profitably spent than by going to the depot to see the train come in.

—Assessor Valentine Eppel tells us that his assessments of Delano foot up for real estate, $98,743 for personal property, $58,255. This is a gain of a couple of thousand over the last assessment on each That don't seem like a very big wave of prosperity for such a thriving village as Delano is supposed to be.

—H. C. Parslow informs us that a twenty year old son of Fred Burley, at Hasson, on Sunday, June 18, played base ball and got overheated and drank ice water from which he got inflamation of the bowels and died on Saturday, June 16. Richard Wiggins drove to Delano last Sunday for Rev. Hixon who accompanied him to Hasson to preach the funeral on Monday.

—Members of the board of education will be chosen next month. Have your men picked out. Don't get fooled into selecting men unfit, unwilling or too careless to attend to the duties of members of such an important board. Upon the school officers very much depends as to the kind of a school our village will have. All desire to see Delano High School in the front rank.

—Vol. I, No. I, of the Richmond Standard came to our table this week. It is published at the coal mines of Stearns county, and is a neat six column folio. The editor, James H. O'Leary, well known as a former member of the GAZETTE force promises next week to make his paper seven columns folio. His Bulletin business is to be carried on with headquarters at Richmond. Success Jim, success.

—Several of the men at work shingling on John Gralla's new residence on South Second street, on Wednesday, had a narrow escape. The scantling used for a foot rest gave way and precipitated some to the staging below. George Erickson caught his hatchet into the boards so as to hold himself, but Frank Gralla fell to the ground injuring his hip and otherwise bruising him. He is confined to his bed from the effects of the fall.

—The village hippodrome, located by village Surveyor Maxfield, and running full blast this week is quite a large one, including parts of River, Rockford and second streets and a passage through the Catholic church property. The sprinkler was brought into requisition, so that the dust was laid, the chariots and chargers and drivers, entered upon the course and pursued each other around the ring periodically, and with great regularity, owing to the manipulations of the Belt on Second street. The result of this circus is to be a couple of nicely graded streets and cement sidewalks, which will add much to the beauty and greatly facilitate travel in the south end of the village.

Farmers and others begin to feel year anxious about crops. It has the appearance of a total failure in many places, of everything, unless rain comes in a very few days, and then there will be a very short crop of everything on the farm.

The street commissioner has been making many substantial improvements on the village streets during the past week.

Crow river has nearly run dry. Not much water power.

Maple Plain.

It seems the signs of the times are warning us of an approaching danger We hear of wars and rumors of wars, pestilence and famine, casualties, murder and strife. But then we read that all these are only the beginning of sorrow. But then they tell us, you are only a kicker, and there is no cause for alarm. This has been the old, old story, from the time the devil seduced our fore parents in the garden of Eden up to the present time. Belshazzar thought this while feasting his thousand lords; but the hand writing on the wall caused his knees to smite one against the other, and in that night was the king of the Chaldeans slain and the land was given to the Medes and Persians. It seems strange, men well versed in ancient and modern history do not know that there was never a republic that did not fall, and ours might not be an exception to the rule; anyway it should behove us to well guard against all things that is calculated to bring about dissatisfaction and disorder.

We have read up the proceedings of the great national convention which was held at Philadelphia last week, where they put in nomination William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt at the head of the national republican ticket. If all they declare in their platform is true and for the best interest of the country, then we have no cause for alarm. In their platform they renewed their triple relations by reafirming their faith and allegiance to a high protective tariff, the single gold standard and declaring against free coinage of silver. They tell us the silver issue is forever dead and will never be resurrected. So the Jews thought of Christ when they put him to death. From the early dawn of the republican party in every state and national platform up to 1896, they declared for bimetalism, free coinage of both gold and silver on a parity; but at that national convention they had a change of heart. A revelation had come to them through some prophet that silver was a spurious money no better than potmetal or the drippings from an iron foundry; and so they delared for a single gold standard, the money of kings, princes and nobles. McKinley was nominated at that convention, 1896, for president, on a single gold standard platform. While he was a congressman he never failed to vote for silver, first, last, and all the time. Why so soon this change of heart? The last Congress passed the single gold standard bill, making gold the only money of redemption in this country. And as Bonaparte said of the English army when he was about to meet them in open combat on the plains of Waterloo, "Ah ye Englishmen! I have you at last." and so the Bank of England, the Wall street bankers and the money power of this country have us, and there will be no Blutcher come to our rescue. With this iron grip (the gold currency bill) the money power can, if they see fit (and they will sometime) bring on a money panic in 48 hours in this country, and the poor will have nowhere to go. If for 80 years free silver answered our purpose in trade and commerce, what is the matter that it so soon became a spurious money? Has all this been done for the interest of the men who work in the mines, the shop, and the fields? They have been told so, and many of them, I am sorry to say, believe it. I am sorry to see men laugh and chuckle at their own calamity. What did the republicans say in their platform at Philadelphia about trusts? It was high popilorum or low popiburum, just as you are a mind to take it. It was left so you could put your own construction upon it. The republicans think the election of their men to office is assured. This may prove true and no doubt in many respects it would be as well, for should the other side get in their hands would be tied, and then would come the cry "I told you so, if the democrats got in you would have nothing but hard times for four years". And should the democrats get in, the republicans can and will bring this about. It seems to be dog eat dog with the two old parties. A country like this that God has done everything for, and that there has been so much money and many lives lost to perpetuate its free institutions, should be such a bone of contention, and all for greed, office, and the emoluments thereof.

Our growing crops are much in need of rain. Everything will be short in the way of grain and provender. Farmers are taking that dreadful disease the blues. Many have to haul water from the lakes for domestic purposes.

The prohibitionists had a meeting at Armstrong last Friday evening.

John Hillstrom, who was burned out on Memorial day is putting up a new house.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22, 1900.

Notwithstanding the juggling by the republican leaders with the Vice Presidential nomination, which every body saw through, the Hanna made ticket which was nominated at Philadelphia and the Washington made platform adopted have evoked not the slightest enthusiasm in Washington, although the numerical strength of the bread and butter brigade at the National Capitol, and Roosevelt's considerable personal following, led many to suppose that there would be at least a bluff made at some sort of an enthusiastic demonstration. About the only hurrahs heard in Washington have come from delegates to the convention who stopped on their way home, and those hurrahs were not the result of enthusiasm but of whiskey or other intoxicants. But that, of course, does not worry Boss Hanna. It is boodle, not enthusiasm, that he relies upon to duplicate his '96 business.

Nothing more contradictory was ever put into a party platform than the declarations of the republican platform that "We endorse the administration of William McKinley", and "We favor the construction, ownership, control and protection of an isthmian canal by the government of the U. S." Mr. McKinley's administration is responsible for the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which, if ratified, would make the carrying out of that plank of the platform an impossibility. The platform did not dare endorse by name the Hanna-Payne ship subsidy job, but merely asks for "legislation which will enable us to recover our former place among the trade carrying fleets of the world" It is certain that Hanna's subsidy job won't do it.

Mr. McKinley did not take kindly to the suggestion that an extra session of Congress be called to determine the policy of this government towards the proposed invasion of China by an allied army. He preferred to jump head foremost into an alliance with the imperial governments of Europe, and Japan, and U. S. troops are now being hurriedly sent to take part in the invasion. If his action does not lead to entangling foreign complications, many shrewd men will be mistaken in their predictions.

One of the reasons for republican alarm about the great middle west was concisely given by Mr. J. V. Beal, of Akron, Ohio, now in Washington, when he said: "The industrial situation in some of the manufacturing states of the middle western states is decidedly gloomy. The big trusts; which one hears so much about in the East, and the evil effects of which are felt comparatively little here, have been destructive to a large number of factories in our section of the country. There is hardly a manufacturing city of any size in Ohio, Indiana, or Illinois, where one or more factories have not been closed down on account of the combination in some particular line of goods. The result has been that a good many people have been thrown out of employment in recent months. Little has been heard of these matters, because nearly everybody had been making good money and had enough left to support themselves for some time, while they looked for other employment. But a great deal of hardship has resulted."

Some of Boss Hanna's millionaire allies have undertaken the contract of aiding the Philadelphia ticket by steadily forcing the price of wheat upward during the campaign, for the purpose of trying to propitiate the disgruntled farmers of wheat growing sections. This may be a good thing for those wheat growers who may be able to take advantage of it, but it will have its risks, both for the wheat growers and the republican ticket. If it should appear at any time to the millionaire syndicate that they can make more money by letting the bottom drop out of the scheme than by carrying it out, they will be apt to do it. Millionaires never allow anything to stand in the way of accumulating other millions.

Democrats do not lack live issues for this campaign, and by no means the least of them is the extraordinary extravagance of the government under the McKinley administration. In the language of Representative Richardson, of Tenn., the able democratic leader of the House and Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committe, "The cost of running this government has been $300,000,000 more annually for the last three years than it was before the war with Spain was fought. It is a serious question whether this vast increase is fully warranted. Was the war with Spain worth $900,000,000 to the American people? If the war wasn't worth $900,000,000, it is for the republican party to explain why our expenditures should not be materially reduced." That is straight talk and strictly true. If the people wish to continue reckless and extravagant expenditures just because taxation produces the money, they will continue the republican party in power. But if they wish the government administered on the same economical system which rules in every well conducted business establishment, they will turn the government over to the democratic party, which stands for retrenchment in public expenditures. This issue is not likely to be lost sight of.

Free To Inventors.

The experience of C. A. Snow & Co. in obtaining more than 20,000 patents for inventors has enabled them to helpfully answer many questions relating to the protection of intellectual property. This they have done in a pamphlet treating briefly of United States and foreign patents, with cost of same, and how to procure them; trade marks, designs, caveats, infringements, decisions in leading patents cases, etc., etc.

This pamphlet will be sent free to anyone writing to C. A. Snow & Co. Washington, D. C.

HOHENLINDEN.

On Linden, when the sun was low,
All bloodless lay the untrodden snow,
And dark as winter was the flow
Of Iser rolling rapidly.

But Linden saw another sight,
When the drum beat at dead of night,
Commanding fires of death to light
The darkness of her scenery.

By torch and trumpet fast arrayed,
Each horseman drew his battle-blade,
And furious every charger neighed,
To join the dreadful revelry.

Then shook the hills with thunder riven,
Then rushed the steed to battle driven,
And louder than the bolts of heaven,
Far flashed the red artillery.

But redder yet that light shall glow
On Linden's hills of stained snow,
And bloodier yet the torrent flow
Of Iser, rolling rapidly.

'Tis morn, but scarce yon level sun
Can pierce the war-clouds, rolling dun,
Where furious Frank, and fiery Hun,
Shout in their sulphurous canopy.

The combat deepens. On, ye brave,
Who rush to glory, or the grave!
Wave, Munich! all thy banners wave!
And charge with all thy chivalry!

Few, few shall part where many meet!
The snow shall be their winding-sheet,
And every turf beneath their feet
Shall be a soldier's sepulchre.

THOMAS CAMPBELL.

ONE of the worst fires, since the great Chicago fire, causing the most loss of life and property, occured in New York last Saturday. Three large ocean liners, a number of canal and tug boats and several piers were distroyed, and 250 lives were lost. The property loss is estimated at $10,000,000.

OF all the dailies of the Twin Cities the Pioneer Press has the wildest and most rabid editor writing for it of any. His, or we are sometimes compelled to think her articles are often very amusing and ludicrous. In the issue of July 4 "she" has an article headed "The Copperheads Go to Far". The very head shows weakness and the article contains phrases and assertion and calls names in as senseless a manner as could be expected of ten or fifteen year old boys of the slum districts in a fight. He says in his heavy argument that most of the leaders of democracy have shown themselves to be absolutely bereft of decency and patrotism; and goes on in a raphsody about Croker, the product and glory of the slums; says the American people will hang higher than Haman the politician, or set of politicians, who venture to question their rights as to certain things, and "Deluded as the Pioneer Press believes the democratic rank and file to be" also that the leaders of the democratic party are following a course "whose sole purpose is to tie the hands of the president in his eudeavor to save the lives of those Americans pent up in Peking and elsewhere in China". How foolish this last assertation! He calls the large number of citizens who are opposed to imperialism, "crazy lot of anti-imperialists." Evidently the editor was hot about something or wasn't feeling well.

We've heard about bigoted bombistic bumcombe, but a good sensible editorial against the democratic party, its leaders and doctrines is read with as much interest and respect by democrats as one in favor of the same, but the article refered to is not to our mind in that class.

THE Warship Oregon which run agroun on Chinese shore a week ago is reported again floated.

THE International forces at Tien Tsin numbering 12,000 men are surrounded by Chinese and are holding them off with extreme difficulty.

THE Democratic convention failed to get their candidates in nomination on the Fourth as they expected because they didn't have their platform ready and "time and tide wait for no man".

THE French people are greatly pleased over the presentation of the Lafayette statue to France at the Paris exposition, by the United States, and the press devotes much space to friendly coment on the Lafayette fete given in honor of the noble Frenchman who did so much to help launch this republic among the nations of the world.

AFFAIRS in China look more serious with every news from the orient. The Chinese Emperor was forced to commit suicide and the dowager empress is insane from an overdose of opium which she was forced to take under compulsion of Prince Tuan the Chinese Usurper. All foreigners in Pekin are reported massacred and large Chinese armies are on the march against the international forces. Report says that the Chinese army numbers 1,700,000 men and that nearly 1,000,000 Mauser rifles were imported during the past three years. If the above statements are true there is evidently good prospects of serious trouble before the pig tailed desciples of Confucius are taught the exis- of other nations and peoples on the earth.

MIXED HIS LETTERS.

Editors have their troubles. One of these men who preside over the destinies of a Western paper is morning the loss of two subscribers. One wrote asking how to raise twins safely, while the other might rid his orchard of grasshoppers. The answer went forward by mail, but by accident the editor put them into the rong envelopes, so that the man with the twins received the answer "cover them carefully with straw and set fire to it, and then the little pests, after jumping in the flames for a few minutes, will be speadily settled." And the man with grasshoppers was told to "give castor oil and rub their gums with a bone."Ex.

SHOTT AND NOT.

A duel was lately fought in Texas by Alexendor Shott and John S. Nott. Nott was shott and Shott was not. In this case it is better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was not shot, but Shott avors that he was not, which proves either that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot, or that Nott was shot notwithstanding.

It may be made to appear on trial that the shot Shott shot shot Nott, or as accidents with firearms are frequent, it may be possible that the shot Shott shot shot Shott himself, when the whole affair would resolve itself into the original element and Shott would be shot and Nott would be not.

We think, however, that the shot Shott shot shot, not Shott, but Nott. Anyway it is hard to tell who is shot.—Youth's Companion.

Democracy.

Webster defines democracy:

1. Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and directly exercised by the people.

2. Government by popular representation; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but is indirectly exercised through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed; a constitutional representative government; a republic.

3. Collectively the people, regarded as the source of government.

4. The principles and policy of the Democratic party, so called (U. S.).

A DISABLED HUNTER and a BLIND PANTHER

WE WERE hunting for big game among the Black hills, and one day, when there were signs in the air of a coming snowstorm, I left camp and wandered away for three or four miles. After an hour or two, as I stood resting beside a tree, a deer broke cover in front of me and only a pistol-shot away. It was a fine buck, and he walked into the open as cool and unconcerned as if hunter had never thirsted for his life. I ought to have dropped him dead at that distance, but he fell at my fire, to get up and limp away, and, believing him to be wounded mortally, I followed at my best pace. The ground was rough and covered with young cedars, and, being a bit excited, I paid little heed to what was under foot. Of a sudden I found myself falling, and, as I went down, I dropped my gun to clutch at the nearest branches. I went down 12 or 15 feet over the edge of a ravine, struck on my feet, and then plunged forward and brought up on a ledge or shelf about four feet wide by ten feet long. This shelf overhung a depths so black and dismal that I dared not wonder how far down it was to the tiny stream flowing over the rocks at the bottom. The ravine was about 15 feet wide, and directly opposite me, in a mass of rocks, was an opening which I knew at first glance to be the den of some wild animal. I did not take note of these things at once, for in the fall I had broken two ribs and been badly bruised, and was almost unconscious for a quarter of an hour. When I rallied a bit I found a wall 15 or 20 feet high behind me, and as for the ravine in front, I could not have crossed or descended into it even had I not been injured. I had just taken in the situation when the sky grew dark, the wind swept up the ravine with a long-drawn moan, and snowflakes whirled thickly around my head. I was lying quiet and hoping the pain soon would become easier, when I got such a shock as nearly put my wits to sleep again.

Directly in front of me, across the ravine, coming out of his den with great dignity, appeared the largest panther I had ever seen. He stood snuffing the air and looking full at me, and when I realized how helpless I was things turned dark and I groaned in despair. It was only a fair leap for the beast across the ravine, and I expected him to make it at once and attack me; but as the minutes passed away and he still hesitated, I began to wonder over his actions. He turned to the left and trotted along over the ground a distance of about 20 feet. Then he wheeled and passed the den by about the same distance the other way. When he had gone over this beat two or three times I discovered what was the matter. As he came toward me I got a clear view, and saw that he was stone blind. There was a white film over each eye, and he could not see a tree in his path. Disease or accident had blinded him, but instinct had taught him the lay of the ground. His movements were as regular as the pendulum of a clock. Just so far down the ravine and return; just so far up the ravine and return. In going down he avoided a stunted cedar growing in a crevice in the rocks; in going up he avoided a bush which was in the direct path. Grace, litheness, strength, ferocity. The lower jaw was down, and I had a fine view of the fangs which could rend the hide of a horse. At every move the terrible claws clicked and grated—claws which would sink to the bone of a man's leg and then strip the quivering flesh off in fragments. There was a curious fascination in watching the beast as he took his promenade. I forgot my plans as I rejoiced over his blindness. Had he been in possession of his natural vision—could he have but seen ever so little—he would have sprung upon me, fastened those yellow fangs in my throat, and in 30 seconds all would have been over. But he was blind, and I hoped he could not discover my presence if I remained quiet.

Of a sudden there was an alarm. The snow was falling more thickly, but the beast was so near that I could catch his every moment. As the wind whirled up the ravine it created an eddy, and from one of the circles of this eddy he got my scent. Stopping midway in his promenade, he reared up and sniffed the air with savage growls, and my heart beat so hard that it seemed as if he must surely hear it and follow the sound until his hot breath was on my face. Sniff—snuff—growl! To the right, to the left, straight ahead. After a minute he lost the scent, and then he stood still and uttered continuous growls as he waited to catch it again. His long tail swept the ground in a half circle, and his ears worked swiftly back and forth. After a minute he got the scent again. He reared up, whirled about three or four times as if on a pivot, and then he pointed full at me. A tape line 15 feet long would have covered the ground between us—between where I lay helpless and he half crouched for a spring. If the film could be torn from those eyes, how they would glint and glitter and blaze! There was something in the sound of his low growling which chilled my blood—a menace, a warning of what was to come, which forced me to shut my eyes and utter a last prayer. Why does he hesitate? What delays his spring? He waited so long that I concluded his blindness reasoned against his ferocity. But he finally made up his mind to try. I could tell that by his continuous growls, by the ears laid flat back on his head, as you have seen in an angry cat; by the clicks of his claws on the flinty rock as he sought a foothold for a spring. As he was on the point of taking the leap the capricious breeze played him a trick. He suddenly lost the scent and walked slowly down the shelf to pick it up again, perhaps reasoning that I had moved my position. Ten feet to the right he got it, and with a fierce snarl he crouched and made his leap. Did the beast know the lay of the ground before losing his eyesight, or was it the subtle instinct given to the feline tribe? It was a clear leap of 15 feet—maybe a foot or two more. Only at that spot could he strike the shelf on which I stood. He rose in the air like a bird taking flight, described a graceful half-curve in the air, and landed so light that I felt rather than heard him. He was ten feet away from me, and he reared up and snuffed the air in every direction. But for the wind and the snow the beast must have got my scent so close at hand. On the contrary, after about two minutes he leaped back across the ravine and disappeared in his den. Then, with many a groan and half-suppressed ejaculation, I drew myself back until I rested against the cliff. I knew that my ribs were broken, and that unless discovered by accident I could never leave that ledge alive. It certainly had set in for a snowstorm, and it took only a few moments to hide me from sight under the white mantle. This was my salvation again. As the pain made me half-unconscious a full-grown female panther, followed by a cub which may have been a year old, scrambled down the rocks on the opposite side of the ravine to the den of the blind beast. Some taint of my presence must have been in the air, even though so faint they could not locate me. They snarled in anger and sniffed at the air, and it seemed to me as if both looked directly at me for several seconds. If they did I was so buried under the snow that they failed to make out what sort of an object I was. They finally turned and disappeared in the cave, but were out of sight only a moment. When they reappeared the blind panther was with them, and the three scrambled up the rocks and disappeared in the forest. There had been a killing somewhere and they had come to conduct him to the feast. Perhaps they brought to him food now and then, but he must have had to go with them for water.

I was waiting for I knew not what when the end of a strong bark rope with a noose in it suddenly was let down in front of my eyes. No one had come in search of me. Peter, our Indian guide, had discovered the panther den the day before, and had come back on this day in hope of getting a shot. Indian like, he had taken a close survey of things while waiting, and after a time had discovered me on the shelf below. Few men would have tried what he did. As soon as I had slipped the noose over my shoulders and drawn it tight, he began pulling, and though I weighed 15 pounds more than he did, he finally succeeded in landing me on the edge of the cliff. The rough usage I received made me faint away, and it was while I was unconscious that the three panthers returned. As they scrambled down the rocks and stood for a moment the Indian fired and killed the female. She dropped dead in her tracks, and he fired again and killed the cub. Then something like a tragedy occurred. The blind panther could have saved himself; in fact, he did dash into the cave, but, as if realizing that those he depended on for food and drink were dead, and that without them he must perish, he reappeared, sniffed at their bodies, and then, with a scream in which there was more lament than anger, he leaped into the ravine and vanished into the darkness, to be mashed to a pulp on the rocks below.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29, 1900.

Naturally, Mr. McKinley is being harshly criticised for being away from Washington for an indefinite stay just after he has issued orders which commit this government to a participation in the war which the combined European powers are preparing to wage on China. He must have felt that he was doing wrong in going to Canton, where he and Boss Hanna are to fix up his letter of acceptance and other campaign matters, as before leaving he tried to give out the impression that he regarded the trouble in China as about all over, after the Chinese Minister announced the safety of diplomats and other foreigners who were all reported killed in Pekin by the European manufacturers of news. But the Chinese minister made another announcement, which made it plain that the trouble is just beginning, and that was that the fight at Taku was started by the demand by the European fleet for the surrender of the Chinese forts, and not by the firing of the forts on the fleet. Europe is going to break China up, and Mr McKinley is going to help. That is the way things now look.

All the monkey business in the postal service is not monopolized by the Cuban branch, not by a whole lot. There is much gossip in Washington concerning the purchase of time clocks for all free delivery postoffices and expensive typewriters for offices having receipts of $30,000 and over, by the Post Office Department, and much of it implies that private individuals have had big "rake offs" out of the purchase money. The odd thing about the time clocks is that they are of the same make as those introduced in the Treasury Department several years ago and which stirred up the indignation of Congressman to such an extent that they were by vote of Congress ordered taken out. Then it was that the man with the big "pull" got the Post Office authorities to see what a good thing those same time clocks were and to agree to pay the regular retail price, $125 each for them, although about 800 of them were purchased. Letter carriers and other post office employes have to have their time records made by these clocks, which Congress declared degrading and disgraceful when used in the Treasury Department. They can ask their Congressmen to explain the administration code of ethics which makes it right and proper to deal with postal employes of free delivery offices in a manner which Congress declared to be degrading and disgraceful when applied to employes of the Treasury Department.

China isn't the only country in which foreigners are sometimes wrongfully treated, as may be seen by the following experience in Washington, told by himself, of Mr. F. V. Postels, an architect from St. Petersburg, Russia: "I have been traveling in this country quite extensively, studying the architecture of American cities and observing American methods of constructing big buildings. I noticed a building in course of construction, in Washington where a steam elevator was being used to hoist the brick. I was much interested, as in Russia the builders have the bricks carried aloft by manual labor entirely, and having a camera with me, I accosted a workman and explained that I would like to take some pictures of the building, especially the elevator. Hardly had I adjusted my camera when a big chunk of lirt was thrown at me by one of the laborers. I was somewhat surprised, but brushed my clothes and again adjusted my camera. Then there flew at me a great bunch of mortar, which ruined my hat and came near spoiling my clothes." It is fortunate for the good name of our country that such ill mannerly treatment of strangers is exceptional with us.

The deeper the country gets into expenditures in Cuba since the occupation of the island by our troops the plainer it becomes that there has been the wildest extravagance in every direction. The latest exposure concerns the military hospital near Havana. $200,000 have been expended on this hospital, all the plans being on the basis of furnishing accomodations for 2,500 patients, while at no one time has it had more than 80. In order to shift some of the responsibility for maintaining this extravagant establishment the military authorities, by a little juggling among themselves, have leased it to the City of Havana, to be be used as a general hospital, although everybody familiar with conditions over there knows that the city was already amply supplied with hospitals.

There is a persistent report around Washington that Perry Heath has been asked to resign the position of First Assistant Post Master General, because of the publication of the fact that he was one of those who vouched for Neely and procured his appointment. According to this story, this isn't to punish Heath, but to bamboozle the public. He is again to have charge of Hanna's literary bureau, and if Mr. McKinley is re-elected will be given something "equally as good" next year.

Are We at War with China?

A "high official" at Washington is quoted as saying, "We are not at war with China."

If Mr. McKinley had not made one war on his own initiative, without a particle of authority from the body in which the war making power is vested by the Constitution, such a disclaimer would not be deemed necessary. But with 65,000 soldiers and forty five war vessels—a larger force than the United States ever before marshalled against a foreign foe—now and for some time past endeavoring to complete the conquest of the Philippines by the President's sole authority, the sending of warships to bombard Chinese ports and the ordering of a General and a brigade of soldiers to Peking, the capital, are naturally viewed with suspicion. If this is not an act of war, what would be?

American citizens in China are certainly entitled to the protection of their Government. But if a war is necessary to defend them Congress alone has power to declare it. To order a considerable military and naval force to China, in ignorance of the actual facts, and to act in conjuntion with those land grabbing empires, Great Britain and Russia, is a stretch of the executive power that would have startled the country a few years ago. Has familiarity with imperialistic acts really deadened the sensibilities of the American people to invasions of the Constitution and the usurpation of authority by the President?—World.

The Other Side.

The Chinese trouble is not at all one sided. Rev. E. E. Aiken of the American board of missions, who has spent twenty years in China, said in a recent interview: "If missions had confined themselves to missions, and diplomacy had treated China decently and fairly, the boxer movement would not have arisen." Even a heathen has rights. —Los Angeles Herald.

Mme. Patti still holds the record for the largest sum that has been earned in a year by a woman. Her highest total for 12 months is $350,000.

English is doubtless the coming language, but the people who use it are kept busy in studying the tongues of Africa, Asia and the Pacific islands.

The sun's rays do not penetrate the ocean to a very great depth. Scientists assert that 200 feet beneath the surface of the sea the darkness is complete even at noon on the sunniest day.

The word "compound," which is frequently used in dispatches from China, means an inclosure. In that country and in Japan it is customary to build high brick walls around factories, business houses, banks and residences for protection, and these are known as "compounds."

One result of the installation of the corn kitchen at the Paris fair has been a widespread agitation in that country in favor of the appointment of a commission by the government for the purpose of visiting the United States and ascertaining the best means of introducing corn in France.

Capt. Cel-Regotti, an Italian inventor, has made a rifle which works automatically after the first shot, and so rapidly that a second shot is discharged while the first is only 50 yards from the muzzle. Ten years from now the best rifles of to-day will probably be considered very slow and clumsy.

A scientific paper says that the heat of an ordinary incandescent electric light globe is such that if the globe is inserted in a quart of water it will bring the water to the boiling point within an hour. Yet people who cover the globes with fancy paper and silken shades wonder why their houses burn down in a mysterious manner.

The problem of Indian education seems likely to be solved by the Indians themselves. In the territory the Chickasaws have five colleges and the Creeks have ten. The Choctaws have no colleges, but have 160 common schools in which the higher branches are taught. The expenses of educating the Indians are borne by the federal government.

Not a single reigning family in Europe belongs to the nation over which it rules. The Austrian royal family, the Hapsburgs, are Swiss, as are also the Hohenzollerns, Emperor William's family; Denmark's king is a German, the king of Belgium a Saxon; Alfonso of Spain is a Bourbon; Humbert of Italy is of a family from Savoy and George of Greece is a German.

Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir apparent of Austria, has given his kingdom for a wife. Some years ago a monarch wanted to give his kingdom for a horse. Now the question arises: Are wives quoted higher than they were or has the automobile decreased the prices of horses? Some debating club may find material in this for an exciting session, especially if it number a few women among its members.

The empress dowager of China is the one woman in the world to defy all Europe. She is now about 60 years old, and for the last 40 years has exerted an all-powerful influence in directing the affairs of China. She is the second wife of the emperor, and because she bore him a son and the first wife did not she takes precedence. As to education, she has received the best China can give. A native wit and cleverness supply what she may lack in book knowledge.

Statistics show that the United States are between them producing, in round numbers, 120,000,000 barrels of petroleum per year, and that the production of outside countries has of late increased so much that they are able to contribute enough now to bring the world's aggregate production to about 150,000,000 barrels. It is well known that the production of Russia is much less now than it might be, owing to the lack of enterprise of the people and to inadequate transportation facilities. New deposits are being discovered almost daily in this country.

The Ninth regiment, which was ordered to China from Manila, is a notable organization. It was under Gen. "Fighting Joe" Wheeler for a time, and has participated in hard fighting in widely separated parts of the world. It was one of the regiments in that famous charge at San Juan hill, and it took a prominent part in the engagement at Angeles and in other battles in the Philippines. In every engagement it has behaved with conspicuous gallantry, it was picked for the expedition to China with the belief that it is a model regiment.

Worried citizens who have the locations and incidents of the three big wars slightly mingled will no doubt be reassured by a firm though kindly explanation fully detailing the points which have bewildered them. They will be much relieved to know that the empress dowager has moved from Bloemfontein and will hold a parley with Aguinaldo at Jonkerspruit, while Lord Roberts, having detached one column to Malolos and another to Tientsin, expects to defeat Gen. MacArthur half-way between Machadodorp and Macabebe before the week is over.

AN AWFUL DISASTER.

Fire Sweeps Away Big Docks and Ocean Steamships.

Three Vessels Burned at Hoboken, N. J.—Men and Women on Board Find Escape Cut Off—Fully 200 of Them Perish.

New York, July 2.—Probably 200 lives, perhaps more—some estimates put the number as high as 500—were lost Saturday afternoon in a fire horror that in many respects is unprecedented.

Many of the unfortunates were burned to death, more were drowned. Over a thousand people were struggling in the water at one time, and how many of these were lost is only conjecture.

The same fire destroyed three great ocean steamships, the immense wharves of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, the Hamburg-American Steamship company and the Thingvalla Steamship company, a vast storage warehouse in Hoboken, 12 canal boats and six barges.

The ocean liners destroyed were the Saale, the Bremen and the Main. All three of these ships belong to the North German Lloyd company.

The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, the fastest and one of the largest passenger ships in the world, was damaged and had a narrow escape from total destruction.

There were hundreds of men on each of the destroyed steamships and a few women. There were crowds of dock laborers and employes on all of the piers. There were men, women and children in the canal boats and men on the barges and lighters.

Escape Quickly Cut Off.

So quickly did the fire spread that escape for all of these hundreds was cut off almost before they knew the fire had started.

Men working in the holds of the three steamships were shut in by walls of flame. It was impossible to reach them in any way. Men on the pier jumped into the water to save themselves. Many were saved; others sank before help could reach them.

Loss of Life Estimated at 200.

The North German Lloyd Steamship company estimates the loss of life by the fire at 200. The company took the crew lists, checked off those members who are in hospitals or reported safe, and believes the others to be lost. Among the dead are a number of officers. The body of Capt. Mirrow, of the Saale, has been found, burned so as to be unrecognizable. Fortunately the number of visitors on the pier and boats was unusually small, because no steamer was due to sail except the Saale, and she only for Boston, where she was to have taken on a load of Christian Endeavorers, bound for the convention in London. No passenger was lost on any of the boats. A number of Christian Endeavorers were visiting the Saale, drawn by the interest taken in the boat, because of her charter by the Boston Endeavorers. Some of these visitors were reported lost. The German consul general cabled to Berlin placing the death list at 200.

It is estimated that from 300 to 400 persons were injured and taken to the different hospitals in this city, Jersey City and Hoboken. Many of them were found to be not seriously hurt and were discharged Sunday. Many others are believed to be so seriously injured that they cannot recover.

May Be Larger.

One of the officers of the steamship Bremen said that there were fully 200 visitors on board that vessel when the fire touched there, the majority of them being women. A boat was lowered from the Bremen shortly after the alarm had been given, but the craft capsized as it touched the water and all hands were precipitated into the water, and none of them was saved by those remaining on the vessel. This in itself would indicate that the list of dead may be larger than it was first thought to be.

Eighteen Bodies Found.

Up to 11 o'clock Sunday night 18 bodies had been recovered. Eleven of these were placed in a row at the morgue in this city and numbered, this being the only means the authorities have of maintaining any sort of identity over the corpses, as they are so badly charred and dismembered that identification will be made only by trinkets or pieces of clothing that were found about the bodies.

The loss of life will probably prove greatest when the wreck of the Saale has been searched. Already a number of bodies have been taken off her, and as soon as the fire in her hold has been subdued enough to allow anyone to go down in her there is every probability that many bodies will be found below decks, as various tugboat captains claim to have seen 30 or 40 persons in one compartment just before the Saale went down. Some of those penned in by the flames were alive when the steamship was towed to the Jersey flats just north of Ellis island. Through the open deadlights or portholes the poor creatures appealed for help several times before the vessel was scuttled in the hope of putting out the fire which was raging in her upper works. The portholes being less than a foot in diameter, it was impossible to save them, and one after another the people inside succumbed to the smoke and flames.

Of the 266 persons who are reported missing it is believed that some will be found safe in sailors' boarding houses in this city, Jersey City and Hoboken.

The North German Lloyd officials deny that any passengers were lost; declare that few, if any, visitors perished, and that the loss of life was almost entirely among employes of the company.

May Have Perished.

It is feared that some of the Christian Endeavorers who were to have sailed from Boston Tuesday for Southampton on the Saale may have lost their lives. It was said that some of these people had come to this city, to inspect the ship, which had been chartered to take 500 of them to England, and that they were on board of her when the flames broke out on the pier.

Officials declare positively that there were no members of the Christian Endeavor society aboard the Saale.

As many people, to avoid being roasted to death on the three steamships and the docks, jumped overboard and were drowned, searching parties kept up a close watch to-day along the shores of the North river, Brooklyn and Staten Island. As the tide was on the turn when the people were lost in the water, it is believed that their bodies were carried up stream and when they rise will come to the surface above Twenty-third street, unless they drifted into the central current and caught the flood tide running out. They are likely to be discovered mostly in the upper bay. Relatives of the missing employed rowboats and men to patrol in the vicinity of the disaster in the hope of picking up the remains of the missing ones. Other boatmen searched for the dead on speculation.

Damage of $10,000,000.

The property loss can simply be approximated at this time. None of the officials around the docks could give anything like a precise estimate of their losses and none was prepared to make a statement on this point. A conservative estimate made by a prominent fire underwriter places the entire damage at less than $10,000,000.

How Lives Were Lost.

Fully 1,500 people were working on the piers and vessels when the fire began. There were the longshoremen removing and loading cargoes, the sailors on the vessels, and even a number of passengers on one ship which had just arrived.

Cut off from shore by walls of fire, driven off the piers into the water, cooped up in cabins from which the sky could be seen through narrow portholes but no rescue could be had, hundreds of persons met fearful deaths. Nobody will ever know how great the number is. Many bodies have been recovered, unrecognizable.

Ships, piers and warehouses were all burning within nine minutes from the start of the fire. Then when the engines and fire tugs came they were powerless to put a limit to the flames. Not till a pier of the Hamburg-American line was blown up by dynamite was the fire under control.

Whisky Feeds the Flames.

In the middle of pier 3 was a large quantity of cotton bales, and alongside this inflammable substance were 100 barrels of whisky. The fire had its origin in the cotton and was fed by whisky. The casks which contained the spirits exploded and their contents were scattered over the inflammable merchandise upon the pier. The fire swept over the pier with greater rapidity than the devouring elements travel over the dry grass of the prairies. It caught the awnings and rigging of steamers and spread with inconceivable rapidity to the highly polished woodwork of the cabins and the inflammable cargoes which were being stored in the holds.

Firemen Helpless.

Such headway was gained by the fire that when the Hoboken fire department arrived the firemen were utterly helpless to cope with the flames. They were further handicapped by having several hundred feet of hose burned. Calls were made to the New York fire department for assistance, and fire tugs were sent over. These, however, had little effect on the great mountain of flame and smoke.

The steamships Saale and Bremen, after being pulled free from the docks, were towed ablaze down the bay and beached off Liberty island.

Vain Appeal for Help.

On the Bremen as it blazed out in midstream six men could be seen with their heads out of the portholes, waving handkerchiefs for assistance. Tugboats and small boats darted around the big steamships, making every effort to save the men, but the heat kept them away.

Miraculously Saved.

Superintendent Miller, of the Bremen piers, starting out late Saturday night in quest of the dead, most unexpectedly rescued 22 men. On the tug E. A. Stevens he approched the Bremen and found, to his amazement, that there were still men living aboard her. He took from one of the coal ports the fourth engineer and six of the crew who had managed to survive the fierceness of the fire in the lower part of the vessel. Then he visited the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, and, seeing the Main drifting with the tide, he followed in the Stevens to where the still burning liner was beached on Weehawken flats. Profiting by his experience on the Bremen, he scanned the sides of the vessel closely and descried at one of the coal ports a man who was calling for help. Going to the side of the vessel, he rescued this man and 14 others, all of whom had been in the bottom of the ship for nearly eight hours, with the flames roaring above them and working their way even nearer. The men were at their last stand and would soon have perished.

Pennsylvania Wins.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 2.—Pennsylvania's university eight won the intercollegiate race Saturday afternoon by less than two seconds after one of the finest rowing contests of a decade, making their third consecutive win of the most important collegiate regatta of the year. Five crews competed. University of Wisconsin was second, Cornell was third and Columbia fourth, while the eight from Georgetown university bobbed along in the rear, badly beaten. The official time of the crews were as follows: Pennsylvania, 19:44 4-5; Wisconsin, 19:46 2-5; Cornell, 20:04 1-5; Columbia, 20:09 1-5, and Georgetown, 20:19 1-5.

Indian Trouble Feared.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2. — Gov. Lind has been appealed to for protection by the people in the Rainy lake region. Settlers there take the pretended Indian uprising seriously and the matter was Saturday brought to the attention of the state executive. Gov. Lind declined to make known the nature of the message received, but it is believed he has been asked to send state troops to Rainy Lake to protect the lives of the citizens there.

RUMOR CONFIRMED.

Official News of Killing of German Minister at Peking Received at Shanghai.

London, July 2.—Official dispatches received by the consular body at Shanghai, an express cable dated Shanghai, July 1, says, confirm in the fullest manner the report of the butchery of Baron von Ketteler, the German minister, on June 18. The ambassador was riding on Legation street when he was attacked by Chinese troops and Boxers, dragged from his horse and killed. His body was hacked to pieces with swords. The German legation and six other buildings were burned and a number of servants of the legations were killed and their bodies thrown into the flames.

Washington, July 2. — The navy department has received the following cablegram from Admiral Kempff:

"Chefoo, June 30.—Secretary. Navy, Washington: Ministers at Peking were given 24 hours to leave on the 19th. They refused and are still there. The Peking relief forces got half way. They were attacked by imperial troops on the 18th. McCalla was in command. Four were killed and 25 wounded. McCalla and Ensign Taussig wounded, but not seriously. Now over 14,000 troops ashore. Commander Wise commands at Tong Ku, in charge of transportation rail and river. The combined nationalities find it necessary to make use of some civilians to operate railway.

"KEMPFF."

London, June 30.—The powers are said to have agreed that Russia and Japan shall provide 12,000 soldiers each, Great Britain 10,000, France 8,000, and Germany, America and other powers 5,000 each.

THE OREGON DISASTER.

Report That the Big Battleship Was Aground Near Chefoo, China, Is Confirmed.

Washington, July 2.—The navy department has received a cablegram from Capt. Wilde, of the Oregon, dated Chefoo, Saturday, confirming the report that his ship is aground 50 miles from Taku. The Iris and another relief ship are now with the Oregon. The point where the Oregon grounded is 50 miles west-northwest of Chefoo. Taku is 150 miles west of Pinnacle rock, where she struck.

The following dispatches were received at the navy department Saturday morning relative to the grounding of the Oregon:

"Chefoo, June 29.—Secretary Navy: Anchored yesterday dense fog in 17 fathoms, three miles south of How Ke light, Gulf of Pe Chi Li. Sent out two boats and sounded. Least water 5½ fathoms. Weather clear. Got under way and struck Pinnacle rock. Much water in forward compartment. Perfect smooth. Shall charter steamer if possible at Chefoo and lighten the ship. Rock through side of ship above double bottom about frame 19. Small holes also through bottom of ship. WILDE."

"Hong-Kong, June 29.—Secretary Navy, Washington: Princeton arrived. Brooklyn leaves for Nagasaki. The Zafiro at Chefoo has been sent to assist Oregon reported by Rogers on a rock south How Ke light. Iris going to her assistance. "REMEY."

Pinnacle rock, where the Oregon ran aground, is about 25 feet high and lies 3 2-3 miles south of Howki island, and about 1¼ north-northeast of the island of Siao Lu Shan. The rock is encircled oy a shoal and should not be approached nearer than three cables.

A Great Horse Sale.

Sioux City, Ia., June 29.—In as many seconds, Thursday, more than 5,000 horses were sold at auction in the Sioux City stock yards, making, it is believed, the largest single horse sale on record. The same firm of dealers has sold more than 12,000 horses here within the last six weeks. These animals are western range horses, none of them having been broken. They are generally small, although many are suitable for general work. Prices range from $15 to $40. The sale attracts thousands ofspectators, so many horses in a bunch being a novel sight. Some of the animals came from as far west as Oregon.

A Damaging Storm.

Merrillan, Wis., June 29. — One of the most heavy wind and hailstorms that has visited this county for years passed over this place. Hail fell the size of walnuts and for half an hour the storm continued. West of here grain was leveled to the ground, shade trees were uprooted and delayed traffic, several large barns were blown flat, and in one of these three persons are supposed to be. Several persons were hurt by flying debris. Grain in some places is reported to be totally destroyed.

Hawaii a Territory.

Honlulu, June 22 (via San Francisco, June 29).—Hawaii is now a territory of the union, with a territorial form of government, and the last vestige of the government of the republic of Hawaii obliterated. The territorial government was formally inaugurated June 14, when Gov. Dole took the oath of office and delivered his inaugural address. In Honolulu the day was observed as a general holiday.

Rear Admiral Philip Dead.

New York, July 2.—Rear Admiral John W. Philip, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, died at 3:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon of an organic affection of the heart. He was taken ill about 11 o'clock Thursday night. During the war with Spain Admiral Philip commanded the battleship Texas and participated in the destruction of Cervera's fleet.

St. Paul, Minn., June 29.—The republican state convention Thursday afternoon adopted a resolution indorsing Senator Knute Nelson for relection, nominated Capt. S. R. Vansant for governor and renominated Lieut. Gov. L. A. Smith, both by acclamation.

IN COMMERCIAL CIRCLES.

Situation of the Past Week as Reviewed by Dun—More Failures Than a Year Ago.

New York, July 2.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "The country begins to feel some of the effects of its new place among the nations. Influences affecting its business during the week ranged all the way from a boycott at St. Louis to a war in South Africa and from sun spots to the relief of Peking. Droughts and sun spots have played their part before, but none can quite foresee all the results of defending American rights in China. Political influences also tend to color current opinion about most things in presidential years. All these and other influences work together to create a state of uncertainty until the controversy is over.

"The long effort to hold nominal prices for iron at Pittsburgh has ceased, and the associations now recognize an open market in which Bessemer is offered at $19 and billets at $26, with grey forge at $17. Scarcely a single transaction is reported, buyers abstaining even more than when prices were purely nominal, and while there are many considerable contracts waiting for a safe basis in cost of material, the problem is a rather difficult one. Over 30 furnaces are said to have gone out of blast, and while some have been stopped for repairs, many more will be idle for a time until wage scales for the coming year have been settled with labor organizations. With a proper adjustment of supplies and prices to the actual demand a heavy business is possible, but delay at this season may affect prosperity for some time to come.

"Neither official nor unofficial accounts have removed doubts about the wheat crop, and if it proves as low as one estimate, 460,000,000 bushels, the extent to which it may now be displaced in European consumption by corn will be seriously tested. Exports of wheat and corn were 429,000,000 bushels in 1898, and 400,000,000 in 1899, and have been about 190,000,000 bushels and 210,000,000 bushels of corn in the crop year 1900, but never as large before, for in 1892, when 225,000,000 bushels of wheat went abroad there were only 75,000,000 bushels of corn. But all recent estimates of production have been so far distrusted, and it is scarcely good sense to base grave apprehensions on any so early in date, and the census this year will be awaited with especial interest, because it will help to show how unworthy of reliance some estimates have been.

"Failures for the week have been 207 in the United States, against 181 last year, and 21 in Canada, against 22 last year."

WOOLLEY IS CHOSEN.

He Is Named as Candidate for President on First Ballot by Prohibitionists at Chicago.

Chicago, June 29.—The prohibition national convention adjourned sine die Thursday, after having placed in nomination for president John G. Woolley, of Illinois; for vice president, Henry B. Metcalf, of Rhode Island. The nominations in each instance were made on the first ballot. Only two candidates for the presidential nomination were balloted for, Mr. Woolley and Rev. Silas C. Swallow, of Pennsylvania. Hale Johnson, of Illinois, withdrawing his name at the last moment, throwing his strength to Woolley. For vice president three candidates were balloted for, H. B. Metcalf, Thomas R. Caskardon, of West Virginia, and Rev. E. I. Eaton, of Iowa, Metcalf receiving an overwhelming majority.

The platform adopted deals with but one issue—the suppression of the liquor traffic. President McKinley is vigorously arraigned for his attitude on the army canteen question.

John G. Woolley, of Illinois, prohibition nominee for president, was born in Collinsville, O., on February 15, 1850. He was graduated from Wesleyan university in 1871. He attended the University of Michigan law school and was admitted to the bar of Illinois in 1873. He was city attorney of Paris, Ill., in 1876, and state's attorney in Minneapolis from 1884 to 1886. He became a prohibitionist in 1888. He is called the "Wendell Phillips of the party." He was nominated for vice president by the Christian party this year. He resides at 5535 Cornell avenue, Chicago.

Henry B. Metcalf, of Rhode Island, prohibition nominee for vice president, was born 71 years ago. He is president of the Providence county savings bank and superintendent of the Sunday school of the Church of Our Father in Pawtucket, R. I. Mr. Metcalf was formerly a republican, but joined the prohibition party several years ago and has been prominently identified with that party since. He has been the candidate of his party for governor several times.

GOES TO BLISS.

Michigan Republicans Nominate Him for Governor on Nineteenth Ballot at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 29.—The republican state convention wound up its work at dusk Thursday night, after almost continuous sessions since ten o'clock in the morning, by placing the following ticket in nomination. Mr. Bliss was named on the nineteenth ballot:

For governor, Col. Aaron T. Bliss, of Saginaw.

For lieutenant governor, O. W. Robinson, of Houghton, present incumbent.

For secretary of state, Fred M. Warner, of Farmington.

For state treasurer, Daniel McCoy, of Grand Rapids.

For auditor general, Perry F. Powers, of Cadillac.

For attorney general, H. M. Oren, of Sault Ste. Marie, present incumbent.

For state land commissioner, Edward Wildley, of Pawpaw.

For superintendent of public instruction, Delos Fall, of Albion.

For member of state board of education, James H. Thompson, of Osceola.

[Col. Bliss has been a candidate at every convention since 1892. He came within 51 votes of Pingree's total upon the deciding ballot in 1896. He was a member of the Tenth New York cavalry during the civil war and won his way from private to colonel. He came to Michigan in 1865, and has amassed a comfortable fortune in the lumber business in Saginaw. He has served as congressman from the Eighth Michigan district in the national house of representatives.]

Dewey Cannon Unveiled.

Three Oaks, Mich., June 29.—This little city was overcrowded with visitors on Thursday, the occasion being the unveiling of the Dewey cannon. This cannon, it will be remembered, was donated by Admiral Dewey to the national monument committee to be given by them to the town or village contributing the most to the memorial in proportion to population. Three Oaks won the contest, and on Thursday formally unveiled and dedicated the preeminent trophy of the Spanish-American war to which is attached the personality of Admiral Dewey. Miss Helen Gould was the guest of honor of the occasion.

Detroit Journal Suffers by Fire.

Detroit, Mich., July 2.—Fire Sunday gutted the building occupied by the Detroit Journal and destroyed the mechanical, business and editorial outfit of the paper, with the exception of the presses, which sustained only water damage. The total loss is placed at about $75,000, fairly covered by insurance.

Fire in an Illinois Village.

Galesburg, Ill., July 2.—Fire destroyed most of the business portion of the village of Oneida Sunday morning. Loss, about $40,000; partially insured

THROUGH LOVE TO LAUGHTER.

Lead your child through love to laughter,
Sorrow soon enough comes after;
Soon enough will real ills find it,
Let not false gloom blur or blind it;
Life has much of glee and gladness,
Smothering smiles in babes is madness,
Rather let them laugh and love it,
With God's smiling skies above it;
Joyous juniors love to caper,
Ills for them are thin as paper,
While the gladness and the glory
Fill life to its upper story;
Smiles for them are finely filling,
Though some tears each may be spilling.

Let them laugh, the years are flying
To where each shall know more crying,
Burdened with the cares and trials,
Sufferings and self-denials,
Which grow greater, stronger, bolder,
As their human slaves grow older.
Let the child laugh long and longer,
Let its love of glee grow stronger,
Better it should turn from troubles,
Laugh at iridescent bubbles,
Than eclipse its sunny gladness
In the atmospheres of sadness,
All too ready to bereave us,
And with ghosts of gloom to leave us.
Let your juvenile be jolly,
Lead him far from melancholy,
Harmless joys jar roof and rafter,
Lead your child through love to laughter.

I. EDGAR JONES.

The Jobsons Dine Out

"I SAW a perfectly lovely gas range to-day for $18," remarked Mrs. Jobson one evening last week.

"Silk-lined, with passementerie trimmings and a V-yoke?" inquired Mr. Jobson, casting away his paper.

"We'll need a gas range this summer, you know," said Mrs. Jobson, "and this one—"

"I'll bet it's not a marker to the automobile a fellow I know was showing me this afternoon," said Mr. Jobson. "Said he'd let me have it for only $3,600."

Mr. Jobson waited for Mrs. Jobson to make some reply to this sarcasm, but she seemed to be very busy with her Honiton lacework.

"By the way," said Mr. Jobson, seeing that Mrs. Jobson didn't feel like arguing, "what do we want with an $18 gas range?"

"Well, we've been needing one for a good many summers past," said Mrs. Jobson. "They're so convenient and so much cooler than coal ranges, and during the hot weather the house would be so much more endurable after dinner if—"

"Oh," interrupted Mr. Jobson, "I knew I had something to mention to you. There are not going to be any more dinners in this house after to-day until the 1st of October."

"No more dinners?" said Mrs. Jobson, with a puzzled look. "Mr. Jobson, I hope you are not going back to any of those vegetarian or non-eating schemes that you tried last year and made such a dismal fail—"

"Never you mind about the schemes that I tried last year, Mrs. Jobson—this is another year," said Mr. Jobson, severely. "It would be a mighty good scheme all around if you could eliminate that little habit you've got of casting up things that happened in the lethyosaurian period. When I say that there are going to be no more dinners served in this household after to-day until the 1st day of October I do not mean that we're not going to have any dinners. I suppose you'll at least do me the justice to admit that you've got enough to eat all these years, won't you?"

"But if there are to be no dinners here, how in the world—"

"This," said Mr. Jobson, with the air of a man who has got everything all arranged after long consideration, "is a matter that I've had in mind for a good many years, and now I'm going to put it into practice. Mrs. Jobson, it is barbarous and unnecessary for people living in these latitudes to cook and eat their dinners in their own houses during the torrid season. There's no sense in it. It is a wholly uncalled-for infliction upon the mistress of the establishment to demand of her that she stand over a cook and watch her when the mercury is hissing in the bulb, and it's not going to happen around here any more. We're going to take our dinners out until the 1st of October."

"Out?" inquired Mrs. Jobson. "Where?"

"At the restaurants," said Mr. Jobson. "You can meet me downtown every afternoon after office hours, and we can go to some restaurant of our mutual selection and get our dinner. Then we'll return to our cool house, and there'll be no dish washing and fooling around a stuffy kitchen or any other bother like that for you. It'll be a good thing in lots of ways, one of them being that we'll have a change of diet, which everybody needs once in awhile. We won't have to stick to any one restaurant, but we'll give 'em all a try, and it'll be sort o' piquant to have dinner around at different places and amid different scenes every day. It'll relieve the monotony tremendously, and the only thing I'm afraid of is that when we've been doing it until the 1st of October you'll be so enamored of the scheme that you'll feel like breaking up housekeeping and living the Bedouin life, from the eating point of view, altogether."

"But," said Mrs. Jobson, "don't you know how you have always disliked eating in restaurants, and how it annoys you to have to wait a little while for the waiter to serve you, and how—"

"No, Mrs. Jobson, I don't know anything of the sort," said Mr. Jobson, decisively. "You've got me mixed with somebody else. You just meet me at the office to-morrow at a little after four, and we'll go and have our first dinner under the new plan, and you'll thank me then for suggesting the scheme to you."

Mrs. Jobson did go to Mr. Jobson's office on schedule time on the following afternoon, but he had forgotten about the arrangement and gone home. She waited for him to come back, and he did.

"The new plan escaped your memory, didn't it?" said Mrs. Jobson.

"I guess not," said Mr. Jobson, shortly. "I went home to get a clean handkerchief, that's all. And as I didn't find one and had to buy one, after all, in spite of the fact that I've bought some 2,000 handkerchiefs since the first of January, I suppose the cat has eaten 'em all up."

"There are at least two dozen in your drawer," said Mrs. Jobson.

"Are, hey?" said Mr. Jobson. "All I found in my drawer were three of your veils and a couple of pairs of your gloves and about 87 yards of that 15-cent lace you bought yesterday because the man who put it on his bargain counter needed the money. But never mind about that. Where are we going to eat? I'm ravenous."

"Oh, any place," said Mrs. Jobson.

"Oh, that's all the interest you have in the scheme, is it?" said Mr. Jobson. "You don't care whether I'm faint from hunger or not, do you?"

"How about the——?" suggested Mrs. Jobson, naming one of the hotel resaurants.

"How about moving the Waldorf-Astoria down here?" said Mr. Jobson. "I hope you haven't become possessed of the idea, Mrs. Jobson, that I'm going to pay about $12.85 a day for our dinners, have you? Because I'm not going to do any such thing. Come on. I know where we'll go. We'll go to ——'s. They don't put on many lugs down there, but they give you enough to eat without assessing you a week's wages for it."

So they went to ——'s. It was very hot, and by the time they arrived there they were perspiring and uncomfortable, Mrs. Jobson particularly so in her new, tight-fitting foulard dress.

It was just after the departments had closed, and the restaurant was so filled that they had difficulty in getting seats at all, and the places they did finally secure were about 40 feet out of range of the electric fans. Mr. Jobson gave vent to numerous "Huhs!" over this, but he picked up the regular dinner bill of fare and beckoned a waiter. The waiter looked Mr. Jobson over carefully and went on about his business. When we passed that way again a few moments later Mr. Jobson snapped his fingers for him again, this time somewhat savagely. The waiter approached the table and inclined his ear.

"Thanks for letting me catch your eye, after sitting here for four solid hours," said Mr. Jobson, sarcastically, to the waiter. "D'ye think you could let us have a bite to eat, now, if we act real humble?"

"Yessuh," said the waiter. "Ah'll be back dis-uhway shotely, suh," and then the waiter went off. After about 12 minutes he again got within Mr. Jobson's finger-snapping range—Mr. Jobson was meantime growling things under his breath that caused the people at the other tables to look around at him—and once more the waiter approached the Jobsons' table.

"Look-a-here," said Mr. Jobson to the waiter, "do we get anything to eat here, or don't we?"

"Yessuh. Ah'se uh-waitin' fo' yo'all's ohduh, suh," said the waiter.

"Two regular dinners," said Mr. Jobson.

"De reg'luh dinnuh, suh," said the waiter, "is suhved at five o'clock, suh, an' hit's on'y uh quahtuh t' five now, suh. Ef yo'all's wants tuh wait, suh, Ah'll tek yo' ohduh an'—"

"Madam," said Mr. Jobson to Mrs. Jobson, rising sternly and taking his hat, "we shall take our immediate departure from this place," and then he clomped out, Mrs. Jobson following him.

"Where are we going now?" said Mrs. Jobson, when they got outside.

"Where are we going, madam?" said Mr. Jobson, in a tone of suppressed fury. "Where else are we going but home? We are going home to get something to eat, that's where we are going, Mrs. Jobson. And the next time you wheedle me into giving my consent to any such idiotic scheme as this—the next time you succeed in bamboozling me into abandoning the comforts of a home that I have slaved and toiled for years to get together—the next time you put up a job like this on me, for the sake of getting out of the necessity of seeing that your husband's dinner is cooked and served for him under his own vine and fig tree—there's going to be a schism and a split in the Jobson family, Mrs. Jobson, and when it's all over I won't be the one wearing the sackcloth and ashes!"

Then the Jobsons went home and dined on canned salmon, sardines, Neufchatel cheese, crackers and tea.—Washington Star.

Wholesome Discipline.

Perhaps fagging in English schools is the one medicine for snobbishness in a land where classes are rigidly defined. For at least a short period in his early life, the "noble lord of high degree" is no better than anybody else. An old Harrow boy says that he can never forget a certain clergyman's look of blank astonishment when he was told that the magnate of his neighborhood had been a breakfast fag at school, and had been "whopped" by his fag master for dropping sardine oil into the teapot. When Lord M——, who became a duke, was at Westminster school, he bought something from an apple woman, and gave her sixpence, out of which she handed back the change. "You may keep them," said his lordship, refusing the pennies. "I never carry coppers." An older boy, a senior, was looking on, and asked him why he refused the change. "Coppers are a horrid bore," said Lord M——. "I can't be troubled with them." Then the big boy sent for a sixpenny worth of halfpence, and ordered his "ludship" to carry them in his trousers pocket, ready to be produced on demand.—Youth's Companion.

Piggish Proclivities at Nome.

Powers of attorney have been used so extensively at Cape Nome this winter that it is doubtful that if many of the 20,000 men now rushing northward will be able to secure claims in Nome, York or contiguous districts. The winter situation is described, in a letter received at Juneau from Abner Ellis, mining expert. He writes that several hundred men at Nome have spent the entire winter stampeding in every direction and locating thousands of claims for themselves and for others by power of attorney. At Cape York one man has located over 400 claims. Ground thus taken up includes the best areas along the chief creeks of the entire gold-bearing country drained into Behring sea. Ellis doubts if the men rushing in from the Pacific coast will be able to secure claims other than hilltops. No beach diggings have been found at Nome, and the creek and valley claims have all been taken in the manner described.—Chicago Record.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Capt. Van Sant, of Winona, Nominated for Governor.

Lyndon A. Smith, Nominated for Lieutenant Governor. Justices Start and Collins Were Renominated Without Opposition.

Governor—S. R. Van Sant, Winona.
Lieutenant-Governor—Lyndon A. Smith, Chippewa.
Secretary of State—Peter E. Hanson, Meeker.
Treasurer—Julius Block, Nicollet.
Attorney-General—W. B. Douglas, Clay.
Chief Justice—C. M. Start, Olmstead.
Associate Justice — L. W. Collins, Stearns.
Railway and Warehouse Commissioners—
Charles F. Staples, Dakota, two years.
Joseph G. Miller, Lake, four years.
Ira B. Mills, Clay, four years.

St. Paul, June 29.—The above ticket was nominated by the Republicans yesterday.

The Republican state convention was called to order by Chairman John H. Steele, of the state committee, 1,175 delegates out of a total number of 1,178 being present. The convention was held at the Auditorium, St. Paul.

The decorations of the convention hall were elaborate and tasteful. Before the stage was a profusion of potted plants, and upon the walls back of the stage hung large paintings of President McKinley, while in the center, hanging from the girder, was a more than life-sized representation of Governor Roosevelt, garbed in the full glory of his Rough Rider uniform.

The committees were as follows:

Credentials—O. J. Simonson, James L. Larson, M. Halverson, James Shoonmaker, J. J. Soule, John C. Croff, A. D. Gill, J. Sullivan, Olaf Olson, E. A. Ralph L. S. Wheelock, J. D. Ogle, W. M. Cain, R. A. Mott, H. J. Miller.

Resolutions—R. G. Evans, B. S. Harkstrom, Edward Augsad, S. J. Ray, H. J. Miller, W. B. Cushman, Frederick Morrison, C. S. Mitchell, J. S. Vandiver, P. M. Morris, C. L. Hilblom, W. S. Moe, J. K. Grondahl, C. A. Middegeon, W. Roffman, W. D. Smith, J. F. Jacobson, G. S. Ives, Millie Bunnell.

The morning was spent in organizing. Two candidates for chairman, Dar F. Reese, of St. Paul, and Senator E. T. Young, of Appleton, were named, and after a spirited contest Mr. Young was elected chairman. This was considered the first blow to the opposition to C. F. Staples.

At the afternon session the convention decided to nominate in the following order: Governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, treasurer, supreme court judges, secretary of state and railroad commissioners.

O. B. Gould in a short speech nominated Captain S. R. Van Sant for governor and moved his nomination by a rising vote The motion was carried with the entire convention on its feet cheering for the Winona man.

Senator G. W. Somerville nominated L. A. Smith for lieutenant governor, C. S. Martin nominated William B. Douglas for attorney general, W. P. Roberts nominated Julius H. Block for treasurer and Charles M. Start for chief justice of the supreme court. This last nomination was amended to include L. W. Collins for associate justice of the supreme court. All these nominations were made by acclamation.

The first fight, as expected, came when the secretary of state was reached. The candidates placed in nomination were: J. J. Lomen, A. F. Norden, S. A. Languin, P. G. Sjoblom, P. E. Hanson and Swan Molander. Peter E. Hanson was nominated for the office on the second ballot.

The fiercest fight of the convention was made on the nominations for railroad and warehouse commissioners. The successful candidates were C. F. Staples, J. S. Miller and Ira B. Mills.

The convention voted the appointment of the state committee by the chairman and the committee will consist of one member from each judicial district and seven members at large.

The platform endorses the national administration; complimeats the soldiers and sailors of the late war; congratulates the country upon the fulfillment of promises made four years ago, and indorses Senator Nelson.

The Republican party recognizes that legitimate business, fairly capitalized and honestly managed, has built up our industries at home and enabled us successfully to compete with foreign countries in the markets of the world, and the Republican party, now as always, is unalterably opposed to all trusts and combinations having for their purpose the stifling of competition, arbitrarily controlling production and fixing prices.

We are in favor of the amendment to the federal constitution which was recently proposed by the republicans in congress, granting both to the states and congress the power to define, regulate, control and prohibit monopolies, combinations, and all forms of monopoly or trusts which exist in the form of corporations or otherwise, and we condemn the obtrusive policy of the Democratic party, which for the time being defeated the submission of such amendment.

We declare for liberal legislation for the national defense, for the building up of our navy, for the enlargement of our foreign markets, for the employment of American workmen in all mines, forests, farms, mills, factories and shipyards.

We hereby express all our appreciation of the distinguished services rendered by Senators Davis and Nelson, and we are proud of the fact that they have reflected credit on the state and Republican party. To the representatives in congress and state we return our sincere thanks for their thorough devotion to duty and their efficient support of the government in every crisis.

While considerable feeling was manifested when the contested nominations were being made the delegates left the hall with best of feelings

MINNESOTA STATE NEWS.

The gates were opened at the big reservoir dam on the headwaters of the Clearwater river and the logs were started for Crookston. The water has been held back by the various dams which have been built by Lammers Bros. at a cost of $45,000 and the company will put on a force of 250 men. These will hustle the logs along as fast as possible, and there is sufficient water to get the logs down by August 1, when the saws will again be set buzzing.

SAID CHRIST HAD BROTHERS.

That Was Why a Massachusetts School-Teacher Was Asked to Resign.

Because she told her scholars that Christ was one of ten brothers and sisters, Miss Anna B. Hasbrouck, an instructor in history, was dismissed from the Holyoke (Mass.) high school faculty by the school committee. Miss Hasbrouck was asked to resign, and her letter was accepted without a dissenting vote, says an eastern exchange.

The incident which cost Miss Hasbrouck her position happened in the medieval history class a few days ago. The discussion drifted as to the parentage of Christ, and one student wanted to know if Christ was the only son. Miss Hasbrouck replied: "No; He is one of a family of ten brothers and sisters."

A second student doubted Miss Hasbrouck's statement and wanted to know her authority.

"I cannot tell you accurately just now," she replied, "but I have the impression the statement is made in the Bible."

Some of the students, still skeptical, repeated the assertion at home. One of the prominent clergymen of the city, Rev. P. J. Harkins, took occasion to denounce the teacher in his sermon at St. Jerome's church.

"Pupils," he said, "should be withdrawn from the school if incompetent teachers are to misinstruct students as this one has."

Miss Hasbrouck declined to make a statement. She was appointed a teacher in the Holyoke high school in January, 1896. She is a graduate of the New York state normal college.

CANNON BALLS FOR SALE.

Extracted by the Hundred from the Walls of an Old Safety Vault in New York.

Workmen engaged in demolishing the 48-year-old five-story building at the southwest corner of Wall and William streets have found a number of eight-pound iron balls let into the joints of the granite slab forming the outer wall of the street vault in what was the basement of the building. About 200 of the balls have been found, reports the New York Sun. One of the workmen was sure he had discovered some "revolutionary relics," and succeeded in disposing of a number of the "cannon balls" at 50 cents apiece. So many of the metal spheres were discovered that the price soon fell to a tin of beer. The discovery and sale continued Tuesday and yesterday and as there are a few slabs still in the place there will probably be more "relics" for sale to-day.

The demolished building was occupied by the Atlantic Mutual Insurance company and by the Phenix bank. The vault measures perhaps 15 by 20 feet. The granite slabs which form its outer wall are 18 inches thick. The top of each one was hollowed out to receive half the iron ball and the bottom of the next higher was hollowed out to receive the other half. Possibly the metal balls were put in to bother any burglar who might seek to dig through the wall.

What Will Become of China?

None can foresee the outcome of the quarrel between foreign powers over the division of China. It is interesting to watch the going to pieces of this ancient but unprogressive race. Many people in America are also going to pieces because of dyspepsia, constipation, blood, liver and stomach diseases. We are living too fast, but strength, vigor and good health can be retained if we keep off and cure the above diseases with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

It Would Depend.

Fable of the Small Bird.

Once upon a time there was a bantam rooster with an immense opinion of himself, and as he stood in the barnyard he said:

"I will make a stir in the world. I will attract attention."

Wherefore he began to crow lustily, although he had nothing much to crow about.

Now it happened that far above the bantam a hawk was wheeling in the circumambient air. The hawk had not seen the bantam, owing to the latter's diminutive proportions, but when the bantam crowed the hawk heard and in about 43 seconds had his claws full and was contentedly winging his flight homeward, while all was still below.

A New York barkeeper who was spending his vacation in Maine found himself one evening in a hotel in Portland. While he lingered a terrible storm took place. The windows of the room in which he was sitting were broken by hailstones "almost as big as eggs." The proprietor of the hotel noticed that the barkeeper turned aside to drop a tear.

"Does the storm scare you?" he ventured to ask his guest.

JOKE GAINED HIS POINT.

A Michigan Statesman's Clever Ruse Worked on a Committee on Pensions.

Not long ago Congressman "Hank" Smith, of the Second Michigan district, worked a joke off on the house committee on pensions. It should be explained, says the Chicago Chronicle, that this committee is not the one which has charge of the pensions which grew out of the civil war, says a correspondent. Its functions appertain to the granting of pensions to the widows and veterans of the Mexican and Black Hawk wars and other ancient unpleasantnesses. It should also be pointed out that one of their rules is that no widow's pension shall be larger than $8 a month. This proceeds upon the theory that any widow who survives a veteran of these wars must be a comparatively young woman and that she must have married the veteran in his dotage to get his pension.

The new member from Michigan appeared before the committee at its last meeting and in an incidental and smiling way alluded to the rule.

"That is a fine rule," said he in a guileless sort of way. "I sympathize with its purpose and believe it should stand. But just to show good faith I am going to propose an amendment. I move that it be amended so as to read 'except in the case of widows over 100 years of age.'"

The members of the committee are always in favor of a joke and the proposition was adopted with a unanimous laugh.

And thereupon "Hank" produced from his pocket a bill to grant a pension of $12 a month to Mrs. Hixon, of Clinton, Mich. She had just passed her one hundredth year. It was not necessary to explain that her husband had served to within one day of the time requisite to get a pension in the regular manner. The committee reported the bill favorably.

The Lost Thrill.

"Have you ever felt the thrill that comes from having a sweet girl look up into your eyes and tell you that she loves you?"

"No. My nearest approach to it was when the loveliest maiden I ever knew put her arms around my neck, and with her sweet lips close to mine, said: 'George, I adore you.'"

"And you weren't thrilled by that?"

"Nope, I was just about to be thrilled when her father, who happened, without our knowledge or consent, to be standing back of me, got into action. I wouldn't insult the feeling I had by calling it a mere thrill."—Chicago Times-Herald.

BUFFALO GAZETTE

DELANO, FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Tomorrow, the 7th is Fair Day.

—The scholars of the grammar room intend to have a picnic at Lake Independence, tomorrow.

--G. P. Schaffer received a telegram notifying him of the death of his nephew, William Mayer. No particulars were given.

—There is some talk of having a harvest festival and street fair in Delano, in September. It would be a good thing. Push it along.

--Lightning struck last Tuesday morning on the roof of Dr. J. S. Shraders's house, on second street. Not much damage was done.

—Robert L. Redmond, of Howard Lake, mysteriously disappeared a week ago Thursday. The last seen of him was in the military parade that day.

LATER.--The missing has been found. He went to Monticello without giving any information.

—Dr. E. E. Shrader has purchased the residence of Mike Litfin, on Agel street. Mr. Litfin will move with his family to Delano: Carver County News.

--Delano's police force now makes its rounds on wheels. Woe unto any belated intruder within the vision of Chief Joe, no matter how dark the night.

—The hill on Third street above Oak street is being grade down and fixed up this week. There is a good chance for improvement and it is apparently being taken with considerable success.

—Those chipmonks that were hung on the fence last week to make it rain, might as well be cut down now for awhile. But the next dry spell, should there be one, remember to put them up earlier.

—On Monday morning Mrs. Sims, of the Sims' restaurant had penned up a little dog, which she said had killed about a dozen of her half grown chickens. She would like to find the owner of the canine.

—Ed Farnham says Jim Hill was quite accomodating to him during the dry spell, by leaving a refrigerator car nearly in front of his door. He caught soft water enough for two week's washing and made his wife smile.

—It is quite provoking to spend the hot hours of summer raising a few hills of sweet corn and then have somebody's old cow come along and eat off a goodly share of the crop. Wonder where the pound master was about that time of day.

--Sunday afternoon closed the dry reason, and a fine rain, which has been so long delayed in these parts this year, began Monday morning and continued all forenoon, giving everything a good soaking. It was seconded on Tuesday morning for a couple of hours, also Wednesday and Thursday.

—The rains we got this week are undoubtedly a good thing for corn and potatoes. From present prospects and judging from the amount of fodder that has been planted there will be no shortage of provender for stock this winter, the anticipation of which has been worrying farmers in this locality.

—Dr. Arthur B. Aucker, of the City and County Hospital, St. Paul, has sent out circulars announcing the determination of the hospital authorities to increase the number of pupils in the training school for nurses. This is a fine opportunity for young ladies who have a taste for nursing sick people to learn a useful and profitable business. Trained nurses are coming more and more in demand.

—Third of July night and the morning of the Fourth did not pass by entirely unnoticed although they were not observed with quite as much terrestial noise as is sometimes the case, but what was lacking on earth was made up for by the elements. A cannon, number of small arms, bell, and discord band helped the people to not forget that the morrow was the nation's birthday. These feeble efforts were loudly seconded by one of the noisiest thunder storms heard in these parts for many years.

—The glorious Fourth has come and gone, and our country has passed into another year of her independence. As there was no celebration here, most of the townspeople went to neighboring villages to celebrate. Probably the greater number went to Rockford, where a good celebration, considering the weather, was held. The day's programme started with an industrial parade several blocks long, in which Delano was represented, that would have done credit to a larger town. After parading the principle streets it went to the grounds which were nicely fixed up and supplied with stands and other centers of attraction. The weather was threatening but a very large crowd listened to the programme, which was somewhat shortened, but contained the principle features, including the oration of the day. In the afternoon most of the races were pulled off and also a ball game between Delano and Buffalo the former club easily taking first money. Taking it all around and considering the weather the celebration at Rockford was first class and everybody apparently enjoyed themselves.

--New Potatoes sold last week for $1.00 per bushel. It pays to have early vegetables, even potatoes.

J. J. Sandberg, of Cokato, was accidently struck in the head with a sledge hammer, by his brother, while putting curbing in a well. He is not expected to live.

--A number of our citizens expect to take advantage of the cheap rates to St. Paul next Sunday to the Swedish picnic, to see Fort Snelling. One dollar down and back.

--Prof. R. M. Bohn will leave for a visit with his brother in Itasca county, early next week, and H. Cyrus, of Howard Lake, will run his tonsorial parlors during his adsence.

Clearwater suffered from another fire Sunday morning as a result of lightning striking the hotel of Mr. Peter Leme. The barn was completely burned and two teams cremated.

—It is hoped that the water mains will be extended on South Third street in the near future. There is considerable agitation of the question and that part of town will probably be supplied with water before winter.

--The steam laundry got somewhat behind in its work this week on account of the leaving of some of the help, but have secured first class assistance from the City and will now turn out A no. 1 work and on time.

—L. E. Bartlett has completed his new mill on the site of the one recently burned, far enough to be able to work, and has moved over his old engine and expects to do his first work tomorrow. Present arrangements are temporary as he expects to use the old mill engine.

—In a letter from the Editor this a. m. from Kansas City, where he is attending the democratic convention, we are informed that there is no need for the people to worry about something to eat as the further south they went from Minnesota the bigger the crops were, hay and pasture good and stocks slick. Much of the grain is cut and in shock.

--We this week received a copy of The Acorn, Three Oaks, Mich., with a full account of the unveiling of the Dewey cannon, by Miss Helen Gould, at that place, last week. The cannon was donated by Admiral Dewey to the National Monument Committee, to be given by them to the town or village contributing the most to the memorial in proportion to the population. Three Oaks won the prize and did herself proud.

--Dr. F. Leavitt came up from St. Paul on Monday evening and went to Winsted and quarantined the town. The small pox, of which there are five cases under treatment in different families, the Doctor says is of the worst type he has so far treated. The Winsted postoffice will be moved temporarily to a place of safety and all the mail coming from there will be fumigated. Frank Gates, the post master is one of the patients and has quite a severe case.--Howard Lake Herald.

County Cullings.

"The selection of J. F. McDonald as chairman of the democratic county committee is one of the best which could be made. Mr. McDonald is an able and intelligent gentleman and an indefatigable worker and thoroughly enthusiastic in the cause he advocates. The democratic party is to be congratulated in unhorsing that political moss back, the editor of the Gazette. Instead of being in the democratic party he ought to be in the ranks of the prohibitionists."—Monticello Times.

Editor French certainly ought to join the Prohibitionists if the above specimen is as good as he can get up. Perhaps he could do better then.

Dr. E. A. Shannon, of Buffalo, was elected chairman of the Democratic county committee, and he is known as being as good a temperance man as is Dr. Catlin. So Editor French surely has blundered and aided himself none in the eyes of the new Democratic chairman of the county committee.

J. F. McDonnell, of Waverly, was chosen the member from Wright county of the Democratic State Central committee, and we believe him to be a member of the Father Mathew Temperance Society, consequently not much flattered with the incomiums of the "up to date" editor of the Times. Straighten up, Mr. French, and try again, but don't figure on drinks from the present Wright county Democratic administration.

Kate Gulden's case of appeal was taken under advisement.

Joseph and Hattie Palmer were dismissed by the county attorney.

State ves Hammerdey, the Jury returned a virdict of guilty.

Hennepin Co. ves Wright Co. taken under advisement of the court.

Joseph Boxell ves Robert Robertson, Lizzie Boxel intervenor, the jury gave the defendent a verdict.

Is it Anarchy?

Congress passed a law prohibiting army saloons (regimental canteens) and President McKinley refused and still refuses to respect or enforce the law. A majority of the temperance committee of 200 members of the recent general conferance of the Methodist Episcopal church reported that—

"Such an abuse of power is NULLIFICATION IN ITS MOST DANGEROUS FORM. Upon the president, as commander-in-chief of our army, rests the responsibility for the canteen saloon, an evil which he has ample power to suppress and which to quote the Episcopal address, 'is a more deadly foe to the soldier than bullet or tropic heat'."

Christian churchmen can add their own comments.—Waseca Herald.

Personal.

Emil Peck of the city, spent the 4th at home.

Miss Lydia Johnson spent the Fourth at Buffalo.

Charles, Cunningham, of Minneapolis, spent the 4th with the folks here.

Oscar Evenson, of Minneapolis, visited with John Dahlgren over the 4th.

Miss Emma Dahlgren came up from Minneapolis to spend the 4th at home.

Mr. Laury Dellum, of Minnitrista, was seen on our streets last Sunday.

Mr. J. M. Borrill and Walter left Tuesday morning for a week's visit at Morris,

Charley Coolen, of Smith Lake, spent the Fourth with Delano friends and relatives,

Dr. Guy Murphy, of Villard, came down Monday to spend the 4th with Delano friends.

Miss Hattie Frank, of St. Paul, is spending a couple of weeks among friends and relatives.

R. M. Bohn expects to leave the forepart of next week for a visit with his brother in Itaska County.

Ole Eckman, Andrew Hanseman and Nels Johnson left Sunday evening for Willmar to do carpenter work.

Miss Mary Catlin arrived home Saturday evening from a few week's visit to her mother at St. Peter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Halgren, of Watertown, visited with John Cunningham and family Saturday afternoon.

C. S. Hawker, of Minneapolis, is spending a few days at home during the indisposition of his father, Wm. Hawker.

Mrs. C. J. Buckley returned Wednesday evening from Indiana where she has been visiting the past three weeks.

Mrs. A. W. Wittman and family and Mrs. Roosen and family went to the City this morning to take in the circus.

Miss Nellie Tupper, former 8th grade teacher here, visited old friends in town the past week. She is a guest of Mrs. Bolton.

Messrs. Perry Ball, who has been working at Valley City and Jack Hines, of Grafton N. D. were Delano visitors the Fourth.

T. J. Catlin and Joe Bauman left Tuesday morning for Kansas City, Mo., to see the Democratic candidates put in nomination.

Miss Lydia Bergren, who has been in the City for the past several months, came up Tuesday evening to spend the 4th at home.

Mrs. Walter Bolton, (nee Agusta Cruickshank) of Minneapolis, came up Saturday evening for a visit with Delano relatives and friends.

Arthur Cruickshank, who has been working in Illinois, spent Tuesday in Town seeing old friends. He left in the afternoon for his home at Maple Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Palm and son returned to the City last evening after a couple week's visit with Mrs. Palms parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tiff Hittsman and family.

Mike Kelly, of Buffalo, visited with his sister, Mrs. Kelly Green. Mr. Kelly was injured in a run away between Buffalo and Maple Lake the middle of last week.

Misses Marguerite and Tot Hamley and Mr. George Hamley spent the past week with their sister Mrs. Baltuff. Their mother Mrs. M. T. Hamley is also visiting with her daughter.

Maple Plain.

Mr. Editor:

The best news we have to chronicle this week is we have had a good big rain, plenty for the present, and every household has water for domestic use. Real estate has advanced tweny five per cent and there is expected a boom out among the suburbs. How refreshing is a good shower of rain after so long a dry spell. Before this rain nothing seemed to grow but potatoe bugs and politicians.

Most of the people of our town will celebrate at Rockford and Lake Independence.

John Hillstrom has moved into his new house.

Last week Frank Klapprich lost a very valuable horse.

It is reported on good authority R. Sutherland of our village has married a lady of Annandale.

Quite a good many from our town attended the Woodman's picnic at Lake Park last Thursday.

On Tuesday of last week Michael Jacobs of our town was married to Miss Altendorf. Mr. Jacobs is one of our best citizens and we wish him and his bride a long and happy life together. May their union prove a pleasant one to themselves and their many friends.

Local politics will begin to sprout and grow soon after the 4th of July.

The late rain will help out corn and potatoes, but will not benefit the small grain very much.

Last Sunday quite a delegation from our town and Rockford drove up to Buffalo to hear Rev. W. J. Hobbs, of Boston, preach. The morning was cool and the roads fine, so it made a very pleasant drive.

Many of the farmers are quite well along with their haying.

If we can judge anything by reading the papers and outward observation it would seem we are not so befogged with outward prosperity as we were, but we expect to know more about this administration prosperity later on, a prosperity that was gotten up to tickle the minds of the people.

General Lew Wallace, a life long republican, is quoted as saying not long ago, "Our present conditions await only the coming of a Caesar."

FARMER.

Watertown.

Fairday next Monday.

Miss Katie Gavin who has been visiting in the cities the past week came home Monday.

Archie Hays and lady spent the Fourth here.

Arther Halgren drove to Hutchinson Monday on business.

Mrs. Metzher, of Minneapolis, spent a few days here this week.

Dr. Shrader went to Minneapolis Tuesday, on business.

Miss Mamie VanEman, of Buffalo, spent Sunday and Monday hear with her sister Miss Sadie VanEman.

Mrs Luther Cunningham who has been very sick for the past two weeks is now slowly recovering.

Clarance Washburn, of Minneapolis is visiting friends here this week.

Mrs. C. G. Halgren drove to Delano, Thursday afternoon.

LeSueur Sentinel: Several prominent Democrats feel that their party principles have not been fully recognized since the Philadelphia convention. It is ever thus. Those who think themselves of the most importance to the public, are generally the ones that the public can get along the easiest without.

Waseca Herald: The Republican party has created an aristocracy of bondholders who can demand gold in payment of their demands, while all other people are compelled to take their pay in "50cent" silver dollars, when tendered. Why has the party thus built up a favored class? Why should the merchant or farmer be compelled to take silver while the bondocracy can demad gold?

Long Prairie Leader: The Minneapolis Times of yesterday was persistent in claiming that Jim Hill has at last succeeded in getting full control of the Northern Pacific. If this proves true it will mean greater hardships to the people of the northwest than a crop failure. With these two great transcontinental systems controlled by the likes of Jim Hill, what can the people expect other than to be ground down to the last notch?

Waseca Herald: We believe the policy of the Republican party in refusing sympathy to the Boers is unwise, uncharitable and entirely wrong, and that in the coming campaign it will cost the party hundreds of thousands of votes. Our attitude toward the Boers, as spoken through our mouthpiece, the administration, is certainly wrong and none will see it more quickly than our sturdy, honest German American citizenship. They want for the struggling people of other lands the same freedom that they have come here to enjoy themselves and it will be hard to convince them that a republic should be supplanted by an English colony in South Africa or anywhere else.

PLANTS AND ANIMALS.

Ostriches, when pursued, invariably run against the wind.

The attempts to introduce the waters have not heretofore proved successful.

The fact that many profitable peach orchards exist on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan is explained by Mr. M. B. Waite as due to the influence of the lake in moderating the temperature along its eastern coast. This influence is less decided on the western side, the general direction of atmospheric movements being from west to east.

Each infant robin, it is estimated, requires for its proper maintenance about 14 inches of tender angleworm every day. As a robin family averages four, the mother is obliged to provide 56 inches of worm daily. Considering the difficulties and dangers of getting worms, these statistics throw an interesting light on the industry and courage of the mother robin.

Before a meeting of the Bibliographical society of Washington, Mr. W. A. Orton described the result of experiments made to determine the cause of flow of maple sap in early spring. His conclusion was that the flow has a mechanical cause, being due to the increasing heat which expands the gases in the wood cells, and thus forcibly expels the sap. This contradicts the view that the flow of sap is due only to physiological action in the plant.

GOLF GOSSIP.

North, east, west and also south new clubs are forming, and the roster of clubs has added 100 new names the last month. They are not confined to any one section, but are picking up gradually through the country.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale is the president of the North Attleboro Country club, Massachusetts. He is really the founder of the club, for it is mainly to his exertions that it owes its existence. The club is a new one, but it is enterprising and pushing, and the nine-hole course is now ready for play.

Benjamin Harrison has become a convert to golf and practices what he preaches. He is enthusiastic, and if the success of the republican party was to be decided by golf he would be the standard-bearer. The Country club of Indianapolis is his playing ground. The greenkeeper is the tutor of the ex-president, and expresses himself well pleased with the progress of his pupil.

A. G. Spalding, director of sports at the Paris exposition, suggests that when American golfers visit Paris they bring their golf utensils, as good golf can be had at Compiegne, one hour and a quarter from Paris. Compiegne is an historical and beautiful spot. The forests have 36,000 acres, over 50 miles in circumference, and the country about is beautiful in every respect. There is an 18-hole course for men and a nine-hole course for women.

HIGH PRICED SPORTS.

Tom Sharkey recently got $2,500 for six minutes of fighting.

Terry McGovern has taken out of Chicago over $10,000 for about 25 minutes of actual fighting.

When Dan Stuart signed Corbett and Fitzsimmons for the Carson City fight he allowed the pair $2,500 each for training expenses. This on top of a $15,000 purse. The fight lasted about 45 minutes.

It was said of the old king of the diamond, Mike Kelly, that on one occasion he received $1,500 for the pen he used in signing his name to the contract with the Boston management. This as a perquisite for a whole season's service.

Bob Fitzsimmons received nearly $4,000 for less than a minute's work. On top of this the boxers were allowed transportation and traveling expenses for themselves and their managers, their livery bills were settled, they were feted and dined and made much of.

AIDED THE BRITISH.

Incident of 41 Years Ago Recalled by Taking of Taku Forts.

American Captain Helps British Admiral Out of Perilous Position—Originated Phrase "Blood Is Thicker Than Water."

The Taku forts, recently occupied by the international forces, just 41 years ago were the scene of an episode which gave to the world that famous phrase: "Blood is thicker than water."

A British fleet of 11 small gunboats, under Admiral Hope, was engaged in an assault on the mud batteries just inside the Pei-Ho river bar on June 25, 1859, when the tide went down and left them helpless in the mud under the fire of the Chinese smoothbores.

Capt. Tatnall, the flag officer commanding the United States China squadron, which was anchored off the bar, nominally guarding American interests, perceiving the plight of the British admiral, lowered his barge, and with his flag lieutenant and 20 men rowed up the river to show the Englishman how to point his guns. The flag lieutenant, Stephen Decatur Trenchard, was badly wounded, and one man in the barge was killed in passing through the fire from the forts. Once on board, however, the British guns were so well served by the Americans that the forts were silenced and Tatnall himself piloted the gunboats by a channel he had discovered until they found the protection of the fleet outside.

Tatnall's action was regarded by the authorities at Washington as tantamount to disobedience of orders, as he had been strongly cautioned by his government to preserve neutrality and limit his activity solely to the protection of Americans. He was detached from command and brought home, where he only avoided a court-martial through the great popularity his brave act gave him. The "blood is thicker than water" phrase was coined in English newspapers at that time, and was echoed so vigorously in the American press that the navy department finally approved Tatnall's action.

MILLIONS TO NEWPORT BABY.

An Infant of Four Months Falls Heir to an Estate of Ten Million Dollars.

The richest baby in Newport, R. I., or perhaps anywhere else, for that matter, is preparing for the ordeal of being christened. Only the members of the exclusive baby's family have been invited to the church.

John Nicholas Brown, aged nearly four months, worth $10,000,000 now and scheduled to have $30,000,000 when he reaches his majority, is the baby to be named with so much ceremony. The christening service will be read by Rev. W. N. McVicker, bishop coadjutor of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Rhode Island. Rev. Emory H. Porter, rector of the church, will assist.

This church received $45,000 from the father and uncle of the baby. The child, through the death of its father, John Nicholas Brown, on May 1 became heir to $6,000,000. The child's uncle, Harold Brown, died a few weeks later from the shock of hearing of his brother's death. He left a large part of his estate to the little pink and white bundle of humanity.

FEED ON ELEPHANTS' FEET.

The Big Animals at the Central Park Zoo Are Annoyed by a Hungry Lot of Rodents.

Visitors to the Central Park zoo the other day noticed that the feet of the elephants—Tom and Jewel—were badly torn. Keeper Snyder, who was dressing the wounds, explained that rats have recently been causing a great deal of annoyance in the zoo.

For years Central Park has been fairly overrun with rats, but it is only recently that the rodents have developed an appetite for elephants' feet.

They nibble at the toes of the sleeping pachyderms, interrupting their repose and causing them much uneasiness of mind and body.

"During the last five years," said Keeper Snyder, "fully 200,000 rats have been caught in this park. They have swarmed about the menagerie and devoured the food intended for the animals. One night our traps made prisoners of 256 rats. That was our record catch. Fifty were found in one cage."

INCREASE RAPIDLY.

Trades Unions in New York Show Net Gain of 62 Unions and 8,152 Members in Three Months.

The quarterly bulletin of the bureau of labor statistics just issued shows that between December 31, 1899, and March 31, 1900, a net gain of 62 unions and 8,152 members was made by the labor organizations of the state. The aggregate membership is now 232,535, which is 30 per cent. larger than it was at the corresponding dates in 1898 and 1899. Since 1897 the number of women belonging to labor organizations has more than doubled.

The proportion of trade unionists not at work at the end of March was 20 per cent., as compared with 18.3, 21.0 and 30.6 per cent. at the end of March, 1899, 1898 and 1897, respectively.

LeSueur Sentinel: If our famous Australian ballot law, is so easily rendered abortive as the recent count at St, Paul would indicate, there is room for more legislation on the subject. If ballots that are honestly cast, cannot be honestly counted, it is useless for honest men to vote. The grand jury of Ramsey county, have returned a true bill against the man who read ballots falsely at a recent count there. It is to be hoped that this particular election judge may be made an example of in the interest of the honest voter.

Norwood Times: It is indeed strange that in a great big state like Minnesota with so many bright and able republicans in it, that neither Tawney, McCleary, Heatwole, Stevens nor Morris had any material opposition for re-nomination to Congress. The facts are that from the United States senate down to the lowest position elective or appointive is one solid combination of wealth and monopoly, and few poor men, no matter how good republicans they are, dare enter the arena or say "no" to what is dictated from Washington. The composition for the campaign is stereotyped and must be swallowed by the party whether they like it or not.

TURNING THE BABIES IN BED.

Women sho' is cur'ous critters, an' dey
ain't no doubtin' dat,
She's a mess of funny capahs f'om huh
slippahs to huh hat.
Ef you tries to un'erstan' huh, an' you
fails, des' up an' say:
"D'ain't a bit o' use to try to un'erstan' a woman's way."

I don' mean to be complainin', but I's
jes' a-settin' down
Some o' my own obserwations, w'en I cas' my eye eroun'.
Ef you ax me fu' to prove it, I kin do it
moughty fine,
Fu' dey ain't no bettah 'zample den dis
ve'y wife o' mine.

In de ve'y hea't o' midnight, w'en I's sleepin' good an' soun',
I kin hyeah a so'tah rustlin' an' somebody movin' 'roun'.
An' I say: "Lize, what you doin?" But she frowns an' shek huh haid;
"Helsh yo' mouf, I's only turnin' of de chillun in de bed.

"Don' you know a chile gits restless,
layin' all de night one way?
An' you' got to kind o' 'range him sev'al

For President.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, of Nebraska.

For Vice President.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON, of Illinois.

ROUGH RIDER ROOSEVELT is to open up the Republican campaign in St. Paul, on Tuesday, June 17.

WITH Hon. L. A. Rosing in the First District, Hon. Frank Larabee in the Fourth and Hon. C. A. Towne in the Sixth district as candidates for Congress wouldn't politics be lively this fall?

CROPS of all kinds are fine from Southern Minnesota to Oklahoma. Wheat is in shock and in some places has been threshed. Pasture is good, hay abundant, and things look prosperous for farmers.

"ITS a poor wind that blows nobody good", may be verified in the action of the Minnesota state convention sending P. B. Winston as a delegate to Kansas City, and his casting the Minnesota vote on the Resolutions committee against 16 to 1. He has still further shown his colors to the voters of Minnesota, and any political asperations he may have previously entertained have probably gone glimmering.

KANSAS CITY did nobly in securing the Democratic National Convention. In rebuilding the convention hall after loss by fire, in time for use; in the entertainment given guests and delegates to the big convention. The city extends over a large territory, is quite hilly. Business houses are mostly old and out of style. The residence portion is modern and up to the times. The street car service to even the remotest suburbs is splendid. The water barrels, with half a dozen tin cups attached to each contained fine ice water and were kept well filled for the convenience of visitors. They were highly appreciated. Hotels and other houses were crowded. Still meals could be had for $1.00 to $.25 each. There seemed no disposition to overcharge.

HON. L. A. ROSING did well in nominating Hon. C. A. Towne for Vice-President. He has a good personality, fine voice, is quite a forcible speaker, and could be heard.

THE Delano Eagle and others of its kind used to tell us how things would go all to pieces in Minnesota if we ever got anything but a Republican governor. Nearly two years ago we elected John Lind and now the Eagle is blowing about prosperous times.

HON. ADLAI E. STEVENSON was a guest of his daughters, at Lake Minnetonka when he received notice that he had been nominated for Vice President with Mr. Bryan. He has since visited the head of the ticket at Lincoln to help arrange for the coming campaign.

THE St. Paul Globe has been accused of deserting the Democratic party. It did that in 1896. No one expects it to be democratic now. Why it hasn't even kept up an exchange list with the respectable country democratic papers of the state for years. Poor old Globe.

ITS awfully unAmerican for a president of the United States to be trotting around the country with a body guard. When the Presideut becomes ruler over peoples he has reason to fear will assassinate him, or when his "benevolent assimilation" so troubles his conscience as to nessitate the presence at all times of an armed guard it does begin to look a little on the imperialistic order. Or does he just want to be in fashion with nobility?

CHARLES A. TOWNE, not having been nominated for vice president will now, of course, be the logical candidate with which the fusion forces can supersede Page Morris, in his aspirations to return to Congress to help the President complete his war with China; finish the Filipinos; give to Cuba a stable government; establish tariffs for Porto Rico; and complete the gold standard business; the "benevolent assimilation"; the isthmian canal under English supervision and a few more things like those. Hon. C. A. Towne would surely defeat his old opponent on present issues so badly that Page would hardly recognize after election that he had been in the race.

THE name of William Jennings Bryan was cheered by all as the proper nominee of the Kansas City convention, for President. Among the delegates from every state and territory in the Union not a desenting voice was heard against his nomination. For vice-president it was different. Hon. C. A. Towne had a strong following; so had Hon. David B. Hill, and several others were nominated. But as soon as it was learned that Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson was at all satisfactory the votes of Hill and Towne were soon changed into his ranks. Thus the convention demonstrated their satisfaction with him for the candidate to be placed next to their standard bearer on the ticket. Mr. Stevenson seemed to be the one man upon whom all would agree. His candidacy must do away with all factional fights within the fusion forces, and allow the triumphant election of the candidates who stand for the Republic, the declaration of Independence, Constitution and the government by the people.

Is This Civilization?

Editor Satterlee winds up an article about what the American people will demand of China thusly: "It will not mend matters to say that the Chinese government is not responsible. The responsibility will rest with the Chinese people, who can be got and punished, and will be."

Will Editor Satterlee buckle on his armor and go to China to lead a lot of innocent boys who have been inveigled into Uncle Sam's army on, to fire shells and long range cannon into helpless, inoffensive people, who may be within shooting distance to revenge this Christian nation for a supposed, or even for a real wrong? Would that be Christianizing anybody? M. P. That don't read right.

THE casting of Minnesota's vote on the Resolutions Committee at the Democratic National Convention, was only what might have been expected. When men are sent as delegates to an important convention like that at Kansas City it should be known before they go that their sympathies are in accord with the convention that sends them. Minnesota's convention was for Bryan and Towne and so instructed its delegates. But P. B. Winsaon, who was chosen as the member from Minnesota on the Resolutions committee, true to his newspaper articles before, cast the vote of Minnesota against the plank which everybody knows was a part of the Chicago platform, and which was endorsed by our state convention. In the language of Mr. Bryan, "They that are not for us are against us", and the sooner conventions that can, do act on that plan and leave such men at home, and send men that will vote the sentiments of the people the better for the party and the people.

Democratic National Convention.

The Democratic National Convention of 1900 was one of the grandest ever held. It was convened soon after 11 o'clock a. m. on our national birthday, July 4, amid the patriotic demonstrations of liberty loving citizens from every state and territory in the United States. The new convention hall occupying the site of the one burned so short a time before, was all that could be asked for. Flags and banners decorated the building handsomely. Hon. James K. Jones called the meeting to order. Gov. Lewis, of Colorado, was made temporary chairman; Senator Richardson, of Tenn., permanent chairman. A splendid bust of W. J. Bryan was unveiled on the platform. A three days meeting with night sessions concluded the convention. The platform was adopted amid ringing cheers. W. J. Bryan was unanimously nominated for president and Adlai E. Stevenson was chosen for the vice presidential candidate. The weather was warm during the convention.

Thirty thousand people are said to have been in the convention hall. Many eloquent and patriotic speeches were made. One of the most cheered was that of the Hon. Webster Davis who talked about the Boers, and about his being now a Bryan Democrat. Paterson, of Penn., Stone, of Mo., Altgeld, of Illinois, Hogg, of Texas, Daniels, of Virginia, Hill, of New York, White, of California, and many other noted men addressed the convention. Neither Mr. Bryan nor Mr. Stevenson, the nominees, were present.

Enthusiasm ran high, and the nominations made seemed to be favorably received by by the vast audience. Delegates began leaving for home in a very few moments after the adjournment of the convention.

It looks now as if Bryan and Stevenson would be the next president and vice president of the United States.

Democracy.

Webster defines democracy:

1. Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and directly exercised by the people.

2. Government by popular representation; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but is indirectly exercised through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed; a constitutional representative government; a republic.

3. Collectively the people, regarded as the source of government.

4. The principles and policy of the Democratic party, so called (U. S.).

Test of His Girl's Love

An Affair of the Heart with a Serious Puzzle.

HE WAS about 40 years old, prosperous in appearance, good looking as to person, intelligent of countenance, polished as to manner, and in all respects a really presentable fellow. A party of four were talking around a table on which sat a bottle or two with their accompanying glasses, and there was a blue haze of smoke in the room.

"For a number of years," he said, taking the lead in the conversation, "there has been in my mind a question which has remained unsettled, and I am going to submit it to you for adjustment, as it were. I have been happily married for ten years, and my wife is a woman of excellent judgment and good sense, but I have refrained from submitting the question to her for reasons which will appear when you have heard the story. When I was 25 years of age I lived in one of the interior towns of New York state, and, having a good position there, in a bank, was considerable of a citizen, socially as well as in other regards. I may say, I think, without egotism, that I was the 'catch of the town.' Very naturally, then, when a belle of the place and I began to make a specialty of each other, the gossips said nature was taking its course, and immediately began their calculations as to when the happy affair would eventuate. I was thinking the same way, and really felt flattered that the young woman had selected me out of all her admirers as the choice.

"She was unusually pretty, tall, graceful, blonde as a summer sky, and with money enough to have made her attractive even if she had been homely as a hedge fence. Like all pretty girls, however, so circumstanced, she was coquettish and uncertain, and the dozens of admirers she had hanging about her all the time did not tend to steady her a great deal. I was the one though of them all who received her most marked favor, and in the course of six months we became engaged to be married. To say that I was pleased when she accepted me scarcely expresses it, and yet I was not altogether satisfied. Possibly it was her nature not to satisfy the heart of a man as he would want it to be satisfied by the woman who was to be his wife, but one should not expect everything, and I accepted the gift the gods gave and let it go at that. At least, I did for about two months, and then I bethought me of a plan to test the woman of my choice. I thought I loved her. Possibly I did not. I fancy some would say I did not, or I would not have been in such a doubting humor.

"Be that as it may, I was determined to make a test, and I did. In a town about a hundred miles away lived my half brother, who was not anxious to have me marry the girl, notwithstanding the material advantages of the union, and he was willing enough to do his share in making the test when I proposed it to him. She did not know him at all, so when I had him come over to my town and took him to call on her as Mr. Hart, she had no idea that he was any other than as represented. He was a handsome fellow, much handsomer than I was, and the smoothest chap with women I ever saw. He was a fine brunette, while I was red-headed, and nobody on earth would have taken us for kinsmen. Our call was extended until after 11 o'clock, and when we came away I had a feeling that if it had been anybody else except my brohter I would have been jealous. He left at eight the next morning, and two days later I wrote him a letter to Miss Blank, which he was to copy and send to her.

"This he did, and in due course received an answer, and from that a regular correspondence grew, which very soon called for three or four letters a week. He would send her answers to me, and I would write an answer and send it to him, which he would copy and forward to her. At the same time I became more attentive than ever and began to insist upon her naming the day when we should be married. She thought June was the prettiest month for a wedding, and at last we came to an indefinite conclusion that we would marry in June. Meantime my letters to her over the signature of Mr. Hart became more intense, as did hers to him, and at last I proposed to her. Now you would suppose that a girl would not accept a man until she knew something more about him, and particularly that she would not when he was only a hundred miles away and could come in person and make his proposal, but I'll be blamed if she didn't. She did it with a whirl, too, that almost made me dizzy. I explained that I could not come, as my friend—meaning myself—would suspect something, and it would not do to offend him until we knew exactly how we stood. She felt just as I did about it, she said, and the only way to dispose of me was to spring it on me and have it over all at once.

"The evening of the day on which I received her letter of acceptance, so to speak, I called on her, as I did every night nearly, and incidentally I mentioned Hart—who, by the way, had never seen any of the letters she had written—and shes aid, with a coquettish little smile, that she didn't understand why he had never come to see her again, because she liked him, and believed he liked her. I told her I had asked him as a special favor not to come because I was afraid of him, and she chaffed me and said I was a 'jealous old thing,' and that if I kept people away as I was keeping Mr. Hart, she never would know anybody and a whole lot more of the same sort.

"When I left her that night we fixed the wedding for four weeks from then, which would make it on the 15th of June. The next morning I sent her a letter saying that I understood my friend—meaning myself—would be out of town over the following Sunday, and I would come over on the morning train, arriving at noon, and would call at two o'clock and we would arrange for an elopement, as that seemed to be the only way to get rid of the 'old man'—meaning myself. I also told her to wire me Saturday evening letting me know if my friend—meaning myself—had gone as he thought of doing.

"That evening being Friday, I called as usual, and informed her that I was called out of town and would be gone from Saturday evening until Monday noon, and would probably meet Mr. Hart, as he was expected to come down from his town on a matter of business in which we were both interested. I told her I would be glad to deliver any message she might like to send; but she said Mr. Hart had neglected her shamefully and she hadn't any message to send to him, and what was more she never expected to see him again. She showed some little anxiety when I spoke of expecting to meet Hart, but it was so slight as to have escaped the notice of any ordinary observer. Saturday afternoon we took a walk, ending at the station at five o'clock, when she saw me off. I told her goodby so seriously that she laughed at me and said I was saying it as if I never expected to see her again, and then, by Jove, I kissed her and wrung her hand again. You must know that I was not entirely without feeling.

"I staid on the train till seven o'clock and got off at a junction to wait for a train that would get me back home about 11 o'clock. I kept to my room next morning, sending the hotel boy to the post office at noon for my mail, in which I received from Hart the telegram which he had received the evening before. It read: 'Coast clear, expect you to-morrow,' and signed with my own name, a little subterfuge, as Hart explained to me, to throw the telegraph operator off of any suspicion. At two o'clock I was at the front door, and, as is the custom in smaller towns, she opened it for me herself. That she was startled by my presence was plain to be seen.

"'Oh,' she gasped, 'I thought—'

"'Yes, I know you did,' I interrupted her. 'You thought it was Mr. Hart. You are not mistaken. I am Mr. Hart. Here is your telegram to me,' and I handed it opened to her.

"She gazed at me for a full minute, a dozen contending emotions plainly visible in her face, as the scheme unfolded itself to her, and then her lips tightened across her teeth as she fairly hissed at me:

"'You contemptible cur!'

"She slammed the door in my face. Of course, after that there could be nothing but an end of our amicable relations, and the end came for all time. We never spoke to each other again, and the gossips had all they could do to find out why we had broken our engagement, but they never knew, for she nor I nor my brother ever told the story. I am telling it now for the first time, and because I have been wondering all these years whether she was right or not when she said I was a contemptible cur. What do you say?"

Every man of them was plunged into profound thought by the question, but not one answered.—N. Y. Sun.

Such frozen butterflies, on being taken to a warmer climate, recover themselves and fly away. Six species of butterflies have been found within a few hundred miles of the north pole.

A mystery with which every sailor is familiar is the formation of dust at sea. Those who are acquainted with sailing ships know that, no matter how careful the decks may be washed down in the morning, and how little work of any kind may be done during the day, nevertheless, if the decks are swept at nightfall, an enormous quantity of dust will be collected.

Until the discovery of deposits of lime in the Calico mountains borax had been a product of the marsh and of methods the simplest, admitting no improvement in mechanical appliances. An entirely new era opened with the discovery of borate of lime in stratified rock formation. Thenceforward the industry was transformed into a proposition akin to that of quartz mining.

An Italian military officer has produced a new explosive. He makes use of the explosive properties of water electrically decomposed; he incloses this in a box or other steel receptacle hermetically sealed. It explodes with a force more than 50 times greater than gunpowder, and nearly 30 times greater than dynamite. He is adapting this to rifle cartridges, and the Italian government is making tests in Turin. It is called Cosmos.

It is interesting to know from a dealer in jewels that pearls are particularly good health this summer. "Good health" is the expression of the dealer, and he meant it literally. "These gems are particularly liable to disease," he said. "Commercially, the health of a pearl refers to its luster, and when it becomes dull, you may know that it is sick. Democratic Convention Nominates Bryan and Stevenson.

Imperialism Is Pronounced by the Platform to Be the Paramount Issue—Silver Coinage at Ratio of 16 to 1 Favored.

Kansas City, July 8.—The democratic national ticket was completed Friday by the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson for vice president. The nomination was made on the first ballot, state after state joining in the wild scramble to record their support of the winning candidate. It was not accompanied by any such frantic demonstration of approval as had marked the proceedings at previous stages, although the result followed a spirited and at times highly dramatic contest between the advocates of Stevenson, Towne, Hill and the lesser candidates.

The platform declares imperialism to be the paramount issue of the campaign; opposes militarism; is strongly anti-trust in its declarations; favors silver coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1; condemns the Dingley tariff law; denounces the currency bill enacted at the last session of congress; favors election of United States senators by popular vote; favors direct legislation; opposes government by injunction; recommends creation of a department of labor in charge of a secretary, with a seat in the cabinet; favors liberal pensions; urges immediate construction and government ownership and control of the Nicaraguan canal; condemns the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as a surrender of American rights and interests; favors statehood for Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, and home rule and a territorial form of government for Alaska and Porto Rico; declares against entangling alliances with foreign powers; expresses sympathy for the Boers, and urges repeal of war taxes.

The silver republican convention nominated Bryan as its candidate for president. After a conference with a committee of democrats and one of populists, it was decided to refer the selection of a candidate for vice president to the party's national committee. This body met later and indorsed Stevenson. The populists have not yet decided, still insisting that Towne should be the candidate.

THE FIRST DAY.

Permanent Organization and Appointment of Committees.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—Amid scenes of tumultuous enthusiasm befitting such an event and such a day, the democratic national convention began its sessions Wednesday. At exactly 12:02 Chairman Jones ascended the platform and called the body to order. The first business of the convention was the reading of the formal call, by Secretary Walsh. Chairman Jones announced the prayer by Rev. S. W. Neel. Following the prayer came an address of welcome by Mayor Reed, of Kansas City.

Miss Fultoni, of New York, was introduced and sang "The Star Spangled Banner," the audience standing and cheering and applauding after each verse. It was an innovation in a national convention. Then, as she finished the last strain, the band took up "America," and, led by Miss Fultoni, the great mass of 20,000 people broke into the stirring words: "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," singing it through with unction and closing it with a cheer.

An Ovation to Hill.

Then, suddenly, somebody started the cry for "Hill," "Hill." In an instant Maryland, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi and New Mexico were on their feet waving their standards and yelling "Hill;" "Dave Hill."

The pounding of the chairman's gavel had no effect and for a time it looked like a concerted movement to stampede for the New Yorker. As delegation after delegation rose in their seats and the chairman's gavel fell, Mr. Hill was compelled to rise and bow.

This was the signal for pandemonium, and nothing seemed to be able to stop the torrent of applause. A few hisses were met with volleys of cheers, and, finally, a part of New York's delegation rose and joined the applauding hosts, Croker, Van Wyck and the Tammany delegation left their seats, not joining in it. For fully ten minutes the applause and disorder continued, the steady rap of the gavel having no effect.

Finally, Hill, himself hoping to stem the torrents of applause, arose. Then the delegates and the crowd howled themselves hoarse. "Hill," "Platform," they screamed.

"Mr. Chairman," he ejaculated, but his voice was drowned in the fierce outburst of applause. "Mr. Chairman," he tried again to say, and then, drowned out again, sunk, laughing, in his seat. After 15 minutes order was restored.

The call of states now began, for naming the members of the various committees. This was a tedious work, covering all the caucus selections of the several states and territories.

Adjournment was taken until afternoon.

The convention, at 4:50 o'clock, having no business to transact, because of the failure of the committee to be ready to report, took a recess until 8:30 p. m.

The Night Session.

At 8:33, Chairman Thomas rapped the convention to order, although considerable less than two-thirds of the delegates had arrived. There was considerable expectancy over the arrival of Senator Hill, but he failed to put in an appearance. Gov. Thomas introduced ex-Gov. Altgeld, of Illinois, who delivered an address. The speaker unwittingly touched off a mine by using the expression in discussing the attitude of certain democrats toward the silver question: "Now, my friend, Hill." That was as far as he got, for several minutes. The name of Hill again started the uproar that had marked the first session of the convention. The demonstration lasted for many minutes.

Permanent Organization.

The report of the committee on rules and credentials was read and adopted. Chairman Thomas then called for the report of the committee on permanent organization. When it was announced that Hon. J. D. Richardson, of Tennessee, had been selected as permanent chairman, cheers swept over the great audience. Upon Mr. Richardson's introduction to the audience, he was greeted by another wave of cheers.

In his remarks Mr. Richardson said that the republican party stands for empire. The democratic party stands for the republic, for the declaration of independence, and the constitution of our country. He denounced trusts. His arraignment of the failure of the republican party to establish bimetallism and the creation instead of a single gold standard was received with manifestations of hearty approval. He declared President McKinley and his secretary of state had done all in their power to nullify and abrogate the Monroe doctrine, and said democracy stood for this doctrine and demands its rigid enforcement. The policy of the administration with reference to Porto Rico and the Philippines was denounced as equivocating and cowardly, and he declared the present administration to be incompetent to deal with these questions. The administration he also bitterly arraigned for the war scandals and the Cuban postal scandals. The speaker accused the republican party leaders of forming secret and entangling alliances of the most detestable character with England, and denounced the failure to repeal or reduce war taxes on articles of prime necessity.

A Wild Scene.

His mention of the name of W. J. Bryan brought the convention to its feet in a frenzy of enthusiasm. Delegates sprang upon their chairs, waving hats, handkerchiefs and umbrellas in the wildest fashion. By a common impulse, the poles bearing the names of the states were torn up and thrust into the air. Then down the aisles toward the speaker's desk came groups of delegates surrounding one man who held the name of the state aloft. Texas and New York became engaged in a rivalry as to which should hold the name of the state highest in the air.

The men from Hawaii, carrying their large banner, came down the aisle, followed by a shouting mob which bore all before it. The band struck up "The Stars and Stripes," and to its inspiring strains the crowd commenced to march around the floor, yelling like madmen, waving everything that could be lifted into the air. Hats, handkerchiefs, umbrellas, state emblems, banners and the national colors were united into a conglomerate wave.

Precisely 20 minutes after Chairman Richardson had mentioned the name of Bryan, which, like the waving of a magic wand, had conjured up a scene of such wonderful enthusiasm as has seldom been witnessed in a political convention, he began to rap for order; but the delegates were not yet ready to yield the floor even to the chairman of the convention. The band in the gallery started a patriotic air, and despite the continuous efforts of Chairman Richardson to restore order the demonstration continued for 9½ minutes longer, its total length being 29½ minutes.

Order was then sufficiently restored to enable the chairman to recognize Delegate J. G. Johnson, of Kansas, who made a motion that the convention adjourn until 10:30 a. m. Thursday. At 10:34 the chairman declared the convention adjourned.

THE SECOND DAY.

Platform Adopted and Bryan Nominated Amid Great Enthusiasm.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—Convention hall was again besieged Thursday by eager and excited thousands and long before the time set for opening the second day's proceedings of the convention, all of the streets approaching the building were solidly massed with humanity, moving forward to the many entrances.

In calling the convention to order for the morning session Chairman Richardson announced that the platform committee was not ready to report, and, pending word from them he invited to the platform ex-Gov. Hogg, of Texas, to address the convention. The Texan's address created unbounded enthusiasm. Stirring addresses were also made by Hon. A. M. Dockery, of Missouri; Mayor Rose, of Milwaukee; Congressman Williams, of Illinois, and Hon. J. W. Miles, of Maryland.

Chairman Richardson announced that he had been informed the platform committee would be ready to report at 3:30. Thereupon a motion was agreed to to adjourn until that hour, and the vast audience filed out of the building amid enthusiastic shouts for the favorite leaders and the enlivening music of the orchestra.

Senator Jones presented the platform. The document was read by Senator Tillman. When Senator Tillman reached the point declaring imperialism the paramount issue in this campaign, the delegates mounted their chairs and cheered wildly.

Great Enthusiasm.

Senator Tillman was requested to repeat the imperialism plank, and again the demonstration was great. Delegates mounted their chairs, waved hats, umbrellas and flags. The spectators joined in the cheering. The whole convention hall was a mass of waving flags. The band began playing and the demonstration increased in intensity. The state standards were pulled up and carried to the platform.

Fine Flag Display.

No such flag display was ever seen in a convention. The flags bore this inscription:

"The constitution and the flag, one and inseparable, now and forever. The flag of the republic forever, of an empire never."

Again and again the demonstration was renewed. The band played "A Hot Time," and the convention sang it, while the state standards were carried about the hall. A Boer flag was carried to the platform and waved amid great enthusiasm. The band played "America," and the whole vast audience sang it, marking time with the flags.

Senator Tillman stood surveying the storm and awaiting an opportunity to proceed. The chairman pounded his gavel and appealed for order. But the march of the delegates, bearing their standards and banners, ran on uninterruptedly for 22 minutes.

Another Outbreak.

When the senator reached the reaffirmation of the Chicago platform, with the declaration for free silver coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1, pandemonium again broke loose. But the demonstration was faint in comparison to what had just occurred when imperialism was announced as the "paramount issue." Many of the delegates stood on their chairs and waved flags and cheered, but a very considerable number—more than half—held their seats. Senator Hill was among those who maintained quiet, while Mr. Croker waved a flag until it broke, and George Fred Williams led the Massachusetts contingent in salvos of cheers. One of the New York delegates raised a standard bearing the inscription: "Don't think there are no 16 to 1'ers in New York." The demonstration lasted 4½ minutes.

Platform Adopted.

The reading of the platform was concluded and adopted by acclamation.

Roll of States Called.

The chairman then said:

"The next business before the convention is the nomination of a candidate for the presidency of the United States. The secretary will call the roll of states."

Before doing so, the secretary read the names of the members of the committee appointed by the chair to confer with the silver republicans and populists in accordance with the resolution introduced by George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts, at the morning session. They are: George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts, J. G. Berry, Arkansas; W. H. Thompson, Nebraska; Charles Thomas, Colorado; J. S. Rose, Wisconsin; Thomas H. Martin, Virginia; J. O. McGuire, California; B. R. Tillman, South Carolina; Carter H. Harrison, Illinois.

Bryan's Name Presented.

Alabama was called for nominations, but yielded to Nebraska. W. D. Oldham, of Nebraska, who was to present the name of Mr. Bryan to the convention, was waiting by the chairman's desk, and as the chairman of the Alabama delegation resumed his seat, he came forward, and in a few graceful words expressed his appreciation of the favor extended by Alabama in surrendering its time to the state of Mr. Bryan. Mr. Oldham in an eloquent address presented the name of William Jennings Bryan as a candidate for the presidency.

This was the signal for the demonstration of the day, and in a common purpose the great concourse joined in a tribute of enthusiastic devotion to the party leader. A huge oil portrait of Bryan, measuring 15 feet across, was brought down the main aisle before the delegates. At the same time the standards of the state delegations were torn from their sockets and waved on high, while umbrellas of red, white and blue, silk banners of the several states and many handsome and unique transparencies were borne about the building amid the deafening clamor of 20,000 yelling, gesticulating men and women. All of the intensity of former demonstrations, and much more, was added to this final tribute to the leader.

When the demonstration had spent itself the speeches seconding the nomination of Mr. Bryan were in order. Senator White spoke for California, giving the tribute of the Pacific coast to the Nebraska candidate.

Seconded by Hill.

When Colorado was reached that state yielded to Senator Hill, of New York. The audience had anxiously awaited the appearance of the distinguished New Yorker, and as he took the platform he was accorded a splendid reception, the entire audience rising and cheering wildly, with the single exception of the little group of Tammany leaders, who sat silent throughout the cheers for their New York associate. Mr. Hill was in fine voice, and his tribute to the Nebraskan touched a sympathetic chord in the hearts of the audience. He pictured Bryan as the champion of the plain people and of the workingman, strong with the masses, with the farmer and with the artisan. When Hill declared, with dramatic emphasis that the candidate would have the support of his party—a united party—there was tremendous applause at the suggestion of democratic unity. Aside from the brilliant eulogy of Bryan, the speech of the New York leader was chiefly significant and attractive in its strong plea for unity. "It is time for unity, not for division," he exclaimed, to the rapturous approval of the great multitude facing him.

Mr. Bryan's nomination was seconded by Perkins, of Texas; Lomax, of Alabama; Moore, of North Carolina; Daniel, of Virginia; Overmeyer, of Kansas, and many others.

Hawaii, through its native delegate, John H. Wise, made its first seconding speech in a democratic national convention, and finally a sweet-voiced and pleasant-faced woman alternate from Utah seconded the nomination of Mr. Bryan in behalf of the state of Utah.

Bryan Nominated.

After the call of states was completed the secretary began to call the roll on the ballot for the presidential nomination. As the roll call proceeded the shouts of approval of the unanimity of the vote seemed to increase. All of the large states were cheered heartily as one after another they cast their votes for Mr. Bryan. The list of states and territories was completed with the calling of the territory of Hawaii. The announcement by Chairman Richardson that Mr. Bryan had been nominated for president of the United States unanimously was received with great applause.

After the nomination of Bryan the convention adjourned until to-day to nominate the candidate for vice president. There was a fear of lighting the convention hall when it was packed with people.

THE THIRD DAY.

Stevenson Nominated for Vice President—Convention Adjourns.

Kansas City, July 7.—The final meeting of the democratic national convention was attended by an enormous crowd.

Stevenson and Towne Named.

At 10:45 Chairman Richardson advanced to the front of the platform, a great bouquet of sweet peas in his hand, and with a sweep of the gavel cut off the strains of the band, slowly stilled the confusion and brought the convention to order for its third day's work.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

After the prayer the call of states began for the purpose of making nominations for the vice presidency. Great confusion prevailed and very few of the delegates were aware of what was going on until Alabama and Arkansas had been passed, and California was called. Then the doughty form and florid face of Senator White emerged from the Californians, and in stentorian tones he demanded to know what was going on and that the aisles be cleared of the disorderly intruders. When the chairman responded that California was being called for nominations, Senator White announced that California yielded to Arkansas.

"And Arkansas yields to Illinois, to place in nomination Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois," shouted Jeff Davis, the democratic candidate for governor of Arkansas, standing on a chair and receiving a cheer for his mention of Stevenson.

Now all business was suspended, as the confusion had become so overpowering that the call of the secretaries was inaudible above the roar. The police and sergeants-at-arms struggled vainly to dispossess the mob which was now well-nigh in control of the floor. Men fought to retain their places, and there were many exciting encounters, which at times threatened to precipitate a fight under the eyes of the multitude. It took 15 minutes to restore some semblance of order, and then the spokesman for Illinois, Representatives James Williams, presented the name of Stevenson.

Stevenson's name was received with cheers.

Connecticut yielded to Minnesota and Mr. Roesing nominated Towne.

There was considerable cheering for Towne among the spectators, but Minnesota was the only state that joined in the demonstration save one delegate here and there. The cheering was kept up for a little while, but it was evident that Towne's friends were in the galleries.

Springs Hill's Name.

Meantime attention was being directed to an excited group, massed in front of the New York section with Hill as the vortex of a struggling throng of delegates. They pressed forward from all quarters of the hall, urging him to permit his name to be placed before the convention. The face of the New Yorker was a study as the demands upon him came from all sides. He sat in the front row of delegates, with ex-Senator Murphy on his right and Judge Van Wyck on his immediate left. A second seat away was Mr. Croker. Hill protested vociferously. Judge Van Wyck said he could not refuse. Murphy and Croker pleaded with him to obey the will of the convention and accept. While the pleadings continued the call of Delaware was heard above the roar, and Delaware yielded her place to New York. At this the bulky form of Senator Grady, the silver-tongued orator of New York, pushed through the densely-packed aisles up to the platform. There was a hush through the hall to hear what word New York had to offer.

"In behalf of the united democracy of New York," shouted Grady, "I present as a candidate for vice president the name of David Bennett Hill."

A Great Scene.

The effect was electrical and a tidal wave of enthusiastic approval swept over the convention. Delegates stood on their chairs and waved frantically, not in a few scattering groups, but in solid phalanxes. Flags and standards were again mingled in triumphant procession while a roar as from Niagara pulsated through the great structure. Grady stood there proudly waiting for the storm to subside. But as he waited the audience observed a strange pantomime. They saw Hill leave the New York delegation and push through the throng up to the platform. They could hear him appeal to Grady to withdraw, while Grady's answer was apparent from the shake of his head and his advance to the front of the platform to continue his nominating speech. When the demonstration had subsided Grady completed his speech placing Hill before the convention.

Hill Protests.

But as he stepped from the platform the man who had just been placed in nomination took his place. The senator looked out sternly, even savagely, on the shouting thousands. When he could be heard he made due acknowledgment of the honor done him. "But I cannot, I must not, be the nominee of this convention," he declared, with explosive emphasis. He was frequently interrupted with enthusiastic shouts of approval, but when he left the platform the delegates were firmly convinced from his words and manner that he was sincerely desirous of having his name withheld. It is probably this alone which prevented a nomination by acclamation then and there, for the tempestuous spirit manifested showed that the convention was on the point of being carried off its feet.

Bryar Opposes Hill.

When Hill's name was sprung Mr. Bryan was heard from and he made a vigorous protest to some of the leaders. He favored Towne.

Stevenson Stock Rises.

It was soon apparent that, with Hill out, Stevenson was a strong favorite. State after state seconded his nomination—Georgia, Indiana, Virginia, Iowa, Kentucky, Illinois. Some of the devoted friends of Hill still maintained their allegiance to him, and the delegations of New Jersey, Louisiana and some others seconded his nomination.

Other Names Presented.

A number of favorite sons also were placed in nomination, Maryland bringing forward Gov. John Walter Smith; Washington naming James Hamilton Lewis; North Carolina nominating Col. Julian Carr, and Ohio presenting the name of A. W. Patrick. It was after two o'clock when the seconding speeches, many of them wearisome, were concluded and the balloting began. As the roll was about to be called Mr. Lewis appeared on the platform and in a few well-chosen words withdrew from the contest.

The Balloting.

The vote was followed with intense interest, for when Alabama announced three for Stevenson and 19 for Hill it looked as though a close and exciting contest was to occur. But it was soon evident that Stevenson had a strong lead. At the close of the call he had 559½ votes, which, however, was not enough to nominate, the requisite two-thirds being 624. Hill had received 200 votes and Towne 89½. But before the announcement of the result a strong-lunged delegate from Tennessee stood on his chair and announced: "Tennessee changes her 24 votes from Hill to Stevenson."

Stevenson Nominated.

That started the tide irresistibly toward Stevenson. From every quarter of the hall came demands for recognition. Alabama changed to Stevenson; California did the same. North Carolina changed from Carr to Stevenson. Even New York finally and reluctantly announced its change from Hill to Stevenson. That ended it. Stevenson's nomination was assured, although for some time longer the various states continued to record their changes from Towne and other candidates to Stevenson. In the end the nomination was made unanimous. Its announcement was greeted with enthusiastic approval, and again the state standards and banners were borne about the building in tribute to the party nominee.

The usual formal resolutions of thanks to Kansas City and to the officers of the convention were adopted amid the greatest confusion and then, at 3:21, on motion of Chairman Jones, the national democratic convention of 1900 adjourned.

THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Senator Jones Unanimously Reelected Chairman.

Kansas City, July 7.—The national committee of the democratic party met at the Kansas City club after the adjournment of the convention, and immediately organized. Senator Jones, who was not a member of the committee, remained outside until the preliminaries were over. Thomas Taggert, of Indiana, who has been mentioned as a possible chairman, nominated Senator Jones for reelection, and he received the unanimous vote. The matter of selecting the executive committee was left to Chairman Jones, who will make the appointments after he has had time for consideration. It is understood that many of the members of the last committee will be chosen. A committee consisting of Tillman, of South Carolina; Johnson, of Indiana; Williams, of Massachusetts; Osborne, of Wyoming, and Wilson, of Idaho, was appointed to confer with representatives of the populist and silver republican parties as to the best plan of campaign.

SILVER REPUBLICANS.

Nominate Bryan for President by Acclamation—Their Platform.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—The national convention of the national silver republican party met in the auditorium Wednesday. The delegates were slow in arriving, and it was some time after 12, the hour fixed for the convention, when Chairman Charles A. Towne's gavel fell, and the party formed in St. Louis four years ago, after the bolt of the advocates of free silver from the republican national convention was launched on its first regular national gathering. Twenty-four states were represented at the convention. After the reading of the call for the convention and the declaration of independence, Temporary Chairman Towne introduced Dr. Howard S. Taylor, of Chicago, a poet of the new political movement, who read the poem entitled "The Liberty Bell." Mr. Towne then delivered an address.

Senator Teller was introduced as chairman of the convention, and made an eloquent address, dealing with the monetary question and bitterly denouncing the disestablishment of silver. The mention of Mr. Bryan's name by Senator Teller created a perfect storm of applause, but the demonstration was excelled by that which occurred when Charles A. Towne's name was mentioned.

E. S. Corser, of Minnesota, presented a resolution, providing for a committee of 15, of which Henry M. Teller shall be chairman, to present to the democratic national convention the name of Charles A. Towne as a candidate for vice president.

The various state delegations announced their selections for members of the convention committees, and pending their organization and reports, the convention adjourned until ten o'clock Thursday morning.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—The silver republican national convention spent all of Thursday in waiting for the report of the committee on resolutions. It was expected that the platform would be out of the way and nominations be in order at least before the close of the afternoon session, but so much friction developed in the subcommittee to which the drafting of a platform had been referred, that it was not until late Thursday afternoon that the formal enunciation of the party's principles was in readiness to be presented to the full committee. Once the disputed points had been settled, however, the committee on resolutions lost no further time, but promptly voted its approval of the subcommittee's work. The main points of difference lay in the attitude of the party on expansion, and on this point both the subcommittee and the full committee were divided practically on geographical lines, the eastern members favoring condemnation of imperialism, while most of the members from the western states opposed this course.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—After a long and exciting debate, during which it looked several times as if Charles A. Towne would be nominated for vice president in spite of his protest against such action, the national convention of the silver republican party adjourned sine die without making a nomination, the whole matter being referred to the national committee with power to act. W. J. Bryan was made the unanimous choice of the convention for president during the morning session, and it was the intention to complete the ticket in the afternoon by the nomination of former Congressman Towne. The action of the democratic convention, however, in placing Adlai E. Stevenson in nomination took the delegates off their feet, but most of them asserted their determination to nominate Mr. Towne notwithstanding. For two hours Senator Teller, former Congressman Shafroth, of Colorado, and Cheadle, of Indiana, and others made speeches in favor of indorsing the democratic ticket, but it was not until Towne himself appeared and appealed to the convention not to nominate him, but to concentrate their forces, that the delegates calmed down, and the vice presidential nomination was referred to the national committee.

Mr. Towne, in a speech to the convention previous to the decision with reference to the vice presidential nomination, said he believed it his duty to support the ticket nominated by the democratic convention.

While Mr. Towne was speaking several attempts were made to interrupt him with questions. The convention howled down the attempts until Mr. Towne yielded to the questions, after which Mr. Towne again insisted that it was his wish that the convention should not nominate him.

The convention gave Mr. Towne most respectful consideration, and while he was speaking it was evident that the convention was disposed to follow Mr. Towne's advice and wishes.

The conference of the representatives of the three great parties developed a peculiar situation in some respects. The democrats were anxious for the withdrawal of Towne from the populist ticket, and the silver republicans said that, so far as they were concerned, they would, through their committee, nominate Stevenson for vice president, although profoundly disappointed that Towne was not nominated by the democratic convention. The populists were not in favor of the withdrawal of Towne and maintained that the populist national committee, acting under instructions from the Sioux Falls convention, would be compelled to put another candidate in the field if Towne should withdraw, and that the committee could not withdraw him. More than this, they asserted that if Towne should be withdrawn and they should not put another man in his place, their organization would be endangered, and such action would result in populists going over to the middle-of-the-road ticket, nominated at Cincinnati. This would lessen the chances of carrying states in the west and intermountain country.

The fact that a number of United States senatorships depended upon the success of the fusion of all forces was given as a reason why the populist ticket should be kept in the field. It was claimed by the populists that two senators in Nebraska, one in South Dakota, one in Kansas, one in Colorado and, possibly, one in Wyoming, depended upon perfect fusion of the three forces. The populists made a plea for delay, saying that 30 days from now they would have had an opportunity to confer with their people, and the conditions which might make necessary the withdrawal of Towne or his retention would then be better understood.

A meeting of the silver republican national committee was held immediately after the close of the conference, and, at the end of a brief discussion, it was voted unanimously to place Adlai E. Stevenson in nomination for vice president and to cooperate in every way with the democratic party for the success of the ticket.

The populist committee has reached no decision.

Platform of Silver Republicans.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—Following is a synopsis of the platform adopted by the national silver republican convention: The opening sentences recognize the principles set forth in the declaration of American independence as fundamental and everlastingly true in their application to governments among men. Washington's farewell address, Jefferson's wise statesmanship and Lincoln's patriotism and broad philanthropy are enunciated and emphasized. The principle of bimetallism is declared to be the right basis of monetary system. The currency law is criticised because destroying the full money power of the silver dollar and fixing the gold standard on the country. The party pledges itself to seek its repeal. The platform favors an income tax, election of senators by direct vote of people, and the maintenance and extension of the merit system.

Combinations, trusts and monopolies are denounced as unjust, unlawful and oppressive and laws are demanded for their destruction. The Monroe doctrine is reiterated and adherence demanded thereto. Ownership of lands by aliens is denounced. Principles of direct legislation are favored. Liberal pensions recommended for deserving soldiers, their widows and orphans, but the present administration of the pension laws is condemned.

Sympathy is extended to the South African republics. Porto Rican tariff bill is denounced and imperialism entirely opposed to our republican form of government. Demand for repeal of war revenue law. Admission to the union of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma as states is favored. Demand made that promises made to Cuba be fulfilled in every particular. Government aid is urged in reclaiming the arid lands of the country. A sentiment is expressed in favor of the public ownership and operation of public utilities. Peace is declared to be the virtue of civilization and war is its crime. The expansion of our commerce in the interests of American labor is favored and the importation of Asiatic laborers in competition with American labor is denounced. The platform in closing says:

"The silver republican party of the United States in the foregoing principles seeks to perpetuate the spirit and to adhere to the teachings of Abraham Lincoln."

TRADE REVIEW.

Leading Commercial Agencies Tell of Existing Conditions in Commercial Circles.

New York, July 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "Failures in the first half of 1900 were 5,362, with liabilities of $100,570,134. There were 30 failures of banks and financial corporations for $25,822,682, leaving 5,332 commercial failures with liabilities of $74,747,457. Had it been predicted that the vast iron industry would be thrown from unprecedented activity into great depression, with many works closed and prices reduced fully a quarter, without failures amounting in all to $30,000, it would have been thought impossible. Yet the six failures in the department for the last quarter were in all $28,935, though Bessemer pig has fallen from $25 to $18, and plates from 3.1 to 1.5 cents, and the average for iron and steel products has declined just 25 per cent. since January 10. Some further decline is now expected before things are adjusted for another active season, and efforts to arrange wages are progressing.

Bradstreet's says: "Business is usually dull at this season, and this year no exception to the general rule is remarked. A review of the past six months, however, gives little comfort to pessimists. Bank clearings, it is true, are smaller by about 11 per cent. than they were in the first half of 1899, but railway earnings are about 10 per cent. larger, and business failures, as reported to Bradstreet's, are the fewest reported for 18 years back, with liabilities of failing traders the smallest, with one exception, and that last year, since 1892. Winter wheat has about all been harvested in the southwest and the yield there has been very large. Copious rains in the northwest, too, have apparently worked some improvement, judging from the more cheerful tone of advices received thence this week.

"In manufacturing lines dullness and weakness are most marked in products of iron and steel. Talk of an effort by the great combinations to control prices in the latter industry is heard, but in the almost total lack of new business the basic material, pig iron, weakens steadily, with some authorities predicting 25 per cent. reduction from present purely nominal prices, which are not attracting buyers. The situation in boots and shoes and its allied industries is one of quiet, pending new developments. The settlement of labor troubles is reflected in the better demand for building materials at affected centers, while rains in the northwest have allowed white pine manufacturers to open their works and give employment to many thousands of men. Southern pine prices are weak and the market for that material is very dull."

Kill Each Other.

Tucson, Ariz., July 7.—Antonio Soso and Jose Vasquez, two prominent Mexican cattlemen, quarreled over a cattle brand in San Pedro valley and both men were killed in a fight with guns. A feud between cowboys employed by the two men killed has arisen and serious trouble is feared.

Called to Yale.

New Haven, Conn., July 7.—Henry Wade Rogers, LL. D. D., late president of the Northwestern university, has accepted an invitation from Yale law school to take the place of E. J. Phelps, deceased, as instructor in the law department of Yale university during the coming year.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Bowling Green, July 7.—Prairie Depot, Wood county, suffered the loss of two whole squares by fire Thursday night, involving a loss of from $60,000 to $75,000. Eighteen business houses were destroyed.

Storm Damages Grain.

Cedar Falls, Ia., July 7.—A heavy wind and rainstorm damaged the small grain Friday afternoon, laying it flat on the ground. The storm was general in this section of the state, taking in several counties.

Lynched.

Albany, Ga., July 7.—John Roe, an 18-year-old negro, was lynched near Columbia, Ala., for an attempted assault. His body was shot to pieces.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Hoppers.

Professor Lugger has made his report to Governor Lind on the grasshoppers in northern Minnesota.

The situation is much better than ten days ago, and the outlook for the prevention of a scourge next year is good.

The 800 hopper dosers did good work.

Professor Lugger says the hoppers are being destroyed by two parasites, but that the only safety for that country lies in plowing all the fields where the hoppers have been located.

The report also recommends that nonresidents be required to plow the land they have been allowing to go to waste after cultivating it for a term. This land is not only a great breeding place for grasshoppers and other pests, but it is producing noxious weeds, which threaten to overrun the country. One hundred acres of this land will breed grasshoppers enough to overrun 5,000 acres.

The report states that the southeastern part of the state is being overrun by chinch bugs.

The dry season has not only operated favorably for increasing the number of chinch bugs, but prevents their successful inoculation with the disease virus.

Lost Money.

Some notable facts are disclosed in the annual report of Insurance Commissioner O'Shaughnessy which is being prepared for the printer. Fire insurance companies evidently had a pretty hard year of it as out of 36 foreign companies that are duly authorized to do business in Minnesota, not one made money through underwriting. In fact all lost money, and were it not for the profitable investment and the earnings of stocks and securities, the foreign fire companies would have but little to encourage a continuance in business in this country if the future could be based on last year's business.

Of the 125 joint stock fire companies, organized in the United States that transact business in Minnesota, very few made any money through underwriting, and the great majority are to the bad. The existing condition is occasioned by exceptional heavy fire losses during 1899. The first six months of this year have shown but little improvement and this year promises to record losses nearly as large as last year.

Narrow Escape.

During a storm in Minneapolis the top of the new Andrus building, Fifth street and Nicollet avenue, was struck and a large rock, weighing about 12 pounds, was loosened. It fell to Fifth street and struck the top of an A. D. T. hack, driven by "Jim" Lindsay.

The driver was on his way from Second avenue south to the West hotel, the occupant of this hack being a woman. The rock nearly struck the driver, but instead landed squarely on top of the hack, just behind the seat. It crashed through the top with a loud noise and landed in the seat.

Fortunately for the occupant, she was sitting on the opposite seat, and was not struck by the large missile. Although severely frightened by her unusual experience, she was uninjured, and the only damage was that done to the hack.

A Distinct Feature.

A distinct feature will be added to Itasca state park if Governor Lind is successful in his present efforts to secure recognition by the powers at Washington. The river commission, in its geodetic survey of the valley to include the sources of the father of waters, will erect three observation towers within the borders of Itasca park. It is the governor's plan to secure these towers and have them made permanent after the work of the engineers has been finished.

General John M. Wilson, chief of engineers, United States army, writing to Congressman Page Morris, says he can see no reason why the governor's request should not be granted.

One of the towers will be built on the highest point in the park, which is also the highest point in Minnesota. The towers, the governor thinks, would prove a great attraction to tourists.

Put Out the Fires.

The rains have put out the last of the running fires in the pine woods of this part of the state, and solitary fires in logs and stumps, that might spread later, will hardly last through the storm. Lumbermen are jubilant at the change in weather conditions, though they have not yet had and cannot hope for some time to have water enough to make any great change in the rivers. The lower dams of the Nemadji river were again opened and a lot of cedar poles, posts, ties and a general mix-up of logs, etc., were gotten to the sorting works.

A Murder.

Mrs. James Dowd, a widow about 30 years of age, was murdered at her residence on a farm five miles southwest of Pipestone.

Her uncle, Frazer MacKay, an old resident of this place, drove out to see her and found her lying dead on the kitchen floor, a bullet having entered the mouth and passing through the head probably caused instant death.

Her child, not yet two years old, was shot in the forearm, but not seriously. One Peter Swanson is suspected. Five hundred dollars reward has been offered for the conviction of the guilty party.

DEMOCRATIC CREED.

Full Text of Platform Adopted by the National Convention.

Imperialism Made the Paramount Issue—Specific Declaration for Silver Coinage at 16 to 1—Strong Denunciation of Trusts.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—Following is the official text of the platform unanimously adopted by the national democratic convention:

We, the representatives of the democratic party of the United States, assembled in national convention, on the anniversary of the adoption of the declaration of independence, do reaffirm our faith in that immortal proclamation of the inalienable rights of man, and our allegiance to the constitution framed in harmony therewith by the fathers of the republic. We hold, with the United States supreme court, that the declaration of independence is the spirit of our government, of which the constitution is the form and letter.

We declare again that all governments instituted among men derive their just powers from the consent of the governed; that any government not based upon the consent of the governed is a tyranny, and that to impose upon any people a government of force is to substitute the methods of imperialism for those of a republic. We hold that the constitution follows the flag and denounce the doctrine that an executive or congress, deriving their existence and their powers from the constitution, can exercise lawful authority beyond it, or in violation of it. We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire, and we warn the American people that imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home.

Believing in these fundamental principles, we denounce the Porto Rico law, enacted by a republican congress against the protest and opposition of the democratic minority, as a bold and open violation of the nation's organic law and a flagrant breach of the national good faith. It imposes upon the people of Porto Rico a government without their consent and taxation without representation. It dishonors the American people by repudiating a solemn pledge made in their behalf by the commanding general of our army, which the Porto Ricans welcomed to a peaceful and unresisted occupation of their land. It doomed to poverty and distress a people whose helplessness appeals with peculiar force to our justice and magnanimity. In this, the first act of its imperialistic programme, the republican party seeks to commit the United States to a colonial policy, inconsistent with republican institutions and condemned by the supreme court in numerous decisions.

Pledge to Cuba Must Be Kept.

We demand the prompt and honest fulfillment of our pledge to the Cuban people and the world that the United States has no disposition nor intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over the island of Cuba, except for its pacification. The war ended nearly two years ago, profound peace reigns over all the island, and still the administration keeps the government of the island from its people, while republican carpet bag officials plunder its revenues and exploit the colonial theory, to the disgrace of the American people.

The Philippines.

We condemn and denounce the Philippine policy of the present administration. It has involved the republic in unnecessary war, sacrificed the lives of many of our noblest sons and placed the United States, previously known and applauded throughout the world as the champion of freedom in the false and un-American position of crushing with military force the efforts of our former allies to achieve liberty and self-government. The Filipinos cannot be citizens without endangering our civilization; they cannot be subjects without imperiling our form of government, and as we are not willing to surrender our civilization or to convert the republic into an empire we favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to give to the Filipinos first a stable form of government, second, independence and, third, protection from outside interference, such as has been given for nearly a century to the republics of Central and South America.

The greedy commercialism which dictated the Philippine policy of the republican administration attempts to justify it with the plea that it will pay, but even this sordid and unworthy plea fails when brought to the test of facts. The war of 'criminal aggression' against the Filipinos, entailing an annual expense of many millions, has already cost more than any possible profit that could accrue from the entire Philippine trade for years to come. Furthermore, when trade is extended at the expense of liberty the price is always too high.

We are not opposed to territorial expansion when it takes in desirable territory which can be erected into states in the union and whose people are willing and fit to become American citizens. We favor trade expansion by every peaceful and legitimate means. But we are unalterably opposed to the seizing or purchasing of distant islands to be governed outside the constitution and whose people can never become citizens.

We are in favor of extending the republic's influence among the nations, but believe that influence should be extended, not by force and violence, but through the pursuaive power of a high and honorable example.

The Paramount Issue.

The importance of other questions now pending before the American people is in no wise diminished, and the democratic party takes no backward step from its position on them, but the burning issue of imperialism growing out of the Spanish war involves the very existence of the republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign.

Republican Platform Deceptive.

The declaration in the republican platform, adopted at the Philadelphia convention, held in June, 1900, that the republican party "steadfastly adheres to the policy announced in the Monroe doctrine" is manifestly insincere and deceptive. This profession is contradicted by the avowed policy of that party in opposition to the spirit of the Monroe doctrine to acquire and hold sovereignty over large areas of territory and large numbers of people in the eastern hemisphere. We insist on the strict maintenance of the Monroe doctrine and in all its integrity, both in letter and in spirit, as necessary to prevent the extension of European authority on this continent and as essential to our supremacy in American affairs. At the same time we declare that no American people shall ever be held by force in unwilling subjection to European authority.

Militarism Opposed.

We oppose militarism. It means conquest abroad and intimidation and oppression at home. It means the strong arm which has ever been fatal to free institutions. It is what millions of our citizens have fled from in Europe. It will impose upon our peace-loving people a large standing army and unnecessary burden of taxation and a constant menace to their liberties. A small standing army and a well-disciplined state militia are amply sufficient in time of peace. This republic has no place for a vast military service and conscription. When the nation is in danger the volunteer soldier is his country's best defender. The national guard of the United States should ever be cherished in the patriotic hearts of a free people. Such organizations are ever an element of strength and safety. For the first time in our history and coevil with the Philippine conquest has there been a wholesale departure from our time-honored and approved system of volunteer organization. We denounce it as un-American, un-democratic and un-republican, and as a subversion of the ancient and fixed principles of a free people.

War on Monopolies and Trusts.

Private monopolies are indefensible and intolerable. They destroy competition, control the price of all material, and of the finished product, thus robbing both producer and consumer. They lessen the employment of labor, and arbitrarily fix the terms and conditions thereof, and deprive individual energy and small capital of their opportunity for betterment. They are the most efficient means yet devised for appropriating the fruits of industry to the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, and unless their insatiate greed is checked all wealth will be aggregated in a few hands and the republic destroyed. The dishonest paltering with the trust evil by the republican party in state and national platforms is conclusive proof of the truth of the charge that trusts are the legitimate product of republican policies, that they are fostered by republican laws, and that they are protected by the republican administration in return for campaign subscriptions and political support.

We pledge the democratic party to an unceasing warfare in nation, state and city against private monopoly in every form. Existing laws against trusts must be enforced and more stringent ones must be enacted providing for publicity as to the affairs of corporations engaged in interstate commerce and requiring all corporations to show, before doing business outside of the state of their origin, that they have no water in their stock, and that they have not attempted, and are not attempting, to monopolize any branch of business or the production of any articles of merchandise, and the whole constitutional power of congress over interstate commerce, the mails and all modes of interstate communication shall be exercised by the enactment of comprehensive laws upon the subject of trusts. Tariff laws should be amended by putting the products of trusts upon the free list to prevent monopoly under the plea of protection.

The failure of the present republican administration, with an absolute control over all the branches of the national government, to enact any legislation designed to prevent or even curtail the absorbing power of trusts and illegal combinations, or to enforce the anti-trust laws already on the statute books prove the insincerity of the high-sounding phrases of the republican platform. Corporations should be protected in all their rights and their legitimate interests should be respected, but any attempt by corporations to interefere with the public affairs of the people or to control the sovereignty which creates them, should be forbidden under such penalties as will make such attempts impossible.

Dingley Tariff Law Condemned.

We condemn the Dingley tariff law as a trust-breeding measure, skillfully devised to give the few favors which they do not deserve and to place upon the many burdens which they should not bear.

Interstate Commerce.

We favor such an enlargement of the scope of the interstate commerce law as will enable the commission to protect individuals and communities from discriminations and the public from unjust and unfair transportation rates.

The Financial Plank.

We reaffirm and endorse the principles of the national democratic platform adopted at Chicago in 1896, and we reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price-level, and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation.

A Scheme to Benefit Banks.

We denounce the currency bill enacted at the last session of congress as a step forward in the republican policy which aims to discredit the sovereign right of the national government to issue all money, whether coin or paper, and to bestow upon national banks the power to issue and control the volume of paper money for their own benefit. A permanent national bank currency, secured by government bonds, must have a permanent debt to rest upon, and if the bank currency is to increase with population and business, the debt must also increase. The republican currency scheme is therefore a scheme for fastening upon the taxpayers a perpetual and growing debt for the benefit of the banks. We are opposed to this private corporation paper circulated as money, but without legal tender qualities, and demand the retirement of the national bank notes as fast as government paper or silver certificates can be substituted for them.

Favors Direct Legislation.

We favor an amendment to the federal constitution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, and we favor direct legislation wherever practicable.

Opposes Government by Injunction.

We are opposed to government by injunction; we denounce the blacklist and favor arbitration as a means of settling disputes between corporations and their employes.

A Department of Labor.

In the interest of American labor and the uplifting of the workingman, as the corner stone of the prosperity of our country, we recommend that congress create a department of labor in charge of a secretary, with a seat in the cabinet, believing that the elevation of the American laborer will bring with it increased production and increased prosperity to our country at home and to our commerce abroad.

Liberal Pensions.

We are proud of the courage and fidelity of the American soldiers and sailors in all our wars; we favor liberal pensions to them and their dependents, and we reiterate the position taken in the Chicago platform of 1896 that the fact of enlistment and service shall be deemed conclusive evidence against disease and disability before enlistment.

Nicaraguan Canal.

We favor the immediate construction, ownership and control of the Nicaraguan canal by the United States, and we denounce the insincerity of the plank in the national republican platform for an isthmian canal in the face of the failure of the republican majority to pass the bill pending in congress.

Hay-Pauncefote Treaty.

We condemn the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as a surrender of American rights and interests, not to be tolerated by the American people.

Statehood for Territories.

We denounce the failure of the republican party to carry out its pledges to grant statehood to the territories of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, and we promise the people of those territories immediate statehood and home rule during their condition as territories, and we favor home rule and a territorial form of government for Alaska and Porto Rico.

We favor an intelligent system of improving the arid lands of the west, storing the waters for purposes of irrigation and the holding of such lands for actual settlers.

Chinese Exclusion Law.

We favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the Chinese exclusion law and its application to the same classes of all Asiatic races.

No Entangling Alliances.

Jefferson said: "Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations; entangling alliances with none." We approve this wholesome doctrine and earnestly protest against the republican departure which has involved us in so-called policies, including the diplomacy of Europe and the intrigue and land-grabbing of Asia, and we especially condemn the ill-concealed republican alliance with England, which must mean discrimination against other friendly nations, and which has already stifled the nation's voice while liberty is being strangled in Africa.

Sympathy for Boers.

Believing in the principles of self-government and rejecting, as did our forefathers, the chain of monarchy, we view with indignation the purpose of England to overwhelm with force the South African republics. Speaking, as we do for the entire American nation, except its republican office holders, and for all free men everywhere, we extend our sympathy to the heroic burghers in their unequal struggle to maintain their liberty and independence.

Repeal of War Taxes.

We denounce the lavish appropriations of recent republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and which threaten the perpetuation of the oppressive war levies. We oppose the accumulation of a surplus to be squandered in such barefaced frauds upon the taxpayers as the shipping subsidy bill, which under the false pretense of prospering American ship building, would put unearned millions into the pockets of favorite contributors to the republican campaign fund. We favor the reduction and speedy repeal of the war taxes, and a return to the time-honored democratic policy of strict economy in governmental expenditures.

Asks Support of People.

Believing that our most cherished institutions are in great peril, that the very existence of our constitutional republic is at stake and that the decision now to be rendered will determine whether or not our children are to enjoy those blessed privileges of free government which have made the United States great, prosperous and honored, we earnestly ask for the foregoing declaration of principles the hearty support of the liberty-loving American people, regardless of previous party affiliations.

STATEMENT BY MR. BRYAN.

The Candidate Expresses His Ideas on the Platform.

Lincoln, Neb., July 6.—The news of the action of the Kansas City convention on the platform gave Mr. Bryan the best of satisfaction. When asked for a statement, Mr. Bryan gave out the following:

"I am very much gratified to learn of the adoption of a platform which is clear and explicit on every question.

"The controversy over the silver plank was not a controversy between men who differed in principle, but rather a difference of opinion as to the best method of stating the question. If we only had democrats to deal with a simple reaffirmation would have been sufficient. But we have to do with the republicans as well as democrats, and some of the republicans would misconstrue a reaffirmation and endeavor to twist it into an evasion or abandonment of the silver question.

"Our appeal is to the patriotism and conscience of the people, and we must take them into our confidence if we expect them to have confidence in us. Our platform deals honestly and fearlessly with every question before the public, and since we have nothing to explain we can spend all our time in assaults upon republican policies. The industrial trusts have alarmed many who were not with us in our fight against the money trust in 1896. We shall not disappoint them; we shall not cease our efforts until every private monopoly is destroyed.

"Imperialism appeals to many as the most dangerous of the evils now menacing our country. It involves not only a change in our ideas of government, but a return to the militarism of the old world. No matter how many differ as to the relative importance of the question now before the country, everyone must recognize that an economic evil can be corrected more easily than one which attacks the foundations of government. If we adhere to the principle that government is a thing made by the people for themselves, the people can in time remedy every wrong, but if that doctrine is once surrendered the people are powerless to redress any grievances. The six and one-half millions who supported the Chicago platform in 1896 stand like a solid wall against the trusts and against imperialism. If ten per cent. of those who, by voting the republican ticket brought the present dangers upon the country will join with us this nation will once more become the champion of liberty and an inspiration to the oppressed everywhere."

MAY NOT BE TRUE.

No Confirmation of Report of Massacre of All Foreigners at Peking.

London, July 6.—The story that all foreigners in Peking were murdered on June 30 or July 1 appears to be circulating simultaneously at Chefoo, Shanghai and Tientsin. Yet, as it is not confirmed by official dispatches, and is not traceable to the southern viceroys, who are still in certain communication with Peking, there is a basis for the hope that it is untrue. Cautious observers at Shanghai recognize that even though these reports are rejected, events in Peking must be galloping to a tragic end. Correspondents of the Express at Shanghai gather details from Chinese sources, which, pieced together, relate that when the foreigners' ammunition was exhausted the Boxers and the imperial troops rushed the British legation and poured into the courtyard with fanatical fury. The foreign troops were so hopelessly outnumbered that their fate was certain. The moment the mob broke, the courtyard was converted into a shambles.

Two Manchus who have arrived at Shanghai certify to the truth of the statement that Prince Tuan visited the palace and offered the emperor and dowager empress the alternative of poison or the sword. The emperor, they say, took poison and died within an hour. The dowager empress also chose poison, but craftily swallowed only a portion of what was offered her and survived.

Washington, July 6.—The president has sent the following message of condolence to the emperor of Germany:

"The confirmation of the murder of your majesty's minister in Peking leads me to tender to your majesty and to the family of Baron von Ketteler my sorrowful condolence and those of the American people.

"WILLIAM M'KINLEY."

TO LEAVE CUBA.

Three Regiments of United States Troops to Be Brought Home as Soon as Possible.

Washington, July 6.—As a result of recent consultations of the secretary of war with Lieut. Gen. Miles, commanding the army, and Maj. Gen. Wood, commanding the division of Cuba, orders were Thursday issued for the return to the United States from Cuba as soon as possible of the Second, Fifth and Eighth regiments of infantry. These regiments are scattered over the island and probably will not be able to start home for a week or ten days. They will be brought to the port of New York and their water stations will be determined before they reach that port.

Made Many Speeches.

Chicago, July 6.—Quietly and unostentatiously, Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, Thursday night alighted from a Burlington train, having completed the first stage of his journey home from the rough riders' reunion in the far southwest. During the day Gov Roosevelt made short speeches at Quincy, Camp Point, Augusta, Plymouth, Macomb, Bushnell, Avon Abingdon, Galesburg, Galva, Kewanee, Princeton, Mendota and Aurora. Some of his speeches had reference to questions of politics, but in general they were of a patriotic character, serving as an aftermath of Independence day. He was warmly greeted at all points.

Woman Whipped by Whitecaps.

Louisville, Ky., July 6.—A special to the Times from Elizabethtown, Ky., says: Mrs. Sallie Scott, a white woman, was taken from her home in the East View section of this county at midnight by a gang of whitecaps and whipped with hickory switches until the blood trickled from her feet and she was rendered unconscious. Mrs. Scott swore out warrants against her husband and his brothers, charging them with assault.

Aeronaut Killed.

Santa Ana, Cal., July 6. — Emil Markenberg, an aeronaut of long experience, fell from a height of 500 feet, while making a balloon ascension, and was crushed to death in the presence of thousands of spectators. The accident was caused by the breaking of a strap to which he was hanging by his teeth.

Twain at the Telephone.

While living at his home at Hartford, Conn., Mark Twain was one morning deep in the composition of some humorism from which he expected a good deal, when he was called to the telephone. He told the servant to receive the message and bring it to him, but in a few moments was informed that the party at the other end of the wire wanted him. Provoked at the interruption, Mark went to the telephone, and, after "helloing" for some time without an answer, he used some language not generally seen in print, but which was certainly picturesque. While thus engaged he heard an answer in astonished tones and recognized the voice of an eminent divine whom he knew very well. "Is that you, doctor?" questioned Mr. Clemens. "I didn't hear what you said. My butler has been at the telephone and said he couldn't understand you."

CREDIT SHE DIDN'T SEEK.

Embarrassing Position of an Absent-Minded Woman Who Had Made a Mistake.

A lady who keeps a summer boarding-house at the seashore near Boston went down the other day to look the house over and find out what must be renewed. She found numerous umbrellas left by former boarders, says the Boston Transcript, and tying them together, she took the bundle to Boston to have them repaired. She stopped in at Hovey's and laid the bundle on the floor at her feet at the counter. When she had made her purchase, she forgot her umbrellas, and absent-mindedly picked up an umbrella lying on the counter, thinking it was hers, or not thinking at all, and started off.

Then the owner of the umbrella, a woman standing next her, seized her and said very sharply: "You have taken my umbrella!" Of course she apologized, feeling much cut up about it, and went on forgetting in her fluster her own bundle of umbrellas. The next day, on her way to Cambridge, she went to Hovey's and readily recovered her lost package of umbrellas, which had been kept for her. On the car for Cambridge she noticed a lady eyeing her very closely. Presently this lady leaned forward and said to her, with elegant emphasis:

"You seem to have been more fortunate to-day!"

It was the lady whose umbrella she had taken the day before.

CHOATE AND THE BABY.

The American Ambassador's Nail Head Wit in an Address in England.

Lately, at the opening of a free library at Acton, England, Hon. Joseph H. Choate, the American ambassador to Great Britain, delivered an address, and caused much laughter by his impromptu references to a baby who persisted in distracting the attention of the audience by making its voice heard at the most inconvenient moments, says the San Francisco Argonaut. The first interruption occurred early in the speech. Mr. Choate was saying: "There is a special provision for children in your library, and I think when men come to make a choice of a residence in Acton they will not forget that fact." Here the baby screamed in such a manner as to drown the words of the speaker. There was some disturbance, but Mr. Choate said: "Don't be disturbed by the baby. Nobody knows better than my Lord Bishop that out of the mouths of babes and sucklings cometh wisdom." Things went fairly well after this, the baby appearing to be flattered by the reference, until Mr. Choate was saying: "There is a book with which all of you—" Here the baby wailed loudly. "Except, possibly, the baby—are familiar," the ambassador went on; "it is Ecclesiastes, and it says that of the making of books there is no end."

Her Tip of No Avail.

A determined woman from the west visited Washington not long ago for the purpose of interviewing a member of the cabinet on a subject of interest to her. She called, as it happened, just at the time when the frauds in the Cuban postal department were made public, and the majority of the president's advisers, absorbed in considering the matter, had given instructions that they were not to be disturbed.

"So you refuse to take my card to the secretary?" asked the determined lady of the messenger.

"It would be against my orders, and I don't dare to," replied the messenger, politely.

The visitor turned away in high dudgeon, but a happy thought occurred to her and she retraced her steps. "Here my man," she said, insinuatingly, "here is 50 cents. Now will you take my card in?"

"I'm paid a bigger salary than that to keep your card out, madam," responded the darky, shaking his head.—N. Y. Tribune.

Japan Anxious.

Japan has become alarmed over the emigration of many of her residents to this country. It is stated that they are lured here by misrepresentation and then turned adrift. This is like the misrepresentations which delude people into believing that any other medicine is equal to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for stomach disorders. In the Bitters lies safety and surety. It is worth its weight in gold in all cases of indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, malaria, fever and ague.

Metamorphosed.

It takes only a little thing in a translation to make it go wrong. The missionary who asked the pundit to put into the Indian vernacular the good old hymn: "Rock of ages, cleft for me, let me hide myself in thee," was taken off his feet when he heard his converts singing with pious fervor: "Very old stone, split for my benefit, let me get under one of your fragments."—San Francisco Wave.

Resenting an Insult.

Mars, searching among the stars for one who would love him for himself alone, had assumed a modest disguise. Thus he wooed Venus, and told her of his love.

"Are you serious?" she asked, cautiously.

"Madam," he cried, "you insult me."

BUFFALO GAZETTE

DELANO, FRIDAY, July 13, 1900.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE VILLAGE OF DELANO.

DELANO DIARY

—Dr. Catlin has had his office reshingled this week.

—The new mill is being painted and soon people won't know where the fire was.

—Mr. Litfkin is having his Bridge street lot graded down, and proposes to be on a level with the best in town.

—Read the "Democratic Creed" on the third page of this paper; also "Picks Its Leaders" on the second page.

—Sim's restaurant is being moved into the building recently occupied by A. E. Johnson, who has moved to Buffalo.

—The rains of last week have made crops green and helped out fall pastures wonderfully. Farmers are not looking so long faced as they were before the rain.

—Some of our citizens are trying to get up a street fair in the near future. A meeting of the interested is called for Saturday evening July 14, at 8 o'clock, at the City Hall.

—Apple trees in Minneapolis, since the rains, are more heavily loaded than those farther south. Some had to be wired up to prevent limbs from splitting off with their heavy loads of apples.

—Willard Fuller, State Superintendent of the Northwestern Purity Association in Minnesota will lecture in the M. E. church next Sunday morning at 10:30 and at the Prbyterian church at 8:00 p. m. July 15.

—Quite a number of Delano people attended camp meeting at Armstrong this week. Rev's. Kephart and Abbott are to conduct services next Sunday. In the evening a grand rally of Epworth Leagues of the neighborhood. Everybody invited.

—Who says Minnesota won't have wheat? F. Belden showed us this week four heads of grain which came from one seed kernel, and grew on his father-in-law, Geo. M. Wright's place, near Montrose. The four heads contained 146 grains of wheat.

—Some Third street people complain that they object to having their residences surrounded with gopher hills of "trash" from the premises of neighbors. The street and alley committee should see that rubbish is deposited in a proper dumping ground, and not where it will frighten horses, or annoy neighbors.

—The M. E. churches at Delano, Montrose, and Watertown will be treated with a first class concert by the Clulow Concert Co., July 18, 19 and 20. This company comes well recommended and is first class in every respect and should receive a good patronage. Proceeds for the benefit of the several M. E. churches. 25 and 15 cts admission.

—The scholars of the grammar school and friends held a picnic at Lake Rebeccah last Saturday. It was a typical picnic day, sunshine, rain, and wind in rotation, but everybody reported a good time just the same. On the way home there was a little excitement, due to the breaking of the pin to the whiffletree. The horses got scared and mixed up in a wire fence, receiving a few scratches. No one in the load was hurt.

—Mrs. Amanda Webber, of Minneapolis, in the interests of The Children's Home Society, of Minnesota, visited Delano and lectured Sunday evening at the M. E. church. The society is doing a great good in caring for and finding homes for homeless children. They have already, since their organization, been instrumental in caring for 1528 children. It costs, on an average, $50 to secure a child, keep it until a home is found and to place it in a home. This is much cheaper than they can be kept for years at an institute and is better for the children and all concerned.

—We left Delano Tuesday morning, June 3, for Kansas City. Things about home and down to near the Iowa line looked very dry and as if almost no crop would be saved. It rained the day we left and several times afterwards. On our return home, Saturday June 9, we would hardly have known the country. Things were changed. Verdure covered the spots previously bare, and grain and grass looked as if they had determined to feed the farmers and their flocks at all events. A few hours rain made a change many thought impossible and made many a sad heart throb with gladness and thankfulness to an allwise God.

—Notices are posted for the annual school meeting to be held on Saturday, July 21, at 7 P. M., for the election of three members of the Board of Education, and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting. Everybody should be on hand and take an interest in choosing the best our district affords for school officers. The terms of Messrs Borsch and Johnson expire, leaving vacancies for three years each. Dr. Shrader having moved away his place will be filled by electing a member for one year. Everybody should interest themselves enough to attend the meeting and vote. Upon a good Board of Education depends a good school.

—The Rubenstein recital at the City Hall last evening was a grand success. It was well attended and highly enjoyed. Many of the pupils are quite small and have only begun to take lessons but most of them responded promptly to the programme. The parents and friends had about as good a time as did the little folks. The songs by Angela Schaffer and Carola Rocsen were a surprise to many, as was the phenominal violin solo by Master Oscar Brandser. With two well organized musical clubs, containing the talent that has been developed in Delano and vicinity, we need not send abroad for our music hereafter. The instrumental numbers were also well rendered, and showed careful training. Success to Delano's Musical Clubs.

Duluth News Tribune: Webster Davis has finally landed where he belongs. As a roaring, raving Bryanite he ought to be perfectly at home.

ROCKFORD.

The celebration on the Fourth passed off very pleasantly and successfuly notwithstanding the rain in the morning and more in the afternoon. The industrial parade was immense. The oration was good. The Hanover band furnished the best of music; about 2,000 people attended and all seemed pleased, satisfied and happy; no accidents.

A party of the neighbors and friends gave Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Harvey a surprise visit on the evening of the 5th, the 20th anniversary of their marriage, and a very pleasant and happy visit. The marriage ceremony was performed by the old settler Mrs. M. J. Farnham acting as brides maid and M. G. Warren as best man. After the many congratulations the old settler indulged himself and the company in a little home made talk and on the part of all the visitors presented to the host and hostess a splendid rocking and easy chair, then ice cream and other refreshments were served and the company separated just before the midnight hour. It was one of the happiest and most enjoyable parties of the season and seemed to be a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey.

Mr. Augusta Mitchel and wife, of Monticello prairie, made a two days visit at the Cedars and took in the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bugbee and son and daughter, of Minneapolis, spent the 4th and 5th at the Cedars and enjoyed themselves seeing the sights of the grand parade and the rest of the celebration.

Miss Cora B. McCarter, of Hamline, took in the celebration and made the Cedars pleasant by her company.

E. H. Farnham and family of Delano, attended the celebration and assisted in making things pleasant at the Cedars.

Mr. Riley Hill, of Buffalo, is visiting his grand daughter Mrs. Gertie Hopper and her mother Mrs. Hill, this week.

Rev. J. L. Parmeter has been visiting in and about Rockford the past week.

Samuel Waren and wife and daughter of Aitkin, are visiting his father's family the past week.

Addison Baker and wife and son, of Minneapolis, are meeting with old friends in Rockford and Greenwood this week.

The riding galley is still running at the grove. They gobbled up $268 on the Fourth. The whole amount taken in is over $400. So much for fun.

The farmers, gardners, machinery and business men generally do not look or feel quite as blue as they did a week ago. Probably the copious rains of the past week have washed out the blueing. Everything on and about the farm now looks green and growing; a fair prospect of fair crops.

SEASONABLE GOSSIP.

Baseball twirlers are most erratic when worked up to a high pitch.—Chicago Democrat.

Time has no terrors for Tommy Ryan. He now declares that he will not fight Jack Root on June 19 before the Coney Island club. He says his back is lame, and he wants another postponement. Postponements appear to be Ryan's particular failing. He has had more postponed bouts than any other three pugilists now before the American public.

A jockey's diet when in training is as follows: Breakfast, a small piece of bread and butter and one cupful of tea. Dinner, fish. If fish cannot be procured, a little bit of some light pudding and very little meat. Tea, same as breakfast. Supper, nothing. He goes to bed at nine and rises at six. His usual beverage is wine and water, in the proportion of two parts of the latter to one of the former.

"Papa, I'm sick to-day and I want to stay home from school," said a pupil of No. 33 school to his parent, as he twisted his face into contortions suggestive of green strawberries. "All right, my boy," said the father, "but don't leave before the ninth inning. Many a game has been pulled out in the ninth, my son."—Indianapolis News.

A scheme for infallibly detecting the point of puncture in deflated automobile and bicycle tires has been devised. An ammoniacal solution is forced through the valve, and a chemically prepared white cloth is passed over the outer surface of the tire. When the cloth passes over the puncture the escaping ether of the ammonia causes the cloth to turn blue at that point—and there you are.

J. H. McGary, of Independence, was a GAZETTE caller Thursday. John has become a member, extraordinary of Capt. Carver's Court under the maples.

Mr. Gamble a former employe of the Eagle office, now working for the Argus, at Willmar, called on us Tuesday. He says printers at Willmar are doing well.

Among those who went to St. Paul on the excursion train last Sunday were Mr. Redmond and family. Edward Erickson, Oscar Erwig, Leo Plattner, and Misses Merel Jones, Molly Maxfield and Veronica Steffes.

Dr. Catlin returned from the Democratic convention at Kansas City, Saturday. He visited with his cousin W. A. Keithley at Kansas City, and called on his brother George at Saint Joseph on his way home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Muckey are enjoying a visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hall, of Fessenden, N. D. Milton deserves his two week's vacation from the electrical plant of Delano, where he has so long and faithfully served the public.

Joseph Bauman returned home Saturday evening from Kansas City, Fair Haven, Kansas, and other points. He visited with cousins in Kansas and was much pleased with crop prospects. Joe says Kansas is a prohibition state and one can hardly buy cider there.

Among out of town people attending the Rubenstein club recital last evening we noticed Geo. W. Florida, F. J. Benner, wife and son, D. R. Thompson and family, Mrs. J. Sleight, of Rockford, Mrs. A. J. Willard, of St Paul, Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Macallister, and others.

Among Delano people who heard Banda Rossa at Lake Harriet last Sunday were Misses Anna Erwig, Amanda Erickson, Hattie Anderson, Lilian Anderson, Merel Jones, Veronica Steffes, Molly Maxfie'd and Messrs Edward Erickson, Oscar Erwig, John Catlin, Glenn Wilder, and William Mowatt.

County Cullings.

C. A. Towne is likely to be the choice of the Sixth District democrats for candidate for Congress. This will give us the old fight, Bryan against McKinley; Town against Morris. No question is settled until it is settled right. Let us settle things right this time.

Wright County Democrats don't seem to take a very active part in politics farther than in their own county. They recommended a candidate for delegate to Kansas City; they didn't get him elected. Then they proposed an alternate; he was elected, but failed to show up at Kansas City at the convention.

Broad Axe: So prominent a republican newspaper as the Kansas City Journal is on record as advocating compulsory military service, such as they have "in Germany," to keep up our standing army. You can't have anything in this world without paying the price. And the price of imperialism and colonial possessions is taxation and conscription, such as have burdened the people of Europe for centuries.

Don't stay away from your school meeting and allow the worst man for the place to be elected on the board, and then talk around about what a poor school your district has. Be at the schol meeting and do your best to get the best men for the positions your district has, elected members of the board. A good board will see to having a good teacher and a good school. School elections come on the third Saturday of July. This year the 21st.

It use to be that if a man went about asking people to support him for office he was pretty sure to be defeated by some man who had not asked for it. But now it has come about that if a man don't notify the public that he wants an office, he will get none. Before, the rule was for the office to seek the man, or for the people to seek the man for the office; now the rule is for the man to seek the office, by seeking votes enough to elect him. How things have changed.

The Wright county Epworth League convention to be held a Buffalo, July 13, 14, and 15 has a good programme. Bishop Joyce will address the audience Friday evening. Saturday forenoon papers by Miss Myra Snow, Otsego; Miss Francis Tennison, Monticello, and John J. Catlin, Delano. Speech by Dr. Bridgeman. Afternoon on the lake. On Sunday, Dr. Bridgeman, Mrs. Fairbanks, Mrs. Dickinson, Rev. C. M. Stocking, Dr. J. S. Montgomery will be present and take part in exercises. Everybody invited.

Efforts are being made to organize the Democratic party in the county of Wright as it has not been organized for years. Properly organized, democracy stands a fighting chance of winning out with several candidates this fall. Care should be exercised in sending delegates to the county convention who will help nominate honest, sober, thinking, careful men to stand for votes for the different offices. Let every voter turn out to the primary and help select delegates who will attend and who will work for the best interests of our country in making nominations for officers.

Norwood Times: It is indeed strange that in a great big state like Minnesota with so many bright and able republicans in it, that neither Tawney, McCleary, Heatwole, Stevens nor Morris had any material opposition for re-nomination to Congress. The facts are that from the United States senate down to the lowest position elective or appointive is one solid combination of wealth and monopoly, and few poor men, no matter how good republicans they are, dare enter the arena or say "no" to what is dictated from Washington. The composition for the campaign is stereotyped and must be swallowed by the party whether they like it or not.

Maple Plain.

The 4th of July is now over and the little boy and his fire cracker is no more in evidence.

All of the National Conventions have been held and the political parties are grooming and equipping themselves for the fight. It is only a question of time when street parades, torch light processions, campaign songs, with brass band accompaniment, with the little dude speaker as an appendage, will strut through every village and city of the land singing Does not our righteousness exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and the Pharisees.

The Republican party will run their campaign upon their righteous deeds; will tell the people that in every instance they have given meat and the bread of life in due season. By passing a gold currency bill that will tickle the heart and brain of every millionair in this country, while the drops of sweat from the brows of the honest yeomanry of the country will pay the freight. Again the Republican party will bring in evidence the glory of waging a war of subjugation and conquest against the Filipino, 10,000 miles from home for the purpose of civilizing them and bringing them in recognition with our Heavenly Father. These are Samaritan acts of which they will boast, and that is not all, they will tell the people we have killed and forever put the silver issue out of the way, and it is as effectually dead as the Jews claimed our Saviour was when they crucified him on the cross, but he had a new life and so will the silver issue. If to destroy and put in jeopardy the honest money of a nation is just and right then all sins of commission are right, and we as a nation have nothing to fear.

The Democrats will not run their campaign so much on their righteous deeds, but will attempt to show that a war against the Filipinos for subjugation, conquest, and imperialism was not the thing for this administration to do, was unwarranted and uncalled for and is without a precedent in the history of this nation. Will also show to the people that a gold currency law making gold the only money of redemption in this country is detrimental to the masses and only favors the classes and in time will bring a blight upon the nation. The Democrats will also show to the people that silver was with us for nearly 100 years, was current money among the merchants and was a legal tender in trade and commerce and that it is not dead but still liveth. The Republican party without any authority have written this epitaph upon the monument of free silver, "Here lies the body of 16 to 1 that will never be reanimated or resurrected. It is dead, dead." But not so my friend it only sleepeth.

The Prohibition party will run their campaign upon the miss deeds of the present administration and army canteen and that dealing in spiritual liquors as a beverage is a crime against God and humanity, and just how far they will have to go to prove this the enquiring mind might ask.

Many people in this country are getting tired of so much contention between the different political parties for the ascendancy to power, the love of office and the emoluments thereof. These, like everything else, should be run on their own merits: "A house divided against itself can not stand" But we are marked by tradition, "to the victor belongs the spoils", and many offices in this country are equivalent to a good fat living. They pray the Lord's prayer in this way, but direct their petition to the government instead of to our Creator: "Give to us this day our daily bread, for I am of great benefit to the government". The Populist party will run their campaign upon the right of Government ownership of railroads, telegraph lines, referendum etc.

We believe all political parties favor electing United States Senators by the popular vote. This, we believe, is right and why not the president of the United States too, and make his term for six years and that he shall only have one term. This would stop a good deal of the noise.

Our local politics opened up in our town by the arrival of Tom Henesy from Maple Grove last Saturday. He is seeking the office of county commissioner from the country district, and there is more to follow. We learn there is some 10 or 12 aspirants for that one office. Hennepin county is largely populated and I fear there will not be enough offices to go around.

Since I last met you Mr. Editor we have had a good many refreshing showers of rain and the earth seems to be somewhat reanimated. The growing crops have begun to show more signs of life and activity, and it looks now as if there might be bread to feed the multitude. Wheat and oats will not be a full crop, but corn and potatoes are looking well.

The news of the neighborhood has been cornered and we can not get any direct communication from the gossip office. Everything is in the hands of the Boxers, and we only await results with fear and trembling.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6, 1900.

If there are any democrats in Washington who are not enthusiastically pleased with the ticket and platform made by the Kansas City Convention they are not showing themselves or doing any public talking. It cannot be said that any part of the work of the convention was a surprise. The only thing that could be considered open when the convention assembled was the nomination for Vice President. The head of the ticket had been fully settled by the instruction of more than the necessary two thirds of the delegates for Col. Bryan, and the important planks of the platform were practically settled in advance of those same instructions, as there had not at any time been any doubt of the position of Col. Bryan, whose consistency is one of his strongest holds on the rank and file of the democratic party, upon any question that would be handled in the platform. A candid republican, prominently connected with the administration, who made no pretense to conceal his disappointment at the failure of the attempt to modify the silver plank, said: "That convention was wiser than I thought it would be. The platform will lose votes for the ticket in states where they could not have affected the result, but I am afraid it will gain enough votes to give the democrats several states they could not possibly have carried had they straddled silver." The confidence shown by democrats argues well for a democratic victory this year. Republicans are, of course, keeping up a bold front in public, but it is no secret that privately many of them are expressing fear of defeat.

The practice of suppressing official news, which the administration made a specialty of during the war with Spain, has been revived, in connection with the troubles in China. Mr. McKinley is at Canton, and members of the Cabinet claim to have no official news of importance from China, although it was published in the press dispatches several days ago that every foreigner in Pekin had been killed. It has also been published that the Chinese instead of being hunted by the allied army which has been gathering at Taku for the purpose of marching to Pekin, are hunting the allied army, which has abandoned all idea of trying to get to Pekin until largely reinforced, and which is contemplating the evacuation of Tein Tsin, now occupied by a considerable force of allies marines. In other words, the allied forces are finding that without a large army they cannot occupy territory beyond the range of the guns of their warships. It is not conceivable that with these important events transpiring this government is without official information. Yet, that is what Secretaries Hay, Root, and Long are asking the public to believe.

Mr. H. H. Spencer, of Utah, now in Washington, said of the political outlook in his state: "The electoral vote of our state will be found in the democratic column again this year. Neither party will attempt this year to send a polygamist to Congress. The democrats will undoubtedly elect the Congressman, and the indications are that William H. King will be the democratic nominee. Mr. King is a Mormon, but not a polygamist."

The administration hasn't got Gen. MacArthur as well trained as it had Gen. Otis during his stay in the Philippines. Otis would report anything that he got a hint from Washington was desired. MacArthur makes his reports regardless of the wishes of the administration. For instance, he has just reported that it would be unsafe to remove any considerable number of troops from the Philippines for months to come. In addition to interfering with some of the plans of the administration for sending troops from the Philippines to China, that report has knocked the bottom out of one of Boss Hanna's pet vote getting schemes. That scheme was to announce a few weeks before election that, owing to the complete pacification of Filipinos, all the volunteers in the Philippines would be at once brought home. If General MacArthur isn't more particular about how he handles the naked truth in his official reports, the administration will discover that he is unfitted to command in the Philippines and he will be ordered home "for his health." The War Department is now preparing to send 12,000 regulars to the Philippines, alleged to be for the purpose of taking the places of the 30,000 volunteers who are to return home. The volunteers in the Philippines who get home before the expiration of the two years for which they volunteered will either be sick men or very lucky men.

ONE of the most outrageous impositions ever practiced upon innocent and inoffensive peoples seems to be that at Ellis Island, where immigrants from every clime land, when they come to America to make their homes under the starry emblem of liberty. Charges, according to the National Democrat, have been made. and the dismissal of eleven men recommended, and two more implicated. If our immigration officials are, as is charged, so greedy after gain as to rob immigrants of money, and clothing, and their women of honor, it is about time a change of officials was had, and time those found guilty were lodged in proper places for criminals of that class.

The Downfall of the Republic.

Many predictions of the downfall of our republic are being made. There seems to be a great unanimity of opinion that the republic is in imminent danger of being wiped out of existence. Our glorious free land is, according to many, unless reforms at once occur, to be known only as the home of imperialism, trusts, tyranny and oppression. Instead of welcoming the downtrodden and the oppressed of every land to free and happy homes we are to crush them still further by the manipulations of unfaithful officials who gladly welcome them to our shores but to rob them of what they have. Then they are to be set to work at starvation wages for some corporation that can control them body, soul, and vote, when they get one.

All do not seem to agree as to the cause of our coming ruin. Some say the trusts will bankrupt the country. Some say licenciousness will, within a few years, bring the end of the republic. Some say intemperance is the greatest evil of the day. Some claim that the imperialistic tendencies of our government must soon, unless checked, wipe us out of existance as a government ruled by the people.

However different these causes for our downfall may be, may they not all be classed under the one head, inordinate greed? What is a trust but a combination of capital by individuals to monopolize and control prices and production in certain lines, for the purpose of money making? What keeps up licensiousness but the placing of gold above honor and virtne? What makes intemperance so common but the money to be made by the sale of intoxicants? Why do our authorities seek to spread their power over other peoples and other lands but for the hope of gain in worldly goods? Do they not tell us we must extend our commercial relations?

The love of money, or its equivalent, then, is to blame for our impending downfall as a republic. Let us take heed in time. Let us unite in one grand effort to stay the tide. Let us save our republic. Let us preserve it in its purity for posterity. Let us understand each other and though we may see different causes for fear, let us remember that Solomen in his wisdom said "The love of money is the root of all evil."

For President.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, of Nebraska.

For Vice President.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON, of Illinois.

SEVERAL cases of attacks on Chinamen and their laundries come from different towns; one in Illinois, and Kansas City is on the list. A gang of cowardly men and boys whose "patriotism" is of that order, would furnish very few volunteers to go to China to meet the Boxers.

THE talk about a goldbug democratic ticket is probably only talk this year. In 1896 that party made a feeble showing. Now, when the republicans claim free silver is dead, and imperialism is looming up so plain most people who are not for imperialism will see to it that their vote is cast against it, and for Bryan and Stevenson.

WHEN Teddy Roosevelt was cattle boss he insisted, he says, on having the mavericks branded with the brand of the ranche on which they were found. When he becomes a servant of the people is he going to deal with the people of the world after the same plan, or copy after his superior in office and help brand everything in sight "U. S."?

First of all be Honest.

"A politician who isn't honest, no matter how able or smart he is, is a curse to the community. Don't let any man delude you by trying to convince you that he can help you by being a little dishonest on your side. He will desert you when the crisis comes.

"I have met here today a few men from my old stamping grounds in the Dakotas and Montana, where I used to be a delegate to the cattle conventions. There are a few of my fellow delegates here tonight. I was then in the cow business myself. Out there the cow puncher and the branding iron took the place of the fence. We used to brand the calves every year, and if a calf was passed over it became a maverick. It was the rule in those days that a maverick when found might be branded with the brand of the ranch on which it was found.

"And one day I was riding over the ranch with a cow puncher and we came across a maverick. It was on the Thistle brand ranch. The cow puncher roped and tied the maverick and we got off to put a brand on it. I remember that I took off the cinch iron to help put on the brand. And I said to the cow puncher: 'Remember it is the Thistle brand'. He grinned and said he knew his business. But I saw he was putting on my brand. 'Hold on there,' I said, 'you are putting on my brand.' 'I always put on my boss' brand,' he replied I said to him: 'You can go to the ranch and get your time. If you will steal for me, you will steal from me'

"And that applies in politics as well as in the cow business. You have got to have honesty first, and you have got to have courage with it. I have mighty little use for the honest, timid man, the man who takes out his honesty in his own parlor, but who can't trust himself with it out in the world to do his work among his fellows. He may be very nice and pleasant, but he is no use.

"But no matter how honest and brave a man may be, if he is a natural born fool you can't do anything with him. He must have the saving grace of common sense. Honesty, courage and common sense are needed in public life just as they are needed in private life."

The above is a clipping from the Pioneer Press report of Gov. Roosevelt's speech, in St. Paul, last Tuesday evening. The sentiments are sound. It reads much better to the public than did that old speech W. H. Eustis gave us here a few years ago, when he advocated raising money in a way the people wouldn't know it, so it wouldn't hurt them.

We don't see how Gov. Roosevelt can reconcile the above teaching with his commendation of President McKinley, our "cow puncher" who has helped "rope in" and "tie" the "mavericks" "Porto Rico, Cuba, the Philippines", and is now after China, and is endeavoring to put his "boss'" brand on them. Wherein lies the difference in principle whether you are dealing with calves or nations that don't belong to you? Gov. how can you deal on a different plan with maverick nations than you do with maverick calves.

Democratic Platform.

Have you read the Democratic platform? If not, here it is in just three words—"Ag'in the government."—Carver County News

Bro. Teas you may make that go with some of your readers. Come to think of it, we are not so sure but most of them, especially those who have read the Democratic platform and who have kept track of the serpentine windings of governmental affairs lately, will agree with you, that your version—Ag'in the government" is, and ought to be, correct. For easy comparison we will mention a few of the points of faith mentioned in the Democratic platform made at Kansas City, and if Bro. Teas thinks the government is in accord with the Democratic platform of course he has the privilege of setting himself right with his readers.

For instance does the News editor think these Democratic planks are "ag'in the government"? When the platform

Reaffirms faith in the Declaration of Independence.

Allegiance to the Constitution.

And holds "with the United States Supreme Court, that the Declaration of Independence is the spirit of our government, of which the constitution is the form and letter."

"We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire, and we warn the American people that imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home."

"We demand the prompt and honest fulfillment of our pledge to the Cuban people and the world that the United States has no disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction, or control over the islands of Cuba, except for its pacification."

"We condemn and denounce the Philippine policy of the present administration,"

The platform places Imperialism as the paramount issue."

Steadfastly adheres to the Monroe doctrine.

Opposes militaryism.

Opposes private monopolies.

Condemns the tariff law as trust breeding.

Favors enlargement of the interstate commerce law.

Endorses the principles of the Chicago platform.

Believes in free coinage of gold and silver at 16 to 1.

Demands retirement of national bank notes.

Favors direct legislation.

Opposes government by injunction.

Recommends the creation of a department of labor.

Favors liberal pensions.

Immediate construction of the Nicaraguan canal by the United States.

Opposes Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Believes in making states of Arizona, New Mexico, and Oklahoma.

Home government for Alaska and Porto Rico.

Arid lands of West should be improved.

Chinese excluded.

Believes in "Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations; entangling alliances with none."

Extends sympathy to the heroic Boers.

Wants war tax repealed.

Now Brother Teas is the government ag'in our platform? And if it is, isn't it so much the worse for the government?

The time for "Shoo fly, Don't bodder me!" argument has passed. People are looking up the great and growing questions of the day for themselves. They are reading the platforms for themselves. They are keeping tag on the actions of public men, and the statements of editors.

They know whether they are for or against Napoleonism, Imperialism and its accompaniments, or for a Republic, a "government of the people, for the people, and by the people, which shall not perish from the earth."

Latest News!

The war in China overshadows those going on in other parts of the world. Still news is very conflicting. Those most familiar with China and supposedly best qualified to judge contend that the story of massacre of foreigners is false.

Gen. Roberts in the Transvaal, and Gen. Mc Arthur in the Philippines seem to think they can spare no troops from their respective fields.

REPUBLICAN papers are howling themselves hoarse over the turning of the St. Paul Globe and a few men about as reliably democratic as that sheet, from Bryan to McKinley. What does it signify? Simply a blind. They were not for Bryan before and are not now. If they want to enlighten their readers about changes of political views they should give them a few articles on Webster Davis who resigned a lucrative office under the present administration, not proposing to support the English American alliance to wipe freedom from South Africa or anywhere else. Mr. Davis has twice been mayor of Kansas City and when he made his speech joining the Bryan party the convention went wild, and gave him such an ovation as might well make would be tyranny tremble on its would be throne.

Or they might try to console the G. O. P. for its loss of Dr. Habercrom, who used to furnish the newspapers with republican arguments for McKinley, but who has announced his intention of supporting Bryan and Stevenson as a means of preventing our glorious union becoming an empire, with foreign subjects, and soon after ruling us at home with an imperial scepter. If they wish to refer to changes in politics why don't they mention changes that are changes and give the reasons for the same?

Democracy.

Webster defines democracy:

1. Government by the people: a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and directly exercised by the people.

2. Government by popular representation; a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but is indirectly exercised through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed; a constitutional representative government; a republic.

3. Collectively the people, regarded as the source of government.

4. The principles and policy of the Democratic party, so called (U. S.).

THE MEADOW LARK.

Minstrel of melody,
How shall I chant of thee,
Floating in meadows athrill with thy song?
Fluting anear my feet,
Plaintive, and wildly-sweet—
Oh, could thy spirit to mortal belong!
Tell me thy secret art,
How thou dost touch the heart,
Hinting of happiness still unpossessed;
Say, doth thy bosom burn
Vainly, as mine, and yearn
Sadly for something that leaves it unblessed?

Doth not that tender tone,
Over the clover blown,
Flow from a sorrow—a longing in vain?
Or, is it joy intense,
So like a pang, the sense
Hears in thy sweetest song something of pain?
Others may cleave the steeps,
Soar, and in upper deeps
Sing in the heaven's blue arches profound;
But, thou most lowly thing,
Teach me to keep my wing
Close to the breast of our mother, the ground!

Soon shall my fleeting lay
Fade from the world away—
Thine, ever-during, shall thrill through the years;
Love, who once gladdened me,
Surely hath saddened thee—
Half of thy music is made of his tears!
Long may I list thy note
Soft through the summer float
Far o'er the fields where the wild grasses wave;
Then, when my day is done,
Oh, at the set of sun,
Pour out thy spirit anear to my grave!
—Lloyd Mifflin, in N. Y. Independent.

Sol Tomlinson's Falconry

By Edwin J. Webster.

"SOL TOMLINSON says it was a Sunday school book that caused him to be nursing an injured spirit and mourning the loss of the finest collection of fancy breeds of chickens ever seen in Pike county," observed Deacon Todgers to the crowd at the corner grocery. "But I tell him it was his own foolishness in trying middle age notions in this closing year of the nineteenth century, and also in trusting too far to the loving kindness and forgiving nature of hawks.

"One Sunday afternoon Sol went out to the woodshed and found his boy Tom reading a book he had drawn from the Sunday school library. Sol cracked the boy over the head for reading novels on Sunday, gave him some chores to do, and then sat down to read the book himself. It was all about knights and how they rode about the country fighting for the color of their ladies' eyebrows and how they went hawking and all such foolishness. But it seemed to impress Sol mightily.

"'And are you, with your blue jeans and bald pate and white whiskers, going to ride around Pike county on a "prancing palfrey," and fight for the honor of your lady, also?' I asked him. 'Or what particular kind of foolishness has that book inspired you to?'

"Sol looked hurt.

"'Fudge, deacon,' he said to me. 'I'm a respectable married man without any "lady loves," as you call them, and my rheumatism wouldn't allow me to ride "prancing palfreys" any way. The plan I am thinking of is a practical one, and one that will bring money to a worthy old man without his working for it. Did you read what that book said about falconry, and how all those old coves used to catch heron and ducks and other kinds of birds by the use of falcons? Well, that's what I'm going to do,' he says, earnestly.

"'But you haven't any falcons,' I objected

"'Tush, deacon,' Sol retorted, sort of impatiently. 'Of course, I ain't got any falcons. But what's a falcon except a hawk, anyway, and it will be easy enough for me to get a few young hawks and train them to catch ducks and other birds which sell well, but are a good deal of trouble for a tired old man to shoot.'

"Well, the first thing Sol did was to get his boys to work gathering in young hawks. That was considerable of a contract for the boys, as neither the young hawks nor the old birds took kindly to having their nests robbed, but the boys gathered in about a dozen young birds.

"Sol had a lot of chickens of his own, and every time he killed one he would feed the young hawks a bit of liver. Then he would buy up the livers whenever any of the neighbors killed chickens, and feed them to the hawks. Of course he fed the hawks other things, but pretty soon those birds had as well developed a taste for liver as some men have for 'paty de foy grass,' or whatever it is called.

"Then Sol began the second part of the training. He would put a dead duck on the ground, and carry one of his hawks over to it, go off a ways, and sort of indicate to the bird that he wanted the dead duck brought to him. Hawks are pretty intelligent birds, and it wasn't long before they appreciated the fact that every time one of them brought Sol a duck there was a big piece of liver coming.

"By the time the duck season opened all but six of Sol's hawks had died, but he certainly did have that half dozen trained down to a fine point. Their appetite for liver had gotten to be like that of a man's for drink, and they understood that ducks and only ducks were what Sol wanted, so they never interfered with his chickens. By and by the ducks began flying south. Then Sol started out to gather in his harvest.

"'For months,' he said to me 'these hawks of mine have enjoyed fatherly care and lived on the fat of the land and the livers of several hundred chickens. Now is the time for them to repay my devotion. And, by gum, they will do it or get in trouble.'

"That afternoon Sol got a couple of long sticks, and carrying them over his shoulders with three hawks perched on them, started after ducks. Pretty soon along came a flock of ducks, flying pretty low. Sol untied his hawks and pointed at the ducks. It wasn't half a minute before those trained hawks understood what was wanted of them, and off they went at full tilt after the ducks. Each hawk grabbed a duck, started back with it toward Sol and dropped it at his feet.

Then came the first of Sol's actions, which turned aside the hearts of his faithful duck hunters. When the hawks delivered up their ducks to Sol they began to look for some liver as a reward. But Sol didn't see it that way.

"'Those ducks are still in sight,' he says to the hawks, as if they could understand him. 'And duty calls on you to go after them. Now is your chance to repay a little of my care and affection. This is no time to be looking for liver.'

"Sol kept pointing at the rapidly disappearing flock of ducks, and as his hawks didn't seem to understand what he meant, he grabbed a stick and began pounding them with it. It was plain that the hawks were grieved and mystified, rather than angry. They had each of them brought in a duck, why didn't they get their liver? And why did Sol, the man who had fed them and whom they had looked up to and venerated, beat them with a stick?

"Finally they gave it up as a bad job trying to figure out what it all meant, and seeing that Sol wanted more ducks, off the hawks started, but acting in a patient, puzzled sort of way that was really pathetic.

"'Those birds of yours are faithful and well trained,' I observed to Sol, 'but loving kindness isn't the strongest quality of any hawk, even an educated one. If you beat them about once more they will try to get even with you. And from what I know of hawks, I'm betting they will succeed.'

"But Sol only grunted out that it was ducks and not tokens of esteem that he wanted from those hawks.

"After quite a wait we saw the hawks coming back. They had had a long chase after the ducks and were pretty weary when they reached us, but each faithful hawk was bringing back a duck, and laid it in front of Sol. Then every bird looked up in an expectant sort of way as if he now felt certain of getting his liver. And it was here that the real meanness of Sol's nature showed up.

"Sol was just going to reward his hard-working birds, when away off to the north another flock of ducks showed up. Then Sol wanted to start his hawks right after the new flock.

"'Don't you do it,' I warned him. 'These faithful birds of yours are pretty nearly worn out, and if you don't give them the liver they expect they will lose faith in human nature. A trained hawk who has lost faith in human nature is an ugly animal,' I said, solmenly.

"But Sol was set on starting his hawks after this particular flock of ducks. The patient birds, instead of going just loitered around, waiting for their reward. Then Sol grabbed his stick and began pounding them worse than before. For about a minute the birds stood it, then it seemed to come over them all at once that they were being beaten and cheated after they had done their duty. Each bird gave a sort of queer little cry, in which there was more disappointment at the way Sol had treated them than anger, and then rose in the air and turned, not in the direction of the ducks, but toward Sol's barnyard.

"'It's fancy chickens and revenge your birds are looking for,' I warned Sol.

"Sol looked at the hawks and then began running home as fast as his legs would carry him. But it was too late. The six hawks swooped down among Sol's chickens, and by the time Sol arrived on the scene all that was left of the best collection of fancy breed of chickens ever seen in Pike county was a mass of feathers and dead fowls.

"'What heartless ingratitude,' says Sol, almost crying. 'I fed and trained and cared for those birds, and then they turn and rend me, or rather my innocent and best breeds of fancy chickens.'

"But I didn't give him any comfort. 'It was all your own fault, Sol Tomlinson,' I told him. 'If you had treated those hawks halfway decently they would have cheered your declining years and gathered in ducks by the bushel.'"

Odd Signs on Staten Island.

A bicyclist who has been making runs in the neighborhood of New York reports that he found the most unanimous and impartial slaughter of English in a sign posted on a Staten Island windmill. It reads:

DIS VIND MILL FER SAIL.

At a rude wharf on the Staten Island sound this greeted his eyes:

BOATS TO HIER.

Another sign showed this legend:

WE LIVE TO DYE AND DYE TO LIVE.

A City of Waters.

Bangkok is a city of waters. It is an Indo-Chinese Venice. More people live in floating homes on the Menam, "the Nile of Siam," and the many canals, than in permanent buildings.

In the new Hebrides human life has been made safer by the introduction of pigs into the island. The cannibals are said to prefer roast pork to roast man.

Some time ago the Princeton (N. J.) university presented to the British museum 250 specimens of North American birds' eggs—many of them of rare species. Now the British museum reciprocates by presenting to the Princeton university 2,000 mounted birds, including brilliant specimens from India, Australia and the Malay islands.

Dr. A. Donaldson Smith, the American explorer who has just returned from a trip through Central Africa, is accorded a place alongside Stanley and Livingston by the scientific men of London. During his last trip Dr. Smith discovered four new tribes of natives. They were uncivilized, but timid, and fled at the sight of the American's party.

Some Luther autograph manuscripts have been discovered in the vatican library by Prof. Fiker, of Strasburg. There are two commentaries on the Epistle to the Romans, one on the text and the other on the sense, and two commentaries on the Epistle to the Hebrews. They were written in 1515 and 1517, shortly before the nailing of the 95 theses at Wittenberg.

Dramas played in India generally require about seven days for their performance. The curtain goes up at nine o'clock in the evening and remains hoisted until next morning. People who attend the plays take their beds with them and enjoy a good, long sleep between the acts. The favorites present shows the exploits of some god. No price is charged for admission.

According to Mr. Wilson, secretary of agriculture, the skins of superfluous dogs in Nebraska are tanned and made into gloves. This might give a valuable hint to many large cities where great numbers of stray dogs are killed annually. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of canine pelts are imported annually for this very purpose, dogskin being one of the best materials for gloves.

Although Mary is believed to be the commonest of the names of women, the wife of only one president was so named, and she, fittingly, was the wife of homespun Lincoln—Mary Todd Lincoln. There were two Marthas, both from Virginia, Martha Washington and Martha Jefferson; two Abigails, the wives of Presidents Fillmore and John Adams, and two Elizas, Mrs. Monroe and Mrs. Johnson. Of the wives of the other presidents, no two have had the same Christian name.

A convict in Sing Sing prison who was in the bird business in New York and has made the taming of birds a study has, while temporarily engaged at work outside the north prison wall, caught and tamed a young robin, which comes when he whistles to it and fearlessly perches itself upon his finger. Sometimes it goes with him to his cell at night and perches on his bookshelf. It is entirely at home in the prison. It goes out with him in the morning and stays near while he is at work.

In the course of a speech at the recent general council of the Reformed Episcopal church at Baltimore, Bishop Stevens rather astonished his coworkers by declaring his fondness for tobacco. "I smoke," he said, "and I shall continue to smoke. I don't believe the use of tobacco is as bad as it has been described; I believe it is all a piece of will worship. God has never said anywhere that we shall not be ministers of His Gospel if we do use it. God provided for every need in nature, and I thank God for my cigar."

Cape Nome is situated on the shore of Behring sea at the mouth of Snake river, Seward peninsula, central-western Alaska, U. S. A., 65 degrees north latitude and 166 degrees west longitude, and, by ocean route, distant from its base of supply, Seattle, 2,700 miles. In making the ocean trip from Seattle one steams westward for 1,900 miles across the North Pacific ocean to Dutch Harbor, on the Aleutian archipelago, and thence northward 800 miles to the land of gold, passing en route the government's seal-rookeries on the Pribyloff islands.

In Utica, N. Y., a block of new apartment houses has just been furnished with a complete installation of electric cooking utensils in each flat. The electric kitchen furniture consists of three round platters or "stoves," an oven and a broiler. It is declared that meats broiled on the electric gridiron are much more palatable than those scorched and charred over red-rot coals. The electric "stoves" are placed on an ordinary kitchen table when in use, and when their work is over, they are stowed away in a drawer or on a shelf.

A new use for the phonograph has been found in New South Wales. A candidate for office found it impossible to visit all parts of the sparsely settled region he wished to represent in the legislature, dictated his speech into a phonograph, had an orchestra play a few pieces into the machine, and then sent a number of the machines out over the country in the hands of political workers. He sent a picture of himself with each machine, and had the workers give the people a description of his life and his ability. That man deserves success.

NEWS IS CONFIRMED

Confirmation of Rumor of Massacre of Foreigners at Peking.

They Make a Gallant Defense Before Being Butchered—Allies Repulsed at Tientsin and Col. Liscum Killed.

London, July 16.—Confirmation of the awful rumors in reference to Peking has now been received from Shanghai. Sheng obtained an audience of the whole consular body on Saturday and informed them that on or about June 30 the foreigners in the British legation were annihilated. This information has reached him officially from the governor of Shan-Tung.

The Express publishes a long account of the massacre, which is truly horrible in its details. It appears from the governor of Shan-Tung's own statement that the foreign inmates of the legations, including the women and children, were so maddened by hunger that they resolved upon making a sortie on the night of June 30.

Killed Their Own Loved Ones.

The attack was unexpected by Gen. Tung, and 200 of his men were slain in their attempt to cut their way through. The women and children were placed in the center of a hollow square, and after fighting madly for some time the devoted little band realized that their valor was in vain and they were then reluctantly compelled to turn their revolvers on the women and children to save them from a worse fate at the hands of the Boxers.

COL. EMERSON H. LISCUM.

Gen. Tung battered the legation buildings to ruins with his guns, and the Boxers, thirsting for blood, attacked the native Christian quarters, massacring all who would not join them, outraging the women, braining the children and burning the mission buildings.

Sheng asserts that Prince Tuan is the real author of the massacres. There is still some confusion as to the exact date on which the massacre was perpetrated. The Mail's account puts the date on July 6. One thing is certain, however, and that is that the white men died at the post of duty and honor, and it is a matter of congratulation in the awful circumstances that the white women and children died at the hands of their loved ones.

A War of Revenge.

The Peking massacre is bound to make the war to a great extent one of revenge, and the constantly increasing armies which the powers are sending east indicates their appreciation of the gravity of the situation. In fact, it is predicted by many conservative military men familiar with the Chinese and their recent improvements in the army system that 500,000 Europeans will be necessary to bring the war to a successful termination.

News of Reverses Confirmed.

Washington, July 17.—The navy department Monday morning received official confirmation from Admiral Remey of the reverse of the allied forces at Tientsin on the morning of the 13th. The dispatch is dated Chefoo, July 16, and says:

"Reported that allied forces attacked native city morning 13th; Russians right with Ninth infantry and marines on the left. Losses allied forces large. Russians, 100, including artillery colonel; Americans, over 30; British, over 40; Japan, 58, including colonel; French, 25.

"Col. Liscum, Ninth infantry, killed; also Capt. Davis, marine corps. Capt. Lemley, Lieuts. Butler and Leonard wounded. At seven evening allied attack on native city was repulsed with great loss. Returns yet incomplete; details not yet confirmed.

"REMEY."

Press Story of the Battle.

Tientsin, July 13, via Chefoo, July 15, and Shanghai July 17. — At two o'clock Monday afternoon 7,000 of the allied troops were attempting to storm the wall of the city. The attack began at daylight. Its success is doubtful. The Chinese on the walls are estimated conservatively at 20,000. They are pouring a terrific hail of artillery, rifle and machine gun fire upon the attackers. The Americans, Japanese, British and French troops are attacking from the west and the Russians from the east.

THEY CONTINUE TO WIN.

The American Athletes at Paris Carry Off Most of the Events.

Paris, July 17.—Twenty-one championship contests in connection with the exposition have been decided during the last three days, and America can boast of winning 16 and of securing 13 seconds and 12 thirds. Nine events took place Monday, in which the Americans placed six firsts, six seconds and seven thirds to their credit. They captured the 200 meters hurdle race, the standing high jump, the hop, step and jump, the hammer-throwing and the standing long jump, and they did it easily.

Cholera in India.

London, July 17.—The governor of Bombay telegraphs to the secretary of state for India that there were 9,928 cases of cholera in the famine districts during the week ending July 7, of which 6,474 were fatal, and that in the native states there were 9,526 cases, of which 5,892 were fatal.

Fired by Lightning.

Chicago, July 17.—Lightning set fire to the Vehmeyer building in Michigan street, and it was destroyed; loss, $200,000. Nine persons were injured by falling walls, one fireman may die of a broken back and the body of an unidentified man is thought to be in the ruins.

NOMINEES NOTIFIED.

McKinley and Roosevelt Are Told of Their Nomination by Republican National Convention.

Canton, O., July 13.—Under an azure sky, with the sunlight glinting through the leafy trees, with the banner of the republic draped above him, William McKinley was on Thursday officially notified of his second nomination by the republican party for the highest office in the civilized world. Grouped about him were leading men of his party, while surrounding his Canton home were the friends among whom he has lived for more than 30 years, together with vast crowds from the surrounding towns of his native state. The scene was inspiring, and to the eloquent words of Senator Lodge the president responded in a ringing speech. There was enthusiasm enough and to spare, and to many of the pointed utterances of both Senator Lodge and the president there was hearty and cordial approval shown.

There were a number of distinguished men on the porch, among them being Senator Hanna, Postmaster General Smith, Cornelius S. Bliss, Henry C. Payne, Judge Day, R. C. Kerens, Representative Taylor. With Mrs. McKinley were Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Mary Saxton, Mrs. Judge Day and Mrs. Charles Dawes.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 13. — Gov. Roosevelt was officially notified of his nomination for the vice presidency at his country home, Sagamore, near Oyster Bay. The notification committee appointed by the republican convention at Philadelphia left New York on a special train at 10:30 o'clock, and made a quick run to Oyster Bay, where carriages were in waiting to convey them to Sagamore.

Senator Wolcott's address was frequently applauded, his reference to Gov. Roosevelt's hunting stories evoking a hearty laugh.

WILL GROW BETTER.

Many Indications of Improvement in the General Trade Situation Are Reported.

New York, July 14.—Bradstreet's says: "While trade is still of only midsummer volume, the beginnings of improvement in demand are apparently becoming visible. The improvement is still one of tone, rather than of actual demand, but with, as seems probable, a yield of 540,000,000 bushels of wheat, a next to record-breaking yield of corn and a very large production of oats, the western crop situation contains many encouraging features. The southern cotton crop has undoubtedly suffered, and the condition is unprecedentedly low for this season of the year, but the acreage planted was a large one, and prices are so much higher that a satisfactory financial return is confidently looked for. In addition, railroad earnings point to the maintenance of the business of the country at a volume in excess of last year. The effort of the big iron and steel concerns to control prices, if really made, has proven abortive, and another wholesale slashing of quotations is to be reported. Production, however, is falling off, and increases of furnace stock, though considerable, would seem small if renewed activity occurred. The industrial situation is rather better, as a result of agreements upon wages by a number of iron and steel manufacturing concerns and their employes. Lower prices for lumber are apparently inducing more activity in building, though how much is due to this, or how much to the settlement of labor disturbances, is hard to measure."

"The end of the crop year has brought the usual estimates which command no more confidence than usual. If the country can get out of a crop officially called 547,000,000 bushels, all it wants for food and seed, and 200,000,000 bushels for export, with considerably left over in sight, it is the easy inference that anxiety is needless. There is not evidence yet, and for some time to come cannot be, that injuries sustained have been as great as some suppose, so that alarm is not more necessary than it was last year.

"Failures for the week have been 196 in the United States, against 169 last year and 26 in Canada, against 24 last year."

PLATFORM OF TEACHERS.

Resolutions Adopted at the Closing Session of National Educational Convention.

Charleston, S. C., July 14.—The school men and teachers of the National Educational association issued their declaration of principles Friday night at the closing session of the convention.

In the declaration, which forms the platform of the association, are the recommendations of the college presidents, school superintendents and teachers upon all prominent school questions under public discussion.

The recommendations were that the bureau of education thus raised to a department standing in the federal government be given direct charge of schools in Alaska, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and that it be enabled to make provisions for the education of white children in the Indian territory.

Fusion Effected in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., July 13.—Nebraska fusionists in state conventions beginning at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon, completed their work at 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening, after an almost continuous session. The ticket follows: Governor, William A. Poynter, Boone county (pop.); lieutenant governor, E. A. Gilbert, York county (silver republican); secretary of state, C. V. Sooboda, Howard county (pop.); treasurer, S. B. Howard, Holt county (pop.); attorney general, Willis D. Oldham, Buffalo county (dem.); auditor, H. S. Griess, Clay county (pop.); land commissioner, P. J. Carey, Saunders county (pop.). Presidential electors, Frank Ranson, J. H. Felber, W. A. Garrett, W. G. Swan, Peter Ebberson, Robert Oberfelder, L. M. Wente, J. Hughes.

For a Third Ticket.

New York, July 16.—A third ticket, to be selected by men who are opposed to the free silver plank of the democratic platform and to the alleged imperialistic schemes of the republican party, may be placed in the field. A call was issued Sunday for a meeting to be held in this city this week, at which plans will be laid for attracting to the movement the men who fought Bryan four year ago, and who are dissatisfied with the administration of President McKinley.

Enormous Wheat Yield.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—H. V. Jones, in a conservative review of the crop situation in the northwest, printed in the Journal, after personal inspection of the fields, predicts that the yield of wheat in the three spring wheat states of Minnesota and North and South Dakota, will at the very least reach 135,000,000 bushels, as against 210,000,000 last year, and that with favorable weather during the ensuing four weeks the yield will reach 150,000,000 bushels.

SUDDENLY CALLED.

Unexpected Death in Washington of Senator Gear, of Iowa—Heart Failure the Cause.

Washington, July 16.—United States Senator Gear, of Iowa, died in his apartments in the Portland at 4:28 Saturday morning of heart failure. He was in his usual health at 2:30 a. m., when he was attacked. Doctors were immediately summoned, but they could do nothing for him.

While Senator Gear had been in ill health for a year or more, death came entirely unexpectedly. He was in excellent spirits Friday night and made engagements with some political friends for Saturday. Shortly before nine o'clock Friday evening, accompanied by Mrs. Gear, he went out driving with Secretary Wilson, of the agricultural department. They returned about ten o'clock, and the senator retired about an hour later in his usual health.

The following committee, on the part of the senate, has been appointed to attend the funeral: Senators Allison, of Iowa; Cullom, of Illinois; Spooner, of Wisconsin; Davis, of Minnesota; Jones, of Arkansas; Baker, of Kansas, and Allen, of Nebraska.

John Henry Gear, of Burlington, Ia., was born in Ithaca, N. Y., April 7, 1825; received a common school education; removed to Galena, Ill., in 1836, to Fort Snelling, Iowa territory, in 1838, and to Burlington in 1843, where he engaged in merchandising; was elected mayor of the city of Burlington in 1863; was a member of the Iowa house of representatives of the Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth general assemblies of the state, serving as speaker for the last two terms; was elected governor of Iowa in 1878-79 and and again in 1880-81; was elected to the Fiftieth and Fifty-first congresses; was beaten for the Fifty-second; was assistant secretary of the treasury under President Harrison, and was elected to the Fifty-third congress as a republican; was elected January 23, 1894, a senator in congress from the state of Iowa for six years, beginning March 4, 1895. He was reelected last winter for another term of six years in the senate, beginning March 4, 1901.

PRESCOTT'S DAY OF WOE.

Arizona City Visited by a Fire Which Sweeps Away Property Valued at Over $1,000,000.

Prescott, Ariz., July 16.—A scene of the greatest desolation and a feeling of deepest gloom pervades this town. All that remains of the principal business portion of the town is tottering walls and piles of charred and burning debris. The fire, which started at 10:45 o'clock Saturday night, was not under control until three o'clock Sunday morning, when the fire fighters went a considerable distance in advance of the flames and blew up the buildings on the south side of Goodwin street, preventing them from crossing that street. The most conservative estimate of the total losses are from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

The burned district embraces five blocks in which are located the principal mercantile houses, both banks, both telegraph offices, the three newspapers, four hotels, every saloon and every restaurant except one in the town, besides scores of private residences.

The only business houses remaining in the town are three dry goods stores, three grocery stores and two drug stores. The express and post office were both out of the fire limits, but the latter had a close call. All the mail and effects were ready to move at a moment's notice.

M'GOVERN WINS.

He Defeats Frank Erne, of Buffalo, in Three Rounds at Madison Square Garden.

New York, July 17.—Once more a fighter pitted against a boxer has clearly demonstrated the superiority of the fighter. Monday night in the presence of 14,000 persons in Madison Square Garden, Terry McGovern, of Brooklyn, defeated Frank Erne, of Buffalo, the lightweight champion of the world. It was a hurricane fight from bell to bell, without a second's let-up, except when either one of the contestants was lying on the floor of the ring. McGovern rushed in on Erne at the very beginning, and sent left and right in such quick succession that Erne, fast as he is, was nonplussed. Erne undoubtedly is the cleverer of the two, but his cleverness availed him nothing against the bulldog rushes and fierce attacks of the little featherweight champion.

To Be Notified August 8.

Washington, July 13.—William Jennings Bryan and Adlai E. Stevenson will be formally notified of their selection as the presidential and vice presidential nominees of the democratic party on Wednesday, August 8, at Indianapolis, Ind. Information to this effect was received by Representative Richardson, of Tennessee, chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee; from Senator Jones, the national chairman. Mr. Richardson will make the speech of notification to Mr. Bryan, and Gov. Charles S. Thomas, of Colorado, that notifying Mr. Stevenson.

Death in a Cloudburst.

Coleman, Tex., July 17.—Fifteen lives are known to have been lost in a cloudburst here Monday. Ten bodies have been recovered, but only two were identified. They are: Joseph Spath, leading merchant of the village, and John Fuleisstine. It is feared that many more lives were lost in the valley below Coleman. The cloudburst, which followed three days' unprecedented rainfall, caused Ford's creek to burst its banks and rush through Coleman, a village of less than 1,000 inhabitants.

HEALTHY WOMEN.

Mary J. Kennedy, manager of Armour & Co.'s Exhibit at the Trans-Mississippi Exposition at Omaha, Neb., writes the following of Peruna, as a cure for that common phase of summer catarrh, known as indigestion. Miss Kennedy says:

"I found the continual change of diet incidental to eight years' traveling completely upset my digestive system. In consulting several physicians they decided I suffered with catarrh of the stomach.

"Their prescriptions did not seem to help me any, so, reading of the remarkable cures effected by the use of Peruna I decided to try it and soon found myself well repaid.

"I have now used Peruna for about three months and feel completely rejuvenated. I believe I am permanently cured, and do not hesitate to give unstinted praise to your great remedy, Peruna."

The causes of summer catarrh are first, chronic catarrh; second, derangements of the stomach and liver; third, impure blood.

Such being the case, anyone who knows anything whatever about the operations of Peruna can understand why this remedy is a permanent cure for summer catarrh. It eradicates chronic catarrh from the system, invigorating the stomach and liver, cleanses the blood of all impurities, and therefore permanently cures by removing the cause, —a host of maladies peculiar to hot weather. The cause being removed the symptoms disappear of themselves.

SOMETHING NEW IN SURGERY.

An Operation That Was Deserving of World-Wide Celebrity.

"I see," said the old man Pimpernel the other evening, relates the Cleveland Plain Dealer, "that they've mended another broken neck for a feller. He had a fall somewheres out in the country, an' when they got him to th' hospital th' doctors found that his upper spinal colume was cracked clean across. Feller couldn't hold his head up, an' his voice was clean gone."

"How did they patch him up?" inquired John Bowman.

"You'll be s'prised when I tell you," replied the old man. "It was so dead easy. Fust, they crowded over th' left phalanx till it lapped the right vertrickle, an' then they stuck th' two ends together with anty-toxum glue. That's fer blood pisenin', you know. Then they got the broken ends of the medulla together an' fastened 'em in place with strips of adhesin' plaster. After that they nailed narrow rods of zinc up and down his backbone and clinched 'em together with rivits. When this was all fixed the surgeon sent out an' got an old-fashioned bootjack, an' they tied it on his chest so that the openin' at the top would just catch under his chin—an' hold it until the glue hardens. An' as soon as it does harden the young feller'll be just as sound as ever, with a few rivits thrown in."

"Thunder!" cried Josh Bowman. "Ain't it wonderful!"

"You jest bet it is," said the old man.

Acrobatic.

After supper he procured his wife's best clothesline from the back shed, fastened one end of it to his St. Bernard's collar and the other to the handle bar of his bicycle. Then he went out into the middle of the road and mounted. For about four rods, that is until the St. Bernard espied a canine friend, the sensation was dreamlike, after that it became one horrible nightmare. In desperation the rider clutched handle bars, back pedaled and fairly howled, until at last he became sufficiently cool to call to the dog to stop. It stopped all right, but the wheel had motions of its own. It went on till it struck the dog amidships, then it rose in the air, sending its rider toward cloudland. His head tried conclusions with the curb, and when they brought him to he promised his wife never to do it again.—Detroit Free Press.

AMERICANISM RAMPANT

CHARACTERIZES THE ATTITUDE OF THE NATIONAL DEMOCRACY AND ITS ALLIES.

Brief Aftermath of the Great Convention. Uncle Samuel Versus Hanna as Campaign Manager This Year—The Minnesota Field—Signs of Success Everywhere—The Roosevelt "Bloody Bridles" Aggregation Gives Minneapolis the Go-by—That Globe "Bolt"—The Coming State Conventions—The Week's Round-up of National and State Comment.

Reform Press Bureau,
St. Paul, July 16, 1900.

Asked to put into briefest words his impressions of the distinctive characteristics of the Kansas City convention, one of our ablest state leaders said: "Patriotism, enthusiasm, earnestness, Americanism—Americanism rampant." From the moment of reading of the Declaration of Independence to the closing cheers at adjournment, closing a convention of great labors and tremendous interest, Americanism was the dominant sentiment. In the speeches, in platform declaration specifically, in candidates offered and not chosen, in the wild scenes of the convention when the national emblems were universally used, patriotic sentiments, at times almost a frenzy of such fervor, predominated. The national airs brought the thousands to their feet invariably, as references to the Lincolns, Jacksons, Jeffersons and Washingtons in ideals, brought cheers and redoubled enthusiasm. And over and above all was the convention American, in the ticket made, placing the greatest of living Americans first, as he is in the hearts of his countrymen, and in choosing as Bryan's companion on the ticket that noble American, the tried and true son of Illinois, ex-Vice President Stevenson.

The country over has caught the sentiment at Kansas City, and Americanism promises an overwhelming victory. The wisdom of the platform in all its parts is now conceded, attesting anew the judgment and wisdom of our great leader. With few and rare exceptions, such as the St. Paul Globe, the Democratic party is reunited. Its allies, Populists and Silver Republicans, have fallen into line. For the first time in a generation the lines of battle are solidly drawn for the contest as to whether the people shall run their own government. Who will doubt the result in such an alignment?

It is this sentiment inspiring the cartoon this week, of Uncle Sam presenting Bryan to the people at his immense meetings. What a contrast with the meetings that the Hannaites will run. Democracy led by Uncle Sam, Republicanism by Boss Hanna.

And along with Americanism Democracy takes possession of the flag this year. Democracy will wave the flag against the Teddy hat.

For Minnesota the outlook is inspiring in a great degree. All reform elements accept the Kansas City action as wise and worthy of approval, and for the first time in many years will all such forces be found supporting a single electoral ticket, nationally, as they will doubtless be found doing as to state officers after the state conventions called for Sept. 6.

Was there disappointment as to Mr. Towne? Possibly with a few, until they realized what he had gained personally from his candidacy; that from a representative of a state, as a mere candidate, coming from one of the allies, he has risen to a position of actual leadership of the great Democratic party, destined to a great future, how great no man can foretell. Charles A. Towne a week ago hailed from Duluth and Minnesota. Now he lives here but hails from the nation at large.

At this writing the sounds of the "rough riders" can almost be heard coming up from Chicago for the St. Paul blow-out—the snort of the war horse (or steam bullgine), the sharp crack of the champagne bottle. In the distance can almost be seen Teddy's dental exposure, overspread by the halo from National Committeeman Shevlin's lambrequins. But what a disappointment there will be if Teddy has not recovered from the sprain of his voice that he got out in Oklahoma.

Speaking of Governor Roosevelt having sprained his voice, Dairy Commissioner Bowler says he is reminded of the accident to one of Colonel Liggett's famous cows. The animal slipped and strained her milk.

Speaking of Governor Roosevelt's presence here, perhaps he may drop some information as to what he has done about the Democratic mayor of New York for owning ice trust stock, along with what he knows of the 13 out of 15 Republican members of the board of directors of the trust, as well as the president and vice president of the trust who are also prominent Republicans of New York. Still, Governor Teddy may omit mention.

Since Roosevelt's nomination the Chicago Times-Herald is more and more dubious of the Republicans being able to carry New York.

Not content with snubbing Hennepin county Republicans in the state convention, the Ramsay managers snubbed her again and declined to let her have the Roosevelt horse show. That Hennepin deems herself better than a mere snubbing post will be shown in November.

St. Paul is tickled that Hanna vetoed the idea of a big parade for Roosevelt. Was Hanna afraid it would be a fizzle, or that St. Paul people would get a penny or so from the large crowds that might come?

The fact that Wall street prices rose by Bryan's nomination was a stunner, but now the goppites say it was because of the weakness of the ticket. Selah.

This Bureau is deluged with letters concerning The Globe's "bolt," generally reporting the stopping of subscriptions and dissolution of Globe clubs. This is increased since, to The Globe's mere declaration of determination not to support candidate and money plank, it has seen fit to add vituperation, as when it refers to the patriotic Democracy as "Bryan Boxers." Democracy being the people, can probably stand it as long as The Globe can. In which connection assurance can be given that even the people will have newspaper service in their interest abundantly acceptable.

Speaking of the press, the great Democratic papers which went to McKinley in 1896, have almost invariably returned to the fold, such as the Louisville Courier-Journal, New York World, Chicago Chronicle, etc., etc., while the great independent papers are many of them supporting the Democracy. Likewise "Gold Democrats" have been eliminated. Democrats are with the Democratic party. "Gold" Democrats are simply Republicans.

The wholesale price of sugar, recently raised by the trust to 6 cents per pound, makes it the highest for years, a boost from 3¾ cents. The raise represents millions of profits. Thus do the McKinley trusts go on fattening themselves and making hay while the Hanna sun shines.

Since March 14, the date of passage of the gold standard law, there have been more and larger failures than for any like period of which there is a record, just as there were more and larger failures following the inauguration of McKinley, than in the worst days of the Cleveland panic.

And speaking of Cleveland panic days, Senator Frank A. Day of Fairmont was telling us down at Kansas City of a Republican farmer in his county who would give $100 now to have Cleveland conditions back again, as to farm prices and cost of articles he must buy. The farmer showed that average prices for products are no higher, if as high, while most that he must purchase are many per cent higher. Thus he could give $100 for Cleveland over McKinley times and make money by it.

And here come goppite papers kicking because Governor Lind is planting beaver up North. The complaint is fur fetched.

And speaking of like criticism, complaint from Washington is made that Governor Lind did not wait for action from Washington before sending troops to the Indian country. Seven brave and good men lost at Leech Lake attest to the wisdom of Governor Lind's prompt action. To wait for Washington, as was done before, might have been to invite wholesale slaughter.

In discussing the Republican platform let our press not fail to note how the Hannaites have left it open as to the Nicaraguan canal, so that the big shipping concerns, such as had the cream of transportation grabs in the Cuban war, shall carry on the business of the canal, rather than Uncle Samuel. Thus the language is that the government shall have "construction, ownership, control and protection of the canal," but the word "operation" that is in all bills for the canal is carefully omitted. Hanna will carefully provide for the "operation" of the canal by his subsidy pets, if the Republicans retain control of legislation.

This point is emphasized by the Duluth Labor World, which well understands its significance, when contemplating the grip that monopoly has taken upon lake traffic.

And kind friend and reader note that when the "gold" man kicks on the "money plank," he is not kicking against the free coinage of 1896, but against replacing national bank "rag money," which is corporation money redeemable in nothing and not even a legal tender, with government money redeemable in gold and silver. Read the platform and see if this is not true. We stand for "sound" money.

Of course our Republican friends do not like any references to the prospective hard times that come from loss of crops. They do not like to be held responsible. But when the good God in his providence gives us the prosperity of bountiful crops, the goppites are the first to run in and take the credit for it.

The Duluth Herald points out where practical imperialism comes in, from the fact that principal henchmen of the administration have now gobbled the chief franchises in Hawaii, as they will proceed to do in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

Several of the Republican papers are quite on to the Republican game in Hennepin and Ramsey, which, as the Caledonia Journal says, is to rule or ruin. Certain it is that Republican prospects were never so poor as now in both the Twin City counties.

And speaking of goppite blueness, they do say that Candidate Van Sant is very blue over the situation, and is going to have his steamboats all newly painted this fall, so as to be ready for the business he will remain in, early in the spring.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Minnesota Crop Bulletin.

The severe drought has been effectually broken in all parts of the state by rains which began on the morning of the 2nd, and continued, as showers, till late in the week, though in Polk, Clay, Becker and Hubbard counties there were splendid rains as early June 30th. The rains have been very beneficial to corn, late potatoes, pastures, wild grasses, forage crops, flax and fruits; and of some value, depending on the condition of the plant, to spring wheat, oats and barley; some fields of these small grains, especially in the northern half of the state, were too poor to receive any benefit from the rains. A fair crop of winter rye is nearly all in shock, and a moderate winter wheat crop is being cut. Barley harvest has begun in the south, and oats are ripening. Flax is irregular, but it is improving, and a larger crop is expected than was thought possible before the rains began. A poor crop of hay is being cut, though the work is retarded by the rains, which have spoiled some of it.

Good Grounds.

There are no grounds in the United States equal to those of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society in Hamline park for an advantageous display of live stock. This is the unanimous decision of the officers and executive committee of the American Hereford Cattle Breeders' Association after a thoroughg inspection. One of the officers said that they had been told that the barns and grounds of the Minnesota state fair were in good condition and large enough to afford room for almost any live stock exhibit that could be gathered together in this country, and the trip convinced them that this was true.

It has been decided to expend $1,500 in prizes for country exhibits, which it is believed will tend to increase the interest in that department and make a better display of farm products than heretofore, if such a thing is possible.

The program of days does not differ materially from that of last year. Monday, Sept. 3, will be "Labor Day;" Tuesday, Sept. 4, "Old Settlers' Day;" Wednesday, "St. Paul Day;" Thursday, "Minneapolis Day;" Friday, "Farmers' and Live Stock Day;" Saturday, "Twin City Day."

Close Call for Well Diggers

One of a crew of well diggers named Ludwig Geilinger, who are sinking a well at the reformatory at St. Cloud, was overcome by gas and only rescued in a dying condition. A blast had been set off in the bottom of the well, which was 30 feet deep, and Geilinger had gone down to ascertain its effect, when he was immediately rendered unconscious. His companions became panic stricken and, making no effort to rescue him, ran to where a guard and crew of inmates were picking berries and they came to his assistance. One of the inmates, more courageous than Geilinger's fellow workers, volunteered to descend into the well to effect his removal, and notwithstanding the danger succeeded in tying a rope about the unconscious man and he was raised to the surface. In the meantime a physician had been sent for and after an hour's hard work Geilinger was restored to consciousness.

Many Logs.

That the bed of the Mississippi and other streams in the Northwest are literally paved with sunken logs is not generally known, but it is a fact nevertheless.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman makes the suggestion that a company be formed to bring these logs to the surface and predicts that such an enterprise would pay handsomely.

At the lowest estimate it is said that at the bottom of the St. Croix and its tributaries 250,000,000 feet of logs are lying, and an equal amount in the upper Mississippi and tributary streams. At $5 per thousand it means that $2,500,000 worth of logs are lying and going rapidly to waste.

Stolen Bicycles.

The police reports of Minneapolis for the first six months of the present year, ending July 1 show that 303 wheels were stolen as against only 162 for the six months of 1899, or nearly double the number. The department recovered more stolen bicycles than were stolen in 1899, the recoveries for 1900 aggregating 164, or 54 per cent of the number stolen. The recoveries in 1899 for the six months amounted to 59, or 63 per cent of the whole number stolen. The increase this season in the number of stolen wheels is attributed to the carelessness of the owners of bicycles in leaving them standing in unprotected places.

News in Brief.

The state auditor received a remittance of $29,438.56 from the state prison. Of this amount $7,762.13 is to be credited to current expense and $21,676.43 to the twine plant revolving fund. Included in the current expense aggregate is $1,946.63 from the Union Shoe and Leather Company for April and $1,806.18 from the same company for May, and $2,718.50 for convict labor in the twine shop.

GUN CARRIAGE CONTROVERSY.

Contention Between Gens. Miles, Buffington and Wilson Referred to Board of Ordnance.

The controversy on disappearing gun carriages which was waged so fiercely between Gen. Miles and Gen. Buffington, chief of ordnance, and Gen. Wilson, army chief of engineers, has been carried to the board or ordnance and fortifications. Gen. Miles in a communication to the secretary of war last October called attention to what he believed was a fatal and costly error of this government in building so many expensive disappearing gun carriages as mounts for the big guns of our coast defense. He called attention to the practice of foreign governments who maintain similar fortifications. The disappearing gun carriage system was practically abandoned abroad, and he believed that this government is building too many such types of mounts.

His position in the matter was combated by Gen. Buffington and Gen. Wilson, and a good deal of voluminous and somewhat spicy official correspondence was exchanged. The fight came out in a hearing before a senate subcommittee on appropriations, which had charge of the annual fortifications bill and there was a threatened open rupture between headquarters of the army and the army ordnance office of the chief of engineers. The conflict was averted by Secretary Root, who sent for the officers and insisted that the controversy should be conducted on strictly technical lines.

The question raised by Gen. Miles has now been referred to the board of ordnance and fortifications, of which Gen. Miles is president and Gens. Wilson and Buffington are members. The impression prevails that the two latter will agree with the main points named by Gen. Miles and that the board will sustain his original position.

BATTLES WITH LION IN CAGE.

Trainer at Philadelphia Shoots an Enraged Beast Before a Large Crowd.

Springing suddenly upon Ricardo, his trainer, Wallace, the lion of the "Anglo-American School of Zoology" at Woodside park, Philadelphia, caught the man by the left arm and would have killed him but for the prompt action on the part of Ricardo and the attendants.

No exhibition had been given with the lion since the show had come from Chester several days ago. The heat had irritated the big animal and had made his ugly temper even worse than it is ordinarily. He was restive and hard to control. No one except Ricardo would go near the brute.

Every afternoon the trainer entered the cage to give Wallace his daily exercise. Ricardo went into the cage about four o'clock in the afternoon for a drill with the lion. He had scarcely entered when Wallace sprang at him and caught him by the left arm below the elbow. The lion bit him a second time in the lower part of the arm.

As he did so Ricardo shot at him with the revolver which he was carrying in his right hand. He missed, but the shot scared the lion and he released the trainer. Attendants of the show, running up, kept the big brute in one corner of the cage while others dragged Ricardo out through the door.

His left arm was lacerated and the flesh torn from the bones. The arm began to swell at once, and Ricardo was taken in a hurry to the Presbyterian hospital. After having the wounds treated and dressed the trainer returned to the show. Hundreds of excited people witnessed the attacks.

HORSE BREAKS INTO PARLOR.

The Frightened Animal Dashes Into Room in a Washington Hotel.

The proverbial "bull in the china shop" was emulated about 4:30 o'clock the other morning when a runaway horse dashed into the ladies' parlor of the Ebbitt house, Washington, destroying plate glass, chandeliers, furniture and bric-a-brac to the estimated value of $400. That more serious damage did not result was due to the fact that the horse was promptly got under control.

The horse was one of a pair attached to the "hurry-up," or repair, wagon of a local street railway company, which had been called out to repair the line. The team was frightened by firecrackers and ran away. The one which did the damage became separated from its mate and dashed into the ladies' entrance and parlor of the hotel, where it became maddened by its confinement.

The frightened hotel employes and guests en dishabille subdued the animal and led him into the street. The railway company promptly agreed to pay for the damages. Fortunately the hour was extremely early and nobody was hurt.

Experiment Being Tried in London Meets with Success in Many Districts.

The messenger service of London has been carried on the last two months with the aid of girls, and girl messengers have now come to stay. They have been introduced because of the dearth of boys, the greater difficulty experienced in keeping boys in order, and the superior reliability of girls. Their hours are from nine a. m. to five p. m., and their pay is $2.50 a week. The change has answered satisfactorily and will doubtless be gradually extended.

A Heavy Case.

Mack O'Rell—Hard times have brought about a change with Blighter. I remember when he always had a case of champagne in the cellar; now he has only a case of beer.

Luke Warme—Well, you know, "circumstances alter cases."—Chicago Evening News.

The Trust Problem.

To a thoughtful mind, the trust problem is one of serious import. It must be firmly grappled with, for it creeps upon society before you are aware of its existence, in this respect much resembling the various disorders which attack the stomach, such as constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, liver and kidney troubles. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the one reliable remedy for all such ailments. Be sure to give it a trial.

A man, being About to die, summoned his four Sons to his side, and said: "My sons, I will leave to John one-third of my estate, to Alex one-fifth, to James one-half, and to Thomas one-fourth, and thus you will all Share Equally." John and James and Thomas took Paper and Pencil and began figuring, but Alex took his Hat and started out. "Where are you going?" the other Three asked. "Do you not Intend figuring out the Problem?" "Not much," said Alex. "I am Going for a Lawyer to break the Will." Moral—Sometimes the Lawyer can Relieve the Heirs of Much of the Figuring.—Baltimore American.
